St. John's Will Be Without Hydro For Two Weeks

Nfld. Experiences Worst Sleet Storm in History

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Most Avalon Peninsula residents today prepared themselves for about two weeks without electric lights, stoves, radio and television in the wake of a destructive sleet storm that left telephone poles and transmission lines a tangled ice-covered mess.

The sleet started Friday and by Saturday had piled an estimated two tons of ice on lines. Saturday night this city of 70,000 was in darkness. The only communication with the mainland was an undersea circuit to Canso, N.S.

People huddled before fireplaces, put on heavy underwear, woollen sweaters, climbed into bed with hot water bottles—anything to keep warm in the absence of electrically-driven furnaces. Flickering candles, gas burners and smokey oil lamps were the only light.

General Manager V. A. Ainsworth of the Newfoundland Light and Power Company said it would be "at least two weeks before power services are returned to normal here." He called it the worst communications tie-up in Newfoundland's history.

LACK ELECTRICITY

Ten partial feeder lines were restored in this old port city late Sunday night but no electricity was feeding through the remaining 10 loops. A spokesman said this meant "far less than half the city" was being serviced and repaired lines "may not hold out."

Winds up to 35 miles an hour knocked many lines out as soon as they were fixed. One crew attempted to knock ice off a line and eight poles collapsed.

The weatherman predicted today would add more freezing drizzle to the ice that coated wires, poles and trees, bringing them crashing down to earth. Temperatures the last four days have been hovering around the freezing point.

Yemen Becomes Part of Nasser's Arab Republic

DAMASCUS (Reuters) — The new United Arab Republic stretched out to the tip of the Red Sea today to enfold the tiny kingdom of the Yemen.

Yemeni Crown Prince Mohammed el Badr and Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser, president of the republic, announced Sunday that details of the merger have been completed and a formal agreement will be signed as soon as the republic's new cabinet is formed.

Badr and Nasser agreed late last month to the merger in principle but the crown prince flew home first to obtain the approval of his father, Imam Ahmad, king of the 75,000-square-mile state.

Full details of the merger were not disclosed but Badr said the army of the enlarged federation would be under one command. He said he hoped the federation would "liberate southern Arabia"—an apparent reference to the Yemen's claim to the neighboring British protectorate of Aden.

Badr added that the agreement "covered political, economic, educational and military aspects" but it appeared the Yemen's ties with the federation would be looser than the ones binding Syria and Egypt.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Shaab said the Yemen would retain its own diplomatic and international representations, which include membership in the United Nations. The newspaper said a supreme council would be formed, consisting of Nasser and King Ahmad.

Yemen is separated from Syria by Saudi Arabia and Jordan and from Egypt by the Red Sea and the Sudan. It has a population of about 4,000,000.

3-Way Lovers' Quarrel Ends up In Arrest of One

KESWICK, Ont. (CP)—A three-way lovers' quarrel led to the arrest of Allan Chappelle, 31, of nearby Sutton on a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm, police said today.

They said Robert Green, 34, of Richmond Hill, near Toronto, told them he was attacked while taking home Anne Reilly, 22, of Sutton from a Saturday night date.

Green told police his car was forced off the road near this village 40 miles north of Toronto. He said a man struck him on the head with a hammer and dragged Miss Reilly into his own car.

Miss Reilly told police later she "fought with all the strength I had," but was dragged to the car. "He grabbed me by the hair many times and I could feel it coming out in chunks." Two hours later Miss Reilly was returned home.

Chappelle was released on $500 bail. Miss Reilly identified Chappelle as her former fiance.

Green's car skidded on ice and struck a hydro pole while he was on his way to inform police of the attack. When he returned to the car with police, he found that a shotgun was missing from the back seat. Nine stitches were needed to close the wound on Green's head.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Ontario is still under a blanket of cloud today and occasional wet snow is occurring in many areas. This dull unsettled weather is a result of an area of low pressure that has persisted over the Great Lakes for several days. Little improvement can be expected Tuesday in Southern Ontario. Northern regions of the province will see a change to colder weather Tuesday with the arrival of Arctic air from the Hudson Bay region.

$70,000 Loss In Two Fires

TORONTO (CP) — Two two-alarm fires broke out within an hour in central Toronto Sunday night. One gutted the 100-year-old building of the Drapery Trimming Company Ltd., the other destroyed four classrooms in St. Martin's separate school.

It took firemen almost two hours to bring the Drapery Company fire under control. Two firemen were injured. Reg Bush was taken to hospital with splinters of glass in his right eye after a window blew out. Fred Lust suffered a cut hand.

Damage was estimated at $70,000.

Fire department officials said they believe arsonists or prowlers set fire to the seven-room school.

RED ENVOY HAS 'USEFUL TALK' AT WHITE HOUSE

Ambassador Sees Eisenhower, Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov met for 30 minutes today with President Eisenhower and reported afterward that they had a "very useful conversation."

Menshikov brushed aside questions about whether his call dealt with a summit conference, saying "It hasn't ripened yet for publication."

Soviet sources said, however, that Menshikov met with Eisenhower for the second time in three weeks to discuss the Kremlin's proposal for an East-West foreign ministers meeting in April.

DULLES ATTENDS

The Soviet ambassador went to the White House alone. State Secretary Dulles sat in on the meeting.

The White House stressed that the Soviet envoy asked for the appointment before the Kremlin sent a note Friday proposing a foreign ministers conference in April to pave the way for an East-West summit meeting.

Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles were reported to have decided Saturday that the proposition was a move in the right direction but that it does not go far enough toward meeting Western requirements for careful preparation in advance of a summit conference.

FOUND WANTING

Nevertheless, it was generally regarded as a concession on Russia's part to the Western point of view. It was found here to be wanting in these respects:

1. It made no provision for a substantial discussion of the issues which might arise at a summit conference but only for deciding which of them should be placed on the agenda.

2. It emphasized Russian proposals for banning nuclear weapons, suspending nuclear tests, signing an East-West noaggressio pact and similar steps almost to the exclusion of Western proposals which have been put forth in letters to Premier Bulganin.

Hydro to Rebate $3½ Million To 310 Centres

TORONTO (CP) — James S. Duncan, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, announced today hydro will refund more than $3,500,000 to the 310 municipalities it serves on a cost basis.

The highest rebate is $528,788 which goes to Toronto. Mr. Duncan said refunds were made possible by high revenues received last year in relation to hydro expenditures and provision for reserves.

He told the annual convention of the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities (Ontario) there will be no general increase in the cost of power this year.

Antarctic Conqueror Finds Bath More Thrilling Than Knighthood

SCOTT BASE, Antarctica (CP) British explorer Vivian Fuchs, who led a daring and rugged crew in a 2,100-mile, first-ever crossing of the Antarctic continent, was more interested in a hot bath than in news of an impending knighthood Saturday night.

The 50-year-old scientist, revelling in his first bath in weeks, calmly continued soaping himself after being told that a radiogram from London had said the Queen was going to knight him for his feat.

Fuchs and his nine-man party received a boisterous welcome when they stepped from the sno-cat tractors here in brilliant Antarctic sunshine.

An improvised band, a huge cake, a sheaf of congratulatory messages and a champagne and caviar party formed the highlights.

The Queen's message of congratulations said: "You have made a notable contribution to scientific knowledge and have succeeded in a great enterprise. Well done."

Fuchs replied: "Our scientific work has been completed and all my party is well. Your most gracious message was just handed me and both my party and I are deeply appreciative of your kind words, which make complete our happiness on this day."

Accompanied on the final stages by New Zealand explorer Sir Edmund Hillary, his arrival at this base ended a treacherous, 99-day journey.

Hillary, who previously had trekked from here to the South Pole, accompanied Fuchs on the last part of his journey—guiding him over dangerous crevasses in the area.

In a radio interview Fuchs praised the practical help he had received from Hillary during the journey.

One of Fuchs' first acts was to radio-telephone his wife in New Zealand. He told her he hoped to join her in less than a week's time.

Asked about his future plans, Fuchs said: "I want to get to New Zealand, where my wife is waiting to see me."

Hillary confessed: "I am rather anxious to knock my garden into shape."

Pope 'Bitter, Sad, Outraged' Over Conviction of Bishop

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Pope today suspended the celebration of his own coronation anniversary in "bitterness, sadness, and outrage" over the conviction of a bishop on charges of defaming an atheist.

The celebration, to have been held on March 12, was for the 19th anniversary of the pontiff's coronation as head of the Roman Catholic Church.

Because so many requests to attend the ceremony had been received, the ceremony was to have been held in St. Petr's Basilica instead of in the Sistine Chapel, as in the past.

The pontiff's dramatic action was the latest development in mounting resentment in Roman Catholic circles over the bishop's conviction.

The Vatican's brief communique announcing the Pope's decision said he had received expressions of grief and sorrow from many parts of the world.

These resulted from a Florence court's verdict Saturday against the Bishop of Prato, Msgr. Pietro Fiordelli. He was convicted on a defamation charge brought by a Prato grocer, who professed himself an atheist and a former Communist.

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservator Romano declared that members of the court may have incurred automatic excommunication for their action against the bishop. The bishop himself publicly forgave them.

The conviction, handed down on the eve of the Pope's 82nd birthday Sunday, was reported to have left the pontiff griefstricken. Some Vatican sources said he offered his birthday mass for the convicted bishop, but this could not be confirmed.

The Pope observed his birthday quietly. He came to his window overlooking St. Peter's Square as he usually does and blessed a cheering throng of about 10,000 pilgrims, tourists and Romans. The day also marked the 19th anniversary of his election to the Holy Office.

The only similar action to today's cancellation that could be recalled by Vatican circles was in 1931. Then Pope Pius XI, the present pontiff's predecessor, suspended plans for a pontifical legate to go to Padua for ceremonies observing the 100th anniversary of the death of St. Anthony of Padua. This action was taken in protest against what the Vatican called an anti-clerical campaign in Italy at that time.

The Vatican communique said:

"In the present conditions of bitterness, sadness and outrage caused to the Church in Italy, to the Holy Office, to its episcopate and clergy, and to its Catholic faithful, the Holy Father, who has received innumerable protests from all parts of the world . . . has believed it necessary to suspend for this year the usual coronation day feast which was to have been celebrated March 12 in the Vatican basilica."

The bishop, Pietro Fiordelli, publicly forgave the judges of the court in celebrating mass Sunday night at Prato, an industrial town in central Italy. His lawyer is appealing the verdict.

Unemployment Going Uphill, Production Downhill in U.S.

Editor's Note: After a massive, prolonged boom, the United States has dipped into unmistakable recession. How grim is the general picture? This article is based on a countrywide Associated Press survey.

By STERLING GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — How's business? Not bad, really; lots of dollars changing hands. But not good, either, because the trends are wrong.

Unemployment is going uphill, production downhill. Signs of the promised summer recovery are not yet visible.

There is neither pessimism nor panic. But an Associated Press survey in every state and major city suggests that the personal problems of 4,500,000 jobless breadwinners — probably approaching 5,000,000 by now—are sending chill ripples throughout the economy.

AP men interviewed a cross-section — bankers and jobless janitors, Chamber of Commerce boosters and corner storekeepers. Here's a sampling of what they heard:

"They don't look scared, just a little surprised that getting another job is tougher than it used to be."—An employment office director, Little Rock, Ark.

"I think we're through the roughest period of repossessions. But if 800 more miners are laid off we'll have a different story." A bank credit officer, Butte, Mont.

This is a recession, in short, that has many faces. Factory output is down but profits haven't skidded badly. The banking and insurance industries have seldom had it so good.

By contrast with the hardest-hit towns, there are cities and a few whole states where the recession is mostly something you read about in the newspapers.

In a recent estimate, New York had 426,000 idle. Pennsylvania had 435,000, California 312,000. Michigan had 325,000, or 11 per cent of its whole working force.

It is not just a big-city phenomenon. From Maine to the deep south, the eastern seaboard is dotted with closed textile mills and apparel factories working part time, or not at all.

Slack demand and falling price for copper, lead and zinc have hit the mountain states.

Crucial Decisions to Face Incoming Govt. After Election

OTTAWA (CP) — Some crucial decisions involving the railways and many millions of dollars are almost sure to face the incoming federal government after the March 31 general election.

Between freight rates and three big union - railway contract disputes, the government is expected to have a lively late spring and early summer.

The cabinet already is confronted with a major issue on freight rates, and there is little doubt here that the railway-labor fights eventually will wind up before the government.

Well over $100,000,000 a year, plus the government's relationships with labor and the railways are involved in the contract issues.

Up to $35,000,000 a year in rail freight rates is at stake in the case now before the cabinet.

Largest of the contract disputes is that between the major railways and 15 unions representing 140,000 non-operating workers —those who do not actually run the trains.

The unions are asking for a series of concesions headed by a wage boost of about 35 cents an hour. The railways contend this would cost them $128,000,000 a year and have turned it down.

A federal conciliation board is to start hearings on this today but there is little expectation here that it will provide a solution.

The disputants are far apart and have not even reached a starting ground for negotiations. The almost invariable pattern in recent years for this biggest of Canadian industrial disputes is for it to wind up before the cabinet.

In 1950, the same union group staged a crippling 11-day strike on the transcontinental railways, ended only by emergency back-to-work legislation at a special session of Parliament.

In a later round of negotiations, the issue came before the cabinet again as the unions threatened a new strike. This time, they were pressured by the Liberal government into calling off the strike and accepting arbitration of the dispute by a cabinet - named judge under the threat of legislation to outlaw a strike.

The unions were very unhappy about this and declared they were being subjected to "compulsory arbitration"—a phrase amounting to blasphemy in the labor dictionary.

Whether it be the Conservatives or the Liberals in office after March 31, the government will be on the spot over the same phrase when and if the unions and the railways lay their dispute at the cabinet's door.

For both major parties at their last conventions adopted platform resolutions expressing opposition to compulsory arbitration.

At the present stage, their official party policies thus would seem to leave them unable to swing a big stick without violating accepted party precepts. A possible alternative would be subsidies to take care of wage boosts.

NOMINATION DAY FOR 21 SCATTERED CONSTITUENCIES

60 Candidates Will Be in Running

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Voting day in Canada's March 31 general election is still four weeks away but for at least 60 prospective candidates today brings the last chance to pay their $200 deposits and get into the fight.

Nominations were to close at 2 p.m. local standard time today in 21 large, scattered constituencies where an extra two weeks is needed for delivery of ballots and other election supplies. Closing date in the other 242 constituencies, two of which elect two members apiece, is March 17, two weeks before the election.

A compilation by The Canadian Press shows at least 60 candidates nominated at party conventions in the 21 constituencies, contested by 62 in the 1957 election last June 10. Progressive Conservatives and Liberals are contesting all 21, CCF 12 and Social Credit five. There is one Socialist entry, a former member of the Communist Labor-Progressive party.

LOWER TOTAL

In all 265 constituencies, a compilation by The Canadian Press shows a total of 733 candidates compared with a final figure of 862 a year ago. Analysis of nominations so far indicates that this election's final total may be about 825, lowest since 1940 when 862 contested 245 seats. The record high was 954 for 245 seats in 1945.

Progressive Conservatives and Liberals, both aiming at contesting all 265 seats, led the nominations race. Prime Minister Diefenbaker's party has nominated 251 candidates, the Liberals 253 including one who bears a Liberal-Labor tag. Last year, the Progressive Conservatives contested 256 seats and the Liberals all 265.

The CCF has 142 in the field, compared with a final figure of 162 last year. Social Credit has 67 nominees, compared with 114. There are 20 others, 12 of them Labor-Progressives, against 60 in 1957.

Italian Ruling Called Victory For Tolerance

WASHINGTON (AP) — A predominantly protested organization today described as "one of the most significant victories of religious tolerance in our times" the conviction of a Roman Catholic bishop in Italy on a charge of defaming an atheist and his Catholic wife.

Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State offered to back any "bona fide Catholic or ex-Catholic" who wishes to sue his American priest or bishop for "libels or slanders" arising out of Catholic teaching that civil marriage for Catholics results in "low and abominable concubinage."

Italian Catholic Bishop Forgives Judges Who Upheld Atheist's Suit

PRATO, Italy (AP)—The Roman Catholic Bishop of Prato has publicly forgiven the judges who convicted him of defaming an atheist.

He is appealing their verdict in the higher courts.

Bishop Pietro Fiordelli celebrated mass at the cathedral in his central Italian industrial town Sunday night to mark the 82nd birthday of Pope Pius XII.

The Pope was reported upset over the verdict against the bishop, handed down Saturday by a three-judge court in Florence.

The Pope today cancelled the official celebration of his 19th coronation anniversary on March 12 in view of "the outrage committed in Italy against the church," the Vatican City newspaper Osservatore Romano said.

The bishop told the throng in the cathedral that the trial was A "sacrilegious and immensely sinful act."

"The first sentiment which comes out of my heart is a feeling of total forgiveness," he declared. "Like a father I completely forgive those who harmed me without knowing it."

The charge was brought by a 32-year-old grocer, Mario Bellandi, and his wife. They sued for damages after the bishop called them "public sinners" because they married outside the church. The court awarded the couple $672 in damages and suspended a $64 fine on the bishop. Payment of the damages depends on the outcome of the appeal.

The government radio went off the air Sunday to permit the Vatican station to use the same wavelength to attack the verdict. The Communist newspaper L'Unita said this would surely be brought up in Parliament and praised the verdict as "a victory for modern Italy."

Premier Adome Zoli's Christian Democrats, however, argued in speeches that the verdict proved there was no proof for opposition charges that their government was trying to "clericalize the state."

Five thousand young members of Italian Catholic Action marched to St. Peter's Square today in a hymn-singing demonstration for the Bishop of Prato.

St. Paul's Riding In Toronto Again To Have Inquiry

Returning Officer Under Fire Over Enumerators

OTTAWA (CP) — Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of Ontario has been appointed to inquire whether the returning officer for Toronto St. Paul's constituency knowingly or negligently appointed unqualified enumerators.

Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay, who last week ordered a new enumeration in more than half the federal constituency's polling divisions, announced today that Chief Justice McRuer has been asked to conduct the inquiry and make a report to the chief electoral officer as his findings warrant.

The returning officer for the constituency is Miss V. E. Titford who appointed enumerators in the 80-odd polling divisions which are being enumerated again. The riding has 154 polls.

The forthcoming election will be Miss Titford's second as returning officer for St. Paul's. She was appointed by the federal cabinet March 28, 1957 before the election in which the former Liberal government was defeated.

SECOND INCIDENT

The St. Paul's enumeration for the March 31 general election was the second time in successive federal elections in which irregularities in preparation of voters lists have been uncovered in the riding.

In announcing the re-enumeration, Mr. Castonguay said one or both of the enumerators in the polling divisions concerned were not eligible to act in this capacity because they were not qualified as electors in the electoral district in question.

The ineligible enumerators were nominated on behalf of Progressive Conservative Roland Michener, Speaker of the last Commons, and J. H. Rooney, Liberal runner-up to Mr. Michener in the June 10, 1957 general election.

Last year charges of padding voters' lists in Toronto St. Paul's led to investigation by a royal commission. Later four persons were convicted of forgery, uttering and perjury.

Locate Sunken Turkish Ferry

IZMIT, Turkey (AP) — Divers today located the hulk of the sunken ferry Uskudar and reported its lower salon is crowded with bodies.

The ferry overturned during a storm in the narrow gulf of the Sea of Marmora Saturday, 15 minutes after leaving the port of Izmit for Istanbul.

A total of 220 bodies has been recovered, but newspapers said the death toll might reach 350 or 400. At least 40 persons escaped.

The divers found the 148-ton ferry in 66 feet of water about a mile off shore. Most of those aboard were students going home for holidays.

Dunnies Swamp Finland 24-0 To Lead Tourney

BULLETIN

OSLO (CP) — Canada overwhelmed Finland 24-0 today and took a clear points lead in the world hockey championship.

OSLO (CP) — Canada led winless Finland by a whopping 14-0 score at the end of the second period in their world hockey championships game today. Russia defeated Finland 10-0 Sunday.

Right winger Jack MacKenzie, who leads Canadian scoring in the championships thus far, scored Whitby's first two goals in less than seven minutes.

Tom O'Connor made it 4-0 with unassisted goals 27 seconds apart and singles went to Sid Smith, George Gosselin and Charlie Burns.

Whitby had two of the three penalties handed out in the opening period, scoring one of their goals when Tom O'Connor and Finland's Neiminen were off together.

On the basis of the big first period scoring splurge the Canadians looked certain to take their third straight victory.

OSLO (CP) — Czechoslovakia pushed home four goals in the first period and went on to take an easy 7-1 victory over Poland in their second game in the world hockey championships. Czechoslovakia won their first game, against Finland, 5-1 on the tournament's opening day.

The game was played before 3,000 schoolboys and girls, a holiday for the occasion.

Canada was scheduled to meet Finland later today with the United States playing the Norwegian team, which was beaten 12-0 by the Canadians Sunday.

Czechoslovakia's win raised its points total to four, on a point par with Canada, Russia and Sweden. Canada leads on goal average.

British Papers Welcome Russian Bid for Parley

LONDON (Reuters)—The Russian Communist party newspaper Pravda says there is an "urgent need" for an East-West summit conference to reduce world tension.

At the same time Pravda blasts Western Germany for its "negative attitude" towards Russian and Polish proposals for a non - aggression pact between NATO and Warsaw Pact countries, and the creation of an atom-free zone in central Europe.

British newspapers generally welcome Russia's acceptance of a foreign ministers' meeting to set the agenda for the summit talks.

The Conservative Daily Mail calls the Russian move "the most hopeful development in world affairs since the top talks broke down at Geneva in 1955."

Possibility of a third candidate in the field for the riding of Hastings South in the March 31st election was made known today with the announcement that the CCF would hold a nominating convention this week.

The nominating meeting will be held Friday night at the Engineers' hall on Pine St.

Donald C. MacDonald, member of the Legislative assembly for York South and provincial leader will be the speaker of the meeting.

Police Blotter

[illegible] and provincial police re[illegible] a quiet weekend with no accidents and very few other occurrences.

In the city police reported Burkholders' Bakery had been entered with some small change and a small quantity of bake delicacies missing. Children were believed responsible.

Two juveniles were checked with an air rifle following the complaint of a Pine Street woman, while a Northport man was charged with vagrancy after having been "found in" at the county courthouse building. Police believed the man had gone into the building to sober up.

Education Week Ushered in At Collegiate

The 1958 Education Week program sponsored by the Ontario Teachers' Federation was officially ushered in on Sunday in Belleville with opening ceremonies conducted at the Belleville Collegiate.

Officially opening Education Week was Dr. C. F. Cannon, chief director of education, representing Hon. W. J. Dunlop, Ontario Minister of Education. Guest speaker for the opening was Dr. C. C. Goldring, director of education for the city of Toronto.

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde officially welcomed executive members of the Ontario Teachers to the city and expressed his pleasure at Belleville being chosen this year for the official opening of Education Week.

Chairman for the opening was Mr. R. J. Bolton, president of the Ontario Teachers' Federation.

One of the features of opening night ceremonies was the presentation of the O.T.F. communications award which went to the Ontario radio station doing the most for education in Ontario during the past year. The award was won by Brantford CKPC radio station, and was presented by John McGiveny, head of the provincial education committee.

Opening prayer at last night's collegiate auditorium ceremony was by Dr. A. E. MacKenzie, headmaster of Albert College.

VARIED PROGRAM

The Quinte Secondary School Band under the direction of Bandmaster Mr. R. Schroder; the Junior Rhythm Band from the Ontario School for the Deaf under the direction of Mr. Alec Gordon and the Senior Glee Club from the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School were heard in several numbers during the program.

Prior to the Collegiate program about 65 invited guests, including members of parliament, members of municipal councils, members of boards of education and school inspectors enjoyed dinner at the Hotel Quinte.

Following the official opening about 500 persons attended a reception held in the Collegiate gymnasium.

All this week special programs focussing attention on Education Week are being staged at the local level, these including special school functions, open house at some of the schools and special radio broadcasts.

TWO WINDOW DISPLAYS

Bringing further attention to Education Week and the work that is carried on in Belleville schools are two window displays, one at The James Texts Ltd., and the other at the hydro office window. The James Texts window is given over to high school with examples of craft work by classes at both Belleville Collegiate and Quinte Secondary School being displayed.

The hydro window displays work of public school classes with most schools in the city being represented.

Heading up the Education Week program in Belleville is Mr. W. J. Musgrove as general chairman; J. S. Hayman, secretary; J. W. Ritchie, display committee; Mrs. S. Park, newspaper committee; W. J. C. Burgoyne, church committee; E. S. Fairman, service clubs committee; D. C. Stirling, radio committee, and E. Arnold Orr, opening night committee.

Obituaries

RICHARD ARTHUR KEMP

Resident of the city all his life and an employee of Stewart-Warner for the past 30 years, Richard Arthur Kemp, 278 Dundas St., East, died in Belleville General Hospital on Saturday. He was in his 55th year.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Arthur Kemp he was born in Belleville. He was a foreman at Stewart-Warner and was ill only a short time prior to his death.

He was a member of Eureka Lodge, No. 283, A.F. and A.M., and of Moira Chapter, No. 7, R.A.M. His wife, the former Jessie Hilda Barnhardt, predeceased him.

He is survived by one son, Harry Arthur Kemp of Bowmanville, and one daughter Mrs. Harold (Carol) Cornell, also of Bowmanville.

One brother, William C. Kemp of Belleville, and a sister, Mrs. Roy (Maude) Fox, Toronto, also survive.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. JOHN T. BOWYER

In ill health for the past two weeks, Mrs. Sarah Jane Bowyer, an aged and highly respected resident of this city, for many years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hayes (Harry) Pitt, 160 McDonald Avenue on Saturday.

She was born in Michigan, U.S.A. 89 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burgess and has resided in this city for the past 52 years, coming to this city from Strathcona, north of Napanee. During her residence in this city she took an active part in the work of Christ Church and the Eastern Star of which she was a member for many years.

Mrs. Bowyer was a faithful worker in the parish and no task was too difficult. She was a member of the Woman's Auxiliary of the congregation and gave freely of her time to assist this branch of the church. In fraternal circles she enjoyed her membership in Belleville Chapter No. 55 of the O. E. S. to the fullest. Despite her years she was always the life of the party at any function and her counsel and guidance were always sought. She was a fine and kindly woman, who enjoyed a wide circle of friends, who will sincerely regret her death.

Surviving are one son, Austin Bowyer of Watertown, N. Y., two daughters, Mrs. Ella Maude Lees of Cobourg and Mrs. Hayes (Leah) Pitt of this city and with whom she resided. Her husband, John T. Bowyer, died in 1941.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home, Everett Street. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. PHILLIP ROBLIN
Demorestville

Ill for the past ten weeks, Mrs. Gertrude May Roblin of Demorestville, died Sunday in Belleville General Hospital. She was in her 65th year.

Born in Rawdon township, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hartford Reid. She had lived in Demorestville for the past six years and had previously lived in Foxboro. She was a member of the Wesleyan Methodist Church and was a member of the Crofton Woman's Association. Twice married, her first husband was the late Clayton Denyes.

She is survived by her husband, Phillip Roblin, and one son, Goldwin Denyes, of Avondale, Belleville; two grandchildren, Janice and Dale Denyes, and five step-daughters, Mrs. Harold (Helen) Cross; Mrs. Percy (Irene) Allison; Mrs. Ernest (Evelyn) Day; Mrs. Charles (Margaret) Daly and Mrs. Harold (Clara) Frank, and one step-son, Francis Phillip Roblin.

Also surviving are four brothers, Clarence Reid of Ivanhoe; Percy Reid, Foxboro and Bryson and Melville of Belleville.

Resting at the Grant Funeral Home, North Front Street, Belleville; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

HENRY LAWRENCE WRIGHT

In ill heath for some time, Mr Henry Lawrence Wright, 40 Lane Ave., died Monday in Belleville General Hospital. He was in his 59th year.

Born at Pontypool, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wright but had lived in Belleville for the past 40 years where he was employed by Graham's Dairy. He was a member of Bethel Hall.

He is survived by his wife, the former Marion Elizabeth Nightingale, four sons, Barney, of Toronto; and Allen, Arthur and Albert all of this city, and one daughter, Mrs. Carl (Geraldine) Jones of this city. There are nine grandchildren.

Also surviving are two brothers, Gordon and Samuel of Belleville, and five sisters, Mrs. Hazel Farmer, Niagara Falls, N.Y., Mrs. Melissa Thompson and Mrs. Maudie Farnsworth, both of Belleville; Mrs. Olive Cooley of Niagara Falls, Ont., and Mrs. Alma Halway of Belleville.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Signs Marking Level Crossing Suggested by D. MacKinnon

Two years ago Attorney General Kelso Roberts, a former Bellevillian, instigated a number of plans to reduce the toll of victims claimed by highway accidents. In particular, Mr. Roberts deplored the number of fatalities that occurred at level crossings.

Next time you're motoring just north of Foxboro on the Madoc road keep a sharp lookout for a new type of level crossing sign.

Civic-minded Donald I. MacKinnon, the probation officer at the Hastings County court house, was moved to action by the Attorney General's determination to campaign for fewer accidents on the province's highways.

On April 24, 1956, Mr. MacKinnon wrote Attorney General Roberts outlining a plan to clearly mark all level crossings in Ontario. He suggested that "white lines a yard wide be painted across the highways 1,000 feet from railway crossings at the same angle at which the tracks cross."

He suggested that an improve-yellow the angle of the crossing across the highway would be to cross-hatch the space between at right angles to the strips, thus drawing to the attention of motorists the actual path of the railway crossing.

Mr. MacKinnon theorized that a motorist, travelling at 50 miles an hour, would have about 10 seconds to look in the right direction for approaching trains.

Where it is not feasible to paint lines across the road, as on a country road, painted board markers could be put up, he suggested.

Copies of Mr. MacKinnon's letter were sent to Premier Frost, Highways Minister Allan and to Hon. Mr. Justice John D. Kearney, chief commissioner of the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada, Ottawa.

On February 19, 1958, Mr. MacKinnon received a letter from Attorney General Roberts which, in part, said: "I am pleased to learn that appropriate warning signs have been erected near the village of Foxboro and trust that similar action will be taken in connection with the many railway crossings in this province thereby reducing the hazard of train-vehicle accidents."

Mr. MacKinnon said the Foxboro signs indicate in black-on-yellow the angle of the crassing railway tracks and the curvature of the road. Other people report these signs are being used extensively in Ontario on country roads.

FIND BUS, BODIES

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP)—A school bus containing the mud-smeared bodies of the driver and 14 youngsters was found Sunday in swollen Big Sandy River. Twelve other young passengers on the bus are missing and their bodies are believed mired in the river.

Promoted 'Sergeant'

Hasty Pees' Senior Non-Coms Honor Lt. Col. E.S. Fairman At Testimonial Banquet

Lieut. Col. E. S. Fairman, ED., retired commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment was "promoted" to the rank of honorary sergeant on Sunday.

"SERGEANT" FAIRMAN ED

The "promotion" came in the form of a life membership in the sergeants' mess of the regiment presented to Col Fairman, with other gifts.

The presentations took place at a testimonial dinner given the former C.O. in the Bridge Street armouries lecture room.

Intangible tribute was paid Lieut. Col. Fairman by his warrant and other non-commissioned officer in the fact that 65 of 67 on the regimental strength were present.

They came from the outlying units of the regiment in Madoc, Trenton, Picton, Norwood and Millbrook as well as from headquarters company in Belleville. Special guests included the new commanding officer Lieut.-Col. Angus B. Duffy CE., and Major A. S. McConnell, MBE, regimental chaplain.

Also at the head table were Col. Fairman, Regimental Sergeant Major Stanley Downes, who acted as the dinner chairman, and WO 2 Howard Kokesh, president of the sergeants' mess.

A feature of the dinner was the presentation to Col. Fairman of a polaroid camera, case, flash equipment, bulbs etc. by WO Kokesh on behalf of the non-commissioned officers.

"NOT A TOKEN"

Col. Fairman in an address of appreciation said the gift "was not a mere token, it expressed the loyalty of the finest non-commissioned officers any commanding officer would wish to have.

He paid tribute to those nco's of the 9th Anti Tank Regiment and Midland Regiment who assisted greatly in making the Hasty Pees "one big happy family."

"No commanding officer has had more loyal support of his officers and nco's than I," he said. "This is exemplified in the presence of 65 out of 67 senior non-coms this afternoon. You have helped make the regiment a solid unit, one which has accomplished as much training as any unit from coast to coast.

"This regiment," he said, boasts as fine a group of nco's and men as any reserve unit in the Dominion. This was proven at the change-of-command ceremonial held here last Sunday. I was deeply thrilled with their appearance and performance on parade."

Col. Fairman presented two Canadian Decorations to Sergeants Al Cockburn and Stan Hogan.

The lecture room rang to "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and the accompanying cheers.

Staff Sergeant Mitch Rashotte proposed the toast to the regiment with Lieut.-Col. Duffy responding.

Throughout its history the militia has gone through periods of progress and adversity, Col. Duffy said. Adversity mainly because of the mistaken belief that some new-fangled weapon will do away with the infantry. Each time this has had to be proven wrong by paying for it with lives.

"We must be tough and resolute to keep the army alive and do away with the stupidity that the atomic bomb will do away with the infantry."

"Our main job," Col. Duffy said, "is to prevent war. If war comes it is our duty to win it, but the most important thing is to prevent it."

He said the backbone of the infantry battalion is its warrant officers and other nco's. "I insist on a high standard of these men because it is they who will carry on the tradition of the regiment. You can have dozens of officers but they need their sergeant majors, sergeants and corporals. And don't forget the most important man in the regiment is the private."

"This regiment to me means a great tradition, a fellowship with the finest of men, dedicated to prevent war, and if necessary, to win it," Col. Duffy concluded.

Major McConnell paid tribute to Col. Fairman who, he said "as a civilian will be ready to help the regiment to his utmost." He also honored the non - coms whose efforts had added glory to the regiment's fine record of achievement.

WO 2 A. Hawthorne, Madoc, spoke briefly for the non-coms of the outlying units, expressing their appreciation of belonging to a unit that is "a brotherhood of men dedicated to teach younger men."

One of the musical highlights apart from Jimmy Corradi's piano wizardry, was a parody on a well - known razor blade television commercial composed by Corradi and sang by a lusty chorus of eight sergeants in tribute to Col. Fairman.

The committee responsible for the banquet and presentations consisted of WO 2 Kokesh, chairman, Staff Sergeant M. Rashotte, Sergeant Gordon Carter, Sergeant W. C. Ouderkirk, CSM H. Leavitt and Sergeant Frank Butler.

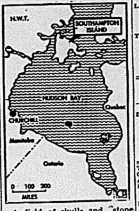
The dinner, a culinary masterpiece, came from the kitchens of Murray Hunter.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mrs. Arthur McKnight wishes to express her sincere thanks and appreciation to Drs. S. Cronk, B. Cronk and J. Loynes, special nurses and nurses of 1st West in the Belleville General Hospital; also to the relatives and many friends who sent gifts, cards and flowers during her recent illness.

Mother and I would like to thank our many friends in Wallbridge for the lovely gifts they gave us when we recently moved to the city. It was very kind and thoughtful and much appreciated.
—Mrs. Fisher and Iris Latta.

SEEK VANISHED RACE



A field of skulls and stone ruins discovered on Southampton Island by a joint Canadian-United States expedition indicates the island could have been the home of a vanished race of early Canadian Eskimos.

Dr. Henry B. Collins of the Smithsonian Institution said in Washington that the expedition in 1954 and 1955 uncovered 75 semi-subterranean dwellings on the 17,000-square-mile island at the mouth of Hudson Bay.

The expedition was a co-operative project of the Smithsonian Institution, the National Museum of Canada, National Geographic Society and the American Philosophical Society.

The ruins are believed to have been left by the Sadlermuits, a strange, primitive tribe of Eskimos whose ancestors moved eastward from Alaska over Canada's Arctic coast and island more than 2,000 years ago. They became extinct during an epidemic in 1903.

The dwellings were made of stone and blocks of sod. More than 100 burial sites were uncovered with the bodies placed in well-constructed vaults of limestone slabs. (CP Newsmap).

IN MEMORIAM

WELLMAN. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, John Wellman, who passed away March 2nd, 1953.

He is gone but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed.
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies within the heart concealed.

—Ever remembered by his loving wife Myrtle and family.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved to higher ground in slow morning trading.

Golds, base metals and western oils registered gains on their indices ranging up to half a point while industrials eased slightly on their index.

The trading pace was the slowest in nearly two months. The 11 a.m. volume of 340,000 shares was considerably lower than Friday's 513,000 shares at the same time.

Banks featured the loss among industrials. Royal Bank of Canada, trading ex-rights, lost $3 at $55. Last week the bank announced the offer of additional stocks to shareholders at $37.50 a share on the base of one additional share for each five now held. The shares began selling ex-rights today. Other losses among banks were fractional. Among industrial winners, Aluminium, BC Power, Calgary Power, CPR, Crown Zeller Dach and Page Hersey advanced fractionally.

The mining list saw Labrador Mine and Exploration advance ⅝ at 16 among senior base metals. However, International Nickel and Hudson Bay eased fractionally. Among golds Consolidated Discovery climbed 15 cents at $2.80. Other gains were confined to five cents. Campbell Red Lake lost 10 cents at $7.60.

Western oils showed early gains. Calgary and Edmonton added ¼ at 18½ among senior issues. Banff Oil and Scurry Rainbow posted 19-cent advances. Dome Exploration West lost 20 cents at $8.30.

Says U.S. Navy Accelerates Arctic Research

NEW YORK (CP)—The Times says the United States navy is accelerating Arctic research in co-operation with Canada in the belief that the ice-capped polar region is a potential battle area for nuclear-missile fleets.

In a Washington dispatch, The Times says the move follows a decision calling for Arctic operations, above and below the ice.

"One of the primary objectives of the expanded Arctic research program will be to determine what type of ship and plane equipment is necessary to carry out the new requirement of Arctic operations."

Many Attend Annual Convention Of Concentrated Milk Producers

One of the largest and most enthusiastic annual meetings of the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers Association was held in the Royal Connaught Hotel, Hamilton, on Feb. 26-27. Over 120 voting delegates from all sections of Ontario and many other producers were in attendance for the two day session.

President W. G. Tilden, Harriston, warned the producers in his opening address that developments were taking place in the milk industry which were bound to be felt by this section of the industry. The most pronounced was the movement of producers who have always shipped cream to change and ship their milk to plants manufacturing concentrated products. This was more pronounced in some counties in Western Ontario but was affecting large areas of Eastern Ontario also.

Mr. Everett Biggs, Dairy Commissioner, Ontario Department of Agriculture speaking at the noon luncheon on Feb. 26, urged the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers Association to take leadership in forming a national organization which would ensure more stable prices for milk producers.

"Ontario producers have the reputation for being the best organized in the country", Mr. Biggs said, "you should go forward to give leadership to other Canadian organizations."

"The sooner you get together with these organizations the sooner you will have a better and more stable price for your product, "the commissioner said.

WANT NEW PAY SYSTEM

Later in the same day the public relations and planning committee recommended that the association place its full support behind the newly formed National Concentrated Milk Producers Committee in its efforts to establish a new concept of the way in which producers are paid for milk.

"Producers should be paid for their product on the basis of the cost of production, rather than on the basis of what is left after the product has been sold and the processor, jobber, wholesaler, broker and retailer have all had their profit from the gross receipts," the committee said.

"We must let the public know that the fat intake from milk products has not been proven harmful", stated William Rettie, president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, during his address to the meeting on the second day. He further warned that the dairy industry had been seriously harmed by those advocating low fat diets. Supporting his statements Mr. Rettie quoted a university professor who claimed there is no conclusive evidence supporting the harmful effect theory.

On the final day of the session the association members, among other resolutions, voted to support the following resolutions;

"That the provincial board of the association do its utmost in backing the Dairy Farmers of Canada's request for a 64 cent per pound floor price on butter;

"That the Association make a donation from its surplus stores to an organization which is assisting in feeding the starving peoples of foreign countries".

Local delegates who attended this annual meeting included the following members of the Prince Edward Concentrated Milk Producers Association: Mr. Rae Ferguson, Consecon; Mr. King Terry, Hillier; Mr. Sam Dodds and Mr. Howard Dulmage, Picton; Mr. Douglas Ptolemy, Belleville, fieldman for the association attended also.

Federal Election Campaign Has Only Four Weeks to Run

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The bidding for votes in the March 31 federal general election has four weeks to go from today.

The party leaders open the last month of winter campaigning at widely separated parts of the country.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker moved into Quebec for a one-day stand before heading for Ontario. Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson opened a stand in Manitoba while CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell continued beating through British Columbia.

At a Nanaimo, B.C., meeting Saturday night, Mr. Coldwell said the March 31 election is "one of the most unnecessary I've ever known."

All the Progressive Conservatives want, he said, "is a docile majority—the same as the Liberals had."

Mr. Pearson wound up an Alberta-Saskatchewan visit Saturday night in Medicine Hat by expressing his opposition to a "closed-door" policy on immigration to Canada.

Meanwhile, at Prince Albert, Sask., Ernie Unruh, 31, former Prince Albert school teacher, was chosen Liberal candidate for Prince Albert, thus entering the field against Mr. Diefenbaker, and Mrs. Thora Wiggins, CCF candidate.

TIME FOR SLOW-DOWN

Mr. Pearson said perhaps it is time for a slow-down on immigration, but Canada needed more population.

Meantime, Mr. Diefenbaker spoke in Saint John, N.B., Saturday night despite a telephone call to police from a woman who said a bomb had been planted in the hall. The call was put down as a prankster's.

As he journeyed toward central Canada Sunday, the prime minister was momentarily abandoned in Newcastle, N.B., when his train pulled out while he was shaking hands with people on the station platform. It stopped again and he got on.

His main theme was that his conservative government should be returned with an over-all majority because it has fulfilled its promises.

In Montreal, Finance Minister Donald Fleming said the Liberals have no chance of forming the next government and that Quebec's voting strength should not be isolated in the opposition.

State Secretary Ellen Fairclough said at Owen Sound, that the Liberals left a trade deficit and tight - money policy that threatened Canada's expansion. But there was no shortage of money now.

While former Liberal health minister Paul Martin campaigned in the West, police in Windsor found his car. It was stolen while he was making a door-to-door vote canvas last week.

Deputy CCF Leader Stanley Knowles Saturday night at Saskatoon said his party will be recognized clearly as the alternative to the Conservative government following the March 31 election.

Mr. Knowles said the reason a third party emerges is because the two old ones have become indistinguishable "and I sense a desire on the part of voters everywhere to elect a Parliament of two major parties that are different."

Short-Handed Wellington Scares Cubs

TRENTON — The Trenton Junior Bear Cubs came from behind in the third period to force an exhibition game with the Wellington Juniors into overtime before they scored a 5-4 victory Saturday night at the Community Centre here.

The Bear Cubs dressed a full team but the boys from Wellington came with only nine players, giving them three men for line changes. It was not until the dying minutes of the third that the Wellington boys began to show the strain and it was then the Trenton Cubs managed to get the two goals to tie the game.

In the first frame the Trenton lads were no match for the fast-skating visitors who were continually beating them in a race for the puck or sidestepping Trenton's heavy defencemen. The period ended 2-0 for the visiting crew.

In the second the Cubs got their first goal after less than two minutes of play and connected again at the very end of the 20 minutes. But Wellington matched their two goals and ended the frame leading 4-2.

The score remained at 4-2 until the 18-minute mark when fatigue began to tell on the visitors and the Bear Cubs scored two fast goals to tie the game. In overtime the Bear Cubs scored at the 1.10 minute mark which the visitors were unable to match, although they had a few tough breaks around the Trenton goal.

Although the Wellington team may have been faster skaters than the Trenton team, the Bear Cubs showed much better form in Saturday night's game than they had in their last two home games during the semi-finals with Kingston. Offensive and defensive action appeared much better and team play and spirit could almost be felt.

Less than 100 fans turned out to see the game but this was blamed on the short notice on which the game was arranged. Manager of the team, Charlie Drake, said Saturday night it is expected more exhibition games will be arranged in the near future, with notice being given further in advance.

Scott, T. Yardy, Osborne, Lewis and Ed. Yardy all scoring singles for Trenton. It was Ed. Yardy's goal in the overtime period that gave the game to the Trentonians. Kellar scored twice for Wellington and Guernsey and McKonkey both got singles.

Trenton players made six trips to the penalty box during the game and Wellington pucksters made three.

LINEUPS:

Wellington: Halloran, Houlding, McKenzie, Guernsey, Dainard, Campbell, McKonkey, Kellar, Sykes.

Trenton: Moxon, Jones, Titterson, Scott, Tom Yardy, Drake, Vickers, Lewis, Leavey, Ed. Yardy, Ellis, Asselstine, Osborne, Robertson, Wright, Pshebnicky.

Station Rinks Win Majority Bonspiel Prizes

TRENTON — Flight Lieutenant J. Hamilton skipped his rink to victory Sunday night when he won the second annual Bay of Quinte Bonspiel without losing a single game.

Other members of his team were vice skip F/L E. White, 2nd F/L "Tex" Huston, lead, S/L E. McDowall. The team was presented with the Special Calvert's Prize following the last game by Group Captain Spurston, Commanding Officer No. 6 Repair Depot, R.C.A.F. Station Trenton.

The Hamilton rink won the finals in defeating the F/L Max Hall rink, which was skipped by F/O J. Lindgren with a score of 13.6.

In the other games during the finals played off last night at the 6 Repair Depot Curling Rinks a rink skipped by S/L G. Hoyt won the Corby Trophy in defeating skip G/C A. V. Houle's rink 11-9. Members of the winning team were, vice WO1 J. Leadingham, 2nd, WO2 R. G. Stewart and lead J. B. Ethier.

In the third event the rink skipped by Flight Sergeant R. Gregg won the O'Keefe Trophy in a 15-11 victory over F/O L. Motiuk. Playing on the winning team were: vice LAC W. Reid, 2nd, Flight Sergeant G. Kelly and lead, Sgt. T Chorney.

The bonspiel lasted four days and entertained rinks from Belleville, Kingston, Trenton, Napanee, Picton and the R.C.A.F. Station in Trenton.

On Friday night a banquet was held in the new airmen's mess at South Station to mark the official opening of the bonspiel.

It was noted that the highest end made during the spiel was by a rink skipped by Army Lieut. J. Quackenbush. His team was successful in getting an end of seven.

Policeman Shot By Skunk

TRENTON — A policeman's life can be a hectic one and at times he could almost throw his hands in the air and seek an easier occupation.

One of the Trenton policemen was likely threatening to do so last night when making his regular rounds, checking the back doors of the business establishments on Front Street.

At the rear of McDonald's Hardware the policeman came face to face with a "wood-pussy" which had apparently come to town in the quest of food.

The raincoat, rubbers and cap seen piled in front of the police station this morning tell their own story of what happened.

Hit-Run Driver Breaks Window, Parking Meter

TRENTON — An unknown vehicle jumped over the curb on Dundas Street, broke down a parking meter, smashed a plate glass window in one of the stores and, swerving back into the street, kept on going.

Two witnesses to the hit-and-run accident told police the vehicle was proceeding east on Dundas west when it apparently went out of control and smashed the large corner window of the Woolworth store.

Details of the accident were not available and police are continuing their investigation into it.

A second hit-and-run accident also occurred on Dundas Street with two vehicles involved. One car was apparently stopped waiting for another to turn onto the street when it was hit in the rear by another car which did not stop. Damage was only light, it was reported.

The only other mishap on town streets was reported to police after two vehicles collided on Front Street. Damage to both cars was estimated at about $20.

Rain and mild weather have cleared town streets of most of the snow and ice thus making driving less hazardous.

Grace United Church Chimney Catches Fire

TRENTON — Local firemen report only one call over the weekend and this to a fire which caused no damage.

Sunday morning, just as Sunday School was going in, men of the Grace United Church noticed the chimney on fire.

Quick response from a call to the fire department had the fire out with little damage in quick time. Sunday School and church services were not delayed because of the mishap.

It was reported, however, that had the fire not been noticed in time it could have been serious.

Found Shot to Death

DETROIT (AP) — An Ohio man sought for questioning in a kidnapping was found shot to death Sunday near Rouge River on the outskirts of Detroit.

Police said the man was identified from papers on the body as Gerard Jantsen, 22, of Lakewood, Ohio.

The papers also indicated Jantsen's father was William Jantsen of Kitchener, Ont., police said.

Detroit police said they were asked earlier by Lakewood police to watch for Jantsen. He was wanted for questioning in the kidnapping of a Lakewood man at gunpoint Wednesday night. The kidnapper forced the Lakewood man to drive him to Lorain, Ohio, where the kidnapper leaped from the car and fled.

Heads Institute

PROF. R. D. CAM[illegible]
Foxboro

It has been announced by the Agricultural Institute of Canada that Prof. D. R. Campbell, head of the Department of Agricultural Economics at the Ontario Agricultural College, at Guelph, has been made president-elect of the organization, which is made up of 3,000 professional agriculturalists from all parts of Canada.

Prof. Campbell was raised on a farm near Foxboro in Hastings County. He was the first secretary-treasurer of the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture, and in that position organized 25 farm forums. A veteran of World War II, he served with distinction in the RCAF, winning a DFC and bar as a bomber pilot.

In 1949 he graduated from the University of Toronto, winning the Rhodes Scholarship, which enabled him to study at Oxford University.

He was appointed head of the Department of Agricultural Economics at the OAC in 1952.

Prof. Campbell is a member of the Ontario Formula Pricing of Milk Committee, and Econtro Council, a group of 30 prominent industrial and University Economists, and the Ontario Rhodes Scholarship Selection Committee. He is the author of numerous publications on agricultural economics, and carries on an extensive teaching program at the college, besides being in demand as a speaker at various agricultural functions.

Ralph Campbell is well known in the Quinte district, being a son of Mr. and Fred Campbell of Foxboro.

Rescue Children

OSHAWA (CP) — Neighbors rescued three children and a mother carried a fourth from a burning house Sunday in nearby Courtice.

Mrs. Eronica Fraser, 38, saved one-year-old Douglas, and neighbors Milford Reid, 26, and Ronald Poole, 26, saved Angus, 7, Margaret, 5, and John, [illegible] Mr. Fraser and Heather, 9, were not home at the time.

The family lost all their possessions in the fire. None of the belongings was insured and Mr. Fraser now is unemployed.

THE GIFT OF THE GAB

The February issue of "Citizen," published by the Federal Department of Citizenship and Immigration, features an interesting article entitled "As Others See Us!" This gives the impression of a number of immigrants of Canada and Canadians. There is much food for thought in this article, not only for native-born Canadians but also for recent immigrants.

One point that interested us was the suggestion [illegible] Netherlander that immigrants should avoid the use [illegible] their native tongue. "If you speak your own language," he says, "you never get used to the English language or how to express yourself."

This sounds like advice based on experience. It is, too, an interesting explanation of a phenomena we had noted with two Belleville families. In both of them, the young children were often called on to interpret during the first years of the families' residence here. We always wondered how it was that small children could have attained such proficiency in English, while their parents, intelligent, educated people, had failed to keep pace with them. The article in "Citizen" suggests to us that the explanation is that the parents continued to depend on their native tongue for the expression of their thoughts and ideas, while the children, less familiar with it, soon found that they could talk, and think, just as clearly in English. Here was one instance where the parents' very efficiency in their native tongues, and in other languages, too, prevented them from learning English as quickly as did their children.

It does seem to us, though, that it would be unreasonable to expect a family to abandon its native tongue entirely. This would hamper that communication of ideas on which family life depends. For that matter, children, too, would benefit from increasing their proficiency in their native tongue, as well as in English. The fluency of many immigrants in other languages than their own puts most English-speaking Canadians, whether native-born or from Britain, to shame.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Unemployment has been a serious problem in Canada this year and, localizing the situation, several hundred men and women have been jobless in Hastings County. How many of the county unemployed reside in Belleville is not known, but we can rest assured a goodly number of them do.

Men and women who cannot find employment in Canada are able to receive financial assistance through the National Employment Service, while some municipalities have local assistance funds as well. Belleville provides assistance to jobless people. However, even though money is coming regularly into the households of unemployed local people, those same people, no doubt, are wishing they had jobs.

That brings us to the gist of this editorial. We are all quite familiar with last week's fall of snow and rain. Towards the latter part of the week, city streets were ankle-deep in slush and water, making walking hazardous. The works department reported Friday that approximately forty men were engaged in cleaning up Nature's mess.

Are forty men enough to cope with cleaning up a 2,000-acre city? We do not think so.

Perhaps additional manpower should have been secured. We believe a good many of the unemployed men in Belleville would have appreciated the city's thoughtfulness.

A FISHING TALE

The Associated Press news agency reported in a story from Wakefield, Wisconsin, that Angler Lou Berg has invented a "switch board" lighting system that enables him to catch fish easily and without long hours of waiting in freezing temperatures. Apparently his gimmick works thusly: Berg hooks his ice fishing bobbers outside his fishing shanty to an electrical circuit so a light flashes inside his shanty when he gets a nibble outside and - - bingo!

And then there's the story about the Bay of Quinte Angler. He became so impatient with sitting in his boat waiting for a bite that he started throwing overboard bits of plug chewing tobacco. Every time a muskie surfaced to spit, he clubbed it over the head with an oar.

Quinte folks are very imaginative. That is why so many tourists like to vacation here.

THE MAN I'M FOR

I'm for the happy man every time—
The man who smiles as he goes on his way,
Whether he's up or whether he's down,
I'm for the man with a grin, I say.
I'm for the man who can bear his woes
With never a grumbling word or frown;
Who, smiling, gathers the rue or rose;
There is the man that you can't keep down.

I'm for the cheerful man, heart and soul!
His is the hand that I like to grasp
Who tunes his voice in a merry key,
Not files it down to a bitter rasp.
I'm for the man who can take the cards
Just as they're played by the hand of fate
And good or bad, play an honest game
With a lifted chin and a smile that's great.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

MARCH 3, 1938.

Mrs. J. C. Brintnell, formerly of this city, celebrated February 20th the 91st birthday of her birth at Fort Lauderdale, Florida, where she is now making her home. Mrs. Brintnell was born at Latta and resided there for some years before moving to Belleville. Her many friends in the district where she was born and in this city will entertain good wishes for her continued good health and happiness.

Mrs. George Foster spent the weekend with Mrs. Arthur Legge, Oshawa.

Mrs. Bert Walker spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gummow, in Oshawa.

Little Isabel Armitage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Armitage, North John St., entertained a number of her little friends yesterday afternoon, the occasion being the celebration of her birthday.

Fifty men were called from the city's relief lists this morning for removal of ice from the street gutters and for work on rear parking lots.

During the absence of Mr. B. C. Donnan, K.C., County Crown Attorney, on a month's vacation in Florida, Mr. A. Bernard Collins, K.C., and Mr. S. J. Howell, local barrister, will jointly carry on the duties of Crown Attorney. Mr. Ormond Butler, barrister, will conduct all inquests on behalf of the Crown during Mr. Donnan's absence.

30 YEARS AGO

MARCH 3, 1928.

Mr. W. R. Lovelace of Bloomfield, was in town today.

Mr. and Mrs. George Empey of Eldorado, are visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Charles Cochrane has returned home after spending several days in Toronto.

Mr. S. Doran of Ottawa is spending a few days here with friends.

Miss McDougall, former manager of the Griffin Theatre here, is the guest of Mrs. Reg. Bumstead.

Mr. David C. Elliott has left to reside in Hornepayne. His wife and family will join him there in May.

Mr. Samuel Farmer, of Port Perry, is renewing acquaintances in town.

40 YEARS AGO

MARCH 3, 1918.

Mr. Ed. D. O'Flynn, barrister, is spending today in Bancroft.

Mr. Fred Juby has purchased Mr. W. W. Post's farm at Massassaga.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Black at Massassaga was the scene of a very enjoyable evening on Wednesday last when about seventy-five of their neighbors assembled to present them with an address and a handsome combination oak writing desk and book case prior to their departure from the neighborhood to reside on Huff's Island.

The little mining centre of Deloro, four miles east of Marmora Village, is asking special legislation to incorporporate as a village, to take effect July 1st, this year.

Mr. Andy Sherry, who has been spending the past three months with his parents at Thomasburg, has left for his home at Sunkist, Sask.

Mr. D. R. Corrigan and his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Clare, have left for Alsask, Sask., after spending several weeks here renewing acquaintances in the district.

50 YEARS AGO

MARCH 3, 1908.

The Rev. H. T. Crossley and the Rev. J. E. Hunter, evangelists, have commenced revival meetings at Bridge Street Methodist Church.

The first man to be pensioned off under the Grand Trunk Railway new rules is Mr. John A. McNiel, a worthy resident of this city, who is 72 years of age, and who has been in the employ of the railway since October 1st, 1856, having served for the long period of 52 years. He was first a switchman and pumpman at Lansdowne. He was transferred to Belleville as yardmaster in 1864 and he held that position until 1896 when he was given work with less responsibility. Many friends will wish him a happy and comfortable retirement.

Mr. W. C. Springer has left on a business trip to Western Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Vickers of Chicago, Ill., are visiting relatives here.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

As you come by train into the big cities, one thing strikes you when you pass through the old, frowsy warehouse and factory sections that used to be more important than they are today. And that is the painted-out names of bygone owners of these factories and warehouses, names that ring a faint bell of memory. They were the big names in the city, fifty years ago. But now, faintly, shabbily, they are discernible only through the paint of more recent names, mostly unfamiliar, printed over them.

It seems that big names, in industry, do not generally last longer than two generations.

I asked an old retired banker, whose memory goes back more than seventy years, why this was so.

"Well!" he replied, "most really successful enterprises are founded by men more interested in making things than in making money. Even after they make the money that such interest usually breeds, they are still interested in the product. They usually end up cranky, proud, prosperous old men. When they grow old or die, one of two things happens. Either the prosperous business is sold to people merely interested in making money, or it passes to the heirs, whose only inheritance is the money and the way of life to which they have grown accustomed, and not the joyous spirit of the cranky, proud old man. Naturally, the business dwindles and then dies."

That is why we see new, second-rate paint over the old, faded, nostalgic paint of the names along the seedy battlements of the factories and warehouses of other days.

Cyprus Factions

Brantford Expositor

Hundreds of Turkish demonstrators, clashing with police and soldiers in Nicosia, turned the Turkish sector of the capital of Cyprus into something resembling a battlefield. Greek Cypriots, it seems, are not the only hot-headed residents of the famous island. Just the same, the outbreak serves to draw attention to the fact that there are pro-Turks as well as pro-Greeks there, and if the two factions ever get to fighting one another there will be trouble.

Author's View of Censors

By MARK VAN DOREN, Variety, New York

(Following is text of talk delivered by Mr. Van Doren, prominent American writer, in New York of National Assembly of Authors and Dramatists.)

The position of authors and dramatists to take on censorship is simply stated. It is this: "No censorship of anything by anybody at any time." An ideal position, you may say. But if so, the ideal is everybody's, not merely yours and mine; it is the reader's no less than the writer's; it is nothing less, indeed, than all of human society's. And it must be understood as having the utmost practical importance . . . .

The nicest thing that could happen to authors would be the total disappearance of censorship in any of its recognizable forms. But this I see also as a necessary condition of their complete existence as authors. And if they are not to exist completely, how are they to exist at all? The mind is free or it is nothing. It does all it can or else it does not do what it was created to do. It was created free, it can operate in no other atmosphere. The atmosphere most deadly to it is the atmosphere of official censorship.

I do not mean of course to include here the censure of the critic or the disapproval of the reader. Those are forms of freedom, and they cannot be impeached.

The reader and the critic have great power. But their power is not official. It is merely natural and proper assuming a society excellent enough to produce such persons in sufficient self-respect. The power of critics and readers is always in direct proportion to the maturity of the culture that contains them.

By the same token, I suggest, the power of the official censor — the person authorized to decide whether a given book shall exist—is in direct proportion to the immaturity of the culture that tolerates him or thinks him necessary.

• • •

Why is he necessary? Do we not trust ourselves? Are we so much weaker than he that we cannot exercise in our own right the fuctions of censure and disapproval? Presumably he thinks that we can be corrupted or subverted but that he cannot.

It has never been recorded, I believe, that any censor thought he had been hurt by what he read.

Indeed I have never encountered anybody who thought this. And the most responsible studies that have been made of the matter produces no evidence that any human being, old or young, did a certain thing because he read a certain book. You might suppose there were cases of juvenile delinquents whose misdeeds could be traced to such a source; but no student in the field has done the tracing.

Juvenile delinquents, for one thing, seldom read; which may be one of the reasons that they are juvenile delinquents; but even if they did read all the time, there are those who say that nothing could be concluded from the titles they devoured. There is a weakness in them somewhere, but what is its cause? The censor has too easy an answer to this question.

• • •

Who else thinks children are weak? Who thinks I am? I have many imperfections that I suppose I shall have to account for some day, but it would never occur to me to blame them on the bad books I have read. Or if it did, the Recording Angel would smile as he took my testimony. He is a better psychologist than that.

An insane reader of an editorial in the New York Times might conceivably do violence to a public personage whom the editorial criticized. And who but another insane man would suggest that the Times be suppressed? The insanity of the reader was surely the material point. If any of us worried lest something we wrote might be misread we should never write again.

The late Judge Jerome Frank, to a recent opinion of whose I am indebted for this detail, remarked in the same opinion that Thomas Jefferson and Stuart Mill were concerned, as perhaps too many persons now are not, lest censorhip of morals lead to censorship of political opinions. Censorship itself, both of those men observed, has a way of spreading. It is an infection, and as such can travel fast.

There are always plenty of people who want such work to do, just as there can be plenty of people who without much reflection agree that it ought to be done—to others, naturally, not to themselves. The responsibility of the most intelligent among us is to restate the danger in every generation. It was stated in 1939 by President Franklin D. Roosevelt on the occasion of the dedication of the Museum of Modern Art in New York. These were his words:

"The arts cannot thrive except where men are free to be themselves and to be in charge of the discipline of their own energies and ardors. The conditions for democracy and for art are one and the same. What we can liberty in politics results in freedom of the arts". Judge Frank, quoting President Roosevelt, added this observation: "The converse is also true.

• • •

Perhaps the greatest danger is that we shall make concession to the censor by drawing a line beyond which he can kill what books he likes. There are books that we ourselves abhor, and we may think it safe to ignore what happens to them. But such a line—in politics, too — can suddenly move closer to us than is altogether comfortable; and then it can move past us so that we too are in the valley of dead bones. In our own interest, if in no one else's, we should defend even the books we despise; defend not their quality, of course, but their sheer right to exist. somewhat in the spirt of Voltaire's determination to defend the speakers of opinions he detested.

When the worst man is not free, the best man is not either. So with works of art, and so with ideas. Any loss of freedom diminishes our own; and diminishes too the democratic functions of censure and disapproval.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOD REVEALS HIS TRUTH

Several times in his epistles we find St. Paul testifying to the fact that he received his gospel not from men but from God Himself. In all his writing Paul maintains that the gospel is not his opinion of divine things or any man's theory, but the truth which God has definitely imparted to certain of His servants, including Paul himself, by miraculous means.

Revelation is God's disclosure of truth to man. In some cases it is the slow dawning of certain truths to the human mind under the power of the Holy Spirit. In the cases of some of the early disciples, we believe that it was something more direct than that. In order to make clear to all mankind that body of truth known as His gospel, God revealed himself to many in the early Church with a directness practically unknown in later generations. Unusual situations called for unusual manifestations of truth.

The practical value of revelation is that it undergirds our faith with certainty. Christianity has called forth the faith of unnumbered millions because they have believed that the teachings of the New Testament constitute God's message to mankind. They believe that it sets forth the plan which God has made for man's redemption.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE STRANGER

I wonder why we look upon a Stranger as we do, for a few moments might suddenly transform him into a friend. How many are the friends we have that we didn't have in many of the years long ago. I go over the names of friends who have meant so much to me, and how thankful I am that so many Strangers have been made over into friends. Perhaps it all started in a chance meeting on a train, ship, or at a social gathering. No matter, just so long as the Stranger became a friend!. There are sections of the country where people seem to be so much more friendly — especially in the South and West. You feel at home where none seem to act like Strangers.

How quickly we react to a newly introduced person! I like that line "from Stranger to Friend." Most of our friends come about in this way. From then on what a fascinating experience! Many of these former Strangers follow with us to the end of the trail, and they are like lamps along the highway showing us the way to go.

If Nations were not Strangers with others, to the degree that they are, the story of international relations might be far different, and much happier. All Nations should be the best of friends. It is to the interest of all to be just that at least. Under genuine peace all nations live, prosper and are happy — no longer enemies.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SECOND WAVE OF ASIAN FLU PREDICTED THIS SPRING

There is a good chance that we will have a second wave of Asian flu. A third wave would be problematical, but possible. It could happen, and if it does, look out! But let's not worry about the third wave, if any, until after a second wave has visited us.

My personal suspicion is that we will have that second wave. If I'm wrong, I will accept the failure with becoming humility, since I don't want another one. I just think we may have it.

If it comes, my guess would be that it would be this spring. We had an unusually mild autumn. The winter speaks for itself. If we have a brawling, uncertain springtime, and if the Asian flu sneaks up on us, it may come in a somewhat more virulent garb. It may strike fewer people, but it may strike its victims harder. Much harder.

Should this occur, it's a foregone conclusion in my book that there will be a shortage of vaccine. There always is — when trouble is obviously present. It was the same way with polio vaccine. In winter, when there wasn't much polio, you couldn't give the vaccine away, even though that was the time to take it, so the immunity would be built up by the time polio was active. And when we were in the midst of the polio season, and it was too late to give the vaccine with any assurance that it could do its good work in time, people were begging for it, demanding it. That's human nature!

So, as I said, I don't know that we'll have another wave of flu, but reading and listening to some learned essays on the topic, and some research work that I did some years ago, all convince me that we might have it.

HAVE A SHOT

What should one do about it? Well, if I had a visit to my doctor coming up, or even if I just thought it was about time for a checkup anyway, I'd tell my physician that I'd like to have a flu shot at the time. If I'd already, had one shot last fall then I'd have a second shot. A single dose lasts only a few months (maybe five or six) anyway. Besides, if some of the immunity remains, a second shot will be a very effective booster, and the booster raises immunity considerably beyond the original level.

And what if we don't have a second wave of flu? In that case, you're submitted to the extra puncture in the arm for nothing, and I give you permission to rail at me and my advice. After all, sticks and stones may break my bones, but the flu can make you sicker than anything.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I read about alcoholics over and over in your column. I am sure I can be helped if I can get someone to tell me what to do, and where to go for help. I've been an alcoholic for 15 years and can't do anything about it. I never tried very hard before but now I got to get over it, because I do too much harm to my wife and kids. Help me or tell me where to go for help. — B.J., age 49."

When you want to do something and admit that you can't do it by yourself, you have reached the stage that has sent thousands of men (and women) to Alcoholics Anonymous. To find the nearest club, look up Alcoholics Anonymous in the phone book. They'll tell you where to go. There are over 4,500 such groups, and they don't ask how rich or poor you are, or anything else except, "Can we help you?"

"Dear Dr. Molner: It is possible a reputable physician would tell a patient that a case of bleeding piles is so minor that it requires no treatment? — Mrs. J. G."

Yes, this is posible, because in some instances there may be some minor bleeding yet the engorged veins are not large enough to warrant surgery. If by "treatment" you mean surgery. On the other hand there isn't any case of piles that is too minor to warrant having the patient take reasonable steps to avoid constipation.

Arabs Again Gain Syria

New York Times

"Farewell, O Syria, and what an excellent country this is for the enemy!" said Heraclius, the Eastern Roman Emperor.

He had abandoned all hope of holding the rich province which Pompey had added to the Roman Empire seven hundred years before. The enemy which had taken over the "excellent country" was the Arab host advancing northward from the deserts of Arabia. Heraclius had just rescued the Roman heritage from the hands of the Persian conqueror but he could not hold it. He was fighting off Bulgars, Slavs and Ayars in the north and west while Persians and Arabs were attacking from the east and south. So the Arabs took the ancient city of Damascus and overran Syria and Palestine.

In fact, the Arabs were overrunning everything in the Middle East at this point in the seventh century. Gibbon notes in "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" that the Arab sweep came at a time when the old powers of the East and new powers of the West were at their weakest.

"The birth of Mohammed," he says, "was fortunately placed in the most degenerate and disorderly period of the Persians, the Romans and the barbarians of Europe: the empire of Trajan, or even of Constantine or Charlemagne would have repelled the assault of the naked Saracens, and the torrent of fanaticism might have been obscurely lost in the sands of Arabia."

There was then no power to stop the Arabs who within a century of the death of the Prophet extended the Arab dominions from India across Africa to the Atlantic and the Pryenees and took captive such famous ancient lands as Persia, Syria, Egypt, Africa and Spain. But the Arabs in desperate assaults were never able to take Constantinople, which even m its weakened state was still too strong for them.

Damascus soon became the capital of this Moslem empire, which was greater in extent than the Roman Empire at its peak. Soon after Syria the same Arab armies conquered Egypt. They worked their way across North Africa, into Spain and into France. The tide was not turned back until it had reached the Loire. It was Charles Martel, founder of the Carolingian power, who finally stopped the Arabs' push — lending force to Gibbon's conjecture that any one of the great powers of the past or Charlemagne himself could have called a halt on the Arabs and turned them back to the sands of Arabia.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

A colorful 'going up" ceremony was held Wednesday night by the 2nd Belleville group in Christ Church Parish Hall. Six Cubs, two Scouts and one Rover took a step upward in the Scouting ladder in an impressive ceremony which was witnessed by members of the Local Association, district headquarters and others.

Cubs who left the care of Akela Mrs. Margaret Kemp and entered the troop under the leadership of Scouter Lionel Blaker were Bill Gibson, Bill Elliott, David Livingstone, Neil Miles, Jack Colwill and Laurie Rowbotham. Bill Gibson, David Livingstone, Neil Miles and Laurie Rowbotham are qualified to wear the Leaping Wolf badge Scouts Ted Blaker and Tony Wright entered the Rover crew, and Rover Richard Rowbotham was presented to the group committee.

Before the "going up" ceremonies, Cubs, Scouts and Rovers conducted their own opening exercises, following which the Cubs and Scouts each demonstrated a game and the Rovers outlined the aims and objects of Scouting.

The floor plan of the spacious new auditorium in the parish hall was so arranged that all spectators had a good view of the proceedings. The Cubs formed a circle at the east end of the hall, flanked by colorful streamers. The Scouts formed a semi-circle immediately to the west of the Cubs and the Rovers, separated from the Scouts by colored streamers, formed in a semi-circle at the west end. Group committee members and the Ladies' Auxiliary were seated next to the Rover formation, while parents and other guests sat at the north end of the auditorium.

Among the guests were William Munro, chairman of the group committee, C. F. Leggat, president of the Local Association, the Rev. E. P. Smith, assistant minister of Christ Church who represented the group chaplain, Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, District Commissioner Phil Allcorn, District Scoutmaster Harry Smith, Assistant District Commissioner for Scouts, Les Boyle, Rover leader, Don Hickson, the president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, Mrs. Edna Wright, assistant Cubmasters Dr. Joan Bronskill, Mrs. Betty Gibson and Terry Marson, D. S. M. Norm Roberts.

The new Scouts and Rovers were appropriately welcomed by their new leaders and Rover Rowbotham was greeted by members of the group committee

At the completion of the ceremonies, Scouts, Cubs, Rovers, leaders and guests formed a circle, knelt and sang the Vesper song.

Refreshments were served by the Ladies' Auxiliary under the supervision of Mrs. Wright.

Last Wednesday evening, in a most impressive ceremony, Cubs Barry Athey, Bill Fisher and Bobby Hobbs graduated from the 1st Belleville Cub pack.

Akela Betty Smith and her assistant leader, Mrs. Jean Smith and Mrs. Dorothy Ward, bid the boys goodbye and wished them "Good Scouting". Some 22 cubs then participated in a final grand howl for the three cubs with whom they had shared so many adventures.

Troop Leader Dick Fuke escorted the boys across "No Man's Land" in 10 steps stopping at each step to recite with the boys one part of the Scout Law.

Scoutmaster Orville Summers welcomed the boys and pointed out the proud record of 1st Belleville Scout troop which he knew they would endeavor to uphold.

The Akela and her pack were then invited to assist in the closing ceremonies consisting of the Lord's Prayer and the Vesper song sung softly as the Union Jack slowly descended to mark the end of the "Going Up" ceremony.

After a short break Barry Athey was formally invested as a Scout. With his hand on the troop flag he recited the scout promise. He then received his Boy Scout badge, Ontario badge, patrol shoulder knots, hats and staff. Scoutmaster Summers was assisted by the A.S.M. Art Fort and patrol leader Jim Morton. Scout Athey then exchanged salutes with the troop. As he was assigned and led to his new patrol Scoutmaster Summers reminded the boys that they were to be brother scouts to the new scout and the other two recruits who would be invested at the next troop meeting.

Three rousing cheers were led by Troop Leader Dick Fuke followed by a splendid sing-song directed by A.S.M. Art Fort in which cubs and scouts all joined in one big circle.

Headquarters staff was represented by district commissioner Phil Allcorn, A.D.C. Harry Smith, A.D.C. Les Boyle, D.S.M. Norm Roberts. Also present were parents of some of the boys and several visitors.

Refreshments were served to all to complete a very happy and memorable evening.

Education Costs Will Rise Dr. Goldring Tells Educators At Opening of Week in Ont.

Education Week, 1958, got under way in this city Sunday night with a prediction by Dr. C. C. Goldring, chairman of the Education Committee of Metropolitan Toronto and a senior official of the Toronto Board of Education, that the cost of education would continue to rise. He spoke to an audience of educators and others interested in education following the official opening of Education Week by Dr. C. F. Cannon, Deputy Minister of Education for Ontario.

Dr. Goldring concentrated on the critical need for more and better trained teachers, for smaller classes and more school buildings. "Back of these requirements," he said, "is the cold, hard fact that greatly increased budgets are necessary to produce better schools."

Canadians, he said, do not spend as high a percentage of their national income on education as such countries as England, United States and Russia. There is little probability of educational costs decreasing. The reverse, he thought, would be the case. "This increased cost must be regarded as part of the price we pay for maintaining individual freedom and preserving our way of life and thought."

Dr. Goldring pointed out the great improvements in educational systems in many European and Asiatic countries in the past ten or fifteen years. He said Canada must improve to a corresponding degree to maintain its relative position.

More and better trained teachers are the first requirement, Dr. Goldring said. He cited a Dominion Bureau of Statistics report which indicated that 25,250 of Canada's 123,200 teachers possess less than the desirable minimum amount of education and training. In the period 1955 to 1964 estimates are that Canadian elementary school enrolment will increase by 32.9% and secondary school enrolment by 60%. This means that to meet requirements in 1964 Canada will require to train 230,000 more teachers.

Dr. Goldring commented on recent references to the need for more scientists. Scientists alone, he said, will not lead to the salvation of Canada. "We need men of wisdom and men of vision. As well as scientists, we need men who will be intellectually, spiritually and morally capable of dealing with the complex problems Canada will probably face in the future." These problems would include the maintenance of our industrial and commercial life, the preservation of our ideals, skill in leadership and in international affairs.

Pointing out that talented children were "one of our greatest natural resources," the speaker thought Canadians should search more diligently for gifted children and educate them more adequately than has been done in the past. He cautioned against thinking of public education as a contest to select a winner and then "shower upon him all the benefits we can."

"Public education is—a process to help each child to realize his potentialities and to develop his talents to the fullest." Dr. Goldring commended the introduction of a Provincial Bill to provide financial assistance to high school graduates for further education.

Summarizing his remarks, the speaker thought that "the Ontario educational system has served this province well." He stressed however that there are conditions, associated primarily with the lack of money, that have brought into existence the pressing needs concerning teachers, classes and classrooms. Recent attempts, he said, to provide scholarships through gifts from interested organizations is a dangerous substitute for the provision of funds by means of adequate taxation.

February One Of Coldest in Last 8 Years

Those amateur weather prognosticators whose early season predictions called for an open winter were caught up short during February, which was more winter-like than for any comparable period in the past eight years.

For instance the thermometer never did get above 40 degrees and the official low at the Trent Road filtration plant was a chilly 11 degrees below zero. Mean temperature for the month was 16 degrees.

In comparison the February temperature a year ago-gave a high of 50 degrees with a low of three degrees and a mean reading of 25.

And in addition to the cold weather last month saw 30.2 inches of snow and 1.15 inch of rain for a total precipitation of 4.17 inches. A year ago there was 1.47 inch of rain and 5.5 inches of snow for a total precipitation of 2.02 inch.

The last year which saw a much heavier February snowfall as last month was in 1950 when 39.6 inches fell over the Quinte district. Total precipitation in February that year was 4.32 inches while the mean temperature was 18—just two points higher than last month.

CAPTIVE BLIMP HAS BRIEF PERIOD OF FREEDOM

U.S. navy blimp grounded a year ago for experimental work broke loose from its mooring at Lakehurst, N.J. and returned to the sky for a brief, solo flight. The 300-foot lighter-than-air craft became a runaway while two sailors were on watch in its gondola. They leaped to safety. The blimp was sighted sprawled on the ground by the pilot of a navy helicopter, only three miles southwest of the mooring mast where its escapade had begun. It was completely deflated. Its helium-filled bag had apparently been punctured by a tree branch in its low-flying voyage.

Prankster Makes Bomb Threat Against P.M.

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, speaking in a crowded auditorium in which a woman said two bombs were scheduled to go off, asked Canadians Saturday night to judge his Progressive Conservative government on its record.

The bomb scare came 35 minutes before the meeting was held. A woman called police and said two bombs had been placed in the Saint John high school where the prime minister was to speak. Police searched and found nothing and Chief J. J. Oakes said "I'm convinced it was a prankster."

However, police kept a close watch on the building as Mr. Diefenbaker told the 1,500 people that "We promised and we performed." He reviewed his government's accomplishments and asked the voters to judge his party on its record.

When Mr. Diefenbaker returned to his hotel room a uniformed policeman took up a position outside the prime minister's room and kept a watch during the night. Chief Oakes said this was "a common courtesy" and was not connected with the bomb threat.

MARITIME TOUR ENDS

For Mr. Diefenbaker, it was the wind-up of a three-day campaign tour of the Maritimes and his speech—with some variations—followed the pattern of earlier addresses at Charlottetown and Sydney. He was to speak today at Chicoutimi, Que.

He charged the Liberal party with making belated promises to the Maritimes after ignoring the area during 22 years in power at Ottawa.

And he listed the steps he said his government has taken to carry out its promises of last year's election through greater fiscal aid, federal backing for power expansion, and subsidies on Maritime coal used to produce that power.

The prime minister dropped a hint of a new promise. He said his government is considering improvements to the Maritime Freight Rates Act, legislated in 1927 to give the Maritime provinces below average freight rates on goods moving between this area and central Canada.

The Maritimes have claimed that successive general freight rate increases have lessened the original benefits.

Pearson Opposes Closing Door On Immigrants

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson says he is opposed to a "closed-door" policy on Canadian immigration

And while he was a strong believer in a "Canada first" policy on national development, he did not believe that Canada should try to go it alone, working out her destiny aloof from her friends in the Commonwealth and the United States.

He told some 850 persons in a Medicine Hat theatre hall Saturday that if he became prime minister, he would work for closer relations with Canada's friends abroad.

It was true, he said, that the U.S. had given Canada "some cause for irritation" and that Canada should stand up to the Americans, but Canadians had to remember that without the U.S., without her power and strength, the future for Canada would be a "lot more anxious" than it is at present.

As for immigration, he emphasized that Canada needed more population and she could not get this "without a liberal immigration policy." Canada last year brought in about 200,000 immigrants — an unusually high number—and perhaps it was time for a slowdown in the flow but not a "closed door which would be to our own disadvantage." Mr. Pearson said.

Tories Desire Docile Majority Says Coldwell

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — National CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell voiced strong criticism of majority party handling of a wide range of issues Saturday night and called the March 31 election "one of the most unnecessary I've ever known."

"What the Tories want is a docile majority—the same Liberals had for 30 years," the 69-year-old leader told an audience of 400 here.

He said he considered the late government an "excellent one." and said pre-election promises would mean little once the Conservatives obtained a clear majority."

"What we need is a government and Parliament that will forward legislation for the good of all—not for the benefit of a few."

Speaking of unemployment, Mr. Coldwell said he "wouldn't be a bit surprised" if there were 700,000 Canadians out of work by the end of March.

"The government has done nothing to prepare for this," he warned," except advocate northern roads and picnic grounds."

NOMINATION DAY

The Progressive Conservatives have completed their nominations in five provinces—Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. They have one to go in New Brunswick, one in British Columbia, three in Nova Scotia, four in Ontario and five in Quebec.

LIBERAL SITUATION

The Liberals have full slates in Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. They have one vacancy in each of New Brunswick, Alberta and British Columbia ,two in Quebec and six in Ontario.

Largest CCF entry is in Ontario where it has 57 candidates compared with its final total of 60 in 1957. It has full rosters in Saskatchewan and British Columbia. It has one vacancy in Manitoba and three in Alberta. It has nominated 16 in Quebec and two in Nova Scotia and one in New Brunswick.

Social Credit has a full slate of 17 nominees in Alberta and candidates in 20 of B.C.'s 22 seats. In Ontario, where it fielded 39 unsuccessfully last year, it has 13 entries so far. It also has 13 in Quebec, where it had four in 1957.

The 21 seats with nominations today comprise five in Newfoundland, two in Quebec, three in Ontario, one in Manitoba, three in Saskatchewan, three in Alberta, two in British Columbia, Yukon and Mackenzie River in the Northwest Territories.

PARTY LEADERS

Two party leaders are in today's field—Prime Minister Diefenbaker in Prince Albert and Solon Low, Social Credit, in Peace River.

Mr. Diefenbaker faces opposition from Liberal and CCF candidates. The Progressive Conservatives, Liberals and CCF have all named candidates in Peace River

The roster also includes a former Liberal cabinet minister, J. W. Pickersgill in Bonavista-Twillingate, and a former Liberal parliamentary assistant, William Benidickson in Kenora - Rainy River where official Liberal candidates are known as Liberal-Labor.

A name familiar in Canadian elections since 1935 is missing in Port Arthur — former Liberal cabinet minister C. D. Howe who was beaten by Douglas Fisher, CCF, last June 10. The Liberal nominee is Dr. E. V. Anten.

To qualify the candidates file their nomination papers and pay $200 deposits which are forfeited if they poll less than half the vote of the winning candidate on election day. In 1957, 21 of the 62 candidates in the 21 seats with early nominations lost their deposits.

Following are constituencies where nominations close today:

Newfoundland: Bonavista-Twillingate, Burin - Burgeo, Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador, Humber-Ste. George's, Trinity - Conception.

Quebec: Chapleau, Saguenay.

Ontario: Cochrane, Kenora-Rainy River, Port Arthur.

Manitoba: Churchill.

Saskatchewan: Mackenzie, Meadow Lake, Prince Albert.

Alberta: Athabaska, Jasper-Edson, Peace River.

British Columbia: Cariboo, Skeena.

Yukon and Northwest Territories: Yukon, Mackenzie River.

Education Week

Vocal Music in Public Schools

Editor's note: This being Education Week, The Ontario Intelligencer is following its customary practice of presenting a series of articles by local educationists on various topics connected with their vitally important field of endeavor.

By MISS F. MAY

Children need music to grow on—music which they can take to their hearts and make part of their lives. The child's aptitude and taste for music will be influenced favorably or unfavorably by the quality and quantity of music to which he is exposed. Children who have had opportunity to hear much good music during the preschool period react readily and favorably to tonal and rhythmic stimuli when entering school.

The program of music in our schools has two main aims—to teach our children to appreciate good music and to teach them to participate in the production of good music.

Many children are unable to sing in tune when they enter school. Unless a child has a physical disability he can be taught to sing reasonably well in tune with a group. The first concern of the teacher is to teach every child to sing. Once he has found his singing voice, he is ready to learn songs and this constant building of his song repertoire continues throughout his school life.

Ability to read music at sight is the key which unlocks the door to future participation in the art. This is a skill which is not reserved for the talented few, but can be acquired by any normal person, just as a second language is mastered. The teacher of music begins laying the foundation for sight singing as early as Grade I. Formal sight reading from books begins in Grade III.

The supervisor and classroom teacher are necessarily responsible for the care of the singing voice of the child. Children inevitably form vocal habits, good or bad, which carry into adult life. Habits of posture, breathing, diction, phrasing and tone production acquired in childhood improve or mar the adult voice.

Two-part singing is deferred until the pupil has formed safe vocal habits and is able to read and sing one-part music with comparative facility. No normal child is allowed nor required to sing one-part exclusively, although all learn to sing a second-part. Great care is taken to keep all parts within the vocal capability of the child voice, and that the tone is never forced or chesty.

Since the boy's voice changes at adolescence it is necessary at this point to definitely classify the voice. The generally accepted theory is that, if properly produced, the boy's voice gradually descends. He loses his top tones and adds new ones at the bottom, passing through the approximate range of alto-tenor and baritone before definitely settling into a man's voice. These terms are used because it must not be supposed that they mean quite the same as a mature tenor or bass. In Grade VIIII it is possible to sing four-part harmony, with range restricted to accommodate the changing voice. Sight reading is transferred to the bass clef for the boys, though all pupils are equally familiar with both clefs.

Through the teaching of Music Appreciation we hope to acquaint children with some of our rich heritage of musical history and legend, to make great musicians live for them, and to familiarize them with musical instruments.

Our school libraries contain excellent sets of recordings complete with course of instruction, compiled by the Department of Education.

Our purpose in music education is to teach our children not only to listen intelligently and pleasurably, and to read and explore music independently, but also that our children in turn may, by their performance, give pleasure to others.

Y Girls Engage In Gymnastics

The regular gym class sessions for the junior and intermediate girls took on the air of a formal competition with 80 entries in the gymnastic events. The events in the competition were tumbling, trampoline and pommel horse vaulting. The contestants were judged out of 100 points on their optional routine.

The top award winners in the junior group are Elizabeth Corke with a first and two seconds 11 points. In second place are Susan Parker and Helen Davis with 5 points. In third place are Mary Jean Deacon and Fay Courtemanche 3 points.

Others placing are:

Tumbling — Elizabeth Corke 80, Mary Jean Deacon 78, tied Marie Anne Taylor 75, Sharon Gariepy 75.

Pommel Horse — Susan Parker 80, Elizabeth Corke 75, tied Betty Else 74 points, Moira McLaughlin 74.

Trampoline 1 — Helen Davis 73, tied Elizabeth Corke 72, Fay Courtemanche 72, 3 tied Victoria Wheeler, Pat Matthews.

Th top winners in the intermediate group are: first Elizabeth Linscott with a first, second and a third, Susan Skelley with a first and two thirds, Patti Bradford with first and third and Glenys Dickey with two seconds.

Others placing first, second and third in tumbling, Susan Skelley 89, Glenys Dickey 88, Elizabeth Linscott 84; trampoline, Patti Bradford 88, Elizabeth Linscott 83, Susan Skelley 80; pommel horse, Elizabeth Linscott 93, Glenys Dickey 86, Helen Walsh 85, Patti Bradford 85, Susan Skelley 85.

Judges for the competition were Miss J. Zigler, Miss Carolyn Daniels, Mr. B. Sererciv, Mr. J. Peoples. Scorers were Mrs. T. Wheeler and Mr. R. Blaker. This brought the number of entries in gymnastic for boys and girls for this season to 278 which is a new record for the YMCA.

Girls' Work Board Meets

The Girls' Work Board of Belleville together with the C.G.I.T. leaders from three denominations, Baptist, Presbyterian and United Churches, met at Bridge Street United Church Tuesday evening for a planned pot-luck supper. Conveners were: Mrs. R.E. Ellis and Mrs. L. E. Uens.

The occasion was the coming of Miss Marion Banks, Ontario Girls' Work secretary, as inspirational speaker and to discuss local problems.

Miss Banks stressed that the C.G.I.T. program did not use outworn methods in its approach to the needs of teen-age girls but those based on modern research; the project method now in general use in the public school system was first used in religious education. It was a creative and adjustable program designed to help each girl develop a wholesome Christian personality.

Information given by Miss Banks included the availability of a correspondence course of nine lessons which would provide adequate preparation for inexperienced C.G.I.T. leaders and also that a C.G.I.T. Leadership Training Course would be given at Camp Meramichi from June 30th to July 9th.

All the churches were well represented. At the head table with Miss Banks were: Mrs. S. Campbell, chairman of the Girls' Work Board of Belleville; Miss Thelma Schlievert, chairman of Leadership Training, and Miss Margaret Hillis.

Mirs Banks was introduced by Mrs. Campbell and thanked by Miss Hillis.

Junior Red Cross Aids 17 Foreign Lands

A helping hand to youth in 17 foreign lands was extended last year by Canadian children through their Canadian Junior Red Cross. According to a year-end report released today this assistance for international help and understanding is valued at $56,357.66.

The funds to support this aid were raised by the Juniors through their various projects and also represents their contributions of pennies, nickels and dimes to their classroom branches.

The Canadian Junior Red Cross has 1,272,070 members enrolled in 39,406 elementary and high schools in every province.

Grants totalling $22,241.36 were given to Junior Red Cross sections in Austria, Yugoslavia, Germany, Ceylon, Korea and Poland to assist various self-help projects established by the Canadian Junior Red Cross in those nations.

VACATION SITE

One of these projects is at Castle Wolfsgarten near Frankfort, Germany. Every year a portion of the estate is turned over to the German Junior Red Cross for three months to provide three-week vacations for crippled and handicapped children. The grant provides for the teaching of occupational therapy to the children. An album showing the work accomplished by the children last summer is now on a tour of Canada.

Another self-help grant is a special adoption project of the high school councils of Brantford, Regina, Toronto, Montreal and St. John's. A grant of $5,000 for Korea purchased microscopes and other laboratory material.

A special project of the Montreal Inter-High School Council was the provision of sewing machines and carpentry tools for youth in Ceylon.

Gift shipments, valued at $34,116.30, were sent to Austria, Ceylon, Cyprus, Ecuador, England, Ethiopia, Gaza, Haiti, Hungary, Korea, Lebanon, North Borneo and South Vietnam. The shipments contained 12,162 health kits, 20,030 miscellaneous health supplies, 21,889 school supplies, 5,118 children's garments, 3,843 baby garments, 230 layettes, 502 afghans and quilts and 4,015 toys. All of these articles were produced and packed by members of the Junior Red Cross.

UPLAND, Calif. (AP) — Two small civilian planes collided over this Los Angeles suburb and crashed in a lemon grove Saturday, killing four persons.

Girl Guides, Brownies Hold Attractive and Successful Tea

A most successful Girl Guide and Brownie tea was held recently in Bridge Street United Church Sunday School auditorium, which was attractively decorated in the blue and gold Guide colors, which also flanked the picture of the Queen, centering the platform alcove.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. D. Stewart, president of the local Association of Girl Guides and Brownies; Mrs. T. W. Spier, the area commissioner, and Mrs. D. G. Diamantides, the new commissioner of the Belleville area.

ATTRACTIVE TEA ROOM

This attractive room was even more attractive with its pretty tea table, appointed with a linen, cutwork cloth, and centred by a silver bowl of yellow daffodils, blue irises, yellow snapdragons and gleaming British Columbia huckleberry sprays. Tall blue candles in silver candelabra completed a pretty setting and emphasized the Guide color theme.

Presiding at the silver services were Mrs. (Dr.) Branscombe and Mrs. R. D. Arnott, a former commissioner; Mrs. Leo Riggs, Mrs. W. Watson and Mrs. M. C. Ryan.

The tea room hostesses included Commissioners, Mrs. R. Settle, Mrs. H. T. Floyd and Mrs. J. Kuntze, who graciously escorted the guests to the gayly appointed tables. Those who served were Mesdames Juby, Horwood, Ellis, Gerow, Watkin, Beirne, Gist, Atkins, Brunt, Steenburg, Pringle, Walker, Lane, Crabtree, Shantz, Munro, Cleary, Ineson, Campbell, McQuaid and Huffman, while Mesdames Gilchrist, Hamilton, McLaughlin, Sweet, Lamb, Miles, Fewtrell, Davis, Miller, Gowsell and Gariepy were in charge of preparing the tea plates.

Mrs. J. Walsh and Mrs. O'Connor Murphy had charge of the kitchen, and Mrs. R. W. Savage and Mrs. A. S. VanStone, of the tea making.

TEMPTING CONFECTIONS

A homebaking table was laden with all manner of tempting confections, which soon disappeared to eager purchasers. Amid the brown and yellow streamers and little Brownie elves were mouth-watering cookies, cakes, pies, buns and a host of others. Convening this were Mesdames Walsh, Trepanier, assisted by Mesdames Craig, Peverley, Maund, Lewis, McKenna, Scott, Flindall, Alyea, Robertson and Staples.

The candy booth, with its blue and gold trimmings, was a "sweep spot" of maple creams, chocolate fudge, divinity, and others, all attractively displayed. In charge were Mesdames Punchard and Dustin, assisted by Mesdames Pringle, Clarke, Poste, Matthews and Jones.

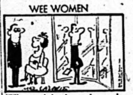
That there might be a carefree time for the visiting mothers and their little ones, a nursery was provided where the tiny tots were under the kindly supervision of Mrs. Janitsch, Mrs. T. C. Young, Mrs. C. A. Kaiser and Mrs. Wood.

Convening the tickets for the tea were Mrs. F. Benson and Mrs. B. Burley, with the treasurers, Mrs. A. Wynne and Mrs. F. Benson.

To the overall conveners, Mrs. William Sl de and Mrs. E Dyble, goes a "well do for a most attractive and most successful tea.

The announcement of the appointment of Mrs. D. G. Diamantides as Division Commissioner for Belleville area was made by Mrs. T. W. Spier of Trenton, Commissioner of the Quinte area.

WEE WOMEN



"Those triple-view mirrors deflate John for a week!"

Ex-Debutante Working as Garage Hand

LONDON (Reuters) — A beautiful ex-debutante with a yen for adventure explained Sunday why she is working as a £6-a-week garage hand.

Wiping her oil-smudged face, 18-year-old Allison Seebohm said: "I need the money to finance a horseback trek from Alaska to Mexico."

The long-legged beauty, who did a spell as a model, has joined the growing list of cash-short aristocrats earning their own bread and butter.

Miss Seebohm, niece of a knight and an earl, looked at home in the form-fitting coveralls she wore while washing down automobiles in a London garage.

"I got so bored sitting around doing nothing—and I didn't like modelling," she said. "So I decided to get away from it all."

Leaving the salons of the smart young set behind, she tried earning money the hard way—scrubbing floors, cleaning windows, working at a candy counter and waiting at a London coffee bar.

This put her in the running with such society girls as a niece of the queen who worked as a sales girl and a titled woman became a cook.

Miss Seebohm said none of her distinguished relatives knew about the various jobs she had tried.

"I don't know what they would say," she grinned.

She Found It Difficult to Get Cab to Go to Buckingham Palace

MONTREAL (CP) — Skeptical taxi drivers made Mrs. Lilias Torrance Newton hesitant to leave Buckingham Palace when she resided there for four months recently while painting portraits of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

"When I wanted to return after going out, it usually took a lot of persuading before I'd get a cab driver to take me to the palace," she said in an interview. "One driver looked at me suspiciously and said the last woman who wanted to be taken to the palace was crazy."

Mrs. Newton, a Montrealer, was commissioned by the Canadian government to paint the portraits to hang in Ottawa's Rideau Hall.

CHOSE WARDROBE

She did the work in one-hour sittings, but said she was not supposed to disclose how many sittings it took, or whether a stand-in was used at any time, as in the case of the Princess Margaret portrait that caused a stir in London recently.

Mrs. Newton chose the Queen's wardrobe for the portrait, including a yellow dress and a diadem with a small Maltese Cross.

"The Queen wore the same clothes for every sitting and I kept the dress and jewelry in my studio at the palace whenever I wished," she said.

Prince Charles and Princess Anne often wandered into the studio while their mother was sitting.

Mrs. Newton said they were both "charming" children.

"The young prince likes painting, and he loved watching and putting the caps on the tubes of paint."

FRIENDLY SITTINGS

Although the Queen was a "relaxed sitter," Mrs. Newton said she was difficult to paint because "she never looks the same twice."

Mrs. Newton started painting at an early age, and gradually began specializing in portraits and people. Formerly, she did many landscapes.

She said women are generally easier to paint than men, but her favorite subjects are "half-grown children."

While working, she likes to talk with her subject and she said she found the Queen easy to talk to.

"When I was there, she had been making many state trips and we discussed her travels. As sitters, both she and Prince Philip were extremely polite and lenient."

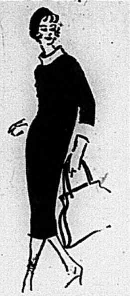
YOUR NEWSPAPER SERVES

The story behind the headlines and the copy in a newspaper is spelled S-E-R-V-I-C-E! This newspaper, and every other paper in the country is a "public service" — it is informative, educational, humanitarian and civic-minded. Dad turns first to the news and editorials; Mom likes fashion stories and recipes; the kids like the comics.

There's something for everybody in every phase of everyday life! Fundamentally, your newspaper serves you with information — whether in the news columns, or in the ads! Truly your paper is a "service centre" . . . the meeting place and the marketplace of the community.

Line of Compromise



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Here is a chemise dress with a compromise feature. The back of the dress has the real chemise effect, while the front has a half belt that ends at the curved seaming. The seaming starts at the shoulders in semicircle lines reaching almost to the outer seams, with matching buttons accenting the line. The dress is of heather - toned woolen with detachable cuffs and collar of white faille.

SPRINGBROOK W.I.

Twenty-two members and one visitor attended the February meeting of Springbrook W. I. at the home of Mrs. F. Cosbey, Borarlaw.

The secretary-treasurer read several letters containing cards of thanks, receipts, appeals and notices.

The provincial W. I. new office is located at 20 Spadina Rd. Toronto, and the district president, Mrs. E. Irvin, is to visit the branch at the March meeting to be held at Mrs. C. Gordanier's home.

DONATION TO BE SENT

It was voted a $10 donation be sent to the Ceylon Flood Relief project.

Mrs. G. McKeown conducted an auction of hand-made articles donated by a member as her talent money. Several others turned in their required amount, and three birthday fees were contributed.

After all singing, "They All Call It Canada" the president moved a vote of thanks to the hostess and turned the meeting over to the home economics convener, Mrs. Simon Matthews.

Mrs. Campney gave an excellent talk on the motto, "No Man is Rich Enough to be Without a Friend." The topic the 'Value of Home Economics in High School' was read by Mrs. Matthews.

Mrs. Harold Stiles demonstrated the making of roses on velvet cushion tops and showed and explained other samples of her winter handicraft.

Mrs. P. Bateman, Mrs. Fred McKeown, and Mrs. Bert McCoy served refreshments.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

ALWAYS A PROBLEM . . . MORNING CEREMONY, EVENING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a problem on which I very much need your help. My son is to be married soon, at a Nuptial Mass at 11 A. M. We are delighted that he and his bride-to-be wish to have the morning Mass. However, the bride's mother wants an evening reception, the reception at six o'clock, followed by a dinner. I have asked her what she will do about the guests who will attend the Mass in the morning, and then would like to attend the reception in the evening. As yet I haven't been given a concrete answer about this.

I have relatives and friends who will be coming from a distance, and if I have to entertain guests in my home from noon or there abouts until 6 o'clock in the evening, I'm sure I'll be wilted by then and I don't see how we can all get back into the mood to attend the evening reception.

Please advise us how we can solve our dilemma. Also, is it good taste or bad taste to arrange a wedding in this manner — ceremony in the morning, reception in evening? — Groom's Mother..

Certaily this is not the traditional way to plan the wedding procedure, not the approved way, because it inevitably creates problems of inconvenience, as in your case. "Reception immediately after the ceremony" is the traditional procedure, and considered the best and most convenient procedure for all concerned. Very often it happens that guests, particularly the ones who come from a distance, decide either to come only to the morning ceremony or only to the evening reception, not knowing how to make plans to fill in the "waiting time" hours between. If you particularly want to have your from-a-distance relatives and friends present both for ceremony and reception you will have to plan to accommodate them at your house (unless other relatives and friends ask to take care of some of them in their homes) provide a substantial late-breakfast or luncheon (at your house or at a nearby restaurant), and also provide for them a place to refresh and dress for the evening reception.

Note: Don't criticize the bride or her family for making this plan . . . don't ask the bride's mother questions that might embarrass . . . don't complain to your son about the plans . . . and make up your mind to contribute every grace you can to this se-important milestone in your son's life. After all, you may have a very happy time entertaining a few relatives and friends for a few hours.

GENEROUS GESTURE TO A KIND MAILMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are planning to go on a vacation soon. We will ask the postal employees as well as our mailman not to deliver our mail while we are away. I'm wondering whether it would be appropriate to give our mailman a gift when we return. He was very kind and kept the mail several days last summer. We know him only as he has to stop once in a while for postage-due or some such circumstance. If you think it would be proper, we would appreciate some suggestions. Thank you! — E. S.

It's a good, generous thought you have for your kind and cooperative mailman . . . and I hope you carry out your plan. I suggest you give him a money-gift and ask him to buy something he'd particularly like to have.

Trencherman's Steak Sandwich

By Mary Moore

Fluctuating between being bold or a craven coward who cringes at criticism, I'm holding back one of the most toothsome ideas for a men's supper ever dreamed up.

It seems extravagant, but I bet if the cash spent on an average supper with dessert were totted up it would equal this.

This is for that annual occasion when your beloved husband invites the boys in, or the boss and his fellow office workers and plays the generous and capable host.

For 8 hungry men, order a 4-pound whole beef tenderloin and slice it into 24 crosswise slices. (Or you could use individual waffled steaks but the flavor doesn't compare.) Order enough French Stick loaves to be able to cut from them 16 lengthwise slices. You will also need large tomatoes and Spanish onions for slicing. Have on hand too, butter, Worcestershire Sauce, celery, coffee, cream and sugar.

Now go out and play bridge with the girls while he prepares it.

If he is a knowing steak cook, he may sprinkle each slice of tenderloin with meat tenderizer on both sides and brush it with Worcestershire Sauce. Then when they are arranged in rows on the broiler pan (he will have to broil them in 2 or 3 instalments) they are broiled abour 4" from the piping hot burner until sizzling on both sides and I hope still bright pink at centre. There are very few steak experts who want a steak cooked through.

Next step is to transfer 3 of these sizzling steaks to each buttered lengthwise slice of French bread. If desired, prepared mustard may be spread on the slices too. Drizzle some pan gravy over each.

With great care, cover with a second buttered slice on which you have arranged 3 big slices of tomato and about 6 rings of Spanish onion, salted and peppered. Serve each on a dinner plate, and when you pass them out, tell the fellows to go along to the living room and sit down quietly to about 10 minutes of heavenly munching.

Then bring on gallons of coffee and listen while it and good talk abound.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Roderick S. — She doesn't want me — why go on together?

Clara S. — He had no right to cheat.

• • •

Roderick S. — My wife and I have been married eight years and have two boys. Shortly after the birth of our second son, my wife said she no longer wanted to have anything to do with me as a man.

I tried to reason with her about this, to no avail. She simply would not discuss it. I let the matter drop, hoping she would change her mind. Nothing happened.

Two years ago I met a widow with two children. I have been going out with her and we have had an affair. I want to divorce my wife She doesn't love me or want me so what is the sense of our living together miserably? But she won't even grant me a divorce.

• • •

Clara S. — What have I to gain by a divorce? I don't want to marry again. It's not that I don't like Rod, but just that I have no interest in being intimate with any man.

I keep a good home and I'm a good mother to my children. I spare no effort in making things comfortable for the family. I feel that I'm doing my share. Rod had no right to go and cheat on me. After all, I'm still his wife and the mother of his children.

I feel that God intended physical relations strictly for the purpose of having children — and I don't want any more children. Rod has admitted to me that he doesn't either. So who is right?

• • •

The Council: There are some moral questions here that Clara should take up at once with her clergyman. She undoubtedly has many confusions, but we suspect that her worst tendency is to confuse God's laws with her own. She can well use advice from more competent interpreters of the divine laws.

On an everyday, common-sense level, Clara shows a false and self-righteous notion of what constitutes "a good home" and good motherhood. We doubt whether a home can be very good if the husband and father feels lonely and dispossessed. We doubt whether a woman who lacks the simple human respect and kindness to remain open to discussion of an important matter can make a very good mother.

We hold no brief for Roderick's "cheating." He was wrong and knows it, but we do suggest that Clara consider her own brand of cheating. This does not merely revolve around the issue of denying her husband physical relations. Clara withholds even the human warmth involved in feeling some concern about her husband's happiness.

Whether or not she realizes it, Clara is a bitterly unhappy woman. Her distorted, self-enclosed notions will grow and make her still more unhappy and she will pass on this wretched heritage to her children unless she does something about herself. In addition to moral guidance, she needs medical help. She should consult her family physician and seek referral to a psychiatrist.

Number of Vanished Vessels Steadily Declines Since Start Of Radio, Navigation Devices

BOSTON (AP) — The sea, that ageless seducer, lures many ships to her murky depths and, consistent with legend, hates to give up her dead.

Take the U.S. Navy supply ship Cyclops.

Bound from Rio de Janeiro to Baltimore with 309 aboard and a cargo of 10,800 tons of manganese, she left Barbadoes, B.W.I., after taking on some coal. She was never heard from again.

That was 40 years ago this week—March 4, 1918.

Despite long and exhaustive searching by the navy department, no trace of the ship or cargo has ever been found.

GHOULS HAVE HOLIDAY

There were theories and suspicions aplenty, bred by the wartime hysteria of the times. And, of course, the ghoulish pranksters had a nautical holiday. Bottles washed up on various shores with notes of sabotage, enemy action and violent storm. Even a faked [illegible] or two showed up, purporting to detail the fate of the Cyclops.

Since the advent of radio and with constant improvement in navigation devices, the number of vanished vessels has steadily declined. But enough still disappear to keep up the sea's air of unfathomable mystery.

The Japanese freighter Raifuku Maru had a radio, one of the first, a spark-gap set that the operator kept at long enough to tap out, "danger like dagger now, come quick," before she disappeared.

Only the wildest guess could even estimate the number of ships that dropped from sight in the days before radio allowed time for a death gasp.

IDENTIFY 200 HULKS

Since 1800, more than 200 wrecks have been identified and charted at a single location in the Atlantic — off Sable Island, often called the "graveyard of the Atlantic."

The treacherous island, low, sandy and roughly 20 miles long and four miles wide, is located about 110 miles southeast of Cape Canso, N.S. Its long reaching shoals are paved with the skeletons of lost ships. The island is inhabited now mainly by wild horses, descended from animals that came ashore from long forgotten shipwrecks.

At least 100 known and a score or more unknown sunken hulls are littered along the Massachusetts coast, occasionally spewing up pieces of china and other cargo during storms.

Many of the ships that disappeared without trace during the era of mass immigration to the United States were loaded to the gunwales with passengers. The City of Glasgow sailed from England in 1854 with 480 passengers bound for Castle Garden, New York's huge immigration centre in the days before Ellis Island. In 1870, the city of Boston embarked from Europe with 200 aboard. Neither was ever heard from again.

FROM OPPOSITE DIRECTION

In the opposite direction, the Pacific sailed from New York in 1856 with 288 aboard and likewise disappeared.

The Portland, a paddlewheel steamer, left Boston, bound for Portland, Maine, in a blizzard Nov. 26, 1898, with 157 aboard. Widely - scattered wreckage turned up from time to time but no hint of where or how she met her end. Her sole survivor was the name she gave to the blizzard: The Portland Gale, as it is still called by old-timers in the area.

Numbered among the missing are many fishing boats and private yachts, none perhaps more notable than the schooner Columbia, a new, swift and beautiful sailing vessel that was expected to represent Gloucester, Mass., in an international fisherman's race with Canada.

The Columbia sailed from her home port in August, 1927, with a crew of 25 aboard, bound for the fishing banks. She was never again reported and is believed to have joined the graveyard fleet off Sable Island, taking with her the largest human toll in New England fishing history.

ADDED TO LIST

In 1897 another Gloucester fishing schooner, the John E. McKenzie, vanished with 18 aboard. The Provincetown schooner Susan Stone, with a crew of 18, met a similar fate in 1897.

Gloucester, with its famed monument to "those who go down to the sea in ships," also could count the Alva, reported missing in 1902 with a toll of 17; the Belle of Boston, brand-new, lost in 1947, with 17, and the Godrun, vanished in 1951 with 17.

One of the sea's most baffling riddles concerns the disappearance of a crew and not a ship. This was the celebrated case of the Mary Celeste, bound from New York to Europe and found abandoned between the Azores and Portugal Dec. 4, 1872.

Much fiction and fantasy has been woven about this famous ghost ship, but she remains to this day as unexplained as the disappearance of the Cyclops.

NOT DISABLED

The Mary Celeste, when found, was not disabled in any way, had ample provisions and water and there was no evidence of fire, explosion, mutiny or piracy. Among the missing were Capt. S. Briggs, his wife, his two-year-old daughter, and a full crew of eight. Also missing was her small boat.

The only clue, if such it can be called, was some evidence of hasty departure. The brig was under short sail, some canvas had been furled and some trailed on the deck. Crew members had left clothing behind, including boots and foul weather gear, and, perhaps significantly, their tobacco pipes. Where did they go? Why did they go?

The sea, sullen and cryptic, has yet to answer.

Labor Unions Want Session After Election

OTTAWA (CP) — Leaders of the Canadian Labor Congress Friday demanded pledges of political party heads for a prompt parliamentary session after the March 31 election to take anti-unemployment measures.

The CLC's executive council adopted a statement to this effect which it said is being sent to leaders of all parties.

It called for this from the political chiefs

"An unequivocal pledge. . .that they will summon Parliament at the earliest possible moment after the March 31 election and put before Parliament in concrete legislative form the proposals they now are making in general terms on election platforms."

"Canada now is experiencing its most serious unemployment crisis since the depression days of the 1930s," the statement said.

CAN'T CHANGE FACT

"No amount of political ping-pong playing with various sets of figures can change the fact that at least one out of every eight workers is without a job."

The council also called for

1. Further relaxation of the so-called "tight money" policy of the Bank of Canada on borrowing.
2. Immediate money votes from Parliament for public works.
3. Provision of funds to subsidize home-building.
4. A federal budget reducing taxes with a view to providing more purchasing power.
5. Bigger and longer payments for unemployment insurance benefits, and increases in old age pensions, family allowances and other social security paymets.
6. The raising of farm purchasing power.

BAN PRESS-ON POLISH

The FDA said "approximately 700 women have complained to the manufacturer and the FDA of injury to their nails after using the product."

Mankind Challenged to Keep Alive Shaw's Dream of Simplified English Language

LONDON (CP)—Britain's public trustee Friday challenged mankind to use its best "ingenuity and skill" to keep alive George Bernard Shaw's dream of a simplified English alphabet.

The challenge came in the form of an official announcement in The Times offering a prize of £500 "for a design of an alphabet of at least 40 leeters" as described in the will of the Irish dramatist, who died in 1950 at the age of 94.

There was an ironic touch to the announcement. Public trustee Reginald P. Baulkwill circulated to newspapers an 800-word document headed "advertisement" announcing terms of the contest.

The official announcement, published in the public notices column of The Times, took up just seven lines.

It was just the sort of thing that would have delighted Shaw whose main complaint against the present 26-letter alphabet is the time wasted in using two or more letters to indicate a single sound.

"For example, he could not reconcile himself to pronouncing "ph" as "f" and once described the word "though," which uses six letters to indicate only two sounds, as a "wild absurdity."

40 LETTERS

Shaw's will provides that the new alphabet shall consist of at least 40 letters enabling the English language to be written without indicating single sounds by groups of letters or by diacritical marks instead of by one symbol for each sound. Of the 40 letters, 16 must be vowel sounds.

Enlarging on this point, the public trustee's office said:

"It is implicit in the will and in Mr. Shaw's writings that the design and adoption of the proposed British alphabet should have as their main objects the saving of labor; but, although the proposed British alphabet is intended to produce a means of writing and printing the English language which will be more economical to the writer's time, of the paper and ink of the printer, and of transport and storage, yet convenience and ease of reading are of importance.

"The alphabet must, therefore be capable of easy reading, writing and printing, and although the form in which the design is prescribed need not be typographically perfected the practical problems of typography will be taken into account in adjudicating the designs submitted."

NO SHORTHAND

As if that did not pose a sufficiently formidable task, the public trustee also said "designs of shorthand codes for verbatim reporting and designs for reforming the existing alphabet by the addition of analogous letters will be disqualified."

All designs must reach the public trustee, Kingsway, London, W.C.2, England, by Jan. 1, 1959. Full particulars of the offer can be obtained by sending a stamped and addressed envelope to the same address.

Shaw's will set a knotty problem for his lawyers to unravel. It took six years of legal wrangling in and out of court before a compromise solution was reached allowing Friday's offer to be made.

The British Museum and the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art which stood to benefit from the residue of Shaw's $1,000,000 estate, objected to the will on the grounds that it was impossible to comply with the alphabet provisions.

The public trustee said a sum of £8,300 has been set aside to further the scheme.

One of Shaw's most fervent pleas for alphabet reform was made in a letter to The Times in December, 1945, when he said if the Phoenician alphabet "were only turned upside down and enlarged by 17 letters from the Greek alphabet it would soon pay for the war."

He said it was "ueseless" to appeal to the education authorities. "They dare not interfere with Dr. Johnson's monumental misspelling, which now is much more sacred than the creed and the catechism . . . What I desiderate as a professional writer is an alternative alphabet which will save the millions of hours of manual labor now wasted in a sort of devil worship of Dr. Johnson."

Gas Price War Being Fought In Three Cities

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A gasoline price war was being fought with varying intensity on three fronts in Southern Ontario last week, but there seemed little chance the price-cutting would spread.

Motorists in Windsor, Toronto and Hamilton had the opportunity to buy gas nearly five cents a gallon below usual prices, but the causes for the cuts apparently were purely local, a Canadian Press survey showed.

In Windsor, more than 25 service stations offered gas at reduced prices Friday. The lowest price reported was 37.9 cents a gallon, while most sold standard gas for 39.9 cents and premium at 40.9. Previous prices were 41.9 cents for standard and 45 cents for premium.

The Toronto and Hamilton wars were apparently touched off by Dominion Motors (Toronto) Limited, a small chain which operates one station in Hamilton, one in Toronto and two in Winnipeg.

The price-cutting has so far affected only standard grades of gas, with premium prices remaining the same.

LETS THEM WALK

TIMMINS (CP) — Joe Martin, school bus driver in nearby Mountjoy Township, quit his job Friday in the middle of a run and let the students walk to school after being hit in the back of the head with a piece of ice. Martin said all winter his passengers smuggled snowballs onto the bus and pelted him after it started.

HAD URGE TO KILL, SHOOTS GIRL FRIEND

Thomas Wallace Cordry, 19-year-old California university student, gave himself up to Palo Alto police by saying: "I killed a girl — she's out in the car." Outside, in Cordry's 1957 convertible, police found the body of Deena Bonn, 17-year-old high school student, with a .22 calibre bullet wound in her right temple. Police said Cordry told them: "I just had the urge. I've had it many times."

Russian Farms To Pay Heavily For Tractors

LONDON (Reuters)—The Russian government will dip deep into the cash boxes of Soviet collective farms under new proposals permitting the farms to own their own machinery.

Details of the new program drawn up by party boss Nikita Khrushchev showed the farms will have to pay between 18,000,000,000 and 20,000,000,000 rubles ($4,480,000,000 and $5,040,000,000 at the official rate of exchange) for purchases of machinery from state-run tractor stations.

The central committee of the Soviet Communist party announced on Thursday night that it had approved Khrushchev's program—regarded by Western observers as the beginning of a revolutionary change in Russian agricultural policy.

Details of the proposals were given Friday night by Tass news agency and Moscow radio.

CAN AFFORD IT

Khrushchev said the farms can afford the outlay for machinery because their "indivisible funds" for 1968 will amount to an estimated 25,000,000 rubles.

Russia Offers To Disclose Some Research Details

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia Friday offered to disclose details of Soviet research on peaceful application of thermonuclear power but said "complete frankness" would depend on a ban on nuclear weapons.

Physicist Igor Kurchatov stated in the official party newspaper Pravda that a report on Soviet progress will be made at an international conference on peaceful uses of nuclear energy to be held later this year at Geneva. But he added:

"It is difficult to expect complete frankness between scientists of various countries engaged in research in the control of thermonuclear reactions until atomic and hydrogen weapons are banned."

(Though Kurchatov reported neutron release at temperatures of more than 1,000,000 degrees centigrade in Soviet experiments, Western scientists said the report covered ground already released by Moscow and did not constitute, as reported previously, a fresh Soviet claim to have tamed the hydrogen bomb.)

Court Denies Non-Suit Motion

CHATHAM (CP) — A motion of non-suit was denied Friday in the opening session of the trial of Keillor Construction Company of St. Thomas, charged with negligence in connection with the death last summer of six New Canadian laborers in an excavation landslide in nearby Dresden.

The motion was filed by Harold Stafford, lawyer for the company, on the grounds that the excavation, which was to house a pumping station for the town's new water works system, was not a trench as defined by the Trench Excavators' Protection Act.

The men died when the sides of the excavation collapsed while they were pouring cement for footings in the floor of the hole. They were buried under 20 feet of mud, sand and equipment.

Magistrate Ivan Craig, in dismissing the motion, adjourned the trial to March 6.

GETS 410 YEARS

CHICAGO (AP) — A Negro wasentenced to 410 years in prison Friday for murder, two rapes and an assault to rape. Walter McGomery, 20, was described by the judge as "a vicious, danger type of person who must never again live in society."

I was a sleepless wreck

My nerves grated from lack of sleep. Indigestion bothered me. I felt jittery, depressed, drained of all ambition and energy.

Some people suffer unpleasantness because their systems are aggravated by elements in everyday beverages. This is particularly true of those with "nervous" temperaments.

While some people can drink tea, coffee, cocoa and some soft drinks without harm, others cannot.

Postum does not contain stimulants such as caffein, theophylline or theobromine which can rob you of sleep, irritate your nerves, speed up pulse with subsequent depressing letdown. Postum does not contain tannin to give you indigestion, nor any other ingredient to cause you harm.

Switch to Instant Postum, the beverage of comfort! Postum tastes and acts like no other beverage. Postum has its own distinctive flavor. Make Postum instantly, right in your cup. Just add freshly boiling water, or hot milk, stir and enjoy.

Try Postum for 30 days. When nerves are soothed, you sleep better, feel better, look better. Get Instant Postum at your grocer's. Costs less than 1¢ a cup. A product of General Foods, Limited.

Would you give your neighbor the returns that you receive for the milk from one of your cows, as breeding fees for your herd each year?

THAT WOULD BE ABOUT $300. TO $400.

It's Not Likely You Would!

Then why not sell your herd sire today, and breed your cows artificially. At the most he is only saving you your service fees.

Will Demand Right to Play For Grey Cup

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Rugby Football Union has again decided to press for the [illegible]t to compete for the Grey [illegible]

Delegates from the four member clubs met here Sunday to formulate strategy for an all-out assault at the annual meeting of the Canadian Rugby Union in Toronto March 31.

Maurice Chilton of Sarnia and Sam Lerner of London were named to attend the meeting and to "use every means at their disposal to get back into the running."

The league has not competed for the Canadian championship since 1954. They hope to arrange a semi-final game with either the Big Four or the Western Interprovincial Football Union champion.

SAME FOUR CLUBS

Sarnia Golden Bears, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Toronto Balmy Beach and London Lords all indicated they will field a team. Each club was given until [illegible] days before the CRU meeting [illegible]o post a bond that it would enter a team and complete the schedule.

Club representatives agreed that the league was in its best position in years to challenge for the Grey Cup.

Chilton said: "Other years we had to admit at CRU meetings that our league wasn't on a solid footing. We never knew how many teams we would have or whether we would be operating at all."

The league also became the second senior Canadian league to take steps to remove downfield blocking restrictions on all linemen and one backfielder.

WOULD EXPERIMENT

It was decided to ask the CRU to adopt the rule change for all its member leagues but failing that it would seek permission to try the scheme as an one-year experiment in the ORFU senior [illegible]s.

[illegible]st month the Senior Intercollegiate League voted to make a similar rule change.

In other business the league decided to meet March 9 with ORFU junior and intermediate and intercollegiate representatives to try and set up a method of controlling the progress of players from lower to higher leagues.

Spike Kearns of Kitchener, league president, suggested that a draft system be used to insure that junior players were given a chance to play in higher competition and to prevent senior teams and the professional clubs from cornering all the top Canadian players without compensation to the clubs which developed them.

Industrial Hockey

[illegible]nt Anne Cementmen down[illegible]he Terrors 6-2 while Don's Delivery and Hillcrest Wreckers tied 3-3 over the weekend in the opening games of the Industrial hockey league playoffs.

The second games in both two-of-three semi-final series will be played next weekend.

Point Anne, who finished the regular schedule in first place, split their six goals among as many players. One goal each went to Tommy Schrieder, Mort Bradshaw, Ronnie Hull, Lorne Maracle, Billy Strahan and Ray Brannigan.

Leo and Vern Goyer each scored once for the Terrors.

The Hillcrest-Don's affair was a nip and tuck battle from the opening whistle to the final bell. Cameron Buskard scored twice for Don's while Jack O'Neil got the other goal. Cy Radford, Jack Hughes and Jack Lucas [illegible]had a goal for the Wreck[illegible]

On the Tracks

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Round Table captured the $135,000 Santa Anita Handicap Saturday and did it in almost mechanical fashion and record time.

Turning on a burst of speed and a drive at the end of the stretch, the Kentucky four-year-old rolled on to win the $97,900 pot by 3½ lengths over Terrang, with Porterhouse third.

Round table, under jockey Willie Shoemaker, whirled around the track at the 1¼-mile distance in 1:59 4-5, breaking the record of two minutes flat set in 1950 in this same handicap by the great Irish horse, Noor.

The victory, fifth straight at the Santa Anita meeting and his 16th in 17 races, ushered the Travis M. Kerr color bearer from sixth place to fourth place in the sport's roll of alltime money winners, with a total of $901,164 to his credit.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tim Tam won the $135,000 Flamingo Stakes Saturday after Jewel's Reward was disqualified for bumping the Calumet Farm colt several times during a blazing duel down the stretch.

Jewel's Reward finished the season's first big test for Kentucky Derby-age horses a head in front of Tim Tam but stewards immediately called an inquiry. Champion jockey Bill Hartack, who rode Tim Tam, lodged a formal claim of foul against the Maine Chance Farm colt.

Jewel's Reward was moved back to second by the stewards.

Motion pictures of the race showed Jewel's Reward, on the inside, bearing out until his jockey, Manuel Ycaza, didn't have room to swing his whip from the right side and switched it to his left hand.

Still Jewel's Reward swung out as they battled toward the finish line and the two leaders came in contact half a dozen times between the eighth pole and the wire. Ada L. Rice's Talent Show finished third, 3¾ lengths behind Tim Tam.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Joe W. Brown's Tenacious thwarted the challenge of a quartet of Florida invaders to win the $61,900 New Orleans Handicap Saturday, richest offering of the Fair Grounds winter meeting.

Tenacious was a neck in front of Ezgo at the end of the mile and one - eighth in 1:51. Oh Johnny was a fast-closing third.

Minoso Signs With Indians For $40,000

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Saturnino Orestes (Minnie) Minoso, a holdout for one day, was wielding his big bat in the Cleveland Indians camp here today after surrendering to general manager Frank Lane.

He signed a contract Sunday for $40,000 and got away without paying the penalty Lane had threatened to levy in his dealings with prospective holdouts.

In good condition after playing winter baseball in his native Cuba, Minoso thought he was worth $45,000 this year. He got $36,000 last year with the Chicago White Sox.

Minoso arrived Saturday, the deadline set by Lane when he warned that $100 a day would be lopped off contract offers after March 1.

Minoso, one of the best hitters in the American League, had played for Lane on the White Sox, where Cleveland sent him in a three-way trade in April, 1951. A rookie, he hit .326 that year and has a .307 lifetime batting average in the league.

Minoso's signing leaves shortstop Chico Carrasquel as the lone Indian holdout.

Delany Double Highlight of Indoor Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — For the second year running, Ron Delany of Villanova accomplished what no other runner had dared to try when he won both the 1,000-yard and the two-mile runs in Madison Square Garden Saturday night in a desperate bid to bring the team championship to Villanova.

A crowd of 9,358 sat in Madison Square Garden until the final event of the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Union's track and field meet—the high jump—was decided. It also decided the meet, for Villanova finished one-two.

Delany whipped to victory in the 1,000 in 2:12.8. He rested exactly 51 minutes and came on to take the two-mile in 9:17.6.

Delany's superb double overshadowed the special mile which Istvan Rozsavolgyi, making his farewell appearance before leaving for his native Hungary today, won in 4:08.7.

May Play Cup Games In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Some games of this season's Stanley Cup hockey finals may be played here even if Toronto Maple Leafs fail to reach the playoffs.

Coach Phil Watson of New York Rangers said Saturday Madison Square Garden, home of his team, will be unavailable for hockey a week after the close of the regular season. A circus moves into the garden then.

Watson said: "We'll be able to play the first two games of the semi-finals at home but that's all. If we get to the final, we'll have to play our home games on the road and Toronto worked out well last time that happened with New York."

Leafs are in fifth place, six points behind the fourth-place Boston Bruins, and face an uphill battle to reach the four-team playoffs.

Minor Hockey

The squirts opened their city playoffs at Memorial Arena on Saturday morning with four games being played. All games were the first in two - game, goals-to-count series.

Barons whipped the Bruins 10-2. Jan Morris topped the scorers with four goals while Gary Lucas had three, Garth Muir two and David Storey one. Paul Ford and John Doran fired the Bruin goals.

Rangers shaded the Browns 2-1 in an evenly contested affair. Ross Drysdale netted the winning marker for Rangers with Doug Olson scoring his club's other goal. Mike Sharland tallied for the Browns.

Canadiens and Red Wings fought to a 4-4 deadlock. Warren Wolfenden scored twice for Canadiens with George Mason and Stephen White adding singletons. John Blakely had the three - goal hat trick for the Wings with Eugene Barbadoro scoring once.

Davis Emerson scored three times to give the Maple Leafs a 4-2 victory over the Black Hawks. John Smith added the other Leaf marker while Mike Smith and Mike Fahey scored for the Black Hawks.

In a short exhibition game the All-Stars blanked another squad picked from the remaining teams by a 2-0 score. John Doran scored both All-Star goals.

The second games are scheduled for Wednesday night of this week with Barons meeting Bruins and Hawks meeting Leafs at 6.00 p.m. while Canadiens meet Red Wings and Rangers meet Browns at 7.00

The midget semi-final between Home and School Association and the TPT's will continue at 8.00 p.m. The teams tied at two goals each in the first game. Northern Electric and Booth's will play an exhibition game at 8.45 while Elliott's and Big "A" play a similar affair at 9.15. All-Stars will practise at 9.45.

Peewee and bantam playoffs will continue as usual next Saturday morning.

OHA Suspends Three Players

TORONTO (CP) — Gord Yewman, left winger with Woodbridge Dodgers, was suspended Saturday by the Ontario Hockey Association until Dec. 1 for throwing a stick at Barry Johnson of Weston Dukes. The incident happened at an OHA Junior B game Feb. 14.

Bob Salvisburg and Ben Cardas of St. Catharines Levers were suspended for three games for rushing a referee in separate incidents in a Senior B game Feb. 24 at Stamford.

Referee Hugh Robins said: "Salvisburg threw his stick between my legs."

Salvisburg said: "The puck went in the net. The goalkeeper yelled 'blow the whistle' because I was in the crease. Referee Robins faced off on the corner. I asked him why? He said 'no goal.' I got mad and swore but didn't cross-check him."

Robins also testified against Cardas, the St. Catharines captain. Robins said "Cardas stick hit me on the head. Whether it was intentional or not, I don't know. He was enraged."

Cardas said Stamford had a penalty when Robins blew the whistle. He said he was all set for a shot. The puck was free.

"I pivoted to talk to him (Robins) and bumped into him," Cardas said. "It happened just outside the goal crease."

Venturi Wins Rouge Open By 4 Strokes

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Ken Venturi, 26-year-old San Franciscan with an almost errorless golf style, today holds his third 1958 open tournament victory, a four-stroke triumph in the $15,000 Baton Rouge open.

Venturi carded his four consecutive three-under-par 69 Sunday for a 276 total.

The $2,000 first money, plus a $1,500 bonus from a golf ball manufacturer for using his product, boosted Venturi's earnings for 1958 to $13,738, tops among the pros.

The two Canadians who made it to the final round both finished out of the money. Calgary's Bob Wylie finished with 29, made up of rounds of 71, 76, 73 and 76. Al Balding of Toronto had a one-over-par 73 for his opening round but then blew to 76 and a pair of 77s.

Tied for second at 280 were Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., and Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa.

Freddie Haas Jr. of New Orleans, with a closing 74, was three strokes back at 283. Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia had a 284 total.

FINAL FLURRY

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Ross Buckle dropped in 17 points in the final 13 minutes Saturday night to lead London Lounge to a 72-53 victory over Galt YMCA in the first round of the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association Intermediate A playoffs. The victory gave London the two-game total-point series 147-114.

Campbellford Downs Marmora 6-5 in Overtime

MARMORA (Special) — An overtime goal at 4.03 gave Campbellford a 6-5 victory over Marmora Millionaires here Saturday night in the third game of their OHA Intermediate "C" group semi-finals.

Campbellford leads the three-of-five set two games to one. The fourth game is slated for Wednesday night in Campbellford but may be played in Marmora if the Campbellford ice is in poor condition.

The teams fought to a 2-2 tie in the first period and Campbellford took a 4-3 lead after two periods of play. Marmora banged home a pair in the third for a 5-4 lead but Campbellford pulled the goalie in the last minute and Field tied the score at 19.55. Hunter scored the winning goal unassisted at 4.03 of the ten-minute overtime beat.

Hunter added a pair of assists to his winning goal for a three-point night, while Morrow scored twice and assisted on one. Field had a goal and assist, while Garvey and Foster scored the other Campbellford markers. D. Ruttan and J. Ruttan had single assists.

Gus Leonard scored two goals and had an assist for Marmora while Bob Maynes had one and one. Jones and Therrien also scored with Mantle, R. Darrah and Trumble getting assists.

Northern Electric Hockey

The Indians won the Northern Electric interdepartment hockey league championship over the weekend by defeating the Flyers 7-3 in the third game of a two-of-three series. Indians won the last two games after the first ended in a 2-2 stalemate.

The winners were the loop's top team all season, paced by Dave Jones, and ended the regular schedule far ahead of the other three teams. They also won their semi-final series undefeated, winning two games and tying one.

Don "Turk" Barclay sparked his club to victory in the big win yesterday, scoring two goals and assisting on a third. Harry Wardhaugh also scored two goals while Dave Jones had a goal and two assists. James helped with a goal and one helper while Tom McKay picked up a single assist.

Gregory led the Flyer attack with a goal and assist. Totten and Reeves added the other goals.

Referees Ted Hurst and Pete Jones handed out five minor penalties with the Flyers getting four, three of these to Howard Skelly.

ALL SQUARE

The McFarlands might have won the league title of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" OHA division—but they're not good enough to spot any of the opposition clubs, especially the Kingston CKLC's one unit of manpower for the greater part of a game—and win it.

They looked and played like champions last Friday night in their semi-finals inaugural against the CKLC's, but they were a different club in Kingston Saturday night.

Eighteen penalties were clocked on the sin-bin register, fourteen of them going to the Macs, three of which were misconducts. They lost the game 4-2 after coming from behind. The score actually is no great credit to the Kingston scoring ability since a lot of the McFarlands' manpower sat on the penalty sidelines. At that only one Kingston goal was scored with the McFarlands' manpower short.

Whatever the reason for the eruption of McFarland penalties, whether it be because of personal retaliatory measures, borderline officiating, or just carrying shoulder chips, the fact remains no club can win games with a percentage of their offensive power sitting in the hoosegow.

In this department's opinion, and it was substantiated in their sparkling victory here last Friday, the McFarlands, man-for-man, power-for-power and club-for-club, is a better team than the CKLC's. They proved that in the schedule records, and to repeat, they proved it again last Friday.

Down through the seasons, Belleville with other opposition clubs, have found, sometimes to their detriment, that Kingston teams have proven to be opportunists of the first water. Especially when the prize at stake is a semi-finals series victory, or the group championship.

Last season, they came from behind a sizeable deficit through sheer fight, spirit and desire, to edge Pembroke out of the playoffs and go on to give the Whitby Dunlops a stiff battle before bowing in the semi-finals. This year, although they were nosed out for third place by the Cornwall Chevies in their last game of the schedule, they have and are proving they are a force to be reckoned with, and not to be considered lightly.

And they have the ability that if given an inch they immediately get hungry for a mile, and take it. And any team that gives them an inch must not joke at the consequences. This year's edition of the Kingston club is out to win this semi-finals if it is within their power, and anything gratis offered by the Macs will be accepted gratefully, thank you.

The Macs have "flipped their lids" penalty-wise on more than one scheduled game this season. That was a a time when they were enjoying a good position in the league standing. It was a loss of points that could be regained later.

But the semi-finals are different. Each and every game has an effect on the ultimate results. And with a battling team like Kingston, Belleville or any other club that faces them cannot afford to take chances.

On the on-the-ice potential of both clubs, hockey men of the district, and that means outside this city, have rated the McFarlands to win this semi-finals series by four games to two. We believe they can do it. But they have got to stay on the ice far more than they did Saturday if they expect to bring home the semi-finals bacon.

The clubs clash in the third game here tomorrow night, and play the fourth game of the series in Kingston Wednesday night. As of now it is a best-of-five series and as such the Macs cannot afford to take any chances.

Chevies Whip Pembroke 7-2 After 4-1 Defeat Saturday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kingston CKLCs managed to split their first two playoff games in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A eastern division but Belleville McFarlands made most of the noise.

The noise didn't amount to much in the statistics—Kingston defeated McFarlands 4-2 Saturday to tie the best-of-seven semi-final at 1-1.

In the other semi-final series, Cornwall Chevies bounced back from a 4-1 defeat Saturday to whip Pembroke Lumber Kings 7-2 and tie their series 1-1.

Both series continue Tuesday with Kingston at Belleville and Cornwall at Pembroke.

OPEN TUESDAY

The OHA-NOHA Senior A series, inactive during the weekend, opens its playoffs Tuesday.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen are at home to Sudbury Wolves and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds are at home to Windsor Bulldogs. Both are best-of-seven affairs.

Gerry Moore, Mike Bukacheski, Dan Youngberg and Ken Linesman scored for Kingston Saturday. Menard got both the Belleville goals.

Pembroke scored three goals in the third period to win its series opener against Cornwall Saturday. Vic Fildes, Jim Maxwell, Lionel Barber and Bruce Giesebrecht scored for Lumber Kings. Guy Henri scored for Cornwall.

Seven players shared the Chevies' scoring Sunday, singles going to Ray Laplante, Pete Payette, Bryan Webber, Ron Muir, Carman Marshall, Reg Grigg and Guy Henri. Maxwell and Jack Giesebrecht scored for Pembroke.

Blues Chalk Up 8 Straight, Detroit Is Unbeaten in Six; Howe, Bathgate Set the Pace

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Cued by the stars who lead them, New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings are gathering momentum as the National Hockey League season draws to a close.

It's the hope of each coach with a team in the playoffs that it will catch fire in time to take the post-season honors. Such stars as New York's Andy Bathgate and Detroit's Gordie Howe pace themselves accordingly.

The pair put on a two-man show as their teams tied 4-4 Sunday, giving New York an eight-game unbeaten streak and Detroit a mark of six without a loss.

In Saturday's games, Rangers defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 5-4 and Detroit tied Montreal Canadiens 2-2. In a third game Boston Bruins defeated Chicago Black Hawks 3-2. Toronto beat the Hawks 6-5 Sunday.

SIX-POINT EDGE

The results increased New York's edge over third-place Detroit to six points. Boston is three points back of Wings and six ahead of Leafs. Chicago lags four points behind Toronto and Montreal has clinched first place.

Bathgate had two goals and an assist to move into a second-place tie in individual scoring with Montreal's Henri Richard at 69 points, four behind Montreal's Dickie Moore. Howe, who had four assists, is fourth with 62 points.

Bathgate has scored six goals in four games and collected 17 points in his last eight. Howe has 11 points in his last four games.

Other Ranger scorers were Andy Hebenton and Dave Creighton. New York had a 4-1 lead before Detroit fought back and finally tied it on defenceman Marcel Pronovost's first goal of the season. Other Detroit scorers were John Wilson and Norm Ullman with two.

TO EASE PRESSURE

Montreal's Moore and Henri Richard were separated Saturday and while coach Hector (Toe) Blake did not comment the move was apparently designed to shift pressure from the players in their race for the scoring championship. Moore was the only one to pick up points, scoring the first goal and assisting on Montreal's second by Don Marshall. It was Moore's 32nd, high in the league.

Billy McNeill and Jack McIntyre scored for Detroit.

Camille Henry scored two goals to give him 29 for the season, second only to Moore, in New York's win Saturday. Bathgate, Larry Popein and Danny Lewicki were the other New York scorers.

Bob Pulford scored twice for Toronto and Ron Stewart and Dick Duff once each.

CLOSE MATCH

Boston strengthened its hold on the fourth and last playoff spot Saturday in a close game against Chicago. Bronco Horvath, Don McKenny and Johnny Bucyk scored for Boston.

Pierre Pilote and Ed Litzenberger scored for Chicago.

Dick Duff's 22nd goal gave Leafs an uphill win over Chicago Sunday when a Hawk victory would have tied the teams in last place. Brian Cullen had two and George Armstrong, Paul Masnick and Gerry James one each for Toronto.

Eric Nesterenko became the first Chicago player to score three goals in one game this season while Glen Skov and Earl Reibel got the others.

Teepees Whip Marlboros 3-1; Irish, Cubs Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros have had an unpleasant taste of what may be in store for them in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series playoffs.

Marlboros played St. Catharines Teepees Sunday, needing a victory to end in third place. The game meant little to Teeps—they had clinched first place some time ago.

But St. Catharines defeated Marlies 3-1, and outfought them in a wild third period that totalled 68 minutes in penalties. The same teams open a best-of-seven semi-final Tuesday at St. Catharines.

In other games, St. Michael's Majors grabbed third place, a point ahead of Marlboros, by tying Hamilton Tiger Cubs 3-3 Sunday. Saturday, Hamilton defeated Guelph Biltmores 7-3 and St. Catharines whipped Peterborough Petes 8-5. Barrie Flyers at Ottawa-Hull Canadiens was postponed, the only scheduled game left.

Hamilton and Peterborough and St. Michael's and Barrie will start best-of - five quarter-finals Tuesday.

League-leading scorer John McKenzie led Teepees with two goals. Jim Cosburn and Marlboros' Ian Anderson matched second-period goals.

The teams drew the season's largest crowd, 9,229, and put on a bruising battle that saw 32 penalties handed out, 16 to each team. There were 92 minutes in penalties.

Marlboros' Jack McMaster was involved in two fights near the end of the game and was tagged with two five-minute major penalties and a 10-minute misconduct. McKenzie received a major and misconduct and St. Catharines' Stan Mikita a major.

Bill Wilcox gave Hamilton an early lead against St. Michael's and the aroused Majors replied with goals by Dick Mattiussi, Gino Ubriaco and Dave Keon.

Murray Oliver set up two Hamilton goals in the third period for the tie. Bill Hadon and Jerry Sullivan were the marksmen.

Teepees came from behind a three-goal deficit to beat Peterborough. McKenzie, Mikita and Ed Hoekstra each had two goals and Cosburn and Matt Ravlich got one each.

Jerry Brisson scored twice for Peterborough and Jim Mikol, Larry Babcock and Chuck Hamilton each got one.

Guelph, last year's league champions, ended out of the playoffs for the first time since 1953. Oliver and Brian Smith each had two goals for Hamilton while Kitch Walsh, Pat Baker and Ray Preston scored once each.

George Usitalo, Rod Gilbert and Bert Brown scored for Guelph.

Finland Scores Big Triumph At Ski Meet

LAHTI, Finland (AP)—Finland scored a smashing double triumph on the opening day of the 1958 world Nordic ski championships Sunday, spreadeagling the field in both the 30-kilometre cross-country race and the combined ski jumping.

Marti Maatela, 23-year-old economics student, thrilled a home crowd of 30,000 with leaps of 64.5 metres (211 feet, eight inches) and 69.5 metres (288 feet) for a total of 215 points in the combined jumping.

Earling in the day, Kalevi Hamalainen, 24-year-old Finnish lumberjack, outdistanced the field in the cross-country race, speeding almost 20 miles up and down hill through the forest in one hour, 40 minutes and three seconds.

Canada's two entrants in the cross-country were Arvo Ayranto of Sudbury, who placed 37th in 1:51:17.9 and Elmer Ypya, of North Bay, whose time of 1:53:09.8 gave him 46th position.

Kingston Defeats McFarlands 4-2 To Square Senior A Semi-Finals

Overcome 1st-Period Deficit Then Toss Away Win Chances With 14-Penalty Uprising

(Special to The Ontario Intelligencer)

KINGSTON — Adherence to the playing rules, coupled with the opposition's disregard for the same, brought a rich reward in the Community Memorial Centre on Saturday night when the Kingston CKLC's defeated the Belleville McFarlands by a 4 to 2 score and forced a 1-1 deadlock in the best-of-seven OHA senior "A" Eastern League semi-final round. The chippy visitors served a total of 52 minutes on the penalty bench whereas the locals were assessed only four minor sentences.

"Bep" Guidolin paced the Belleville offenders with a total of 14 penalty minutes; "Minnie" Menard, a minor and a misconduct and goalkeeper Gordon Bell drew a misconduct that was served by an innocent Keith MacDonald. At game's end Menard allegedly swung his stick at a heckling spectator and police rushed to the scene.

Only one goal was scored when the locals held a one man advantages but the visitors' style was definitely cramped and their power lessened when they were so often shorthanded. In the opening period they were assessed six to eight sentences, with [illegible]o of them allotted to Guidolin under unusual circumstances.

[illegible]SERVED WIN

Guidolin drew the first at 19.25 and just as the session ended he returned to the ice and became involved in another mix-up. Referee Bill Balmer promptly tacked on another minor penalty with time to begin at 1.25 in the middle period. This, he explained, is in accordance with the latest interpretation of that particular part of the code.

Irrespective of such frivolities or rhubarbs, it should be pointed out that the locals richly deserved their hard-won victory. Each team had only 25 shots and in no period were they farther apart than one. Lynn Davis, guarding Kingston twine, turned in his second consecutive sparkling effort in the series, while the more experienced Gordie Bell was just slightly less effective.

The attendance total, 2884, [illegible]s not a seasonal record but was far above the average and those fans who were there were provided with thrilling entertainment, not exclusive of the King Cotton record which was inadvertently employed instead of "God Save the Queen" just before the action got under way. But laughter that prevailed early gave way to a rabble-rousing conclusion.

Gerry Moore struck the first blow for the locals when he took a getaway pass from Jean Gauthier, swept to close quarters and scored at the 1.34 mark in the opening period. It was the lone counter of a period that netted the visitors half a dozen penalties and the cannier Cookmen just two.

At the three minute mark in the middle period Joe Levandoski, local defence stalwart, [illegible]e in contact with the boards [illegible] screen behind the Kingston net and emerged with a scratched eye pupil. Ike Hildebrand, who was allegedly involved in puck pursuit, was not penalized. Levandoski was unable to continue and examination has disclosed that he will be absent from the line-up in Belleville tomorrow night.

In the emergency caused by the injury to the veteran defender, "Bun" Cook paried the versatile Ted Toppazzini with Don Thompson and the former justified the confidence placed in him. Following two penalties against the Belles, one a misconduct to Gordon Bell, Gauthier was chased and he was away when Menard beat Davis at the 8.52 mark.

Mike Bukacheski regained the lead at 10.15 but at 12.05 [illegible]enard, aided by Eddie Mar[illegible]u, forced a 2-2 deadlock [illegible]s Kowalchuk was banished for charging at 15.18 but the Belles threw up a stonewall defence during his absence.

At 3.59 in the last period Guidolin absorbed a facial cut and when no penalty was meted out, he protested with such vigor that he drew a misconduct sentence which was served by MacDonald. The big break came at 7.27 when "Whitey" Youngberg took a pass from Toppazzini and ghosted his way to close quarters before hitting a slight gap left unguarded by Bell. Youngberg also engineered the next scoring assault when after taking a getaway pass from Don Senior he passed to Ken Linesman who flashed in from the right and caught the webbing with a swift shot.

At the 13 minute mark MacDonald was waved away and at 14.07 Menard drew a sentence for roughing and a misconduct for protesting. Youngberg, involved in the roughing, was also penaliz[illegible] as was Floyd Crawford. At [illegible]s close Gordon Bell allegedly [illegible]ed verbal warfare with spectators and Menard went a bit farther by swinging a stick.

Belleville — goal, Bell; defence, Botley, Benoit, Lepine, Crawford; forwards, Guidolin, Payette, Menard, Marineau, Brown, Muretich, Hildebrand, Kowalchuk, Bradley, MacDonald.

Kingston — goal, Davis; defence, Levandoski, Gauthier, Thompson, Paul; forwards, Senior, Partridge, Youngberg, Bellringer, Moore, Toppazzini, Colvin, Bukacheski, Anderson, Linesman.

Referee — Bill; linesman — Ivan Locke and Bob Simcoe.

First Period

Kingston—Moore (Gauthier) 1.34

Penalties — Lepine (2), Marineau, Senior, Thompson, Kowalchuk, Guidolin (2).

Second Period

Belleville—Menard (Hildebrand, Marineau) 8.52

Kingston—Bukacheski (Colvin, Thompson) 10.15

Belleville—Menard (Marineau) 12.03

Penalties — Benoit, Bell misconduct served by MacDonald, Gauthier, Kowalchuk.

Third Period

Kingston—Youngberg (Toppazzini) 7.27

Kingston—Linesman (Senior, Youngberg) 11.03

Penalties — Guidolin misconduct, MacDonald, Menard minor and misconduct, Youngberg, Crawford.

Yankees Score Clean Sweep In Badminton

LONG BEACH, Calif. (CP) — The U.S. badminton team scored a clean sweep in the American zone finals of Thomas Cup competition Saturday night defeating Canada 9-0. The Canadians won only one game.

Manuel Armendariz, 27, of Glendale, Calif., clinched the zone finals for the Americans in the first march of the night defeating Toronto's Bev Westcott 15-5, 15-11. The U.S. team had run up a 4-0 lead Friday night.

The U.S. then swept the remaining two singles and two doubles matches without Canada winning a single game. Vancouver's Bert Fergus and Don Smythe of Toronto won Canada's only game in the series in the final doubles match Friday night.

They won the first game against Armendariz and Mike Hartgrove of Pasadena but lost the match.

WORST SHOWING

It was Canada's worst showing in four meetings with the United States in Thomas Cup play. The Americans won 8-1 at Pasadena in 1949, 6-3 at Calgary in 1952 and 5-4 at Winnipeg in 1955.

The Americans now go to Singapore to compete against three other teams for a chance to face defending champion Malaya.

Dave McTaggart of Vancouver, Canada's singles champion in 1956 and 1957, was whipped 15-2, 15-9 in the second singles match Saturday night by Jim Poole of San Diego. Ron Palmer of Glendale completed the singles rout with a 15-7, 15-3 win over Jim Carnwath, Woodstock, law student.

In the doubles, Joe Alston of South Pasadena and Wynn Rogers of Arcadia, Calif., defeated Bert Fergus of Vancouver and Toronto's Don Smythe 15-0, 15-8. Armendariz and Hartgrove defeated Wescott and Toronto's Bill Purcell 15-11, 15-13 to make it nine matches in a row for the U.S.

Indians Sweep Series With Reds; Hershey Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The improving Springfield Indians have just about clinched an American Hockey League playoff spot and are even making threatening gestures at third place.

The Indians, bolstered by late-season help from the parent Boston Bruins of the National League swept their weekend series from Providence and moved to within five points of the Reds.

Springfield, cellar occupants a good deal of the campaign, tripped Providence 5-3 Sunday night after shading the Reds 3-2 the previous evening. The Indians lead the fifth - place Rochester Americans by eight points for the final playoff berth.

Hershey Bears maintained their slim grip on first place with a 3-2 overtime victory over Rochester while the runner-up Cleveland Barons kept pace by whipping the tail-end Buffalo Bisons 4-1 in other games Sunday night.

Both Hershey and Cleveland lost Saturday night. The Bears were edged 6-5 in overtime by Buffalo and the Barons bowed 4-3 to Rochester.

Springfield struck for four last-period goals to down Providence Sunday night. Gerry Ehman counted twice for the Indians and Al Nicholson, Floyd Smith and Don Cherry got the others. The Providence marksmen were Bill Sweeney, Jim Bartlett and Ted Hampson.

Veteran winger Harry Pidhirny scored twice in the third period Saturday night as Springfield edged Providence. Smith got the other Indian goal and Paul Larivee and Ken Davies counted for the Reds.

Ernie Kullman's goal with 45 seconds of overtime remaining gave Hershey their victory over Rochester Sunday night. Kullman opened the scoring in the second period but Rudy Migay's two fast goals—giving him four for two nights—shot Rochester ahead 2-1 before Obie O'Brien got the tying goal.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Strong goaltending provided margins of victory for Quebec Aces and Trois-Rivieres Lions in Quebec Hockey League action Sunday.

Aces dislodged Montreal Royals from fourth-place with a 5-4 win while Lions remained in the hunt for the fourth and final playoff spot by downing second-place Shawinigan Cataracts 6-4.

At Montreal, goalie Al Millar blocked 40 shots—15 in the final period—while Claude Pronovost had only 21 stops. In the other game, Bob Senior of Trois-Rivieres turned aside 36 shots, eight more than netminder Eddie Johnston of Shawinigan.

The day's play left Shawinigan with 62 points. Quebec follows with 53, one more than Montreal and five in front of Trois-Rivieres. The leaders, Chicoutimi Sagueneens, have 67.

Belleville Midgets Oust Kingston But Bantams, Juveniles Lose Round

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville bantams and juveniles bowed out of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdowns in Kingston on Saturday but Russ Soule's midget squad held off a desperate Kingston team to advance into the second round.

The Kingston midgets, last year's provincial finalists, won Saturday's game by a 4-2 score but were unable to overcome the 7-3 defeat handed them in the first game here, dropping the set 9-7.

Belleville bantams held their Limestone City opponents to a 3-3 tie on Saturday, but lost the series 9-5. Kingston juveniles squeezed out a 5-4 victory over their battling Belleville counterparts to take the series 13-7.

This was the strongest opposition, in all three series, that Belleville teams have provided for Kingston in OMHA playdowns for some time.

MIDGET

KINGSTON 4 BELLEVILLE 2

Kingston, fighting hard to overcome Belleville's four-goal lead, carried the play during this game and twice whittled the deficit to one goal. They scored the only two goals of the first period and made it 3-0 halfway through the second before Belleville got one back to make the series score read 8-6. Kingston tallied again at 15.25 of the third heat and were pressing hard for the equalizer when the winners netted an insurance marker at 17.53.

Harold McGinnis, Lawrence O'Donnell and Wayne Brown clicked for Kingston goals to build a 3-0 lead while Belleville goalie Gord Parker kicked out a number of other labelled drives. The Belleville front forces seemed unable to organize a sustained attack until "Pug" Keller broke away for his fourth goal of the series at 13.15 of the middle heat.

Kingston captain Fred Curran brought his club to within one goal again at 15.25 of the third but Moe Hunter wrapped it up for Belleville, completing a perfect three-way play with Keller and D'Arcy Lawrence.

Belleville drew four of the game's six minor penalties and at one time in the third period held Kingston off while two men short.

Lawrence O'Donnell of Kingston had a goal and assist to spark his club's attack while "Pug" Keller equalled the performance for Belleville.

Lineups — Belleville: Parker, Mavety, Sheridan, Zakos, Duggan, Hunter, McGuire Lawrence Muirhead, Ethier, Pointer, Boulter, Weston, Keller.

BELLEVILLE 3 KINGSTON 3

Kingston led this closely-fought game 1-0 at the end of the second period on a first-period goal by Ron Earl but Belleville goalie Doug Tulk was terrific throughout the entire game. Kingston increased their lead to 3-0 early in the third despite Tulk's great goalkeeping but once Belleville started to click it was a different game.

Jerry Jones bagged one on a breakaway at 9.36, Bob Jeffery got another on a neat backhander at 10.59 and Dennis Hull tied the game at 14.03. Both Tulk and Kingston goalie Tom Mercier played outstanding games. Martin, who had a goal and assist for the series winners, scored his club's second goal on a quick break. Skeggs netted the third goal on a rebound after Tulk booted out three shots in rapid succession.

Kingston had three minor penalties and Belleville one.

Dennis Hull paced Belleville with a goal and an assist while Terry Martin had the same for Kingston.

Belleville: Tulk, Sutton, Kinkaid, Tooth, Rowland, Wallbridge, Gilroy, Burr, Jones, Hull, Turner, Reid, Blaker, Jeffery, Blakely.

JUVENILE

KINGSTON 5 BELLEVILLE 4

Kingston outscored Belleville 2-1 in the first session while the teams split two goals in the second and four in the third.

Ken Jackson made some excellent saves in the Belleville net while the line of Earl MacDonald, Doug Lucas and Ron Pointer also played fine hockey.

This was the roughest game of the trio with Belleville drawing one misconduct and six minors while Kingston had six minors and one major penalty.

Sonny Lees paced the Kingston scorers with two goals and two assists while Stan Holland had a pair of assists and one goal.

Belleville's big line had seven of their eight scoring points with Earl MacDonald's two goals and an assist leading the way. Ron Pointer had one and one while Doug Lucas had two assists. Wayne Waite fired the other goal.

Lineups — Belleville: Jackson, C. O'Neil, Scullion, L. Hull, Waite, MacDonald, Gerow, Davis, Raycroft, Pointer, Plane, Moreau, Weeks, B. Boulter.

OHA Boosts Take On West-North Playoff Games

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association has decided to charge its NOHA-OHA Senior A teams five per cent of their playoff gate receipts after taxes to boost the association's take to $16,000 by the end of the season.

The OHA at a meeting Saturday also agreed to increase gate charges to three per cent a game from two per cent for the last eight games in the schedule.

OHA secretary - treasurer George Dudley made the three-per-cent recommendation at a previous meeting. Dudley said the association was short by $7,000 of what it needed.

A schedule for the best-of-seven semi-final playoffs between second-place Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds and fourth-place Windsor Bulldogs was drawn up. Windsor plays at the Soo March 4 and 5 and the Soo at Windsor March 7 and 9. If further games are necessary, they will be played at Windsor March 11 and at the Soo March 13 and 15.

Dates for the other best-of-seven semi-final between the first place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and Sudbury Wolves, which finished third, provide for the first game to be played at Kitchener March 4. Other games at Kitchener are set for March 8 and, if necessary, March 11 and 15. Games at Sudbury will be played March 6, 7 and, if necessary, March 13.

LEW LOSES

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Pancho Gonzales beat Australia's Lew Hoad, 6-4, 6-4 Sunday night at the Paradise Valley Racquet Club. Their professional tennis series now stands at 18-11, with Hoad out in front.

Dunlops Defeat Norway 12-0 For Second Straight Victory; Crowd Boos Clean Exhibition

OSLO (CP) — The mental processes of a European crowd remain a mystery to visiting Canadian hockey teams.

Sunday night, the Whitby representatives took only two minor penalties in the course of running up a 12-0 score against Norway for their second straight victory of the 1958 world hockey championships.

But they were treated to a loud burst of derisive whistling and shouts of protest as the game ended.

"I've never heard anyone boo this kind of hockey," Canadian manager Wren Blair said in obvious amazement. Blair described the game as "the cleanest game I've ever seen."

What made it all the more mystifying was that both Canada's penalties, a marginal tripping call against defenceman Alf Treen in the second period and a palpable boarding offence by captain Harry Sinden in the third, drew only the mildest reaction from the 4,000-odd fans.

FAVORITE TARGET

But defenceman Ted O'Connor, a hefty 195 pounds whose bodychecks were delivered cleanly in Whitby's defending zone in accordance with the European regulations that govern the tournament, was the crowd's favorite target.

And a skillful exhibition of ragging the puck during Treen's absence also attracted unfavorable notice. He crowd felt play was unduly delayed.

Russia overwhelmed Finland 10-0 in Sunday's only other game.

The results left Canada, Russia and the defending champion Swedes tied with 2-0 records but the Canadians were ahead on goal average.

In the event of a tie at the end of the tournament, a round robin affair in which each squad plays seven others once, the team with the best goal average would win. Trailing the first three were Czechoslovakia, the United States, Poland, Finland and Norway.

PLAY FINLAND TODAY

Canada completes its schedule against the lower echelon today by playing Finland at 11:30 a.m. EST. The Finns have lost their first three starts. Then the Canadians get a two-day break.

Unbeaten Czechoslovakia meets winless Poland in the day's curtain raiser and the U.S., winners in their only previous start, complete the program by tackling Norway, also a three-time loser.

Right winger Jack MacKenzie started the scoring Sunday with an unassisted goal and added three more during the game. This put him at the head of the 12—five goals and two assists—and the top scorer at the tournament so far.

THREE FOR SMITTY

Playing-coach Sid Smith accounted for three of Canada's goals. The others came from Connie Broden, Sinden, Gord Myles, Bus Gagnon and Bobby Attersley.

After MacKenzie's initial goal, less than a minute and a half after the opening face-off, Smith moved in, assisted by Jean Paul Lamirande.

Broden made it 3-0 at 11:45 of the first. Just before the period ended, defenceman Sinden handled a pass from Charlie Burns for the fourth goal.

MacKenzie pushed the score to 5-0 within seconds of the second period beginning. He was back on goalie Lorang Wifladt again seven minutes later. Next MacKenzie helped Smith on his first goal. Then Broden passed to his coach for his second goal and to MacKenzie for his final counter. Myles, aided by Ted's brother Tom O'Connor, closed the period scoring at 10-0 with half a minute remaining.

Gagnon, who coached and played with Whitby in winning the 1957 Allan Cup, scored midway through the final session, assisted by Attersley. Attersley then sent home the final marker unassisted two minutes before time was up.

Canada and Russian justified their co-favorite status by running up lopsided scores in their first appearances Saturday.

Whitby crushed Poland 14-1 while the Russians encountered stiff resistance from the Norwegians in pulling away to a1 0-2 victory. In the third game, Sweden looked anything but the defending titleholders in beating Finland 5-2.

SPORT IN BRIEF

ON AMERICAN TEAM

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (CP)—Sqdn Ldr. Barney Hartman of Ottawa has been named on Sports Afield 1958 all-American skeet team. He is the first Canadian ever on the team. The 46-year-old airman set a Canadian long-run record of 994 all-bore and scored 210 straight with his .410-gauge shotgun for a second Canadian record. The previous records were 992 and 200 respectively.

'Foreign Sirens Go Home' Cry of Hollywood Beauty

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Foreign sirens, go home" is the blunt cry from domestic beauty Elaine Stewart, who argues Hollywood producers should give American girls a chance.

"What's the matter with our own girls?" asked Miss Stewart, exhibiting as much fire as the European temptresses are supposed to have. She found a quick reply to her own question: "Nothing."

"There are hundreds of girls around Hollywood who have just as much beauty, talent and chest expansion as those foreign dolls," she said. "The producers don't have to go looking all over the world for actresses; they can find them two blocks from the studios.

"What is the advantage of getting all those foreigners? To help the foreign film industries? They wouldn't do as much for us.

"I suppose producers think having foreign stars will help their pictures in foreign countries. That's silly. The foreigners don't care about their own stars; they want to see Americans.

"American beauty is what made Hollywood movies great. Think of some of the great attractions of the golden days, many of them still active today — stars like Myrna Loy, Joan Crawford, the late Carole Lombard, Loretta Young, Lana Turner, Ginger Rogers. The studios aren't developing anyone like that today; they're going abroad for girls."

Elaine isn't complaining for herself. She's working now, with Vic Mature in Escort West. But she feels for her fellow actresses, saying they're adding to the ranks of American unemployed.

What does Brigitte Bardot have, she inquired, besides a pouty look and over-exposure? She gazed at a men's magazine spread of double-B in various stages of undress.

"Ridiculous" she exclaimed, tossing the magazine aside. "Is this why Hollywood producers are falling all over themselves, trying to sign the girl? Obviously, it is.

"These foreign girls like Bardot and Sophia Loren and Gina Lollobrigida have nothing to offer but chest expansion. Well, we've got girls who can match them inch for inch, and they've got talent, too. Marilyn Monroe can stack up to any of them, and she's a good comedienne as well. I think Jayne Mansfield can beat them, too, not to mention Jane Russell."

She added that Hollywood is in danger of losing its American market if it continues pushing the overseas babes.

"I've done a lot of talking to people around the country on tours," she said. "The audience today is chiefly teen-age kids. They don't want to see a lot of foreign actresses whose English they can't understand. They want real American love matches, like Van Johnson and June Allyson in their heyday.

"Perhaps an actress like Anna Magnani is a great performer, but She has no appeal to the young people who go to movies in this

CRUCIAL

Even more tangled are the separate disputes between a union and the CNR and the CPR over company proposals to reduce the number of firemen in their diesel locomotive operations.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) staged a nine-day strike over this issue in January, 1957, on the CPR. The CPR's stand recently was upheld by a royal commission, findings of which were not binding. The CNR promptly announced it wants to do the same as the CPR proposes.

At the moment, the diesel scrap is being fought in several directions.

The CPR has placed its case before Labor Minister Starr. The brotherhood, in its CNR dispute, has asked for a federal conciliation board. In its fight with the CPR, the brotherhood is going to a railway board of adjustment, to meet in Montreal March 11.

RATE HIKE APPEAL

Meanwhile, the cabinet is holding up until May 1 a 3.6-per-cent general freight rate increase authoried by the board of transport commissioners in December, initially intended to have gone into effect Jan. 15. The suspension has been ordered pending a hearing on an appeal taken by all provinces except Ontario and Quebec.

The railways originally had asked for a 10-per-cent boost worth about $35,000,000 a year to them. The board's award was estimated to have been worth $15,000,000 a year.

While it stays in abeyance, the railways are losing well over $1,000,000 a month in potential revenue as they contemplate paying off big new increases for the union members. For they will inevitably have to make some contract concessions.

NEXT AT THE BELLE — Warner Bros. filmization of James Michener's story, "Sayonara", nominated for 10 Academy Awards, including Marlon Brando, Best Actor of the Year. "Sayonara," photographed in color and Technirama, boasts a large cast of favorite stars opening Monday at the Belle Theatre.

Special Effects Cannot Be Bought in Corner Store

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Rain, snow, fog, cobwebs, magic lamps and several hundred other things cannot be bought in a store around the corner, yet television viewers take them quite for granted on the home screen.

All those acts of nature and supernatural feats of the imagination you see on your set when viewing CBS-TV programs from New York are the legerdemain of a special department entitled, appropriately enough, special effects.

In the words of C. Huntley Rylander, head of the department, "Give us money and time enough and we'll create the desired special effect."

HELP PRODUCERS

The producer of every CBS-TV program who seeks something which cannot be called a "property" turns to the special effects department to create it. He may be rather incoherent about it, in which case the department's technicians patiently translate his creative dreams into what is electronically or mechanically or chemically feasible.

How about a little snow (just in the studio, please).

That's easy for the special effects department. Its technicians merely want to know if you wish wet snow or snow that falls and can be packed into snowballs. Exactly how they do it they decline to say. It's a trade secret. But it sure enough looks like snow.

FOG TO ORDER

Then there's fog—two kinds, in fact: Aerial mist and ground fog. The impression of aerial mist is created with oil and thein heat. Ground fog is created by using carbon dioxide with steam introduced.

Rain sounds easy, but it's tricky.

"You have only so much water to use," says Jay Fiskin, "and it must fall in a certain place—and silently. The falling water hits a certain material which gives off no sound and then is absorbed into re-circulating tanks."

Fiskin was in charge of all the special effects for Aladdin—which, he says, had more difficult effects than any show he ever has worked on.

COMPLICATED LAMP

For instance, he and other technicians developed the incredibly complicated machine which caused Aladdin's magic lamp to flare up at the precise times ordered in the script. After staring into the machine with mystification this department hung its head in shame for having blithely given the impression several days ago that somebody went out and bought a chemistry set or something to make Aladdin's lamp magic.

Fire, under-water scenes, steam—the special effects in Aladdin were numerous and complicated. How about those cobwebs in the cave?

Fiskin showed how they were made. First a small skeleton of thin string is built and then it is sprayed with a special compound. Such cobweb is stronger and more durable than any yet spun by a spider.

Although no one would say that a special effect ever has failed, Rylander put it this way: "This is not a spit and shoestring operation. We check everything three times. An effect is as foolproof as the man who operates it. And no one ever notices a special effect until it doesn't work."

First Showings Tonight—Tuesday
Girls on Motorcycles vs. Sorority Girls

A combination of action, stunts, thrills and laughs is promised when audiences see "Motorcycle Gang" and "Sorority Girl", American-International's latest combination show. Starring Hollywood's popular teenage favorities, Steve Terrell, John Ashley, Anne Neyland, Carl Switzer and Jean Moorhead, "Motorcycle Gang" has all the fun and youthful exuberancge of today's young generation plus cycle stunts and thrills never shown before on any screen. Thrill-crazy kids, roman riding, racing along railway tracks and fighting duels on motorcycles, a gang of cycle hoods terrorizing a small town, vicious fist fights, plus beautiful girls, rock and roll and lots of laughs combine to make "Motorcycle Gang" a "must" for action enthusiasts. "Sorority Girl" is the inside story of the drama and intrigue within a house where young girls from all walks of life are thrown together. Susan Cabot is a scheming girl who shirks nothing, including blackmail, to get what she wants in this all new dramatic thunderbolt of thrills.

TWO CHILDREN ILL

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Canadian children were being treated in hospital in Germany Friday after a party of 156 dependents of Canadian troops suffered travel delays and sickness in Europe's worst winter storms in a decade. Army headquarters here said the names of the children are not available but they were reported to be "doing well." Pneumonia is suspected.

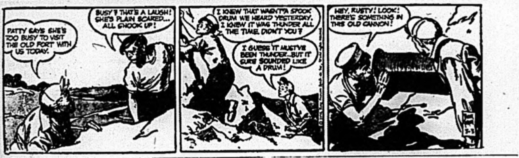
RUSTY RILEY



PATTY SAYS SHE'S TOO BUSY TO VISIT THE OLD FORT WITH US TODAY.
BUSY? THAT'S A LAUGH! SHE'S PLAIN SCARED... ALL SHOOK UP!
I KNEW THAT WASN'T A SPOOK DRUM WE HEARD YESTERDAY. I KNEW IT WAS THUNDER ALL THE TIME, DIDN'T YOU?
I GUESS IT MUST'VE BEEN THUNDER...BUT IT SURE SOUNDED LIKE A DRUM!
HEY, RUSTY! LOOK! THERE'S SOMETHING IN THIS OLD CANNON!

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Monday, March 3

Aries (March 21 to April 19)— oday you are happy and very y because of the marvelous eas and thoughts that are com- g through. Be kind to others, sten to their hopes and dreams, o, and make this a glorious day l around.

Tu[illegible] (April 20 to May 20) — e p[illegible]cal today and don't al- w any small thing to keep you om working out the great pos- bilities present that will add uch to your material comfort. e financiers, be honest, get and llow advice.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)— ere is a great deal of pertinent ta available to you today that ll help increase harmony with ose in your immediate sphere, lp you to gain position of pro- nence in your work. Show co- eration.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — If you concentrate on having larger profits, more property, today you will be able to see with relative ease how to acquire them. Impress bigwigs with your ability and you get their support now.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Here is the right day to follow your desires and goals with real enthusiasm and vim, wisdom. All doors are open to you if you take your fine ideas to the right persons. Be specific. Don't fail to thank them for their assistance.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Spend some time in the solitude of your own room today analyzing your feelings for kin. Then dash out and show affection where it is deserved, and fine results will come of this. Uptrend is in the offing.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Dynamic, farseeing, clear-thinking friend holds the key to your success today. Get out of your small corner and contact him or her now. Then put your surroundings in the fine order you want them to be.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— Here is a perfect day to think and act magnanimously in the world of activity. Go to those who are in high position and impress them with your abilities, commonsense, and you get their immediate support.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Don't be narrowminded. Heed the ideas of those who are authorities in the fields in which you are vitally interested, all who can truly assist you and help you on your way to success. Read your paper and grow.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Here is the right day to closet yourself secretly with those powerful persons who can help you make your dreams come true, add to your abundance. Be certain to learn the most modern things for earlier success.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)— You are fortunate today in having all your usual associates, friends, kin eager to co-operate with you in any mutual ventures. Make hay while the sun shines, be appreciative, and start fine new upswing.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)— Scrutinizing your dwelling or business place with the thought of increasing its beauty and efficiency brings fine ideas into your mind. Be happy and follow them, showing appreciation of others and counting your blessings.

If your child is born today . . . The charming little child born today is the kind who will always respond to kindness and flattery but buck at the least word of criticism and particularly unkindness. Handle your progeny with kid gloves and you give the world a lovable personality that will do great humanitarian, political, entertainment work. But be certain to see that what is once started is finished, no matter how hard the taks may seem.

FORETASTE OF FUTURE?

Although a bachelor, Dr. D. R. Barnett of Vancouver, was not unattached. Fellow doctors attached a 50-pound ball and chain to him during a bachelor party before he was married. However, he managed to free himself before the ceremony. (CP Photo).

ST. JOHN'S

The storm also took a swipe at the three Maritime provinces, but damage was far lighter.

In St. John's, all schools were expected to be closed and power company officials have been issuing urgent warnings to children who may be tempted to play with the thousands of wires strewn over lawns, roads, porches and sidewalks.

Emergency measures were adopted here Sunday. Many large downtown stores opened after the government lifted a closing law so people could buy candles, oil heaters, batteries foodstuffs and other essentials. There were line-ups in front of two downtown water street hardware stores.

One wholesale house sold $900 worth of candles up to 1:30 p.m. Sunday. A retailer sold 49 tons of coal during the same period. The two largest departmentes sold all their oil lamps and stoves.

Radio station VOCM and the CBC outlet here went off the air Saturday when tons of ice crumpled their steel transmitting towers like matchwood. The CBC did not get on the air Sunday. VOCM put out a weak signal for part of Saturday and Sunday using a temporary wire aerial.

VOUS, the USAF station at nearby Pepperrell, was unaffected and carried regular storm bulletins. Station CJON overcame minor difficulties and its energetic newsroom staff distributed news bulletins throughout the city.

TV CUT OFF

CJON-TV and its satellite station at Argentia, Nfld., did not get on the air.

Apparently none of the local hospitals was prepared for a major breakdown. Nine or 10 hours after power facilities failed they had used up their emergency battery units and were wondering what to do about hot meals.

Pepperrell air force base answered the questions by supplying the General Grace and St. Clares hospitals with generating units until city power was restored Sunday night.

There were no emergency cases during the blackout. Six babies were delivered, however.

Twenty-five crippled children were evacuated from the Sunshine camp on the nearby Torbay road when it became impossible to maintain heat and prepare meals. They were taken to the orthepedics ward—a separate unit of the General—where they and 80 or 90 other patients were put in beds and pushed into the halls in an effort to keep them warm.

The Evening Telegram went to press at 9 p.m. Sunday, 15½ hours early. The Daily News went to press at 4 a.m. today, about three hours early.

Both papers feared the power may not hold out and they wanted to get their papers on the street. The Telegram planned a about 12:30 p.m. today.

SUSPECT SLAIN

ODESSA, Tex. (AP)—Officers mowed down the accused killer of a deputy sheriff before he could pull the trigger on his cocked pistol Thursday night. The slain suspect was G. F. (Jack) McMichael, 36, an ex-convict sought in a two-state manhunt after deputy Thad West, 40, was shot without warning while checking a baby-selling report.

RACING THE RAVAGES OF CANCER

In Milan, Italy, German artist Erik Keller is working day and night at his painting to get as much done as possible before his right arm is amputated because of cancer. Keller, who is noted for his work with bamboo sticks and china ink, hopes to learn to work with his left hand after the amputation. Some of his paintings are currently on exhibition in Turin, Italy.

TEST FOR TB

NEW YORK (AP) — A simple blood test for tuberculosis looks promising and practical, researchers reported Sunday. The test was positive, or accurate, in 48 out of 52 TB patients.

BY APRIL'S END

LONDON (AP) — Rocket expert Dr. Wernher von Braun said Sunday the United States will put up a second earth satellite "definitely before the end of April" and eventually follow it with another carrying a monkey.

HOLD UNCLAIMED MONEY

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian banks have around $287,000 unclaimed by owners for more than nine years, it was shown Friday in an annual accounting published by the government. About 8,000 depositors—most of whom left very small amounts in bank accounts—are given notice that the money awaits them, in a listing of 152 pages in the official Canada Gazette. The list is published annually to let owners of unclaimed deposits know that nine - year - old accounts not claimed by the end of this calendar year will be transferred to the government's Bank of Canada.

27 Canadians Die in Accidents, Half in Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 27 Canadians were accidentally killed during the weekend. Ontario contributed half the total.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times to midnight Sunday showed 21 died in traffic accidents. Three were drowned, one killed in a fire, one in a fall and one asphyxiated by exhaust fumes in a parked auto.

The provincial tolls with traffic deaths in brackets: Ontario 13 (10), Quebec 5 (5), Alberta 3 (3), British Columbia 2, New New Brunswick 2 (2), Nova Scotia 2 (1).

Ontario deaths:

A Toronto couple were killed Saturday night and a third person critically injured when a car smashed into the side of transport truck at Windsor.

Dead are Alfred Parent, 36, and his wife, Thelma. Their four children are in Toronto. Thomas Bowes, 25, a passenger, is in hospital where his condition was reported as critical. Mr. Bowes' wife escaped with a cut hand.

WERE VISITING

Police said the Parents were visiting Windsor for the weekend when their car ran into the side of a transport truck driven by Harold Souter, 33. He was not injured. The car went under the truck, shearing off the roof, trunk and hood.

Edward J. Ruth, 63, was killed Sunday at Elmira when fire swept his two-storey home.

He was alone at the time. Firemen, summoned by neighbors, said it appeared Ruth, a widower, was asphyxiated as he attempted to escape in his night clothes. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

Thomas Price, 31, was killed early Sunday when his car slammed into the side of a 28-car Chesapeake and Ohio freight train at a level crossing in the south end of Sarnia.

Price, father of three children and employed with Dow Chemical Company of Sarnia, died before an ambulance reached the crash-scene.

Lizette Toth, 14, died Saturday three hours after the car in which she was riding collided with an eastbound CNR train at Toronto. The car was thrown 30 feet into a ditch.

David Bentley, driver of the car, suffered a fractured skull.

The car had almost cleared the double-track level crossing when the train caught its rear end. There are no signals at the crossing.

GIRL ASPHYXIATED

Doreen Rock, 16, died in hospital Saturday afternoon of carbon monoxide poisoning a few hours after she and her boy friend were found unconscious in a parked car.

The youth, Ross Patterson, 20, is in serious condition. The couple was found by Doreen's mother, Mrs. Adam Rock, in Patterson's car, parked with the motor running in the Rock driveway.

Police said a faulty muffler caused fumes to escape into the car.

Clifford Beyers, 53, of Moncton died in hospital Saturday of injuries received Friday night when he was struck by a car while walking on Highway 23 near his home.

Police said Beyers was struck by a car driven by James Eisler of Listowel when Eisler's car swerved into a roadside snowbank trying to avoid hitting an oncoming car and another pedestrian.

Floyd Fitzsimmons, 24, of Pinkerton, has been arrested and charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident. The charge arises from the death of Merton McKenzie, 51, Cargill district farmer.

McKenzie was found on the side of a district road on Saturday and died before medical aid could reach him.

IN CROSSING CRASH

Vincent Duquette, 28, was killed Sunday when a freight train struck his car at a level-crossing in Port Colborne.

Two front-seat passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Gervais, escaped with minor injuries. They said the car stalled on the crossing. They told police Duquette jumped from the car as the train struck.

It was the second area train-car death within a week. Mrs. Samuel Gennings, 40, was killed in a similar accident Monday.

Mrs. Heda Fliess, about 60, died in a Toronto hospital Sunday during an emergency operation after she was hit by a car as she crossed a main street in the city.

No charges have been laid.

Four-year-old George (Danny) Devey was killed Saturday when run over by a milk truck at Kitchener. The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Devey, had been playing on a tricycle on the road in front of his home.

KILLED BY TRACTOR

At Barrie, Wendy Van Beek, 3, died Sunday after her father, Hank Van Beek, accidentally backed a tractor over her. Mr. Van Beek was clearing snow in the yard of his Oro Township farm.

Alexander Campbell, 48, died in a Toronto hospital of a fractured skull Saturday after he fell and struck his head on the cement floor of a Canadian Legion hall.

George Richard Long, 25, of Wasaga Beach and formerly of Owen Sound, was killed Saturday when struck by a car as he walked along Highway 91.

Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD — Mrs. Jennie Allison of Trenton spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. C. Spencer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Medhurst of Hamilton were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Talcott and attended the funeral of their aunt, Miss Emma White, in Picton, on Tuesday.

Sorry to report Mr. Clarence Spencer is a patient in Kingston General Hospital, having suffered a severe heart attack on Sunday.

Mr. William Mitchell is a patient in Kingston General Hospital. His many friends are hoping he will soon be able to return home much improved.

Mrs. George Thompson was surprised on February 25 when a number of friends and relatives arrived at her home with a beautifully decorated birthday cake in honor of her birthday. A pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. John McGee of Scoharie is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Douglas Pearce and Mr. Pearce.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bradshaw, Kenneth and Stevie were Sunday afternoon and tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey, Cannifton.

Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Cox spent Sunday with Mrs. Cox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amab Akey, Cannifton.

Mrs. Fred Macdonald's many friends are pleased to hear she has returned home from Belleville General Hospital feeling much better.

Mr. Floyd Henderson is still on the sick list.

Mr. Earl Keene, Belleville, accompanied by Percy Akey, Cannifton; Mr. F. G. Reed, Belleville; Mr. Fred Prindle, Foxboro, attended the funeral of the late Right Worshipful Past Grand Master of the Provincial Grand Lodge of the L.O.L. of Ontario East, Bro. Richard Sanderson, who died at his home in Havelock, where the funeral was held from St. John's Anglican Church on Saturday.

Janice Ann Andrews spent a week with her aunt, Mrs. Milton Akey and family.

The weekly euchre club was held at the home of Mrs. Chas. Hart on Tuesday evening. The winners were: Mrs. Eva Juby, Mrs. Lucille Lloyd; consolation, Mrs. Agnes Whalen. After euchre refreshments were served by Mrs. Nellie Breach and a social time was spent together.

ABBD Kenneth Bradshaw has returned to Cornwallis where he is stationed at the Stradicona house.

ALLIES ON EXERCISE

OTTAWA (CP) — German, Italian and British soldiers have completed their first workout with the Canadian Army in Arctic training. Thirty-five soldiers took part in a 4½-week exercise north of Fort Churchill. They included eight members of the British army, one Italian and one German.

WELCOME HOME

UNEMPLOYMENT

Railroad employment had dropped to the lowest level since 1899. Coal mining, the erstwhile "sick industry" which perked up during the big boom of 1955-57, is ailing again.

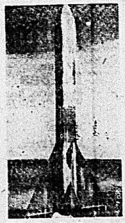
When Detroit suffers, a lot of other places have more than sympathetic pains.

Five new tries go unsold with every new car that isn't built. Akron feels the pinch; and so does Miami, Okla. Synthetic fibre goes into cars as well as stockings—du Pont has laid off hundreds in the south. Toolmakers in Cleveland, steel workers in Pennsylvania, iron miners in Minnesota, glass makers in several cities, all feel the pinch of a disappointing auto year.

GUILTY ON FIVE COUNTS

TORONTO (CP) — John Gross, 30, of Toronto Thursday was sentenced to three months concurrent on each of five charges of false pretences. Evidence was that Gross rented a house then advertised it for rent and took deposits up to $75 apiece from five different people who sought to become tenants.

PLANS TO LAUNCH BIGGEST SATELLITE



Major-General Bernard A. Schriver, commissioner of the ballistic missile division, has announced that the USAF is planning the launching of a 1,300 - pound satellite — heavier than the combined weights of the two Russian and one American satellite previously hurled into space. The announcement was made at the air force association's jet age conference being held in Washington.

High Prices, Increased Sales Boost Income of Producers

By DAVE OANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Higher livestock prices and increased cattle sales, partly to United States buyers, boosted the income of Canadian livestock producers in 1957 to a record $665,000,000, a 13-per-cent increase over the previous year.

The agriculture department's annual review of the livestock market, released Friday, said the greater gross value also resulted from sales of better quality animals and sharply higher hog prices.

"Domestic demand throughout the year and export buying from May onward were such that supplies were never burdensome and weekly clearances were the rule," the report said.

Cattle marketings hit a record 2,604,968 during the year, an increase of 12 per cent over 1956. This resulted from increases in livestock production in the traditional grain-growing provinces of Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta.

PASSED MILLION-MARK

Calf marketings in 1957 totalled 1,033,580, passing the 1,000,000-mark for the first time.

During the first part of 1957, cattle prices showed a downward trend. In the five-month period, April to August, good steers sold at a relatively stable $19 to $20 a hundred pounds.

The big movement of cattle across the U.S. border started in May when the American market began to climb steadily and sharply above that in Canada. Keen competition from U.S. buyers kept feeder cattle prices at strong levels during the fall period of heavy marketings.

By November, Canadian livestock producers, chiefly from the Prairies, were shipping south 22,000 head a week. Total shipments to the U.S. in 1957 were 372,442 cattle, nine times greater than the 45,746 exported in 1956.

NINE PER-CENT DROP

Hog marketings in the year were 5,400,239, a drop of nine per cent from 1957. All provinces except Nova Scotia showed declines.

Hog prices in 1957 averaged $29.70 a hundred pounds, up almost $5 from the $25.20 of the previous year. Despite smaller marketings, the increased value pushed revenue from hog sales through commercial channels to almost $255,000,000, the highest since 1952.

Exports of fresh and frozen pork were 29,500,000 pounds, a drop of 28 per cent from 1956. Bacon and ham exports in 1957 totalled 4,700,000, down 42 per cent from 1956. Canned ham exports dropped 57 per cent to 4,000,000 pounds.

Sales of sheep and lambs during the year were 598,979 head, about 10,000 less than in the previous year. Foreign trade of both live and dressed animals increased sharply in 1957. Most of the sales were made to U.S. buyers.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was looking at the books in the bookcase to see if any of them were in the right place, and she said to pop. A person can be assured of a good education without necessarrily being born with a silver spoon.

That's a fact, our schools are free and many a good man has werked his way through them, pop said, and ma said, Oh, I dont meen it's necessary to be born either rich or poor.

I give up, just what is necessary, my dear? pop said, and ma said, Well, I'll discribe my own recent experience. A little more than 2 weeks ago I took out a lyberry book by Dickins called Bleek House, because we haven't got that one in our own set of Dickins, and even if we did own it I'm sure it would take me munths and munths to reed it and perhaps I'd never actually finish it, simply because it would always be right there, so there wouldn't be any special hurry. Do you follow me, William? she said.

I'm right behind you, pop said, and ma said, Well, as the 2 weeks drew to an end I realized with a shock that I would soon have to begin paying 2 cents fine for every day I was late in reterning Bleek House, so I dipped into it day and night and only had to pay 6 cents fine. So just think how many good books would never get red it it wasn't for the haunting fear of those few pennies fine which is within the reetch of rich and poor alike, she said.

My dear, your point is not only cristal cleer, it is highly amusing, pop said.

And he laffed like anything to prove it.

St. Thomas Man Acquitted on Smuggling Count

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — George Dingman, 33, of St. Thomas was acquitted Friday of a charge of smuggling a car into Canada from the United States.

Dingman and six London men were arrested by the RCMP last fall and charged with operating an international car smuggling ring. Pat Zoccano, 39, and William Lamont, 25, were convicted and sentenced to jail. Frank Zoccano, 31, was fined $300.

The other men have not been tried. Dingman still faces a charge of conspiracy and three additional charges of violating the Customs Act.

During the trial Dingman testified that he was tipped off to illegal operations on his London used-car lot in July, 1955, and immediately closed the lot. Shortly before, he said, he had sold the lot to Harold Snyder, 34, also charged with smuggling, but that Snyder had defaulted on payments and he had reclaimed the business.

PASSED THROUGH LOT

Dingman said that a 1951 automobile, alleged to have been smuggled, passed through the lot in 1955 during the time the lot was owned by Snyder.

Snyder told the court he sold the car in question to a man named Grant Adding of Paris. But RCMP officers said Adding did not exist.

A handwriting expert testified that transfer papers allegedly signed by Adding compared with writing on papers signed by Snyder.

Magistrate F. G. McAlister said "Snyder's evidence is of no assistance" and that he believed Dingman's explanations were "forthright in their presentation."

"The circumstances are not conclusive facts," he said.

Hearing against Snyder, Joseph Lang and Louis Toth will be held March 12.

Common Market Countries Cool to Britain's Idea

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain, a sometimes reluctant bride approaching the altar of closer trade links with Europe, now fears she may be left waiting at the church.

This is because the European bridegroom suspects her of other loves, and also fears that she would be a cold and calculating mistress in the household, holding tight to her dowry.

It is a sad comedown for Britannia because only two years ago she seductively advanced the idea of a European free trade area with a proud air of confidence that suitors would flock to her side.

Britain's proposed 17-country free trade area would extend the European common market formed by six countries—France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

But the common market countries are decidedly cool to Britain's idea. An undercurrent of desperation was noticeable in Britain's voice this week when she pleaded—in the person of Paymaster-General Reginald Maulding—with France not to sabotage the free trade plan and force Britain to make a choice between Europe and the Commonwealth.

The common market countries, it is said, are reluctant because they suspect the United Kingdom has no real desire to consummate the marriage. Britain rejected many proposals in the immediate post-war years for partnership in such plans as the coal and steel community.

Britain's view now has changed, they say, because the actual existence of the common market threatens to deprive her of a market with a vast potential of nearly 170,000,000. Said Maulding:

"If the common market comes into being there is no free trade area, then, to take a concrete example, the French government will on Jan. 1 start to charge a lower rate of import duty on a German car than on a Swedish or British one."

Under the British plan, the U.K. would also abolish restrictions with her partners, but would retain protection for her own farmers and also for Commonwealth countries. European countries, particularly France, object strenuously to retention of Commonwealth preference.

The Daily Mail, describing the British plan as a "fading dream," said French industrialists "have thrown a spanner in the works" because they fear U.K. competition.

Collapse of the plan would have serious repercussions in Britain, which has no vast "home market" comparable to those of the United States and Russia. She would be faced with a growing trade threat from the common market countries.

Britain may also find difficulties in Commonwealth trade. The young countries of the Commonwealth are busy establishing their own primary and secondary industries and are unlikely to jettison the tariff structures that protect them.

Strongly-Armed Algerian Rebels Open Offensive

French Troops Finding Foes Are Well-Trained

ALGIERS (AP) — Embattled French troops are facing their most severe challenge in three years in rebellion-torn Algeria as Moslem nationalists have begun their long-heralded "spring offensive."

For the first time since the rebellion began Nov. 1, 1954, the French are facing strong, disciplined rebel units, armed with modern equipment in fair quantities and trained for their tasks.

In place of the primitive shotguns and hunting weapons of the early days, the 480,000-man French army in Algeria meets modern machine-guns, mortars and anti-tank weapons.

LOSING MORE MEN

In the last eight days more than six pitched battles have been fought. In these largest engagements of the war the French have at times reported losing about half as many men as the rebels. In past years they reported skirmish losses only one-fifth or one-tenth as heavy as the rebels'.

This new situation means a serious strain for France.

The French claim that Moslem youths are recruited by underground rebel organizers and guided to neighboring Tunisia for thorough training with modern weapons.

The French report that some recently captured rebels admitted being trained in Egypt and Libya.

In hopes of stopping the arms and trainee traffic to Tunisia, French authorities plan to make a closely guarded no-man's-land of a strip up to 20 miles wide just inside the Algerian border with Tunisia.

NATO Council Meets to Study Russian Stand

PARIS (Reuters) — The permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meets here tonight to discuss Russia's latest terms for East-West summit talks.

The meeting, originally scheduled for Thursday, was pushed ahead after Russia last weekend reversed its earlier stand and agreed to a conference of foreign ministers before a meeting at the summit.

Russia, however, has insisted on a "firm agreement" for the date of top-level talks before the foreign ministers meet.

SUGGESTS JUNE DATE

Details of a letter sent by Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau were released Monday night by Tass news agency.

In it, Gromyko suggested that the foreign ministers should meet in Geneva next month and that summit talks should follow in June. But he insisted that the foreign ministers should have the "limited task" of preparing an agenda and determining those who would participate in the summit conference.

Gromyko's letter repeated Soviet proposals that the summit talks should be on "a parity basis—for example that the West be represented by France, the United States, Britain and Italy and the East by the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Romania." The same parity should apply to the foreign ministers' meeting, Gromyko said.

The Soviet foreign minister also said the Eastern and Western blocs would have to agree on the participation in the summit talks of "some uncommitted powers."

Dynamite Blast Sinks Barge, One Man Killed

IROQUOIS, Ont. (CP) — One man was killed and two others severely injured Monday night when a dynamite blast sank the drilling barge Rock King in the St. Lawrence River at the eastern entrance to the new Iroquois lock.

Police said William Palmer, 23, of Charteris, Que., was killed. Pierre Wanten, 32, and August Wingngues, 28, both of Montreal, are in hospital at Brockville, Ont.

Palmer was believed trapped by a premature blast before he could climb from the underwater shaft in which he had been working.

The explosion occurred as the Rock King's nine-man crew was attempting to clear the lock entrance, only a few feet from the Canadian shore. The barge, owned by Canadian Dredge and Dock Company, Toronto, settled to the river bed in four feet of water, its bottom ripped out by the blast.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Most of Ontario is cloudy with a sprinkling of light snow falling here and there this morning. This results from the moist air left in the wake of the low pressure area which moved into western Quebec Monday after plaguing Ontario all last week. Although some breaks in the cloud cover are expected today, a new disturbance developing in Saskatchewan will move across central Ontario Wednesday promising the north country more snow followed by cooler temperatures and Southern Ontario cloudy skies and wet snowflurries or showers with little change in temperature.

Union Wins Fight Against Short Work Week Plan

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union has won its fight with Chrysler for a 40-hour work week for high-seniority Detroit-area workers and layoffs with unemployment benefits for the rest.

With Chrysler employment in the United States currently down from 108,000 at this time last year to somewhere around 80,000, the union argues that a full work week for some and unemployment compensation for the others is a better deal than a short work week for all.

Chrysler's decision to go along with the union was made Monday.

Thinks Present College Generation Is Probably Best Ever Produced

NEW YORK (AP)—Is the present college generation the best produced?

This cheerful possibility is raised by Dr. Otto Butz, a young professor of political science at Princeton University.

It is part of the story of man that each generation tends to look down its nose at the generation that is rising up to replace it on the stage of history.

So it is that the middle-aged man today, himself a survivor of what was denounced as "the lost generation," is often found now denouncing the present college crop as the "silent" or "beat" generation.

This verdict didn't jibe at all with the on-the-spot findings of Dr. Butz, who, as a German-born Canadian who studied at the University of Toronto, felt himself in a better position to judge.

"After all," he said, smiling, "I'm an inside outsider.

"I had heard the younger generation in the United States was a group of unthinking conformists without individuality, altruism or dedication.

"But gradually, as I taught college classes here, year after year, these criticism amazed me more and more, and seemed more unfair to me. I sensed in these college kids a tremendous amount of seriousness, public mindedness — even idealism covered over with a sophisticated casualness."

So much of what he felt to be eyewash had been written about the present young generation that Dr. Butz wondered, "Why doesn't someone ask these young college men what they think of themselves—and the role they hope to play in life?"

He finally did it himself. He had 11 Princeton seniors, picked pretty much at random, write their own biographies—and their dreams. The result is a book called The Unsilent Generation, and it sold 4,000 copies in two days.

Some of the essay are sophomoric, as could be expected. Some are smug. But no one who reads them, if he accepts them as typical, can feel quite so safe again in describing this generation as thoughtless, silent, beat, or interested only in personal security.

ONT., OTTAWA SIGN HOSPITAL AGREEMENT PLAN

Will Be Operating On Jan. 1st 1959

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario and the federal government have signed the first federal-provincial hospital insurance agreement.

The ceremony took place in the centre block of the Parliament Buildings Monday with Health Minister J. Waldo Monteith signing for the federal government and Premier Leslie Frost for Ontario.

Mr. Monteith said the signing launches a project "which will contribute more to the health and well-being of Canadians than any step undertaken since Confederation."

Mr. Frost described the signing as a "moment in history" and said it is an "objective in the field of human betterment."

The Ontario hospital insurance program is expected to be in operation Jan. 1, 1959. Under the agreement the province and the federal government will share the cost of standard ward care and diagnostic services.

Mr. Monteith said it is his hope and expectation that other provinces "will shortly enter into similar agreements with the federal government."

HOPES WILL SIGN

Elaborating later to reporters, he said he hopes British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and perhaps Newfoundland will be in a position to sign before July 1. These provinces now have hospital insurance plans of their own.

The Ontario hospital service commission will administer the Ontario plan which makes coverage available to all residents of Ontario on payment of premiums.

Ontario residents who enter the plan will be covered for inpatient benefits including accommodation and meals at standard ward level: nursing services; laboratory, radiological and other diagnostic services; drugs, biologicals and related preparations; use of operating rooms, case room and anaesthetic facilities; surgical supplies and radiotherapy and physiotherapy facilities. The plan also provides for outpatient services for accident cases on an emergency basis.

Under the agreement signed Monday for standard ward care and diagnostic services the cost will be about $72,000,000 to each government during the first year of operation.

The Ontario plan also covers mental and tuberculosis patients for which the federal government makes no contribution. Mr. Frost said in the Ontario legislature Feb. 6 that the over-all cost of the Ontario plan will be $210,000,000 a year, including the federal contribution.

FALLS 60 FEET, UNINJURED

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP) — Lt.-Cmdr. Albert Crary of the United States Navy fell 60 feet into Kainan Bay at Little America in the Antarctic last Friday but was rescued injured. A report reaching U.S. Navy headquarters in New Zealand said Crary scrambled from the bay on to a small ice floe and was carried a mile out to sea before two men in a raft paddled out to get him. He is the scientific leader at the American Antarctic base.

Political Leaders Find New Yeast Stirring in Campaign

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell believes a new yeast is stirring in Canadian politics, but he and Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson will disagree over which party will eventually bake this political dough.

The two leaders touched on the trends they see taking shape in Canada's politics as they campaigned Monday for the March 31 federal election.

As he worked the west coast, Mr. Coldwell foresaw a movement of leftwing members from the Progressive Conservative, Liberal and Social Credit parties into the CCF party. The right-wing elements in those parties then would get together in a single group.

But Mr. Pearson, moving swiftly through Manitoba, said his is the party of the left and urged Canadians to vote for a return to the two-party system of government and reject the so-called splinter groups—the CCF and Social Credit.

Meantime, Prime Minister Diefenbaker hastened through Quebec Monday and opened a stand in Ontario today while Social Credit Leader Solon Low continued to tour in his home constituency of Peace River.

At Grande Prairie, Alta., Mr. Low said federal assistance to build a railway across wastelands from Prince Albert, Sask. Prime Minister Diefenbaker's hometown—to Great Slave Lake would be nothing short of patronage for votes.

Mr. Diefenbaker spent Monday in the Chicoutimi area of Quebec. It was his fourth appearance in the province that many consider holds the key to a party's majority in the Commons.

The prime minister asked that his party be given a "clear and unmistakable mandate" on voting day and questioned the good Quebec has received from supporting the Liberals over the years.

"Can you tell me what these men, whom you have supported for many decades, have done for you? Must we come to the conclusion that you have no problems which come within the province of the federal government?"

Monday night, as he paused at Montreal's Windsor Station on his way by train to Toronto, Mr. Diefenbaker became engulfed by some 500 placard-waving supporters. Railway policemen finally had to shoulder an opening for him in the crowd so that he could get back to his private railway car.

Duplessis Plays Spectator But His Ministers Aid PC's

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis is remaining an interested spectator during campaigning for the March 31 federal election but his Union Nationale party members are throwing support to the Progressive Conservatives.

The attitude is one the premier has taken before—he maintains his mandate is strictly provincial—but there have been some noteworthy changes.

During the legislature session adjourned last month the premier made none of the attacks on the Diefenbaker administration he so often launched against the former Liberal government.

Mr. Duplessis was originally a Conservative leader elected at a party convention in 1933. He is the son of a Conservative, the late Judge N. L. Duplessis, who sat in the legislative assembly for 15 years.

There has been no Conservative party as such in Quebec politics since the foundation of the Union Nationale in 1936 but Mr. Duplessis' party generally gets the votes of Conservative supporters.

Mr. Duplessis' attitude has been strictly independent — although there has been no animosity there have been no friendly overtures.

But the same may not be said for some of the party's most important men. Seven UN ministers are, or soon will be, drumbeating for the Progressive Conservatives in the province.

Fisheries Minister Dr. Camille Pouliot has spoken at several Conservative rallies and at a meeting Mr. Diefenbaker held recently in Rimouski, Que.

Works Minister Antonio Barrette is campaigning for the Conservatives in Joliette, the riding he represents in the provincial legislature. Jacques Miquelon, minister without portfolio, is doing the same in his Abitibi-East riding.

Roads Minister Antonio Talbot has jumped into the fight in the Chicoutimi area. Colonization minister Joseph Begin, the Union Nationale's chief organizer, is supporting a Conservative candidate in Dorchester and Dr. Arthur Leclerc, minister without portfolio, is campaigning in Charlevoix.

Paul Sauve, minister of youth and social welfare and one of the premier's first lieutenants, is to campaign in the Montreal area when he returns from a Florida vacation March 15.

The fight in Quebec-East—former premier St. Laurent's old riding—should be a good one. Union Nationale organizers who fashioned a victory in the riding in the June 1956 provincial election are working for the Conservatives. Liberal candidate is Maurice Lamontagne.

It is felt a meeting between Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Premier Duplessis is possible although there is no time set for it in the itinerary covering the prime minister's Quebec visit March 26. Mr. Duplessis once met former Conservative party leader George Drew during a campaign but never met with Mr. St. Laurent at such a time.

It is certain Union Nationale members are making every effort to win more of Quebec's 75 seats for the Progressive Conservatives than the nine they took in the last election.

EXPECT LIBERALS TO HIT GROWTH ONTARIO DEBT

Legislature Debate On Budget to Open

TORONTO (CP) — A vehement Liberal attack is expected as budget debate begins today in the Ontario legislature.

The budget, tabled last Wednesday by Premier Frost, disclosed Ontario's public debt rose by $100,000,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31 and is expected to rise another $140,000,000 in the year beginning April 1.

Opposition criticism is expected to centre on the increased debt and also on the $147,000,000 netted last year under the 11-per-cent corporation tax.

Some of this criticism appeared Monday during throne speech debate. Gordon Innes (L Oxford) said the Progressive Conservative government has increased the debt by $100,000 a day since it assumed office 15 years ago.

He also called for a reduction in the corporation tax, saying "we cannot collect taxes from firms after they have closed their doors."

URGES CREDIT BUREAU

Agriculture drew most of Mr. Innes' attention, however, and he urged the government to set up a credit bureau for established farmers.

It should be easier to get junior farmers' loans, he said, but established farmers also need greater credit opportunity if they are to be saved from "corporate engulfment."

Insufficient credit had "increased the growth of contract farming in this province."

Mr. Innes also urged tighter supervision to stop "bootlegging" of milk in Ontario.

"Cheap milk is being sold in high-quality markets without benefit to the producer and health regulations are being violated," he said.

TO AID BUSINESS

Turning to business and industry, the Woodstock Liberal suggested the government establish a department of industry to help small businessmen.

The new department could encourage the manufacture of goods now imported, he said, and stimulate the buying of Ontario products.

Attorney-General Roberts promised increased pressure on the federal government for overpasses after Mr. Innes read a list of deaths caused by level-crossing accidents in Ingersoll, near Woodstock.

Allan Grossman (PC—Toronto-St. Andrew) joined Liberal spokesmen in demanding right-of-appeal in decision by government boards and commissions. Denying appeal was "a clear case of stripping away the rights of the people."

Mr. Grossman's hour-long address was highlighted by urgings for an expanded special placement division in the National Employment Service.

"There are too many old and handicapped people left to wither on the shelf in idleness," he said.

BECOMING MONOTONOUS

NEW YORK (AP) — "Jimmy the Greek" was arrested Monday night — for the 65th time — by two pickpocket squad detectives just before curtain time at the Shubert Theatre.

Italian Newspapers Urge Church Moderate Its Ire Over Conviction

ROME (AP) — Leading Italian newspapers have called on the Roman Catholic Church to moderate its anger at the conviction of a bishop by an Italian court.

The case has grown into the gravest clash between church and state in Italy since the Lateran pacts were signed 29 years ago.

Catholic Italy was shocked Monday when Pope Pius cancelled ceremonies celebrating the March 12 anniversary of his coronation "in bitterness, sadness and outrage."

The Vatican indicated that automatic excommunication has been incurred by those mainly responsible for conviction of Bishop Pietro Fiordelli of Prato on charges of defaming an atheist grocer and his Catholic wife who were married in a civil ceremony.

Some newspapers in addition to the Communist press describe the church's action as excessive.

Rome's Il Tempo, independent, in a front-page editorial says the Florence court verdict was "simply on one case and according to Italian law."

Milan's independent paper Il Giorno, pleading that "demagogues refrain from disturbing the atmosphere," says "an appeal should be made to all, including the Catholic hierarchy, which would harm itself by acting as though Italy were a land with a Catholic minority. . . ."

The possibility that the three judges of the Florence court who convicted the bishop face excommunication was announced in an editorial in the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano. The paper named no one specifically, but said the court may have fallen under excommunication for "directly or indirectly" impeding ecclesiastial jurisdiction.

The paper also cited a church law that "if any person dares bring before a judge a cardinal, a major official of the Roman Curia or head of a diocese, he will ipso facto meet excommunication." This presumably applied to the grocer, Mauro Bellandi.

Consumer Price Index Advances To Record Peak

Higher Prices for Food Main Cause of Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's consumer price index rose to a record 123.7 at the start of February, due mainly to higher food prices, the bureau of statistics said today.

The index — barometer of living costs—advanced three-tenths of a point from 123.4 at the start of January. The January figure equalled the previous high established last October.

The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

Increases in the subindexes for shelter and other commodities and services also contributed to the increase at the start of February. Both the clothing and household operation subindexes remained unchanged.

WAGE INDEX RISES

Meanwhile, the index of average wages and salaries at Dec. 1—the latest figure available—rose to 161.2 from 160.1 at Nov. 1, based on 1949 equalling 100. This compared with 155.2 at Feb. 1, 1957. Averages for the preceding years were 149.4 in 1956; 141.7 in 1955; 137.1 in 1954; 133.4 in 1953; 126 in 1952; 115.5 in 1951; 104.4 in 1950 and 100 in 1949.

The food subindex at Feb. 1 rose from 119.4 to 119.9 as prices rose for most items of fruit, vegetables and meats.

The biggest price increases were for oranges, fresh tomatoes and beef. The only decline of any consequence was a further drop of four cents a dozen for eggs.

The other commodities and services subindex moved up to 129.5 from 129.1 mainly because of further widespread increases in hospital rates averaging three per cent. Fractionally higher prices were reported for pharmaceuticals and personal care items, including toothpaste, toilet soap and shaving cream.

HIGHER RENTS

The shelter subindex increased to 136.9 from 136.6 following slight advances in both the rent and home-ownership components.

The clothing subindex remained unchanged at 108.8 and the household operation subindex was unchanged at 120.8.

After reaching the previous high of 123.4 Oct. 1, the over-all index declined at Nov. 1 to 123.3 and dropped to 123.1 at Dec. 1. It then rose to 123.4 at Jan. 1.

The record index figure of 123.7 at the start of February compared with 120.5 at Feb. 1, 1957.

The index of Canadian farm products at terminal markets—also on the 1935-39 base—rose 2.3 per cent to 217.2 from 212.4 in the three-week period from Jan. 31 to Feb. 21. The rise was caused mainly by a boost of 3.3 per cent in the animal products index which moved to 275.5 from 266.6. Calves were sharply higher with lesser increases for other livestock items and eggs.

GALT (CP) — Mrs. David Rife of Hespeler, who would have celebrated her 104th birthday May 14, died Monday. She was born in Galt but had lived in nearby Hespeler since childhood.

Congress Chiefs Approve Plans For Nixon's Role

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders voiced approval today of an agreement by which Vice-President Nixon would take over as acting chief executive of the United States if President Eisenhower becomes disabled.

But differences of opinion cropped out over whether the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement announced Monday would give the vice-president sufficient constitutional authority to act, and whether Eisenhower legally could reclaim his office.

There also were demands that Congress act quickly toward clearing up the question about who makes the decision that a president is disabled. The U.S. Constitution does not specify how that shall be done.

SAME DUTIES

A White House statement Monday said that, if possible, the president would inform the vice-president if he should become disabled, and Nixon would serve as acting president, "exercising the powers and duties of the office until the inability had ended."

"In the event of an inability which would prevent the president from so communicating with the vice-president, the vice-president, after such consultation as seems appropriate to him under the circumstances, would decide on the devolution of the powers and duties of the office and would serve as acting president until the inability had ended.

"The president, in either event, would determine when the inability had ended and at that time would resume the full exercise of the powers and duties of the office."

THURLOW SCHOOLS SPONSOR DISPLAY

Graded schools in Thurlow township have a window display at the Bert Lewis Jewellery store showing school work in connection with Education Week being observed this week all across Canada.

Two other window displays, one at The James Texts, and the other at the Hydro office, show work being done in Belleville public and high schools.

$300 DAMAGE IN COLLISION

Damage of approximately $300 was caused yesterday morning when two cars collided at the corner of Yeomans and West Moira Streets.

Police said Harry E. Whitmarsh, Wallbridge Road, was southbound on Yeomans when his car was in collision with a westbound vehicle on West Moira, driven by Mrs. Margaret Sargent, R.R. 5, Belleville.

CHARGE MOTORISTS WITH CARELESS DRIVING

Two motorists checked while driving at "terrific speed" on Front Street were stopped by police shortly before midnight last night and are charged with careless driving.

Police said that Harry A. Kemp, 29, of Bowmanville, had attempted to pass another car driven by Doug Collins, 16, of 119 Moira Street, when the second car speeded up preventing him from passing.

SLICE A PATH IN MOIRA RIVER

First signs of an early spring break up in the lower Moira River are visible. Strong currents have sliced a curvaceous path through the ice from well above the upper bridge to the mouth of the river.

Ice on the bay is in some places showing signs of weakening, especially in the vicinity of the bridge in Prince Edward county.

The Trent River gives the impression that any time now it will free the ice which has kept it covered all winter. The river is open above No. 2 dam.

Other signs of spring: grackles were seen over the weekend; robins were sighted in and near Trenton; crows are back; buds on the trees are growing larger; pussy willows have been blooming for some time; the lake trout season is open in Hastings county; the tendency of the thermometer in recent days has inclined to rise slightly.

LIBERALS OPEN COMMITTEE ROOMS ON BRIDGE ST. WEST

The executive of the Belleville Liberal Association have opened their clubrooms for the coming election on March 31st. They are situated on Bridge Street West near the lower bridge. The committee rooms will be opened day and night from now till election time and a staff of workers will be on hand to give any information required. It is expected the room will also be used for the holding of ward meetings and other functions in connection with the election.

SEES RARE BIRD IN BAYSIDE AREA

Mrs. F. W. Wallis, R.R. 3, Belleville, field naturalist and well known taxidermist, reported today that a short while ago she spotted a male and female brewer's blackbird in the vicinity of Bayside.

This specie of blackbird has been sighted only once before in the Belleville area, she said.

OPP INVESTIGATE TWO BREAK-INS

Provincial police at Belleville are investigating break-ins at two public schools on the 4th and 5th concessions of Tyendinaga township. One of the schools entered was the Blessington school on the 4th.

School cupboards were ransacked and a mantel radio was stolen.

Montreal Wins Weightlifting Championship

The National Club of Montreal captured the Belleville Open Weightlifting championships at the annual meet held at the YMCA here last Saturday night, with a 26-point total. German and Central "Y" clubs of Toronto were second.

Eleven Belleville open records were shattered, nine of which went to the Montreal club. District clubs participating included Belleville Apollo with one point, Kingston with two and Peterborough.

The contest was capably refereed by Capt. Robertson of Barriefield, present Eastern Ontario middleweight champion, Belleville's Tommy Pedder and Don Cherry of Kingston, were the judges. YMCA physical instructor Jack Bernhardt assisted the weightlifting club in making this meet a total success.

RESULTS

The participating lifters, and their respective clubs and lifts are as follows:

Polio Victim Gets Wheelchair

Life for a local polio victim, 12-year-old Sharon Rushlow, was made easier yesterday by the Belleville Rotary Club, when at their Monday luncheon meeting the young girl was presented with a new wheel chair. The presentation was made by Mr. J. A. McFee, member of the club's crippled children's committee. Shown in the picture are Miss Helen Colton, representing the Ontario Society for Crippled Children; Sharon Rushlow, and Mr. McFee, who made the presentation on behalf of Rotary.

Tripled Birthrate Since 30's Cause of Teacher Shortage Speaker Tells Rotary Club

One of the prime causes of teacher shortage in Canada is the fact the birthrate has almost tripled since the depression period of the '30s, Rotarians were told at their weekly meeting yesterday by Al Drysdale, chairman of the School Management and Planning Committee of the Bay of Quinte High School District Board.

Mr. Drysdale, superintendent of Canada Cement Co., Point Anne, attended the Canadian Conference on Education held in Ottawa, February 16 to 20, as representative of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Actively interested in education, the speaker was past chairman of the Quinte School Board, and was recently made a member of the Board of Governors of Albert College. Upon his return from the conference, Mr. Drysdale, a McGill engineering graduate, wrote an article on teachers' salaries for an educational magazine.

"The Canadian birthrate today has risen to the unprecedented level of 28.1 per thousand," Mr. Drysdale said. "During the middle '30s the birthrate stood at 9.6 per thousand."

He explained that today's teachers are being recruited from this low birthrate period to teach a student population almost three times as large as it was 20 years ago.

"The number of children 15 years or under has risen 28 per cent since 1951 to total five and one-half million, or approximately one-third of our population," he stated. "Immigration has accounted for a portion of this increase. Of the 50,000 or 60,000 children entering school yearly, about 20,000 are children of immigrants."

This teacher shortage has resulted in shorter teacher training periods, lower standards, and demands for higher pay from the teaching staff, he said.

SMALL SUM SPENT

It was brought out at the conference, held to focus attention on this "educational crisis" and to seek ways and means to meet these problems, that only $750,000,000 out of the gross national product of $31 billion is spent on education annually in Canada.

This is only 2½ per cent of the gross national product," Mr. Drysdale stated.

At the conference it was estimated within the next 10 years 38,000 new classrooms will be needed. Within the next seven years Canada will spend $700,000,000 on elementary and secondary school buildings and $400,000,000 on the building of university buildings.

The speaker pointed out taxes will be raised — from 30 to 50 per cent on the municipal level, 20 per cent on the provincial level and approximately 7 per cent on the federal level.

"The purpose of education was the least clearly defined and the most difficult to get unanimity of thought," he stated. "It was brought out, however, that at least four times as many children are attending school in Russia than in Canada. If university training is our goal we lag far behind. Russian universities enroll 20 per 1000 population, the U.S.A. enrolls 15 per 1,000, while Canadian universities enroll only 5 per 1,000 population."

During the conference various workshops were held. Mr. Drysdale attended a two-day workshop program dealing with special needs of education. Among the features discussed were the unit system employed in elementary schools, and the comparatively new streaming system for secondary schools.

"I discovered through discussions the unit system practised in Belleville elementary schools is top-notch," he said.

With the unit system a child can advance according to his own ability and as quickly as he is able to absorb the work, he explained. The child moves through 12 units in four grades, about three per year.

"The unit system is an answer to the former acceleration principle whereby a student skipped a grade and lost out on that year's work," he explained. "It also takes care of the one-year difference in ages among grade 1 pupils."

Mr. Drysdale informed the Bay of Quinte High School Board is contemplating instituting the Peterborough system of "streaming" into Belleville secondary schools in the near future.

The Peterborough system employs only three streams, while the streaming system now in operation in city high schools uses four streams.

Mr. Drysdale explained with the streaming system the slow students are removed from the regular course and given courses suited to their ability, while students with the desire and ability to complete four years are given a course geared to a higher level.

The Peterborough system is divided into three streams. Group one comprises 15-year-old students, who were transferred from grade 8 to secondary school. They are given a two-year watered-down course, taking in grade 10 only.

Group 2 comprises students 14 years old by September, who will be given a terminal course (up to grade 10), but will have the opportunity of transferring to group 3 by repeating grade 10.

Group 3 is composed of students possessing ability, industry, and desire to complete at least four years," the speaker explained.

In speaking of the 32 resolutions passed at the conference, the speaker said most dealt with the financing of education and the raising of teacher qualifications, with particular emphasis of higher standards for elementary teachers.

In conclusion, he said, "these resolutions are a mandate for Canadian education. Although the solutions are still far off, the problems are now clear."

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Andrew MacKenzie, principal of Albert College, who also attended the education conference as a representative of the Canadian Council of Churches. Thanks were extended on behalf of the club by Dr. Austin Walters and president Joe Demeza.

Prior to the address, a 12-year-old polio patient, Sharon Rushlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Rushlow, of 85½ George Street, was presented with a brand new wheel chair.

The presentation was made by Jack McFee on behalf of Belleville Rotary which is supporting this year's annual Easter Seal Campaign. The campaign opens March 6.

Little Sharon, who attended with district Children's Aid Society nurse, Miss Helen Colton, was introduced by Rotary Crippled Children's committee chairman, Fred Adsett.

Mr. Adsett informed local Rotarians that Sharon, a sixth grade student at Queen Alexandra School, rides to and from school in her wheel chair. The new $350 chair will replace her old wheel chair, which is much the worse for wear. He also said Sharon's hobbies include drama, dressmaking, and swimming.

Sympathy on behalf of the club was expressed by president Demeza to club member, Di Diamantides, on the recent death of his mother in Greece.

New Public Parking Area Now Opened

Commencing officially as of March 1st, Belleville has a new public parking area in the downtown section on the vacant lot at the south end of the post office property.

Alderman Ralph Graham as chairman of city parking commtitee last night told council that an agreement had been signed with the Federal Public Works Department under which the city would pay $10 per month rental for the property as a parking lot. He noted that much of the spade work in having his delegation meet with the public works department in Ottawa had been done by Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South.

He noted that for the time being random parking would be permitted on the lot although at some future date it was suggested the lot may be graded and meters installed on a temporay basis.

Council Ready To Finalize Year's Budget

Following weeks of intensive committee activity and finalization of what additional grants might be expected from the provincial government for educational purposes, Belleville city council will hold a special meeting Wednesday afternoon to set the 1958 tax rate.

At last night's regular meeting of council Mayor Gerald Hyde announced that a special committee meeting would be held this afternoon to finalize budget requirements, while a special meeting of open council would be held Wednesday afternoon to strike the tax rate.

Last week public schools administrator L. A. Kells noted that new grants announced by the provincial government for education would result in an estimated additional $48,000 in grant money for Belleville.

Today Mr. Roy Dulmage, secretary of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board, said it appeared that additional grants to be received by his board would amount to approximately $90,000.

Of this amount the city would receive an estimated $55,000 to $60,000.00, with the participating rural municipalities in the high school district board being credited with the balance.

Mr. Dulmage said the increase in the high school grant was on the pupil attendance rate.

The grant increase credited to the city was expected to result in this year's high school requisition to the city being no higher than last year, the additional money received to take care of all salary increases and other additional money requirements of the board for 1958."

It is expected the total grant to be received by the High School Board this year will be $360,000 as compared with $270,000 last year.

Patrol Officers Avert Blaze In Oil Office

City police patrol officers, Constables L. Kent and L. McLinton, averted what could have been a serious fire Monday night when as they were cruising on South Front Street they spotted a fire in the office of the Trinidad Leaseholds warehouse and turned in the alarm.

Firemen confined the blaze to a hole in the office floor.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said the blaze was apparently caused by a live cigaret which had been dumped into the waste paper basket from an ash tray.

The cigaret continued to smoulder and finally set fire to the paper in the basket.

"The fire could have had serious results," stated the fire chief. "Luckily it was discovered when it was."

Obituary

EDGAR S. VANDEWATER

Toronto — Belleville

Edgar Smith Vandewater, 81, Oakwood area real estate man, died at his home, 25 Rose Park Dr. Sunday. Born in Belleville, Mr. Vandewater came to Toronto 50 years ago. He set up his own real estate business about 1908, and semi-retired from it five years ago. Since then he had been assisting his son, H. S. Vandewater in the business.

He was a charter member of the Bay of Quinte Masonic Lodge, also a charter member of the Downtown Optimist Club. He was a member of Moore Park Bowling Club, and was one of the original members of the old Oakwood Curling Club on Christie St., and of the YMCA on Oakwood at St. Clair. He was a member of Christ Church Deer Park Church.

Mr. Vandewater leaves his wife, the former Ruby Irene Osborne with whom he celebrated his 53rd wedding anniversary in January; three daughters, Mrs. George B. Christensen, Mrs. Clare N. Wilson, and Mrs. Ralph W. Bowslaugh; a son, Howard S., all of Toronto; a sister, Mrs. Fred Longwell of Beamsville; and eight grandchildren.

WALTER ASHLEY JOHNSON

In failing health for some time, Walter Ashley Johnson, 311 Foster Ave., died in Belleville General Hospital yesterday at the age of 52 years.

He was the beloved husband of the former Commie Heslip, and dear son of Mrs. Eber Johnson of Frys, Saskatchewan. His father died some time ago. Other survivors include a son, Lyle, of Peterborough; a brother, Floyd of Frys, Sask; two sisters, Mrs. Frank Hopley, Highland Creek, and Mrs. John Hall, of Belleville.

Mr. Johnson had been an employee of the Ontario Hydro Commission in Toronto, but, because of ill health, he had resided in Belleville for some time. He was a member of Tabernacle United Church, and Moira Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 11. Mr. Johnson was born in Belleville.

Resting at the Thompson Funeral Home, Everett St.; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Council Defeats Deal Passed Four Years Ago

City council last night defeated a by-law carrying out the provisions of a land sale recommendation formally passed in council nearly four years ago.

The by-law would have formally deeded a narrow piece of property at the rear of the Bean property on upper Front street to Mr. W. Bean.

Instead of deeding the property to Mr. Bean, council will offer to lease the property which according to certain members of council is the present policy of council.

The property in question is 30 inches wide by 40 feet, four inches in length, at the rear of the Bean building. The small width of property would have been taken from a public laneway, which would have been closed by the city. The by-law to close the laneway was later withdrawn.

Alderman Ralph Graham in opposing the by-law deeding the property to Mr. Bean, asked why the city should depart from its policy of not selling city land.

Alderman D. Whalen moved an amendment offering to make the property available for lease to Mr. Bean.

Ald. C. D. Tice said council had agreed back in 1954 to sell the piece of property to Mr. Bean on his supplying an official survey. He said council should live up to its agreement of that time.

The amendment offering to lease the property was carried by a 7 to 6 recorded vote.

IN MEMORIAM

COLLINS. — In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away March 3rd, 1946.

The month of March now is here,
To us the saddest of the year;
We lost a loved one good and fine,
She will live in our hearts
'Till the end of time.
To be with us in the same old way
Would be our dearest wish today.

—Sadly missed and dearly remembered by daughters Ethel and Dreatha and sons-in-law Merritt and Tom.

COLLINS. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Pearl Collins, who passed away March 3rd, 1946.

We watched you suffer, we heard you sigh,
But all we could do was just stand by;
For when the time came we suffered too,
For you never deserved what you went through.
So you who have a mother,
Cherish her with care;
For you will never know a heartache,
Until you see her vacant chair.

—Sadly missed by husband Herb, son Ralph and daughter-in-law Ruby.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Light numbers of good and choice steers, heifers and yearlings sold actively at prices 25-50 cents a hundredweight lower at the Ontario public stockyards today.

Only scant numbers of top veal calves were offered and these sold at firm prices. Lower grades were $1 a hundredweight higher for the week. Hogs, sheep and lamb prices were unchanged.

Included in the cattle offering were 300 replacements.

Livestock on offer: Cattle 1,819; calves 214; hogs 497; sheep and lambs 119.

Slaughter cattle prices: Choice steers 22.50-23; good 21.50-22.50; medium 20-21; common 18-20; good heifers 20-20.50 with sales to 21; medium 19-20; common 16-19; choice fed yearlings 23-24; good 21-23; good cows 16-16.50; medium 15-15.50; common 14-14.50; canner and cutter cows 10-14; good heavy bologna bulls most 18.50 with an odd top to 19; common and medium 14-18.

Replacement cattle prices: Good stockers 21.50-22.50 with some lightweight stockers to 23; medium 18-20.

Calf prices: Good vealers 30-32 with choice to 33; medium 24-29; common 18-24; boners 14-18.

Hog prices: Grade A 30; sows 23; stags 13.

Sheep and lamb prices: Good Ontario feedlot lambs 24-24.50; common lambs down 16; sheep 4-9 according to quality.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) —Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was firm with offerings light for a fairly good demand.

Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture on graded eggs, delivered Toronto, in fibre cases: A large 46; A medium 44; A small 35; B 33; C 26; wholesale to retail: A large 51; A medium 49; A small 40; B 38; C 31.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade: Ontario 62½ in extremely light trading; western 62¾ on a sale of one car of western butter in fibreboard boxes.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 2 1-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Monday's noon rate was 98 cents.

Pound sterling $2.75¾, down ⅛.

BILLINGSLEY INJURED

NEW YORK (AP) — Sherman Billingsley, 56-year-old owner of the Stork Club, was reported in "very good" condition today in hospital after being injured in an auto accident. Billingsley suffered head injuries when his car and a taxi collided Monday night. He was charged with driving without an operator's licence.

Bus Facilities Available for Hockey Fans

There will be bus accommodation and tickets for 150 members of the McFarland Booster Club available for the McFarlands-Kingston game in Kingston tomorrow night, says booster president Dick Beare.

The buses will leave Memorial Arena at 6.30 and potential patrons are requested to get their tickets early. These are now on sale at Moe's Coffee Bar and Bill Cook's Tobacco Store.

The first come will be first served. So better get the pasteboards right away.

Council Renews Membership In L.O.D.A. on Close Vote

Belleville city council Monday night renewed membership in the Lake Ontario Development Association but the move met with stiff opposition from certain council members who felt the money would be better spent with the city industrial commission.

On a recorded vote council carried the motion to renew membership in the L.O.D.A. at a cost of $1,400, the vote being 7 to 6.

When the matter was introduced by Mayor Gerald Hyde, Alderman Ben Safe wanted to know what the accomplishments of the L.O.D.A. had been last year on behalf of Belleville.

In reply, Ald. Graham said that as result of association with the L.O.D.A., "three or four" enquiries from potential industry had been received in the city each month.

He admitted that he himself had been doubtful of the benefits of the L.O.D.A. but now he was convinced that it is a benefit.

He noted that much intangible good could come out of the L.O.D.A. and suggested that the city could not afford not to participate. Otherwise the city would have no opportunity to pursue enquiries.

"The membership fee is small and the benefits could be large and the L.O.D.A. also carries on tourist promotion," he said.

Ald. Safe said the alderman's remarks answered his question in an "intangible" way.

"I was in doubt when this thing started but now I am positive," he said.

He said he was not opposed to advertising Belleville but he felt any money spent should be spent in Belleville, not through an office in Peterborough.

NO INDUSTRY ACQUIRED

Alderman R. Temple said he was opposed, pointing out that since Belleville had been a member of the L.O.D.A. no industry had been acquired. Belleville's greatest strides in locating industry had been through its own Chamber of Commerce and its industrial commission, he said.

Ald. Les Digby agreed there had been no tangible benefit from membership in the L.O.D.A. but noted with lack of available land the city was not in position to take advantage of tips received. With annexation the situation would be different as the city would have choice industrial land to offer.

Ald. Graham felt the Ontario Government had shown a "forward look" when it set up the development association. He said Ald. Safe was crazy when he suggested the city spend money with the local industrial commission in preference to the L.O.D.A. He would, however, agree with spending an equal amount with the local commission.

Ald. C. D. Tice said the L.O.D.A. had helped Belleville "immeasurably". Belleville's local industrial commission had been established on a firm foundation and was now ready to go ahead with the help received from L.O.D.A.

Ald. Doug Moxam declared that with three years' membership in the L.O.D.A. all Belleville had received was tips. He suggested that the same tips as to potential industry were available from both governments and from banks.

Ald. Jack Ireland said council was missing the point and this was that the local industrial commission had been set up with membership in the L.O.D.A. in mind. It would be difficult at this time to take up the change.

RECEIVE ADVANTAGES

Ald. Frank Grandame said that as a member of the L.O.D.A. Belleville was receiving the advantage of tremendous advertising without which it could not hope to compete individually.

Mayor Gerald Hyde said too much stress was being put on industry in connection with L.O.D.A. activity. He noted that part of the activity of the organization was also to promote tourism. This helped to attract tourists to the Belleville area.

Mayor Hyde said that with respect to industry the L.O.D.A. supplied leads which local municipalities must follow up.

And to this end he suggested the day was not too far away when Belleville might employ an industrial commissioner on a "produce or else" capacity.

Stressing that result of membership in the L.O.D.A. might so far have been intangible, he said that years may go by without results and then the city might get something which would more than repay for its membership.

Approving renewal of membership in the L.O.D.A. were Mayor Hyde and Aldermen Digby, Graham, Grandame, Ireland, Tice and Whalen. Opposing were Aldermen Argue, Collins, Moxam McCabe, Safe and Temple.

Industrial Commission chairman Ed Bernstein and Ald. J. Ireland were named as city representatives on the L.O.D.A.

Eastern Seaboard Worst Hit In U.S. Business Slump

Editors's note: Business has slipped some notches from its prosperity peak. But Americans generally, a comprehensive Associated Press survey indicates, feel that the economic chill will somehow be cured after trial and trouble in 1958. This is another of a series of articles on the U.S. economic picture.

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Take a pencil and a map of the United States. Draw a line down the west coast, another under the Great Lakes, and a third down the Atlantic coast from Maine to the Carolinas.

You have marked off the main trouble spots in the ailing U.S. economy. They cover the country's greatest manufacturing centres, the areas with the heaviest population and thus the most politically important.

The rest of the country is beginning to feel the pinch, but it's not too bad.

Even in the troubled areas, business is still thriving in many respects.

MOWERS IN JANUARY

Data collected from coast to coast by the Associated Press suggests a buyer's market. Down at Chattanooga, Tenn., it's tough selling power lawnmowers in January snows. Yet L. B. Jackson's hardware store got "terrific response" from a cut-rate sale. He sold 100.

Many businessmen feel it's time for more vigorous merchandising, fancier packaging, aggressive selling. Yet the AP survey reflects little disposition to cut prices at this stage. Living costs are staying right at record levels.

And many citizens, especially the army of perhaps 5,000,000 unemployed, are curbing buying habits, making the car and topcoat do a while longer.

People still have money to spend. Retail sales in January hit $15,500,000,000, up one per cent from December on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Gross buying power is holding up even though the number of customers is dwindling.

INDUSTRIES HIT

Just as you can pinpoint the trouble spots on the map, you can single them out by industry.

In manufacturing it's primarily aircraft, autos, construction, electrical manufacturing, men's clothing and the chronically receding textiles industry.

Beyond this are the sorely-hurt great raw material industries—steel, down to 55 per cent of operating capacity; coal, copper, aluminum and lumber. Losses of freight have pinched their hauler, the railroads.

Construction, one of the first industries to feel the recession, is beginning to pick up again. January hit a record $3,300,000,000, three per cent above a year ago.

Some businessmen tolerant of foreign competition in the good years now are dreaming of higher tariffs. This is true in the steel and copper industries.

Despite its troubles, industry still is expanding, even though it can't use all the production capacity created in recent years.

The new plants are more efficient, need fewer workers. And the unemployed workers are idle as customers as well.

It looks as if U.S. capacity to produce has, at this moment of history at least, outstripped the capacity to consume.

Helen Herring South Hastings Oratory 'Champ'

Winners of the intermediate public speaking contest sponsored last night in Prince of Wales public school by the South Hastings Educational Association were Helen Herring and Claudia Durrant.

Helen, a grade seven student at Avondale school, won with "The Strangest Thing in the Sea," while Claudia, a grade eight pupil at Prince of Wales, came second with "My Dog".

They will contest the district finals at Brighton on Friday.

Other contestants last night were Judy Dafoe, S. S. No. 9, Thurlow; Bill Burley, Prince of Wales; Barbara Horton, S. S. No. 9 Thurlow; Bonny Hagerman, S. S. No. 20, Sidney; and Gary Dempsey, S. S. No. 12, Ameliasburg.

Judges were Messrs J. Musgrove, J. Chard, D. Lockyer, M. Blakely and the Rev. R. Middleton.

RECEIVES TROPHY

Helen Herring received the Colonel Vanderwater public speaking trophy from Mr. H. Walkom, president of the S.H.E.A. and a gold medal, donated by Hastings County council, from Reeve A. Wicket of Thurlow township, in the absence of Warden Lloyd Price.

Both she and Claudia Durrant received miniature trophies from Mr. J. Sproule, chairman, S. S. No. 5, Thurlow, on behalf of the S.H.E.A.

Books were presented by Mr. Sproule to the third, fourth and fifth place speakers and Mr. A. Cummins, inspector of public schools, presented each speaker with a silver dollar. These awards were contributed by the S.H.E.A.

Chairman Herbert Walkom welcomed the contestants and their parents and he also extended greetings to the attending representatives of county council and visiting schools.

A piano selection was rendered by Judy Oliver of Prince of Wales, and Betty Reid, Prince of Wales, sang two songs. Mrs. E. Burtt led the singing of "O Canada."

Council Approves Purchase Of Aerial Ladder for Dept.

TRENTON — Town Council approved the purchase of an aerial ladder truck for the local fire department during a lengthy debate on recommendations by the Protection to Persons and Property Committee at the regular monthly meeting last night.

They approved the sum of $35,000 for this purpose and it is to be raised through debentures.

It was also included in the motion that some city fire departments be contacted with the possibilities of acquiring a second hand machine. Councillors felt that for all one of these trucks will be required it was not imperative that a new one be purchased.

It was pointed out to the councillors that, although the need for this type of fire fighting equipment is very seldom necessary, it is impossible to depend on other areas to rush to the local fire department's aid in the event of a major fire. They may be busy themselves at the time.

The advantages of an aerial ladder truck were brought home when the council was reminded of the recent fire which badly gutted a group of buildings on Front Street. During this fire the Belleville ladder truck was rushed to the scene and enabled firefighters to get above the blaze and quell it in quick time.

A recommendation was also approved that the new ladder truck, when obtained be housed in the present fire station and that one pumper be shifted to the east side of the river and housed in the new public works building. This will be of assistance to the residents of the east side of the river and will also alleviate the problem which is going to arise when the bridge is closed for repairs.

RECOMMENDATION PASSED

Other recommendations passed concerning the fire department were: That the terms for employment for the fire department be such that all employees must be a member of the pension plan.

That all employees in both the police and fire departments be required to retire, at the latest, on their 60th birthday. This would not include chiefs of the departments.

That the Fire Chief be instructed that no unauthorized persons be permitted to loiter within the fire station.

That the fire chief be given a car allowance of $300 per annum.

That the committee be given authority to investigate suitable sites on both the east and west sides of the river for the construction of fire stations in the future.

Two recommendations were turn turned down due to the defeat of the recommendations of new police station. They were that an office be supplied for the Fire Chief and that an additional toilet be placed in the fire station.

In making the latter two proposals the committee chairman stated they felt the fire chief should have a private office in the new police station and the additional toilet in the fire hall would accommodate persons while the new police station was being built.

New Police Station Turned Down at Council Meeting

TRENTON — Town council turned down a recommendation for the building of a new police station during their regular meeting in the Board rooms of the Municipal Building last night.

The recommendation was made by Councillor L. Worrall, chairman of the Protection to Persons and Property Committee following a study of the situation by the committee over the past several weeks.

Debate on the issue lasted for well over an hour with the pros and cons being thoroughly discussed by all members of the council.

At the conclusion a vote was polled with Councillors L. Worrall, Ray Fox and C. Hilton voting in favor of the project and Councillors Vagn Lange, James MacDonald and Joe Gould voting against. With the mayor absent and Councillor MacDonald in the chair it was declared a tie vote and was therefore considered rejected.

The recommendation by the committee read as follows:

"It is the unanimous recommendation of the committee that a new police station be constructed adjacent to the present site at a cost of approximately $75,000 with any plans subject to the approval of the council."

Chief objection to the proposal was chiefly the site mentioned in the recommendation. The opposing councillors felt it was not a necessity to build on the present site but that perhaps some other place could be chosen and the present market square be used for a public parking lot for the convenience of shoppers coming to town.

Supporters of the project said they felt the present site was the best because the town already owned the property. To put it some place else would mean buying property and this would add to the cost of the building. They were also agreed that the need for a new police station was an immediate need for the efficient running of the police department.

A second recommendation by the committee under the police section of their report asked that the present market site be moved to the vicinity of the Community Centre and be comprised of canopies supported by posts. The approximate cost of this would be about $2,000.

However, with the first recommendation being rejected they felt it was pointless to vote on as it would not be necessary to move it but to leave it in its present site.

The third item under police, the purchasing of a new car, was approved with little debate. Councillors all felt that a second car was needed by the department. The new car will be a two-door model to be purchased at the lowest possible cost.

It was pointed out that the car would be used as a spare only and not as a regular patrol car. Councillors were told that at present the police chief's car is being used when a spare car is needed and it would be cheaper for the town to supply a second car due to the increasing needs of the department.

Len Gaudette New Manager of Community Rink

TRENTON—A heating plant, a sprinkler system and a new manager were among the latest developments in the Community Centre here.

The new manager has already been engaged and will be taking over on March 17. Cliff Baker, chairman of the committee announced yesterday that Len Gaudette, who has been manager of the Aylmer Arena, will replace "Cap" Bowen, acting manager.

"Cap" Bowen took over the rink some time ago following the resignation of Ted Steadman and has been highly praised for his work during that period.

Mr. Gaudette has had six years experience as rink manager and holds a type "A" certificate. He has recently taken a course in refrigeration and feels it will help him greatly in managing a rink with an artificial plant.

He is 30 years of age and unmarried. His favorite sport is hockey and he has played and coached in Hamilton with senior "A" teams for the past number of years. It was felt he could help greatly in the promotion of hockey in Trenton.

Speaking on the heating plant and the sprinkler system, Cliff Baker said it was expected they would be installed this summer and be ready for use next winter. He said the heating unit would be for the convenience of the fans and thus bring more persons out to hockey games, shows, etc. With the heating unit fans would be able to enjoy added comfort during their two or three hours stay at the rink.

The sprinkler system would be for fire protection and would also cut the cost of insurance, thus paying for itself in a matter of a few years.

Preliminary investigations in both matters are being carried out by the finance committee under the chairmanship of Councillor Vagn Lange.

Their findings will be studied by the entire board of the Community Centre and will then be passed on to the town council for final approval.

It is also expected the heating plant will pay for itself through increased revenue in the winter seasons to come. Attendance has been down at most hockey games this year and even the ice shows have not enjoyed the audience they are capable of drawing. It was felt that if the rink were heated and fans could sit in comfort more would turn out.

Library Board Members Urge New Addition

An immediate expansion of existing facilities to provide added book space and other accommodation for rapidly expanding readership at the Corby Public Library was urged by members of the Library Board at last night's meeting of city council.

Recommended was the construction of a new addition costing an estimated $190,000, it being suggested that the city sell debentures to cover the cost.

Mr. Linton Read, spokesman for the Library Board delegation, noted that Library facilities had been little improved in Belleville since the building was presented to the city half a century ago, when it served approximately 9,000 persons.

He called the situation as dangerous and said it was rapidly becoming "tragically ridiculous."

NEED MORE BOOKS

With the Library soon to serve a population of approximately 25,000 persons, there were but 37,500 books where there should be 52,000. Present circulation of 145,340 was 14 times what it was in 1919, while in 1967 readership was expected to be 300,000.

Present membership of the Library was about 10,000.

Possibly the greatest need was in the children's library where present conditions were grossly inadequate. At 3769 junior membership was four times what it was 20 years ago.

Recommended was an addition increasing Library space from the present 6,000 square feet to 11,500 square feet. This would also provide accommodation for the Salaman art collection, which is now in storage.

Members of the Library Board will meet with city council at the next committee meeting to go into detailed plans, and in the meantime council members are invited to inspect the library and view the present crowded conditions.

Final Dress Rehearsal for Play Is Held

The dress rehearsal of the three-act play "The Shining Hour," to be presented at the Park Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday of this week, is finally over. The usual harrowing experiences of final rehearsal have taken place and every one from the director to the stage crew has had numerous difficulties to iron out, but this is usual theatre experience, common even to professional companies.

Cast of "The Shining Hour," however, is not at all perturbed — the fact that perhaps the properties were not all in their allotted places, that they did not run through the play in the prescribed time, that hitherto scenes almost perfect had to be done over and over again— this is the fun and excitement of play production. The director, Betty Sadler, in her quiet, efficient manner, gives everybody confidence and everyone connected with the play knows that Wednesday and Thursday nights the audience will see a finished production.

"The Shining Hour," is an absorbing drama with deep emotion, sustained suspense, and in addition, flashes of humor.

The Belleville Theatre Guild needs and will welcome your support. Arrangements have been made to produce the play again in Picton and Stirling, to be sponsored by different organizations in those towns. Don Thomas, the hard working president, has made these two outside contacts, not only to give the cast an opportunity to present their play again, but to bring to these smaller communities live theatre of a high calibre. Keep in mind then that the Belleville Guild presents "The Shining Hour" at the Park Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday nights of this week. See you there.

Buildings on Parking Lot Back to City

Belleville city council will review possible other municipal uses for the cement structure at the rear of the Pinnacle Street parking lot which at one time was considered being turned over to the recreation committee.

In a referendum at the last municipal election ratepayers turned down spending approximately $30,000 on renovation of the structure for use as a recreational headquarters.

Last night council voted to tear down the dilapidated brick structure adjoining the north end of the comparatively more modern concrete structure and decided to make this building weathertight to await council decision on its ultimate use.

Alderman Ralph Graham, as chairman of the parking committee, said he apologized for bringing the recommendation in to council after last fall's referendum but pointed out the vote had been against renovation for use as a recreational centre.

A majority of council last year had been opposed to renovating the north brick structure, but he felt some ultimate use might be found for the concrete structure.

Council voted to demolish the brick structure with city manager Drury Denyes to investigate the possibility of taking advantage of the provincial 70 per cent grant on winter municipal work done by unemployed employables.

In an informal discussion as to possible use of the concrete structure, it was noted that new quarters were urgently needed for the city health department.

No action was taken however, and the concrete structure will be left in its present condition after being made weatherproof, until decision is made as to its ultimate use.

A DIFFERENT OUTLOOK

The sharp difference in outlook between legislators in Canada and the United States on price maintenance policies is spotlighted by a report from New York. Here in Canada the Liberals, while they were in power at Ottawa, passed legislation prohibiting manufacturers from dictating to retailers the prices at which they could sell a manufacturer's products. The House of Commons felt that price maintenance was not a fair trade practice.

In the U.S. many states have so-called "fair trade" laws, but there "fair trade" is interpreted as the maintenance of certain price standards. Not only are manufacturers permitted to require retailers not to sell articles below a certain price, but retailers who balk at this control can be brought into court.

The other day, though, two of the largest manufacturers of small electrical appliances, Sunbeam and General Electric, eliminated these "fair trade" practices. It appears that enforcement of this price control is at the discretion of the manufacturer. Once these controls were lifted, many retailers slashed prices sharply.

This brings up two questions. Were the retailers still making a profit when they sold for $18.71 a coffeemaker which had previously retailed at $29.95? Presumably they were. If so, can $29.95 really be said to be a fair price for this coffeemaker? The U.S. idea of "fair trade" seems to be a little hard on the consumer.

TELEVISION AND "YOUTH"

Television has become the object of a nation's curiosity. The other day Lloyd Percival, director of Sports College in Toronto, announced that 76 per cent of 300 Don Mills children tested had developed "TV legs."

He defines TV legs as lack of leg and lower back flexibility acquired by too much sprawling in front of television sets. At present the "malady" is not considered serious, but Mr. Percival believes it could in time develop abdominal sag, accident proneness and slipped discs. If 228 Don Mills children have acquired television legs, it is reasonable to assume that the same picture may be found anywhere in Canada where TV is allowed to reign supreme.

Heretofore, attention has been concentrated on the effects of television on youthful minds. Now it appears as if attention will also be directed to its effects on the child's anatomy.

Obviously, then, children should not be allowed to watch television. Yes, the TV set should be taboo to them so that Mom and Pop can see the fruit of their labor. Not only that, but the minds and frames of Mom and Pop have probably disintegrated to the point where watching television will not harm them. TV is for adults. Want to try selling that theory at home?

QUESTIONABLE PROCEDURE

Almost a score of Toronto druggists have been fined for selling tranquillizers, sedatives and pep-up pills without prescriptions.

Harold Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Retail Pharmacists Association, is unhappy about the manner in which the cases were handled. We share Mr. Smith's displeasure with the procedure allegedly followed, but not for precisely the same reasons.

Mr. Smith says that druggists involved should have been warned immediately they were found to be breaking regulations. We see no good reason why warnings should have been issued. Pharmacists know, or should know, the regulations and if they break them they have no reason to complain if prosecutions follow.

But Mr. Smith says that these pharmacists were allowed to continue selling the restricted drugs for a year before they were charged. Like Mr. Smith we feel this procedure was deplorable, not because these infractions brought no prompt warnings but because they brought no prompt prosecutions.

Law and order are not the exclusive responsibility of the police. It would be impossible for a handful of men, no matter how much power was vested in them, to keep the peace without the aid of many law-abiding citizens as witnesses or complainants. (Wetaskiwin Times.)

IF I WERE RICH

If I were rich, I often think
That I would steal away
And spend the summer months upon
The ocean or the bay.
And I would gather friends about
To share my fun with me,
And I would pay their travel fare
And lodge and feed them free.

If I were rich, dull carping care
Should never trouble me.
All things that are worth looking at
I'd want to go and see.
Though stocks and bonds might rise or fall,
No sleep I'd ever lose.
Out in my hammock I would stretch
And snooze and snooze and snooze.

And yet, perhaps, if I were rich,
Like those who are today,
I might not know a moment's peace
If once I went away.
And I might fret, and I might fume
And hurry from my friends
To ward off some mischance that might Reduce my dividends.

Flight Out of Danger

By E. H. Weatherall in the Christian Science Monitor

Travellers who are waiting to have their passports checked at Tempelhof Airport in West Berlin before boarding a plane for Western Germany may be too busy to notice that perhaps one or two of their fellow passengers may be poorly dressed and slightly bewildered at the prospect of flying for the first time.

These are the refugees from the Communist East Zone. It may be a family with several children or a grandmother with her grandchildren. Although to most of the passengers the flight to Frankfurt or Hannover is more like daily commuting, to the refugees it is the last leg of the most important trip of their lives.

• • •

Until recently it has been comparatively simple for people in the Communist zone to flee to the West. They could buy a ticket to East Berlin and then either take a subway or elevated train to the Allied sector. Some even walked across Potsdamer Platz where the sectors meet to the free world.

But once safe at one of the many refugee camps in West Berlin they were actually prisoners in the isolated city. If they tried to reach Western Germany by the Reichbahn, the East German-operated railways, they would be removed from the train the minute it crossed the West Berlin boundaries. By bus or car on the Autobahn they would meet the Communist People's police at the first check point. The only escape route left to them is by air. Of course their fare is paid by a refugee organization, since their worldly goods have been left back in some little village or town in East Germany.

• • •

The day I departed from Berlin it was overcast and looked as if it might snow any minute. The pretty German stewardess ushered me into a triple seat and soon a refugee couple, carrying some paper bags which looked as though they might contain lunches, saw the two seats by me and asked in German: "Please, sir—are these seats occupied?"

"Please sit down," I replied.

When the warning lights went on I showed them how to buckle their safety belts. Then as the plane's engines roared and it surged ahead in a burst of power, the refugee couple pressed back hard in their seats. The man held his wife's hand tightly and I could see they both had made their living working with their hands. I guessed them to be people of the soil.

• • •

The undersize runways, and the apartment buildings that circle Tempelhof sped by as we became airborne. I noticed the woman had closed her eyes but the man was straining to see out the window.

"Look mother", he said to her. "Look below at the City of Berlin".

She shook her head and kept her eyes closed, dabbing them with her handkerchief. And as the man watched, the city vanished, hidden by the low overcast, and for a time the plane seemed to be flying in a void.

Then — suddenly — it climbed out of the clouds and the sun filled the cabin. Even the most hardened of air travellers looked out their windows. For here we were flying over a sea of dense clouds which looked solid enough to get out and walk on; yet above the sky was cloudless and blue. It seemed weeks since I had seen the sun in gray-skied Berlin.

The man next to me cried: "Wunderbar! Mama, look out the window. It is beautiful. A new world."

For the first time the woman turned and looked. Finally she said softly, "Yes, papa—it is good."

• • •

Then the man seemed somewhat embarrassed by his outburst; I pretended not to notice. I would have liked to ask him the town from which he came and why he left. But I had talked to many and the tale was usually the same.

If he were a farmer, as I believed him to be, he would tell me that the Communists tried to force him into a collective farm and when he refused they burdened him with impossible quotas, declining to sell him seed fertilizer, and farm machinery. Then last October they robbed him of what little savings he may have had tucked away, through an edict that made all currency worthless except for a pitifully small amount each person could turn in for the new East marks.

• • •

I had heard the story many times in refugee camps both in Berlin and in Western Germany where the centres tried to settle these fugitives from the other side of the Iron Curtain. In Berlin 600 people cross into the Allied sector and to freedom every day, and the Communist puppet regime, alarmed at the exodus, had just threatened that all families in East Germany would be punished if any of their number deflected to the West.

But this was not the time to start probing my seat-neighbors' past. It was rapidly disappearing as the plane neared the man-made border between the slave and the free world. Besides they were too engrossed in looking at the strange new world above the clouds, known well to the fraternity who fly but a wonderful new experience for them. And, perhaps for the first time in many years, there was hope in their eyes and in their hearts.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my lunch companions is frequently a poor fellow who employs a couple of dozen salesmen who have to travel all over the country and down into the States.

He is embittered in some respects, one of which has to do with expense accounts. When he was young and green in the business world, he used to be pretty mean about expense accounts: he used to check them with the utmost suspicion, demanding vouchers, bills, duplicate meal tabs and all sorts of verifications from his travellers. Indeed, he was known to make costly long-distance telephone calls merely to verify hotel and other bills his boys turned in.

But as time went on, he made the sad discovery so familiar to employers generally, that there was some mysterious association between the biggest sales and the most phoney-looking expense accounts.

So he gave in. But some remnants of his old supicions still linger. When we are eating lunch, he stares balefully about the restaurant, until he sees a table with three or four men gathered around fillet mignons and other evidences of what is called gracious living.

"Let's guess," "he says, bitterly, "which of those guys is on the expense account, and picks up the tab."

Darned if he can't usually pick the right one.

TODAY'S TALK

FAMOUS SLEEPERS

Few things are so important as to get a good round of sleep. Most great thinkers put a high value on their ability to sleep. Napoeon and Edison were skimpy sleepers. Both could fall asleep almost instantly, however, and then go on with the thing at hand. Napoleon died in middle life, but of an organic trouble, not his lack of sleep, for he could sleep at will!

Edison lived to a fine ripe age, but he so controlled his ability to take a brief nap that he could toss it in at once, or at will. And besides he never worried, but believed in God and the human spirit.

Balzac was a restless sleeper and believed that to take too much sleep took away from his ability to write. He died long before his time, aided by strong coffee and an unhappy love affair. Voltaire lived to be more than 90 years of age. He was a fine sleeper and gushed with ideas that he sent in all directions, like a machine gun pumps bullets. Sleep helped to preserve him to lasting fame.

Goethe was another writer who used sleep to keep him in a high grade of mental health. He lived into a serene old age and was an inspiration to those of his time. Heine once stated that he looked like Jupiter. As to the Bard of Avon, he immortalized sleep in his writings. Dickens died at the age of 60. Had he willed himself to more sleep instead of his night prowlings to get a line on people, he might have added tremendously to his great writings — but who can better run the idea factory of a writer than he can himself?

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

March 4th., 1938

Mr. George Forhan, the popular manager of the Belle Theatre celebrated on March 1st the 28th. anniversary of his debut into the realm of theatrical operation which was at St. Thomas, Ontario, at the Grand Theatre. This was at the time of the popular road show with its glamor and color and the two-reel thrillers. Later Mr. Forhan went to manage a theatre in St. Catharines and he came to Belleville to manage the Griffin Theatre in 1916. Later he made the same circuit again, going to St. Thomas, then St. Catharines and back to Belleville to manage the Belle Theatre. Mr. Forhan has spent the greater part of his theatre life in this city and he is held in high esteem by many friends and serves the public well in presenting for their enjoyment the best grade of pictures.

Mr. Barton Haggerty has returned to Kirkland Lake after spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Haggerty, Church Street.

Mr. B. C. Donnan, K. C., County Crown Attorney, is spending a month's vacation in Florida.

Rt. Wor. Bro. R. D. Adams, D.D.G.M. for Prince Edward Masonic district, officially visited Moira Lodge No. 11, A.F. and A.M. in this city on Wednesday evening.

The thermometer registered 20 degrees below zero last night. This morning the temperature was eighteen degrees below zero at six o'clock.

To bring to mind some old time hockey players: From our file copy at this time in 1898: In hockey match here last night between the local team and a team from Picton the result was a tie. The following composed the teams: Belleville: Mack Jamieson, Matheson, Dr. Perry Gildmith, Lindsay Hamilton, Bob Gorman, Harry McGuire, and Harry Hamilton; Picton: Despard, Ferris, Hepburn, Barker, Gilbert Harrison and Wright. The referee was Frank McKeown and he gave entire satisfaction.

The Belleville city hall is being equipped with fire escapes; the work will be completed this week. For some time owing to the lack of fire escapes, no public gatherings were allowed to assemble in the city hall as doing so was considered a risk. Now the hall will be available for public meetings and gatherings.

The Intelligencer hockey team will play its last scheduled game in Napanee next Monday evening. The following will likely compose the team: Jimmy Hedger, Bill Canning, "Pick" Arnott, "Hoot" Gibson, Max Matthews, Johnnie Hibbard, Dan O'Donohue, Jack Canning and Jack Rooney.

Make Igloos Of Plastic

Petroleum Times, London

The air is not polluted in the far north and the land is snow white.

But, for a long time, the Eskimos have been perturbed by the fact that their igloos grow dirty from the fine dust blown in by the winds from the North American plains.

Now oil is coming to the rescue. A petroleum based, plastic material has been developed which looks like snow, can be made into imitation ice slabs, and is easy to keep clean. Igloos made of this substance are going up on Baffin Island.

Do Not Want Mere Robots

Hamilton Spectator

It would look as if a first educational knot to be unsnarled is to become educated in the true meaning of "education". In today's climate there is a sort of hysterical insistence that ther can be reward without effort, achievement without discipline, and a doctrine that no one can be inferior unless he has been wronged. Another challenge has been brought into the picture again by the uproar over Russia's great advance in science.

For what do we educate our children? To be civilized, humane, and aware of the keys to the great gates and lessons of the past? Or to be specialized robots?

It was just last year that a distinguished New Zealand mathematician warned about this very risk. He thought governments might well ultimately be in the hands of scientists and experts, "and a body of men trained only in science would be the last sort of people I would like to trust my destiny to." Competence without intelligence, warned another university authority, is a dead end. Dr. Hugh Taylor, dean of graduate studies at Princeton, stressed when here six years ago, that the final product of our schooling may be a "super-specialist who knows everything in his or her own field, but is practically illiterate in everything else."

From one who could hardly be charged with a prejudice against science came this. "It is not enough to teach man a specialty. Through it he may become a kind of useful machine but not a ality. It is essential that the student acquire an understanding of and a lively feeling for values. He must acquire a vivid sense of the beautiful and of the morally good. Otherwise he — with his specialized knowledge — more closely resembles a well-trained dog than a harmoniously developed person."

A remarkable appraisal coming from the late, great Albert Einstein, whose genius opened the door to our atomic era.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SURGERY CAN BE THE SOLUTION TO HERNIA OR RUPTURE

Since hernias or ruptures, are a very common problem, let's discuss them today from the standpoint of this question:

"Dear Doctor. Would you write something on an 'indirect inguinal hernia' and say whether, with a weak heart, an operation would be wise? S.K."

A rupture or hernia is the bulging of an internal organ or structure through the wall that surrounds it. We usually think of the groin or abdomen, but in some cases it can be in other parts of the body. A hernia at the navel is often seen. It can be in the upper abdomen; it can be internal, at the diaphragm.

An "inguinal" rupture is one in the groin — the groin being the fold or depression at the juncture of the lower abdomen and thigh.

Now in the groin of males there is a canal-like structure (inguinal canal) which carries the spermatic cord. This is not present in females; hence a hernia in this region is common in men, uncommon in women.

The "direct" and "indirect" terms apply principally to a matter of location, whether at one end or the other of the canal. The "indirect" will tend to be a more complete break through.

Anyway, a weakness in the tissue structure at one point or the other permits a portion of the bowel to bulge through the weak point. This may occur on one side, or both sides; it may be from physical strain, from injury, or from a weakness at that point that was present from birth. Or, of course, a combination of these.

The hernia produces an aching discomfort; when testing for such a hernia, the doctor asks the patient to stand up and cough. A distinct mass and impulse can be felt by the doctor if there is a hernia.

DANGER OF STRANGULATION

The great danger is that the hernia may become strangulated. That is, a comparatively large amount of a loop of bowel works through the flaw or opening, and then becomes trapped there, and pinched, causing severe pain plus the danger of gangrene.

Sometimes a truss may help hold the hernia in place — that is, force the bowel back from the opening in the wall. At best this is a temporary measure, and I have said before, and say again now, that a truss, being a stoppage, is used only for persons not suitable for surgery.

Surgery is the true and permanent answer. Either the tissues are drawn together and sutured, to close the opening in the abdominal wall, or in many instances a piece of fine wire mesh may be inserted to hold them.

As to whether a 'weak heart" would prevent an operation — I'd have to ask, How weak a heart?" Thousands of patients with weak hearts have had operations successfully. In more severe heart cases, the strain of operation (anesthesia, and the rest of it) is not wise. This decision must be made individually for each patient, but I can add that a hernia operation involves less risk than a good many very common surgical procedures.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I can't gain weight on my arms and legs. It all goes to my waist and hips. Incidentally I have a poor appetite but am in good health. I would rather read than eat. What do you suggest? — Miss M.W."

Cut your reading in half, and devote that salvaged time to walking, swimming, bowling, calisthenics, chopping wood, riding a bicycle or any other vigorous ladylike sport. The appetite will then take care of itself. So will the arms and legs. So will the spare tire around the middle.

Strength for The Day

BUILT-IN

We have instituted the telephone dial system in our community. Sometimes we get a bit mixed up and wish we could go back to the simplicities of former days. But, on the whole, we know this will be better even though it may take us a while to get used to it.

What most people in the community do not know, however, is that every morning at five o'clock, while practically all the subscribers are fast asleep, every dial phone is automatically tested. Then as soon as the work day begins, technicians start out to repair the phones which the automatic check-up indicated are out of order.

Here we have a built-in check-up and correction system. At certain times the check-up takes place. Then, as a matter of routine, the correction begins to take place. It is not necessary to wait until a phone is discovered to be out of order. The out-of-order instrument broadcasts its own delinquency.

People who have a conscience have a built-in moral testing system. There are people in the world who actually have no conscience, but they are rare. For most of us, any digression from the pathway of strict rectitude and honor results in an unpleasantness, distress, sometimes even despair.

A sensitive conscience is not always easy to live with. But life, indeed, would be a hell if we did not have this built-in system of warning and rebuke.

The Growth, Development Of Belleville Public Schools

BY L. KELLS
Supt. of Public Schools

Probably no part of the life of any community is as thoroughly an open book to its citizens as is its Public Schools. Each one is a graduate and, in that sense, is an expert. The story told, although the words would be the same in each instance, could be for some very pleasant, for others the cause of dismal recollections and for still others just a boring experience. It's a reasonable assumption that our schools are little different from those in any other town.

Just as all phases of life in a community change from generation to generation so do our schools change in their daily activities and physical surroundings. Some of us may have fond recollections of priming the pump to get a pail of water, of reading by the flickering oil lamp, or of singeing our shoe leather in front of the kitchen stove, but we have little expectation of returning to such a life. So with our schools; times have changed. Change isn't necessarily progress but it has a tendency to move in just one direction.

Looking back over the years may not serve any very useful purpose but it can be interesting to recall what has happened and to try to suggest why.

Professional people, teachers, supervisors and others, have left their marks on our schools and it is in all likelihood of some teacher or principal of whom we think in our reminiscences. Yet our elected school board members have been in many instances the ones who have contributed most greatly to notable changes. The daily evolution that passes unnoticed takes place in the classroom but it is at a board meeting that some forceful member moves for a startling change and unless some forceful member is involved it is unlikely that much will happen. Elected public bodies seem to have a remarkable facility in tossing a ball around without anyone taking a firm grip on it or holding it for any length of time. This is probably an admirable part of the democratic process preventing snap decisions.

SOUGHT IMPROVED METHODS

In this regard I am reminded of the early work and hopes of a greatly respected man who served as school inspector for more than twenty-five years. Mr. H. J. Clarke, B.A., in some of his first reports to the school board pressed for kindergartens, for nursing services, for home economics and for improved methods of dealing with the young adolescents in the senior grades in our public schools. Most of the worthwhile objects for which he struggled were achieved but each came into being at a time when a school board member was of sufficient determination to belabor his fellows at successive meetings until his end was achieved.

Trustee Hiram Fetterly, M.A., proposed and secured two major changes after many months of study, special committee survey and the like and the result was our home economics and manual training classes and religious instruction by members of the Ministerial Association. Mr. Clarke's proposal for home economics first reached the board in 1919 and the first permanent rooms were opened in 1947.

Mr. Clarke wrote as follows to the board in 1919: "There is another matter that I think you should consider, and that is the matter of kindergarten instruction for the children who wish to enter school at five years of age, and in some cases earlier. As a rule these little tots are not ready to undertake the regular school work of a primary grade, and in a kindergarten they would get a training that would fit them to enter upon the regular course at about seven, with far more ability to proceed than under present conditions. What we now have in the lowest grade of the primer in the three large schools is approaching what is now called a kindergarten - primary where part of the kindergarten work is combined with the earliest primer work. Where we fall short is in the kindergarten equipment, and teachers with the special training for this work. Any primary teacher who can sing and play, can get the training by taking two summer sessions at Toronto."

In May of 1943 Trustee Arthur L. Hill who was chairman of the Public School Management Committee sponsored a movement to introduce kindergarten-primaries into the public school organization. Operation of these classes commenced in September of that year.

Our present senior school program, commenced as the result of leadership given to the board in 1951 by Trustee Carl D. Crosby whose work was continued by Trustees Alex Nathan and Harold Seldon. Inspector Clarke had this to say to the board in 1916: "Adolescence begins usually between the twelfth and thirteenth years, and the failure of school authorities to understand the changes that take place in boys and girls at the beginning of adolescence is responsible for more school troubles than any other single cause. We may truly say he is born again. He moves in a new world. He puts childish things away and thrills with wider sympathies, bigger plans and higher aspirations. He ought never to be taught by a man or woman who lacks a keen insight into the spiritual attitude of one who is neither boy nor man, girl nor woman, but a dweller and a dreamer in a borderland where much is strange and where much of the old familiar things have new aspects and changing relations. With the beginning of adolescence there should be a radical change in the type of school."

ACHIEVED OBJECTIVE

During the thirties it was customary for members of the board to laugh when month by month Trustee Reg Moncrieff rose to renew his appeal for the board to purchase school books and supplies. Their laughter was in admiration for trustee Moncrieff's persistence at a time when public funds were so difficult to secure. Trustee Jack Allin continued the battle which at first resulted in the payment of fees by children but later in the free distribution of supplies. Today, of course, the province purchases necessary text books free of cost to the communities.

Many other instances could be quoted to show the effect of forceful representation on the school board over many years.

I suppose if someone had driven a Model "T" about 1920 and hadn't been in a car since that time, he'd be inclined to think of cars today in comparison with a Model "T". He might well complain about the lack of headroom and of fresh air and so date himself. Just a few days ago a newspaper reporter nostalgically commented on a car accident stating that a lady passenger had been thrown against the dash board. Sometimes I think that some critics of schools so date themselves.

Schools cannot lag too far from reach of other areas of community life. But, as is to be expected they do run off at tangents from time to time. Then a bit of public censure does no harm and probably hastens a return to sounder procedures. However it is not quite sensible to listen too much to the demand to return to the good old days, because some of those days were merely old and certainly not good.

The standards required for promotion from grade to grade, and more particularly for admission to grade nine are sometimes the subject of comment. I'd like to be the first to admit that we have become very lax since the year 1910 when one hundred eighteen students wrote the high school entrance examination. One student secured honor standing, thirty students passed the examination and six students were successful in appealing the result. In the group of 81 failures were many of today's residents who have in the meantime become successful in all types of business and professional life including civic administration, property management, teaching, merchandising etc. The change that has taken place in the meantime has been very great indeed, but it has been very gradual and from year to year almost imperceptible.

Educational costs might serve as a closing item since it is popular from time to time to attack school boards as being extravagant. In any case it is a very apparent fact that much new construction has been necessary and that costs have soared everywhere. The following few instances may serve to prove many things to many people but among other things they draw attention to school costs.

In 1861 the mill rate for Common (Public) Schools was 32½. The 1957 Rate for Belleville Public Schools was 21 9/10.

In 1908 the Belleville Board of Education approached City Council with a proposal to erect four public schools and a high school at a total cost of $125,000. Council said "No". Then in the period 1912 to 1922 four public schools were built at a cost of $260,000. and the high school came in 1928 at $540,000. That ten year period from 1912 to 1922 could be compared with the period 1948 to 1957 when the city has constructed three public schools and a high school.

Christ Church E.B. Donates To Piano Fund

There was a splendid attendance at the March business meeting of the Evening Branch of the W.A. of Christ Church on Monday evening

The president, Mrs. A. Bongard, conducted the worship service with Mrs. J. Hibbard at the piano. Miss Violet Shambo read the Bible verses.

Reports of the secretary and treasurer were read by Miss Frances Reid and Mrs. W. Edwards.

An interesting note was read from Miss Eva Hazell, of her work and need of helpers with the travelling vans in remote sections of the west, as well as one from the Rev. John Jeffries and Mrs. Jeffries, expressing appreciation for gifts received at Christmas time for the children of their parish.

PIANO DONATION

It was decided to send a portion of the pledge money at this time; a donation will be made towards the purchase of a piano for the work of the Rt. Rev. T. Greenwood, Bishop of the Yukon.

Discussion took place on the date for the fall tea and a rummage sale in April.

As the W.A. annual meeting is to be held in Christ Church this spring, billets were asked for ten.

An invitation was extended from the Parish Guild to view a film with them on March 11.

An apron was on display and each member made a donation of one cent for each inch of her waistband to the pocket on the apron.

FAREWELL GIFT

Mrs. L. Mason made the presentation of a pretty china cup and saucer to Mrs. T. Clark who will be leaving to take up residence in Smiths Falls.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. I. Reid and Mrs. J. Hibbard.

Four Students Win Trophies For Oratory

CAMPBELLFORD — Diane Dooher, 11, a Grade 7 pupil at Campbellford public school, was judged winner of Northumberland County oratorical contest in the high school auditorium on Friday.

Her prize for a five-minute speech on, "My Brother," was the President's Trophy, donated by the county trustees and ratepayers' association.

Adjudged second was Myrna Wilson, 13, of Grade 8, S.S. No. 9 school, Brighton, with a talk entitled "Conservation." She was awarded the Dominion Trophy. "Young Life Blood of Agriculture," placed Pine Grove School pupil Bill Metcalfe, 12, of Cramahe township, in third place for the provincial W. A. Goodfellow Trophy. Fourth was Joseph Coveney, 12, of Grade 8, Hastings Separate School, with "Birds" as his subject. He won the County Trophy.

The winners go forward to the district oratorical contest in Brighton later this month.

Fifteen contestants took part in the contest, organized by Mrs. Ward Ellis of Campbellford Home and School Association, and Donald Clarke of Seymour. A panel of nine judges officiated. All the participants were winners of their respective school competitions held last week.

Chairman was A. A. Kemp of Castleton, president of the Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association.

Entertainment was provided by Jane Richardson, piano solos; Linda Fox, a baton demonstration, and Norma Tinney and Barbara Watson, piano duets.

Y.F.C. Moves To B.C.I. Auditorium

Since February of 1954 when the Youth for Christ began its work meetings in the several churches of the city, it has shown a steady growth when, in 1956, it moved into the Masonic Temple as a permanent assembling place.

Every rally this season has shown real growth with the Masonic auditorium packed to capacity, with people being turned away. Consequently, the Youth for Christ has had to seek larger quarters. On Saturday, March 8, the rally will move to its new place of meeting in the Belleville Collegiate auditorium.

The special feature at the first rally on Saturday evening in B.C.I. will be the showing of the sound motion picture, "Centreville Awakening" a dramatic portrayal of what can happen to a church, its people and its pastor when they become yielded to God.

"This film was produced from its inception in close collaboration with the ministers of many denominations. The initial story treatment, the script, and the edited film were carefully analyzed by hundreds of ministers who share the Gospel films, such as 'Seventeen,' and other outstanding films, the conviction is that, given a chance, the Holy Spirit can work mightily in hearts and lives today."

Take off Ban On Married Women

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — After a four-and-a-half year crusade for women's rights, Ald. Mrs. Edwin Fullerton Monday night won her battle to repeal a bylaw which for 21 years is supposed to have banned married women from working for the city.

Although the statute has been on the books since 1937, at least 90 per cent of the women employees at the Dearness Home are married, 50 per cent at the Children's Aid Society, which is supported from public funds, just under 50 per cent at Victoria Hospital, 30 per cent at the board of education, 20 per cent at the PUC and 11 per cent at the public library.

Ald. Norman Bradford and Ald. H. C. Prior opposed her motion, the only two to do so in a 7-2 vote.

London's only woman alderman opened her campaign against what she termed a "discriminatory" bylaw more than four years ago and found every other older man opposed. Undaunted she returned to the attack two weeks ago when she submitted a notice of motion of her intention to get the bylaw repealed.

CWL of St. Joseph's Parish Holds Communion Breakfast

The Catholic Women's League of St. Joseph's Parish held its annual Communion breakfast on Sunday. This followed the eight o'clock Mass which was celebrated by Reverend Father J. J. V. Buckley, the pastor.

The breakfast was served in the New Queen's Motel. Mrs. J. Hanley, president of the League, expressed the pleasure of the members in honor of having as their guests, Reverend Mother Mary Anselm, Superior of St. Michael's Convent, Belleville, and Reverend Sister Mary Andrew, Principal of St. Michael's Academy, of this city. Mrs. Hanley offered the prayer for His Holiness the Pope, proposed a toast to Her Majesty the Queen, and said the opening grace.

The guest speaker, Reverend Sister Mary Andrew, was introduced by Mrs. T. Kelly, who stated it was an honor tointroduce such distinguished guest. In a brief outline of the speaker's successful career in the teaching profession, Mrs. Kelly said this was Sister's seventh year as Principal of St. Michael's Academy. Previously, she had spent five years as Sub Mistress, then one year as Mistress of Novices, at Heathfield, Kingston.

In her opening remarks, Sister announced her theme was "Devotion to our Lady," and she asked each one to think back to the day of their First Holy Communion when they received the Brown Scapular, a devotion to the Blessed Mother of God. She recalled great moments in the Blessed Mother's life, from the time the Angel Gabriel asked her to become the Mother of God. An impressive poem, which had been said by the Most Reverend Bishop Sheen, was recited. It was entitled, "If Christ Should Come on Earth".

Speaking on the prayer, the "Hail Mary", and explaining each part, Sister quoted St. James as saying, "No one can realize the great riches that are written in the prayer, the Hail Mary." St. Thomas Aquinas, the wisest and holiest of men, once spent 40 days preaching in Rome on the Hail Mary. Sister likened this prayer to a "premium" on a "Heavenly" life insurance for it prepared us for that one journey we must all take alone.

"Devotions to the Blessed Mother commemorated events in Her life, for example, the following Feast Days: the Annunciation, the Birth of our Lord, and others. There have been apparitions which have brought about devotion, such as the one to St. Bernadette at Lourdes, the 100th Anniversary of this apparition was celebrated this year, and thousands of pilgrims pray. Thirty thousand people were present at the apparition of Fatima in 1917, when the Blessed Lady appeared to three children, one, a sister in a convent, is alive today. Devotion to the Mother of God was the mark of a Catholic from earliest days of the Church and an honor to the Blessed Virgin. The Church was proud to give Her honor."

The origins of the devotions to our Lady of Perpetual Help and to Our Lady of Good Counsel were described. Since the League has as its Patroness, Our Lady of Good Counsel, the members were urged to have recourse to God, through the intercession of His Blessed Mother. "By prayer and by good example to your family" Sister advised, "you might have a son a priest, standing at an altar and bringing down blessing from God, or a daughter, a sister, who would devote her life to the care of the poor, the old people, the sick and the orphans." Sister closed her address with a beautiful prayer to the Mother of God.

A presentation was made to Sister Mary Andrew on behalf of the League of St. Joseph's Parish by Mrs. E. Hilbig, who expressed appreciation for an interesting and informative address.

Mrs. V. Muldoon thanked the convener, Mrs. E. Stiver, the co-convener, Mrs. G. Whalen, and the ladies who assisted, Mrs. J. Panting and Mrs. E. Hopkins. The staff of the Motel were commended for their excellent service.

Mrs. J. Hanley said the closing Grace. Mrs. G. Whalen presented a gift to Mrs. J. Briand, who won the lucky number prize.

Halloway Kum Double Club Plans Banquet

On Thursday evening the Halloway Kum-Double Club met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McMullen.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kelly and Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Kelly were in charge of the worship service.

The Scripture lesson, Psalm 67, was read by Miss Bessie McMullen. Mrs. Harry Morgan offered prayer for inspiration.

The story was given by Mrs. Coleman Townsend, concerning the life and work of Fanny Crosby.

Mr. Ronald Kelly favored with a poem, "Blind Bartimaeus," after which Mrs. Fred Wellman gave a story on "Bartimaeus."

Mr. Gene Kelly closed the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Snider took charge of the business period, at which time the group voted to cater for the spring banquet of the Women Teachers' Federation for this area at the YMCA.

The "Halloway Howler" was presented by Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Wellman.

Two weeks previously, the club held its annual "box social." At that meeting Mr. and Mrs. Embury Hough had charge of the worship service. Mr. Harry Morgan acted as auctioneer.

A social time was enjoyed after both meetings.

Surprise Party Marks 18th Birthday

On Saturday evening, a delightful party was held in honor of Miss Elizabeth Smith's eighteenth birthday, at her home, 6 Brassey St.

Elizabeth was taken completely by surprise on entering her home to find 17 relatives and friends gathered to greet her along with the family.

Euchre was played during the evening, the prizes being won by, ladies — Mrs. J. Chumbley; Mrs. W. J. Savage; Mrs. F. Smith. Men — Miss F. Howe; H. Taylor; R. Soble, and the travelling prize by Miss F. Howe.

After Elizabeth opened her lovely gifts, refreshments were served and a social hour spent.

GOOD MANNERS

HOW TO ADDRESS PROTESTANT MINISTER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

[illegible]e always understood (really [illegible]ought I knew) that you should call a minister "Mr." in conversation with him and when speaking of him; and that you should address a letter to him "The Reverend Robert Brown." However, recently I have noticed that many of my friends here call the minister "Reverend Brown" both when speaking to him or of him. Will you please straighten me out about this? Thank you. — R. B.

You are right . . . your friends are wrong.

1. A Protestant minister "Mr. —." He should be addressed as "Mr. Brown," spoken of as "Mr. Brown," introduced as "Mr. Brown."

2. However, if the minister has a degree (such as D.D.; for Doctor of Divinity) he is addressed and spoken of, and introduced as Dr. —.

3. When we address a letter to a minister, we should address it, a[illegible] say, The Reverend Robert Brown . . . always with The before Reverend. — If he has a degree, we should address the letter to: The Reverend Dr. Joseph Hill or The Reverend Joseph Hill, D.D.

4. A common mistake, very annoying to most ministers, is to address them or to refer to them or introduce them as "Reverend" with only their last name . . . for example "Reverend Brown."

"Mr." is a title . . . so "Mr. Brown" (no degree) is correct. "Dr." is a title . . . so "Dr. Brown" (with degree) is correct. But "Reverend" is not a title; it is an adjective of courtesy to those in the spiritual profession . . . so "Reverend Brown" is not correct, either to say or write.

LODGINGS FOUR OUT-OF-TOWN WEDDING ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Am I correct that we, the parents of the bride-to-be, engage and pay for accommodations for the out-of-town members of the bridal party, and, if married, for their husbands? Also for the out-of-town attendants of the groom, and, if married, their wives? In our small town we do not have a hotel, but quite a few townsfolks provide lodgings when the need arises, as, for instance, when parents come to visit their sons at the Military School here. So we could engage rooms among these townfolks. When we do, should we ask the ladies from whom we engage these rooms to serve early-morning coffee and toast to these guests in their rooms (the "real" Breakfast will be at ten o'clock)? — Bride's parents.....

You, the bride's parents, make the reservations for the lodgings for the out-of-town members of the bridal party (also for the husbands of the married attendants). a[illegible]ou pay the bill for these accommodations. But it is the groom who pays for the lodgings of his out-of-town attendants (also for the wives of married attendants) . . . although he will doubtless ask you to make these reservations. And do carry out your thoughtful plan to ask the ladies to serve early-morning coffee and toast to these guests in their rooms.

Entice Them With The Salad Dressing

By Mary Moore

"Mary, the way to keep my family interested in salad every night for dinner is by varying my salad dressings. I switch from mayonnaise to French dressing, to boiled, to Italian Dressing, to a combination of mayonnaise and cooked, then back to the cheese variation of French Dressing, etc.

"My crowd were hard to train to salad eating. My husband is British to the core and greens are for rabbits!

"So I am proud of my progress, and I know there are other girls in this town who need help with salads. I think you could give them a big boost if you gave details for making some of the popular salad dressings — that cost far too much to buy in bottles."

That letter was written by Jennifer and is heartily endorsed by me. I hereby hasten to follow her behest.

FRENCH DRESSING

In a bowl combine ⅓ cup cider vinegar or lemon juice, 1 tablespoon paprika (yes, I mean 1 tablespoon), 1½ teaspoons salt, dash red pepper, ½ teaspoon garlic salt, 2 or 3 tablespoons sugar, and 1 whole egg, cold. Mix well, then slowly add 1 cup cold oil and beat. An electric mixer or egg beater may be used in preparing this dressing. Do not add too much oil at one time, especially in beginning. Keep dressing tightly covered in cool place. Shake French dressing thoroughly before using, but if oil is added slowly enough it will remain emulsified and fairly thick. Highly recommended.

ITALIAN SALAD DRESSING

(By request): One cup olive oil, or other oil, ½ cup cider or wine vinegar, 1 small clove garlic cut into small pieces, 2 teaspoons salt, about 3 tablespoons sugar (optional). Combine these ingredients in a jar and shake vigorously until thoroughly blended. Keep in cool place. Shake dressing well before pouring over salad. Let stand several hours before using to bring out garlic flavor.

KMEM'S MAYONNAISE

In medium large mixing bowl, mix together 2 egg yolks, 1 whole egg, (eggs should be cold), 1 teaspoon each salt, dry mustard and paprika and 1 tablespoon sugar. Mix well. Measure ½ cup cold lemon juice and 2 cups cold oil. Add 1 teaspoon lemon juice and beat it in, then 1 teaspoon oil. Repeat twice. Now add oil 1 tablespoon at a time beating well between each addition until ½ cup oil is used. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice Keep on this way until both liquids are in, when mayonnaise will be well emulsified and thick. You will need to scrape down sides of bowl as you beat. Note: (1). You will get so expert at observing how much oil the mix will absorb in 1 addition that in time you can add it in a constant fine stream, while you spoon in lemon juice with your left hand. (). An excellent stretcher is to add thick boiled dressing to this made by mixing together in top of double boiler 1 tablespoon each flour, sugar, soft butter, 1 teaspoon each salt, dry mustard and 1 egg. Mix well. Add ¼ cup milk. Slowly stir in ¼ cup vinegar and stir over boiling water until thick. (3). During Lent when you need to keep the protein content of your meals high on meatless days, add small amounts of shredded or crumbled cheese to your tossed salads.

Club Activities

JOHNSTOWN CGIT

JOHNSTOWN — The Johnstown girls held their CGIT meeting at the home of Sharon Gilchrist on Tuesday evening.

The call to worship was given by Beverley Clapp. The Scripture was found in Romans 2: 27-31, read by Beverley Clapp. A Japanese game was introduced by Darlene Harder. Mrs. Douglas Harry read a story, "The Japanese Holidays," and Pat Harder gave a reading "What it Means to be a Christian in Japan."

The roll call and business were attended to.

In the craft department the members were given enough print to make an apron, which will be for sale later on.

The next meeting will be held at the home of the leader, Mrs. Douglas Harry, with Pat Harder in charge of the worship service and Rosemary Bush in charge of the games.

For refreshments the members were treated to toasted marshmallows, cookies and a soft drink.

Women's Activities

THOMASBURG W.A.

THOMASBURG — The school dinner and meeting of the W.A. was held on Wednesday, February 26 in the United Church vestry with a large attendance. Mrs. Elliott, president, was in charge of the meeting.

A brief service of worship followed. Scripture was read by Mrs. R. Robinson. A reading followed, based on the "Thought of Lent," by Mrs. Elliott.

Two minutes of silent prayer were dedicated to two deceased members, Mrs. M. Adams and Mrs. A. Richardson.

Fees were paid.

Secretary's, treasurer's and the [illegible] committee reports were given.

In charge of the March dinner will be Mrs. R. Robinson, Mrs. R. Wilson and Mrs. Harold Morton, who were appointed.

Mrs. Henry Morton gave a reading and Mrs. Prindle showed how to make ladies' and children's slippers out of wash cloths.

Items were planned for the bazaar.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. R. M. — Arnold hangs out with the poolroom crowd.

Arnold M. — They're better than the stuffed shirts.

• • •

Mrs. R. M. — I am very worried about my 16-year-old son, who has gotten in with the wrong crowd.

Arnold is a very bright boy and I have no worry about his becoming a juvenile delinquent. It's just that I think these boys he has been hanging out with tend to pull him down to their level — which is the poolroom, race track and corner drugstore area.

Arnold wants to be a lawyer and he studies hard and does well at school, but he doesn't realize that people judge you by your friends and he should associate with only the best. I get no co-operation from Arnold's father in all of this. He just says, "The kid'll outgrow it. I did too."

• • •

Arnold M. — I hate to say it, but my mother is a snob. She keeps telling me to associate with one particular guy who happens to be the son of a bank president. This fellow is not only stupid and a jerk, but he has a rotten character.

The guys I hang out with may talk in "dese," "dems" and "dose" and hang around the poolroom half the day, but they know more than some of the stuffed-shirt clowns in our school and, what's more, they're so good-hearted they'd give you the shirt off their back.

As long as I'm doing well in school and getting into no trouble, I think that my mother ought to let me manage my own free time.

• • •

The Council: Arnold has some strong arguments on his side. Unfortunately, his mother weakens her case by taking a snobbish point of view. She has good reason to object to the "poolroom, race track and corner drugstore crowd" without resorting to such arguments as "people judge you by your friends." This argument may have some truth, but with many sturdy individualists it would have little weight.

Probably the most potent argument against Arnold's present recreational pursuits is that he could be making much better use of his free time.

In this case, as in the case of most sore spots, we favor the positive instead of the negative approach. Arnold should be encouraged to dig up hobbies, activities, associations that give him much more stimulation and opportunity for growth than he is now getting. A boy with Arnold's capabilities should soon find himself rather bored with the poolroom crowd.

It is possible that for a very brief period a boy like Arnold will find this poolroom crowd colourful and interesting. His father apparently takes this view when he is so sure that Arnold will soon "outgrow it." Yet we think his father may be able to help him outgrow it more quickly by interesting himself in the problem and pointing the direction to livelier masculine pursuits.

We do think that an intelligent boy who is getting along well should be free to choose his associates and pastimes — but a little subtle and positive guidance from parents may enable him to choose better.

Soviet Styles Feature Sacks

LEIPIG, East Germany (AP) The Communist version of the sack line swept down the runways at an international fashion show Sunday night during the Leipzig fair.

Models from Soviet Russia, East Germany, Poland and Hungary paraded the East bloc's latest women's apparel. Some firms from France, The Netherlands and Austria showed what they would like to export behind the Iron Curtain.

The emphasis was on everyday wear—simple but tasteful house and shopping dresses, wools and wooly cottons.

Almost all the Russian dresses stressed the new sack line—without waistline and tight skirts with tiny pleats breaking the hemline in the rear to allow for walking space.

Russian hemlines ended only fractions of an inch below the knee.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Now it can be told.

For these many weeks Master Frank (Iron) Orr, sports scrivener for the Cornwall Standard Freeholder, has been ribbing, sometimes not too gently, the rest of the clubs in the Eastern Ontario senior "A" circuit, with special barrages lined at the McFarlands.

He "rode" them individually and collectively, and even took time out to call our magnificent Market Square Sports Palace "the Belleville barn with the frigid reaches." Of course he was mild-mannered but none-the-less loquacious during the few times he has been an occupant of the press box-stall. The guy stands six-feet-four, wears flat-top hats for low-roofed press emporiums, and when the National Anthem is played resembles the hunchback of Notre Dame.

He is the tall, dark and not too handsome type. A pleasant enough fellow, his friends tell us, but few, if any, would suspect him of being in cahoots with the supernatural. For Frankie hears strange voices, especially when he is on the road with his beloved Chevies. He disclaims the use of crystall ball or oulja board.

We watched him very closely on the few occasions he has visited Belleville and noted his modus operandi. It is quite simple. He asks a few questions, disdains the answers given him by mortal man, then seeks the answers of the great beyond, which are duly published.

Here is a typical sample. Scene the Belleville press box. The action, Cornwall versus Belleville. Question by Ed Murrow Orr: "How do youse guys like Kowalchuk up here?" Answer: "He is all right. He's scoring a few goals, is a bit rugged, and gets his share of the penalties."

Columnar remark in the Cornwall paper: "Belleville fans do not like Kowalchuk. If there is any player they would like to see go, he is it." Or words to that effect.

But that is more or less ancient history. Right now, since the Cornwall Chevies and the Pembroke Lumber Kings are in the throes of what looks to be a diller of a semi-finals series, Master Orr, carrying high the cudgel of the Chevies, has wagered Young Master Ron Craig, of the Pembroke Observer a new hat (expensive type) that the riversiders will take the semi-finals gonfalon from the guys that play in the shadow of mighty Petawawa, and go into the finals against Belleville or Kingston.

As of now, like the Belleville-Kingston series, the Pembroke-Cornwall series is all tied up at one game each. But the boys are undaunted. They're going around window shopping, looking for the most expensive headgear in the local hatteries, with an eye to ordering and sending the bill to the foeman.

Actually, Mother Nature gave Ole Iron a strike on his young opponent from Lenserville. Master Craig should have demanded two sizes to one odds, because if he gets "hooked" for the chapeau, any hat he can purchase in the stores will sit on the Orr noggin like a howdah on an elephant's dorsal region.

While we are not taking sides in the battle of the hats, we have a sneaking suspicion that all will be well for Master Craig, for methinks ye Kings from Pembroke will cavort off with the semi-finals crown jewels.

But in case the Chevies cause the Kings to abdicate, young Craig would be well advised to shop well before buying. A neat off-the-face style would sit well on the Orr topknot, or the cloche, tight-fighting style would also be suitable.' If the worst came to the worst, he could get a second-hand McFarlands Booster tam for half price. These are "stretchies" and will fit any type of cranium, even Orr's.

You see, what young Craig did not know when he made the wager, was that "Ole Iron" wears a hat size 8¼.

And the last time we heard of that size was when "Peave" ordered one after the Brooklyn Dodgers won their first pennant.

Dazzling Job Against Finns Best Hockey of Monday's 3; Yanks, Norway in Big Brawl

By ED SIMON
Canakdian Press Staff Writer

OSLO, Norway (CP) — Fans and referees were getting a roasting as the heated - up world hockey championships moved into their fifth day today.

The Canadian Whitby team, with a one-game tournament lead by virtue of its 24-0 rout of hapless Finland Monday, is idle today. But action was scheduled between Sweden, the defending champion, and the United States, and between Russia and Czechoslovakia.

Whitby's dazzling performance against Finland produced the best hockey of Monday's three games, but a brawling third period in a later match between the U.S. and Norway undoubtedly caused the most gossip.

The U.S. - Norway game was marred by fisticuffs and unruly conduct by fans, one of whom tossed a bottle toward the American goalie. The American coach charged bitterly that the Czechoslovakian and Polish referees were to blame for letting the game get out of control, with rule infractions on both sides.

HOME FANS DISGUSTED

The Americans won 6-1, much to the disgust of the hometown fans who have yet to see their team on the winning side.

Another crowd, consisting mainly of school children, cheered everything in the day's first match, in which Czechoslovakia beat Poland 7 1.

When the assorted noises had died away, Canada was all alone in first place in the eight-team round-robin tournament in which each team will meet all the others once. The tournament ends next Sunday.

Canada—which doesn't return to action until Thursday — had three victories in as many starts and a whopping 50-1 scoring margin over its opponents. Monday's win was added to their 12-0 win over Norway Saturday and their 14-1 defeat of Poland Sunday.

ALSO UNBEATEN

Russia, Sweden, Czechoslovakia and the U.S. also remained unbeaten but had played only twice.

Even Wren Blair, the perfectionist Whitby manager, had to admit that he was happy with the way his team went through its paces against the Finns.

While right winger Jack McKenzie topped the goal harvest with five — thereby taking the tournament lead in individual scoring—each line in turn tormented Johani Lathinen, the Finnish goaltender.

When excitement threatened to sag in the third period, the penalty-killing trio of captain Harry Sinden, Jean Paul Lamirande and Charlie Burns, operating against four Finn forwards, climaxed a lengthy puck-ragging display by shaking Sinden loose for a beautiful breakaway goal.

After that the Canadians had a solid Nordic rooting section going for them the rest of the way.

ROUGH GAME

The Americans, however, made few friends in the rough-and-ready match that referees Guido Adamec, Czechoslovakia, and Jan Wycisk, Poland, allowed to get out of hand in the final period.

The crowd began to razz the visitors when first Bill Christian and then his brother Gordon showed obvious resentment on being penalized. The European custom is to go quietly.

Spurred on by the crowd, the Norwegians began stepping into their rivals and the Americans replied in kind.

American coach Cal Marvin angrily blamed the referees for allowing the U.S.-Norway clash to run away with itself. There were 13 penalties in all.

GOALIE HIT

"Our goalkeeper, Willard Ikola, once was hit under the nose," Marvin declared. "A hit like that is worth a long penalty. Here there was no penalty.

"But that whisky throwing incident was something very different. Some fans threw a bottle in front of Ikola. That was uncalled for. It could have broken with glass all over the place."

Each of the four stronger teams still to be tackled by Canada — Sweden, Czechoslovakia, the U.S. and Russia—presents its own problems.

Sweden, coached by former American Hockey League star Ed Reigle, boasts plenty of beef and a fine first-string forward line in Sven Johansson, Karl Oeberg and Sigge Broems.

CANADIAN COACHING

The Czechs, ever since they benefitted from Canadian coaching in the 1940s, play the closest approximation of Canadian style to be found in Europe. But so far in this tournament they have shown they don't play it very well.

For the United States the temperamental brother act of Bill, Gordon and Roger Christian makes a formidable line when the youngsters stick to hockey and avoid run-ins with the referees.

But even the considerable goaltending talent of Ikola can't compensate for the Americans' chronic failure to backcheck. Breakaway goals could easily prove their undoing.

The Russians, in their first two starts, presented an exasperating picture of team that can look devastating one minute and dreadful the next.

When the split-second timing of their moves is clicking the Russians are a fearsome sight. But it's still far from letter perfect.

Marcotte Told Forget Hockey This Season

TORONTO (CP) — Jacques Marcotte, 23-year-old goaltender who suffered an eye injury before he could get into National Hockey League service with Toronto Maple Leafs, has been told by doctors to forget about hockey until next season.

Marcotte, purchased by Leafs from New York Rangers in a late bid to make a Stanley Cup playoff berth, was hurt last week when struck by a puck during a practice. He was with Trois Rivieres, a Ranger farm team in the Quebec League, before he came here.

Leafs got Marcotte for the balance of the 1957-58 campaign for $5,000 plus the rights to Bill Kennedy, a junior player in the Leaf chain.

Another player was to be shipped to New York at the end of the schedule if Leafs wished to become permanent owners of Marcotte. It was learned Monday that defenceman Marc Reaume was expected to be the man.

However, there now is some question about the move since Leafs have not had a chance to evaluate Marcotte and may not want him.

Juniors Make Selections at Player Draft

TORONTO (CP) — St. Catharines Teepees and Barrie Flyers each made three selections Monday at the annual Ontario Hockey Association Junior A player draft.

St. Catharines selected John Mongeon of Abitibi Juveniles, Patrick Adair, Waterloo Junior Bs, and Patrick Stapleton, Sarnia Junior Bs.

Barrie's selections were Dan Cherepacha, Kirkland Lake Juveniles, Pierre Gagne, North Bay Juveniles, and Stewart McGonnigle, Kirkland Lake.

Guelph Biltmores chose James McLelland, Owen Sound Junior Bs, and passed on their next two choices. Toronto Marlboros - Toronto St. Michael's Majors, on a combined pick, named Jim Wilcox, Midland Juveniles, and passed on their next two choices.

Peterborough Petes chose Dave Fitter, Owen Sound, Bs, and Eldon Carl Watson, Huntsville Midgets. Hamilton Cubs drafted Robert Brown, Iroquois Falls Juveniles, and Robert Awrey, Waterloo Junior Bs.

Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ont. Tops in Curling Tournament

By ERWIN FRICKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP) — The Winnipeg teen-agers, the youngest rink ever to compete in the Canadian curling championship, had the 3,500 fans cheering for their every rock Monday night and they came up with some fabulous shots. But defending champion Matt Baldwin was too much for them when it really counted.

When the Terry Braunstein rink, with an average age of 17½, put two three-enders back-to-back right at the start it seemed they were made.

But Baldwin, going after this third championship and his second straight, overcame the 6-0 lead and won the game 13-11 on the final end.

Alberta, Saskatchewan and Ontario now each have two victories apiece. Alberta got its first win in the 1st round, round-robin contest against Prince Edward Island 11-7.

CLOSE BATTLE

Saskatchewan tacked a 11-9 victory over Newfoundland onto a 17-5 trouncing of Quebec; Ontario defeated New Brunswick 11-9 at night and British Columbia 11-8 in the afternoon round.

Newfoundland, which has never won more than one game in any championship so far, got off to a fair chance at breaking its record by beating New Brunswick 16-7 in the first round. And the Bud Fisher rink played with only three men; second Jack Gullage throwing four rocks to make up for third Bill Howell sick with flu. At that they gave skip Gordon Grimes of Eston, Sask., a real run for it.

Tony Gutoski, 42-year-old icemaker for the Victoria Curling Club, kept the host province in the running by edging Nova Scotia 6-5 in the tightest game so far. There were four dead ends in the second-round match.

Skip Don Bauld led his Nova Scotia foursome despite a temperature of 102 degrees shortly before the game. He came up with some good shots too, particularly one triple kill which accounted for one of the dead ends against Gutoski.

(Byes: Manitoba, Quebec)

Ron Redding's Northern Ontario rink scored its first victory in the second round, a 11-6 win over Prince Edward Island, after bowing 9-8 to Bauld in the first round.

Quebec drew a bye in the second round and Manitoba had the bye in the first.

The Saskatchewan - Newfoundland game was considered as good a curling match as any played thus far but most eyes were on the Alberta - Manitoba game.

Terry Braunstein made several narrow-port draws and seemed to have the edge in shot-making on Baldwin. But the 31-year-old petroleum engineer pecked away steadily and scored on each of the three last ends.

On the last end with the score 11-11 Baldwin made a beautiful shot through a maze of rocks to lay shot and when Braunstein attempted the same one, he clipped one of the guards. Alberta counted two.

Leafs to Appeal Penalty, Fine To Cullen

TORONTO (CP) — Billy Reay coach of Toronto Maple Leafs says the team will appeal th misconduct penalty and automatic $25 fine given centre Bria Cullen by referee Eddie Power in a National Hockey Leagu game Saturday.

Cullen got the penalty after h objected to a call by linesmar George Hayes during the gam against New York Rangers.

"I just told him he had better get glasses," Cullen said [illegible]. "That was all I said. Other guys curse and swear and get away with it but I get a misconduct for that."

Juniors Protest CAHA Nod To Give Ottawa Player-Help

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A council Monday officially protested the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's decision to [illegible] Ottawa-Hull Canadiens to [illegible] up two players as replacements for playoff games.

Goaltender Bruce Gamble and defenceman Wally Chevrier, both from Guelph Biltmores of the OHA Junior A series, were loaned to Ottawa Sunday under the CAHA's "special assistance" rule.

The protest motion said Chevrier is ineligible because "the deadline for granting such assistance was passed" and Gamble because "Canadiens have already used their replacement earlier this season . . ."

Canadiens played a partial schedule with OHA Junior A teams this season. Their games counted for their opponents only, but while they do not take part in regular Junior A playoffs they will play the champion for the right to represent Eastern Canada in the Memorial Cup finals. Guelph has been eliminated from playoff competition.

DEADLINE HAD PASSED

The motion was proposed after George Dudley, CAHA secretary-manager, admitted the Jan. 15 deadline for assistance passed six weeks bfor . Chevrier's assistance was granted.

Dudley said the Canadiens first applied for assistance in December after rearguard Claude Ruel suffered an injured eye. He said he and CAHA president Bob Lebel delayed granting it because Ruel's condition was uncertain.

When it was reported Ruel had lost the sight of the eye, "we granted a replacement even though the deadline was passed."

MEDICALLY UNFIT

Dudley said Gamble was permitted as a replacement because Canadiens submitted a certificate saying regular netminder Eric Reid was medically unfit to play and a CAHA rule then allowed a replacement from anywhere in Canada.

Stafford Smythe, Toronto Marlboro manager, said goalie Claude Cyr was used as a replacement for Reid in games which counted in the OHA standings. But Dudley said these were "only exhibitions" as far as the CAHA is concerned.

Father David Bauer, manager of Toronto St. Michael's, asked Dudley what the CAHA's position would be if teams refused to play Ottawa in the eastern final.

"They'd be eliminated, but they wouldn't be looked upon with disdain if they did it as a matter of principle'," Dudley replied.

"There's your answer," Father Bauer told the council. Nobody took him up on it.

Maroons Take Scoring Honors In OHA-NOHA

SUDBURY (CP)—Centre Ted Power and right winger Jim Connelly of last-place Chatham Maroons took most of the honors in the OHA-NOHA Senior A scoring race.

Though the Maroons slumped through the last half of the season Power and Connelly were able to step up their own pace and ended with the over-all scoring honors, most goals and most assists titles between them.

Power put together 31 goals and 65 assists over the 60-game schedule for 96 points and the total-points and assists crowns. His winger rapped in 38 goals to lead the league in that department and picked up 36 assists for 74 points and third place in the final standings.

Sandwiched between them in second place is Ken Laufman, centre on the league - leading Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen's highest scoring line. Laufman had 28 goals and 53 assists for 81 points.

BATHGATE FOURTH

Fourth-place Frank Bathgate of Windsor Bulldogs, a brother of National Hockey League star Andy Bathgate, collected 33 goals and 37 assists for 70 points and two points back in fifth is Jerry Cabana of North Bay Trappers with 28 goals and 40 assists.

Defenceman Bob Seymour of Chatham gave Maroons a fourth league title. Seymour amassed 158 minutes in the penalty box and his contribution helped Maroons to be the league's most penalized team with 1,007 minutes.

Goaltender Harold (Boat) Hurley of Kitchener, playing his first full season of Senior A hockey, was the league's top netminder, allowing an average of 2.90 goals-a-game. Veteran Johnny Albani of third-place Sudbury Wolves finished second with a 3.17 mark, but collected five shutouts, highest among the league's regular netminders.

The top scorers:

Madoc Blues Defeat Bancroft 11-3 To Win Semi-Finals Three-In-Row

MADOC (Special) — Madoc Blue-and-Whites whipped Bancroft Pontiacs 11-3 on Marmora ice last night to capture their OHA Intermediate "C" semi-final series in three consecutive games.

Madoc will meet the winner of the Campbellford-Marmora series for the group championship. Campbellford leads that series two games to one with the fourth scheduled for Wednesday night.

Jack Holmes' crew took command in the first period last night with a 4-1 lead and were never in trouble. They scored the only goal of the second period and had a 6-2 margin in the third heat of the penalty-riddled fixture.

Big Bob Taylor once more sparked the Blue-and-Whites to victory, scoring five goals and adding a pair of assists. John "Shaker" Baker was just one point behind with three goals and as many assists while playing coach Alex MacLellan clicked for two goals. Fox fired the odd goal while Fred Nickle picked up three assists. Single assists went to Whiteman, Jud Semark, Brown and Glen Nickle.

McMurray and Crosby each had a goal and assist for the Pontiacs with Green getting the other goal and McCracken two assists.

The win was a costly one for Madoc as they lost the services of defenceman Jud Semark for the remainder of the season. Semark suffered a bone fracture of the foot during last night's play.

Referees Kingdon and Williams handed out a total of 22 penalties including a minor, misconduct and game misconduct to Madoc's "Nobber" Day in the second period and a major to Brown in the third.

SUMMARY

Smythe Wants OHA Jr. Champs In Cup Final

TORONTO (CP)—Staff Smythe, manager of the Toronto Marlboros, Monday night suggested the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series champions should move right into the Memorial Cup final without having to play an eastern final.

Smythe told the OHA Junior A Council the Ottawa - Hull Canadiens, who normally would play the Junior A champions in the eastern final, should play the western representatives in a semi final with the winner advancing against Ontario.

"If the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association considers our league so strong that we can't get player replacements (as the West does), then our winner should play the winner of the rest of Canada," Smythe said.

The council has been protesting the practice of allowing the western team to strengthen itself before the final and earlier Monday night also objected to the CAHA's decision to permit Ottawa two replacements from Guelph Biltmores of the OHA Junior A.

John McKenzie Scoring Champ Junior Series

TORONTO (CP) — John McKenzie of St. Catharines Teepees was confirmed as scoring champion in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series in statistics issued Monday.

McKenzie finished the schedule with 48 goals and 51 assists for 99 points, six more than teammate Eddie Hoekstra, who had 35 goals, 58 assists. In third place was Murray Oliver, Hamilton Tiger Cubs, with 90 points on 34 goals and 56 assists.

Toronto Marlboros' Len Broderick topped the regular goaltenders, compiling a 3.275 goal average. He allowed 131 goals in 40 games to edge Dennis DeJordy, St. Catharines, who had a 3.346 average.

Top ten scorers:

	G	A	Pts.
McKenzie, St. Cath.	48	51	99
Hoekstra, St. Cath.	35	58	93
Oliver, Hamilton	34	56	90

Receives Offer For Chuvalo Durelle Fight

TORONTO (CP) — Boxing promoter Deacon Allen says he has received an offer to match Toronto heavyweight George Chuvalo with light heavyweight Yvon Durelle at Ottawa in the spring but he isn't too optimistic about the prospects.

Allen said Monday the overture came from Ottawa promoters who have signed the Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., fighter—who holds the No. 2 world's light heavy ranking—for a bout in the capital. The deal would be worth $7,500 to Chuvalo.

Allen said of the Ottawa group: "They have a deal with Durelle all right but they also have a clause which calls for Durelle to meet a 'mutually acceptable' opponent in Ottawa.

"I don't think we're acceptable to Durelle's handlers because I tried to get that fight for Toronto with a better offer than they could possibly give and it was turned down."

SATCHEL SIGNS AGAIN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — General manager Joe Ryan of the Miami Marlins said Monday that Leroy (Satchel) Paige, ageless Negro pitcher, has agreed to play for the International League club again next season. Satchel's age is estimated in the 50s. His professional baseball career reaches back into the 1920s. He was the leading Marlin pitcher last season with an 11-8 record and an earned run average of 2.50 in 40 games.

Handy Andy on Way Up, Evens Pocket, Nudges Moore

MONTREAL (CP) — Andy Bathgate, picking up points by the fistfull in his late - season scoring spree, has already collared Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard and seems on the verge of snatching the National Hockey League's scoring leadership from Dickie Moore.

The New York Rangers' smart right winger banged in four goals in last week's play and collected three assists, the seven points boosting his total to 69.

At that figure he is tied with Montreal Canadiens' little Rocket and gets preferred ranking because he has scored more goals, 28 to Henri's 25.

Montreal's Dickie Moore squeezed out one goal and one assist to lift his total to 73.

Although Canadiens played only two games last week, compared with New York's three, each team now has nine games left.

TOPS IN GOALS

In the league's official statistics, released today, Moore has scored 32 goals—highest in the circuit—and has counted 41 assists. Henri Richard failed to get a point last week and his totals remain at 25-44—69. His 44 assists are tops for the league. Bathgate's totals are 28-41—69.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings, scoring leader last season, went without a goal in Detroit's two games last week but picked up four assists and bettered his fourth-place position.

Howe has 62 points, four more than Bronco Horvath of Boston Bruins. Horvath's production was one goal in the single game the Bruins played.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, sidelined Montreal right winger, still retains sixth place with his 50 points.

INTO SEVENTH SPOT

Camille Henry of New York, collecting two goals and two assists, moved from 10th place to seventh. He now has 49 points, with a three-way tie behind him at 48.

Johnny Bucyk of Boston, with a goal and an assist, moved into this spot with teammate Vic Stasiuk and Detroit's Alex Delvecchio, both of whom drew blanks in the week's play.

Bathgate's splurge came on top of a six-point production the week before, giving him 13 points in two weeks. Over the same stretch Howe counted 11, while Moore added only six and Henri Richard four.

In the league race, with first place already clinched by Montreal, Detroit Red Wings lost ground in their bid to overtake second-place New York Rangers. Detroit had two ties in as many starts, while New York had two wins and a tie in three outings.

Boston's single win was enough to maintain the Bruins' six-point margin over fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs, who had one win and two losses. Bruins are three points behind Detroit. The last-place Chicago Black Hawks lost all three games played.

Wampum Talk Has Effect On Five Braves' Holdouts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Money talks—it's even beginning to crack the stubborn band of Milwaukee Braves' holdouts.

The world champion Braves figured to be tough to sign, but the holdout list was down to five today following the signing of pitchers Gene Conley and Bob Buhl.

That leaves general manager John Quinn with this cast of unsigned: world series hero Lew Burdette, who won three games against the New York Yankees, relief pitcher Don McMahon, outfielder Wes Covington, shortstop Johnny Logan and first baseman Frank Torre.

The Yankees all but closed their ledgers Monday when Bill Skowron signed, leaving only Tommy Byrne—who has contemplated retirement—as the lone outstanding member of the American League champs.

INDIANS GET CHICO

Cleveland Indians roster was filled when Chico Carrasquel informed the club his signed contract was on its way.

Conley's quick signing was a surprise. Saturday the hurler, who had a 9-9 record last year, said he "almost flipped" when he saw his contract, which Conley said called for the maximum 25-per-cent pay cut. Buhl, won 18 and lost seven in 1957 and compiled a 2.74 earned run average.

The Yanks rewarded Skowron, their husky first baseman who batted .304, with an estimated $22,000 contract.

Some teams already are having spring training injury problems. Chicago Cub pitcher Dick Littlefield was hit in the right forearm by a line drive. Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Roger Craig came up with a sore shoulder muscle and infielder Dick Gray was smacked on the leg by a couple of stray pitches.

San Francisco Giants hurler Stu Miller was hit in the knee by a batted ball.

Delta Conservation Director World Famous for Work on Conservation, Management

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DELTA, Man. (CP) — An American, whose two award-winning books on North American waterfowl resulted in a sharp review of conservation practices, for 20 years has directed work at a lonely research station here.

H. Albert Hochbaum, 46, a native of Greenley, Colo., was sent by the American Wildlife Foundation to Delta in 1938 to head the establishment of the Delta Waterfowl research station, 75 miles northwest of Winnipeg, in the midst of a huge marsh.

Twenty years later, although relatively unknown by the average person, he has become world famous for his work in waterfowl conservation and management.

LIVES AT STATION

Much of it has been the result of exhausting projects by the 200-pound, six-foot, publicity-shy director who, with his family, lives side by side with the ducks, geese and swans he studies.

"But there's nothing finer than working in the outdoors and I couldn't think of anything I would trade for it," Mr. Hochbaum said in an interview. "The station provides plenty of work and play for all of us."

His work takes him to almost every corner of the 36,000 - acre game preserve and into pens and flypens which house 453 ducks, geese and swans.

The birds were either hatched at the station, trapped by a decoy and held in pens or taken from nearby marshes. One method of holding a flock for study is to trap part of it during migration. The remainder will remain outside the flypen, refusing to migrate further.

A biology graduate of Wisconsin, Mr. Hochbaum came to Delta to head waterfowl study at a time when its population had dwindled to a record low because of hunting pressures and years of drought on the Canadian Prairies.

ISOLATED SPOT

The station, hidden by prairie bush, acres of marshland and scattered potholes, is accessible only by air or a dirt road from Portage la Prairie, Man., 15 miles to the south.

It lies in the midst of one of the world's best waterfowl breeding grounds. Yet pressures from civilization are near enough to record accurate affects.

In his first book, The Canvasback on a Prairie Marsh, written in 1944, Mr. Hochbaum outlined the dangers of early hunting seasons on ducks that nest on water, the most widely known being redheads and canvasbacks.

The books warned that limiting bags during hunting season was not enough and urged the species be protected by late hunting seasons on marshes where redheads and canvasbacks remained until migration in late October.

His second book, The Travels and Traditions of Waterfowl, recounted studies which showed that ducks do not possess the inherent tradition of returning to their place of birth but rather to the area where they learned to fly.

INTERESTING TEST

He wrote of transferring ducklings to new areas just before they learned to fly and then seeing them return the following year to their man-given homes.

This fact kindled new hope for re-populating areas where ducks had been killed by man or nature in past years.

The book also told of studies showing that traditional migration routes were taught to juvenile birds by adults and not, as previously credited, by instinct.

His sketches of waterfowl dot both books.

Mr. Hochbaum is adamant in his stand urging protection of the breeding stock of waterfowl. He has criticized the publication of reports on duck populations and travels which he considered faulty.

His favorite hobbies are painting and collecting guns. Scenes of waterfowl life captured on the station's marshes almost cover the walls of his home. Rifles, some trophies and an old six-shooter take up the remaining space.

FAMILY PARTICIPATES

His wife, Joan, and four children, Albert, Jr., George, Peter, and Trudi, all take deep interest in conservation and painting too.

Recognized as a leading world waterfowl expert and wildlife artist, Mr. Hochbaum is a guiding light to most of the 40 students doing field work in biology at the station.

As director, Mr. Hochbaum says the research station's two main objectives are:

"To train men to become proficient in management of waterfowl and to produce facts, information and studies which lead to the useful management of North American waterfowl as a harvestible resource."

The station is regarded as a "fact - finding agency" which passes information to federal and provincial governments in Canada and federal and state governments in the United States to be applied in their game regulations or conservation programs.

Kerwin Drops Verdict to Davey Dupas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Davey Dupas of New Orleans scored with wild, fast flurries Monday night for a split and unpopular decision over Gale Kerwin of Ottawa in a 10-round bout. Dupas weighed 140, Kerwin 139.

Judge Gerald Miller scored it 98-97 Dupas. Judge Fisk scored it 97-94 for Dupas but referee Jack Marshall had it 97-93 for Kerwin.

Ten points were given to the winner of each round, nine or less to the loser.

It was a close fight throughout with no knockdowns. Neither fighter was cut.

Sugar Hart Verdicts Harris

NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Hart, a long, lean Philadelphian, won a split 10-round decision over Michigan welterweight champion Duke Harris in the feature bout at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night. Hart weighed 147 pounds, Harris 145¾.

Hart built up his lead in the early rounds. But during the latter half of the fight, the 23-year-old Harris, a former high school football star, clearly had the better of it.

Referee Mark Conn gave it to Hart, 6-4, judge Artie Schwartz saw Hart the winner, 5-4-1, and judge Leo Birnbaum gave it to Harris 5-4-1. The Associated Press card agreed with Birnbaum.

Bavasi Named Dodger G.M.

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—E. J. Bavasi, a vice-president of the Los Angeles Dodgers, became the team's general manager in a reorganization of front office personnel, the Dodgers announced Monday night.

There has been no general manager for some time. Fresco Thompson continues as a vice-president and will be director of minor league operations. Richard Walsh was named assistant to the general manager.

Jockey Ycaza Is Suspended For 15 Days

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jockey Manuel Ycaza was suspended Monday for 15 days "for rough riding" on Jewel's Reward in Saturday's $135,000 Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah Park.

Hialeah stewards announced the suspension, which will keep the 20-year-old rider out of action on all tracks.

Motion pictures of the race showed that Jewel's Reward, owned by Maine Chance Farm bumped Calumet Farm's Tim Tam six times during their stretch battle. Jewel's Reward finished a head in front but was disqualified and placed second, with Tim Tam the winner.

Wynburgh Still Favorite for Grand National

LONDON (AP) — The Scottish gelding Wynburgh remained a 10-to-1 favorite for the Grand National steeplechase to be run at Liverpool March 29.

Other betting in the call over at London's Victoria Club: 100-6 Hart Royal; 20-1 — Glorious Twelfth, Goosander, Mr. What, Tiberetta; 25-1 — Quare Times, Athenian, Bremontier, College Master, Eagle Lodge, Green Drill, Agst Pippykin, Rendez Vous III, Sydney Jones; 33-1—E. S. B., Brookling, Kari Sou, Limber Hill, Longmead, Merry Throw, Richardstown, Valiant Spark; 40-1 Sam Brownthron, Sentina, Spring Silver.

Marshall Ups American Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Marshall of the Hershey Bears bolstered his American Hockey League scoring lead during the past week.

The aggressive centre from Kirkland Lake, Ont., held a 12-point lead after collecting four points last week. That gave him a season's output of 88 on 34 goals and 54 assists, according to league statistics released today.

Dunc Fisher of Hershey, third a week ago, moved into a second-place tie with Jimmy Moore of Cleveland. Fisher picked up three points while Moore had one to give them season's total of 76 each.

Cleveland's Johnny Bower has goal - tending honors virtually wrapped up. The veteran has yielded an average of 2.22 goals per game.

Fullmer Wins Over Savage

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Gene Fullmer, No. 2 ranking former middleweight champion, bulled his way to a 10-round unanimous decision Monday night over cautious Milo Savage. Fullmer weighed 159, his former sparmate 160.

There were no official knockdowns but Fullmer slipped to one knee in the second round. Savage also slipped to the canvas in the seventh round after Fullmer landed a hard right to the body.

The fight drew boos from the capacity crowd of 4,900 at the Salt Lake Coliseum when the action slowed in the late rounds.

The victory was Fullmer's 43rd in 47 professional fights. It was Savage's 38th defeat. He's won 40 and had 10 draws.

To Unscientific Viewer 'Conquest' Takes Top Honors

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—In this age of increased emphasis on science and creative minds of the television networks are sincerely trying to inform un-scientific viewers.

To this un-scientific viewer, Conquest (CBS-TV) takes top honors in its design of bringing the field of basic research into clear, absorbing perspective.

Next Sunday (at 5 p.m., EST), for example, it will examine scientific advances in the study of the atom, heart surgery and the Antarctic regions.

Discussing the program recently with Eric Sevareid, the guide of Conquest, it occurred to me that not so long ago I would have been more interested in the Antarctic than in the atom. But now my interests lean toward the atom. Why?

WONDERS ABOUT ATOM

I'm not positive that I know what an atom is. Certainly I'm never going to split one. I'm 40 years old, of no use to science except for possible autopsy purposes, and of little further use to government except for tax purposes. Nevertheless, I'm still alive and sometimes gnawed by a wonder whether the abstract atom may not affect the remainder of my life.

"In television," said Sevareid, "the problem of informing an audience is to explain graphically, to dramatize but not over-dramatize, not to talk down, but neither to talk over the heads of the audience. I think we're succeeding pretty well on Conquest."

So do I.

It interested me that Sevareid has had the identical formal scientific education to which I was exposed: Some math, a course in physics, a course in biology. The rest has been in that area which college catalogues used to call "the arts and social sciences."

Before he took the helm of Conquest he began reading widely in the field of general science. It absorbed him. He knows what an atom is and can explain it to you. He also feels that all of us should know more about the basic nature of the world in which we live.

Now, he rather symbolizes a lot of us who are just awakening to our ignorance of vast areas of knowledge.

Jimmy Piersall Raps 'Ole Case' Over Mantle

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Jimmy Piersall, Boston's irrepressible outfielder, said today he was surprised at Casey Stengel's recent criticism of Mickey Mantle and could not understand why the New York Yankee manager would want to "run down" his most valuable player.

"I think it was real bush of Casey the way he publicly criticized Mantle's fielding in the world series, telling reporters that Mickey would have to go back to school to learn how to catch fly balls," the Red Sox veteran said. "If he thought Mantle needed more practice in the field this spring, why didn't he just tell that to Mickey instead of running him down to the press?"

Piersall, once labeled by Stengel as "the best defensive outfielder I ever saw," then went on to defend his centre field rival.

"Sure, Mickey is no Willie Mays in the outfield," he said, "but for a fellow who never played there until he came up to the major leagues, he does a pretty good job.

"Maybe he doesn't make those diving catches that Casey likes. But I don't blame him. Anyone who has had as much trouble with his legs as Mickey has should never attempt a diving catch.

"Instead of urging Mantle to go all out more, Casey should tell him to be more careful and pray that Mickey doesn't hurt his legs. Casey and the Yankees need Mantle; the American League needs him; all baseball needs him."

On the Tracks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jockey Dave Erb gave Pardala a bristling stretch ride Monday to win the $39,550 Black Helen Handicap at Hialeah Park, coming from fifth in the long straightaway to beat the favored Amoret by a neck.

Pardala, owned by Jack Dudley and Bonnie Heath, ran the 1⅛ miles in 1:50 over a fast track.

Amoret, owned by Calumet and ridden by champion Jockey Bill Hartack, lacked the speed to stave off Pardala's great rush in the final yards.

Maury Freeman's Gay Life was third and Toronto sportsman Bill Beasley's Pink Velvet finished fourth.

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Jockey Club Ltd. had net profit in the year ended Nov. 30 of $770,787 compared with $800,601 in the 13 months ended Nov. 30, 1956.

Net profit per share was 19 cents on 3,246,524 shares compared with 28 cents on 1,943,000 shares in the preceding period.

AT THE McCARTHY — "The One That Got Away", tells the story of the daring escapes from wartime captivity of Luftwaffe pilot Franz Von Werra. Hardy Kruger plays Von Werra. The film, based on the book by Kendal Burt and James Leasor is produced by Julian Wintle, directed by Roy Baker and made at the Pinewood Studios by the Rank Organization, has its North American premiere at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, Wednesday evening, with performances at 7.00 and 9.10 p.m.

Harry Cohn, Curious Man, Ran Studio With Iron Hand

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Harry Cohn, movie giant who died Thursday, was a curious man.

Like other pioneering studio heads, he ran Columbia Pictures with an iron hand. But unlike his publicity - hungry felow tycoons, he shunned the limelight. He turned down all interviews and was seldom seen in public.

His employees often claimed he was a humorless tyrant. Yet he turned out the most impressive string of comedies in film history

He lived and acted as if he didn't care what anyone thought of him. Yet there were areas where he was sensitive.

Recently I did a Kim Novak interview in which she explained her own strike against Columbia for more money. She said that she had been paid so little that she had to go to the studio to get her hair done and borrow a dress whenever she went to a party.

"Don't say things like that," said Cohn, who had just given Miss Novak a handsome new contract. "It makes me sound cheap."

ODD MIXTURE

He was a strange mixture of charm and cunning. Once he fondly congratulated Jeff. Donnell and Aldo Ray, who were getting married the next day. After the wedding Ray learned that he had been placed on layoff, the annual 12-week period when contract actors aren't paid. Yet on another occasion Cohn handed Ray a $10,000 bonus cheque after the actor complained about his low salary.

There can be no denying Cohn's genius. Year after year, Columbia came up with at least one picture that added greatness to the screen. The studio won more important oscars than any other, even though it put out only a handful of A pictures yearly.

What was the source of Cohn's greatness? Perhaps it was his ruthless search and use of talented people.

But the tide was running against him. Last week, he issued a financial report: A six-month loss of $820,000, against a $1,3[illegible],000 profit a year before.

Harry Cohn was trying to fight his way back into the black when death ended his career.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, March 4th., 1958

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — See that you get all beauty aids, treatments in early part of the day, then you can put house in immaculate order. Prepare for the fine days ahead by going to bed early tonight and help nature build up your resistance.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — [illegible] hours give you the opportunity to straighten out any problems with kin or business associates, and put all in practical, workable order. Don't waste time with any dreamers. Tonight, fine for fun, civic tasks, etc.

Gemini (May 1 to June 21) — Every chance is present today to get the small items that will enhance, adorn your person or your surroundings. Look in the paper for best ideas. Study and make your daily work hereafter most inspiring.

Moon Children (June 2 to July 21) — Morning is splendid for beautifying your home with flowers, other items that turn it into a charming atmosphere for self and friends. Then make some recordings. Tonight, get together with pals and live it up.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — The day hours are best to attend to any matters of a most personal nature, so get them straightened out quickly. P. M. look into property matters, adjust them, and set up a more sensible budget for the future.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept 22) — Get in touch with that wise and farseeing friend who knows the best way to get your problems straightened out. In P.M. you will then be able to go about socially with a light heart and it will prove most productive, too.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Be sure you pay attention to and follow the advice of a wise pal today. Then go about your duties with real enthusiasm intelligently. P. M. fine for your favorite pastime. Also, give help to the needy.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — A mundane problem needs straightening out today. Do so with real wisdom. Be sure to follow the finest precepts and standard methods. Tonight is then free for fun and frolic with dearest friends and loved one.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Here is the ideal day to write letters or telephone, wire to those far away who can be of tremendous help to you in some fashion. Listen to good ideas and follow, too. P.M. fine for being with personage who can assist you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — See that you put all your monetary affairs in the best possible condition during the daytime, when it will be possible to get the assistance of one in power. Tonight, delight in the companionship of some very worthwhile persons.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — The day hours should be spent getting the latest methods and ideas inculcated in your mind for increasing success in the future. Your paper can be most enlightening. P. M. get financial affairs in order and then romance is fine.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Keep working diligently at this time and you insure greater abundance in the early future. Any deviation would be disastrous right now P. M. just fine for dashing out somewhere with favorite pals for fun and laughter.

If your child is born today . . The lovely child born today will also have the wonderful quality of warmth and affection in his or her makeup, so it is imperative you give much love in return in order to keep a fine emotional and mental balance. If you early teach to complete every task once begun, the chart is wonderful for the great performer, politician, humanitarian of tomorrow.

Govt. Spending Debated in 3 Legislatures

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Proposals for spending money in the future fiscal year and reviews of how it has been spent in the closing year were debated in three provincial legislatures Monday.

In Edmonton A. J. Hooke, the Alberta social credit government's municipal affairs minister, continued the government's discussion of municipal grants during the throne speech debate.

Mr. Hooke said the government grants amounted to 34 per cent of the municipal tax levy during 1955, more than in most provinces, and "figures for 1956 and 1957—if they were available—would show Alberta stands out even more."

The government has indicated it may increase municipal grants this session.

ATTACKS CROWN COMPANIES

At Regina the Liberal opposition's financial critic attacked the Saskatchewan Crown corporations set up by the CCF government. He said they were a drain on provincial finances.

Alex Cameron (L — Maple Creek) said only the timber board, a monopoly, has made a profit. The others, he said, have been advanced $6,370,000 but have showed a return of only $258,000.

Premier Stanfield's Progressive Conservative government in Nova Scotia forecast a surplus of $104,785 for the fiscal year ending March 31. The surplus is double that estimated in the 1957-58 budget.

Mr. Stanfield's government plans to move to adjourn the legislature Friday and reconvene after the federal election. Liberal Opposition Leader Henry Hicks said the government's motive is to wait until after the federal election to present the budget, since it would harm federal PC candidates.

MEMBERS WALKOUT

Two members of the Social Credit government in British Columbia walked out of the legislature in Victoria when a CCF non-confidence motion against Attorney-General Robert Bonner came up for a vote.

The two, Cyril Shelford (SC—Omeica) and Fred Sharp (SC—Vancouver East), said they did not wish to vote on the motion.

The vote was called over Mr. Bonner's handling of the Robert Sommers case. Mr. Sommers, former minister of lands and forests, was charged with bribery and conspiracy after an RCMP investigation. The case now is before the courts.

CARTOONIST JAILED

ISTANBUL (Reuters) — Turkish cartoonist Halim Buyukbulut has been sentenced to 25 months imprisonment and fined 20,666 Turkish liras (about $7,200) for drawing a cartoon said to have harmed the government's prestige. The Ankara Republic (opposition) newspaper Ulus has been suspended for two months for publishing the cartoon.

PRINCE AT UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Prince Aly Khan, Pakistan's new delegate to the United Nations, has arrived in New York and taken up his duties, a Pakistani official said Monday. He flew in Sunday from France where he had stopped for a brief vacation on his way from Karachi.

Union Says Govt. Stand Will Aid Rail Dispute

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — The present government's "reiterated opposition" to compulsory arbitration has improved the chances of settlement in the big contract dispute between the major railways and their 130,000 non-operating employees, says union negotiator Frank B. Hall.

The government stand, he said Monday in a brief at the opening session of a conciliation hearing here, means railway workers have regained the right to strike.

"Nothing has been more damaging to the position of the employees in the last few years than the ever-present threat of compulsory arbitration and the withdrawal of the basic right of free labor everywhere—the right to strike,' he told the three-man conciliation board.

"The restoration of that right does not increase the chance that a strike will actually ensue, but instead is likely to lead to a reasonable settlement in which both sides, bargaining as equals, must accommodate themselves to what is sensible and fair."

OUTLINES CASE

Mr. Hall made the statements in outlining the case of the 15 non-operating unions involved in the dispute with the railways.

The conciliation board, headed by Mr. Justice H. F. Thomson of Regina, opened its hearing Monday with the public and press admitted. Both sides in the dispute will present their views—which may take as long as a month—and then the board will meet them privately to try to achieve a settlement.

The union proposals include a wage increase amounting to about 35 cents an hour, plus increased health and welfare benefits, an additional statutory holiday, longer vacations and severance pay.

The railways — the CNR and CPR, four smaller Canadian companies and an express agency—have rejected the union demands. The two major companies contend the union demands would cost an extra $128,000,000 a year if granted.

Many Boards Show Support

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for the Ontario School Trustees' Council said Monday 165 of the province's 210 major school boards are supporting the council's opposition to salary demands made by teachers in suburban North York.

Percy M. Muir, executive director of the council, said the council has written to the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation offering to arbitrate the dispute in North York if the federation will withdraw its bulletin to members asking them not to negotiate with the North York board of education.

A federation spokesman said the teachers are still demanding an increase of $800 in minimum and maximum salaries and $300 annual increment. The board offers $400 and $200.

WOULD GRANT ASYLUM

LONDON (Reuters) — More than 100 Labor members of Parliament have signed a motion calling for political asylum to be granted to Joaquim Perez-Elles, an opponent of the Franco regime now awaiting deportation to Spain. The motion was introduced in the House Monday night by Fenner Brockway. Home Secretary R. A. Butler, who last week said he could see no reason why Perez - Elles should stay here, asked Brockway and another member to discuss the case with him.

POLITICAL

At Courtenay, B.C., Mr. Coldwell said Canada is returning to a two-party system, the Progressive and Liberal forces from other parties joining with the CCF "to make a great people's movement" while other forces formed the second party.

Refusal of defeated former Liberal cabinet ministers to run in this election showed "more clearly than ever before the CCF is the real alternative." Canadians were becoming increasingly aware that the same financial interests supported the Liberals, Conservatives and Social Credit.

Mr. Pearson said at Dauphin that the Liberals are the "party of reform without revolution, the party of social security without socialism, and the party of individuality but with responsibility." He said splinter parties make for instability.

At a night meeting in Flin Flon he said the Conservatives are "living in a fool's paradise" if they believe they can divert 15 per cent of Canada's import buying from the United States to Britain without inviting American trade retaliation. "Let us expand our trade, not restrict or divert it."

SAYS SWITCH IS ON

At Vancouver, meantime, Trade Minister Gordon Churchill said the switch in Canadian import buying to Britain from the U.S. is already in progress. Imports from the U.K. had increased $38,000,000 in the last six months while imports from the U.S. fell $160,000,000.

As for Canadian trade with Red China, it was up to Canadian businessmen to foster it. "Canadian trade is not conducted on a government - to - government basis."

Labor Minister Michael Starr said at Vita, Man., that despite "propaganda" about unemployment, the Conservative government had initiated a public works program worth more than $1,000,000,000 without which "there would have been approximately 370,000 more people out of work now."

At Calgary, former Liberal health minister Paul Martin said the Conservative government violated more rights of Parliament in two weeks than the former Liberal gmvernment did in the previous two years.

GETTING BIGGER

TORONTO (CP) — The Metropolitan planning board estimated Monday that the population of Metropolitan Toronto has reached 1,430,000, an increase of 118,664 over last year.

U.S. Makers May Be Forced Into Small Car Mart

By DAVID WILKIE

DETROIT (AP) — The larger U.S. auto makers may be forced into domestic production of smaller, lower -priced automobiles.

It is no secret that General Motors, Ford and Chrysler already have in the blueprint stage vehicles designed to compete with small foreign-built cars. Whether these cars ever will be put into production will depend on how demand for small cars holds up.

The foreign-car penetration of the U.S. market last year amounted to 3.5 per cent—206,827 of the nearly 6,000,000 retail deliveries of all makes. In 1950, when over-all sales in the U.S. were up to 6,326,000, imported cars accounted for only .26 per cent of the total.

European cars have a bigger share of the Canadian automobile business. Last year it was 11.6 per cent of the 457,320 cars of all makes sold compared with 7.6 per cent of a slightly bigger number of sales in 1956.

NEED GOOD DEMAND

Some industry analysts are predicting that if demand for the smaller vehicles approaches 400,000 units annually in the U.S., General Motors, Ford and Chrysler will put smaller wheelbase, lower-priced cars on their production lines. Anything less than that volume, experts say, would make U.S. production economically impractical.

The car makers generally decline to discuss what small car plans they may have. The weekly magazine Newsweek in its March 10 issue will say General Motors and Ford are going into production of small cars and may have them on the market late in 1959.

The magazine says the cars will be priced at from $1,600 to $1,800 and will resemble the GM and Ford European-made cars.

General Motors and Ford said the newsweek statement was speculative and declined further comment.

TO CALL TENDERS

BRANTFORD (CP) — The Ontario water resources commission will call for tenders as soon as possible for $2,910,000 sewage treatment plant in Brantford. Assurance was given in a letter received at city hall Monday.

61 Candidates File Papers on Nomination Day

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The first 61 candidates of 800 or more who will seek election to the House of Commons March 31 have completed the formalities of nomination and paid their $200 deposits.

Monday was nomination day in 21 constituencies from Newfoundland to the Yukon where an early deadline is set to allow time for distribution of ballots and other election supplies. In the other 242 ridings, two of which elect two members apiece, nominations close March 17.

There were no acclamations and no major surprises, but:

A candidate wh forgot the 2 p.m. filing deadline was saved from disqualification by a year-old ruling on time zones;

A sleet storm in Newfoundland tangled communications to such an extent that nominations in three constituencies were left to fairly-safe speculation:

YUKON CONTEST

The last-minute entry of an Independent Conservative forced a three-man contest in the Yukon;

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Social Credit Leader Solon Low formally entered the election race; and Three Liberal members of the last House did not seek re-election.

On the assumption there were no changes from earlier announcements that the Progressive Conservatives and Liberals would contest the unreported Newfoundland seats, these were the nomination figures:

Progressive Conservatives and Liberals 21 apiece; CCF 12, Social Credit 5, Independent Conservative and Canadian Labor party 1 apiece.

In 1957 when 62 candidates were nominated for the same seats, C. W. Carter, a Liberal, was elected by acclamation in Burin-Burgeo. That is one of the Newfoundland ridings still unreported officially, but the Progressive Conservatives already have named Harvey Cole as their candidate.

LEADERS NAMED

Mr. Diefenbaker was nominated as Progressive Conservative candidate in Prince Albert and Mr. Low was named in Peace River. Liberal and CCF candidates will oppose the prime minister; Progressive Conservative, Liberal and CCF candidates will fight Mr. Low.

A ruling made a year ago by Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer, figures in the nomination of Bert Leboe, seeking re-election as Social Credit member for Cariboo.

Fort St. John, B.C., where nominations were received, is on Mountain Standard Time because of its proximity to Alberta but Mr. Castonguay ruled last year that for election purposes all Cariboo should be considered to be in the Pacific time zone.

Mr. Leboe, who forgot the 2 p.m. deadline for filing nominations, had to be flown to Fort St. John from his home in Prince George, B.C. He filed his papers at 2:30 p.m. Fort St. John, or Mountain, Time, but at 1:30 p.m. Pacific Time, thus qualifying by 30 minutes.

The last-minute entry in Yukon was John Watt. Aubrey Simmons, a Liberal, won the Yukon election June 10 last year but the election was thrown out because of irregularities and Erik Neilsen, Progressive Conservative, won a byelection by 128 votes. Mr. Simmons and Mr. Nielsen are candidates again, contesting their third election in less than a year.

Apart from Mr. Watt, the only candidate in the "Independent" category is Jacques Rouleau, Canadian Labor party, in Chapleau. Mr. Rouleau previously indicated he would run as a People's Socialist.

Missing from the ranks of nominees were three Liberal members of the last House, T. W. G. Ashbourne of Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador, Leonard T. Stick of Trinity - Conception, and Joseph Dechene of Athabaska.

Hydro Worried About Inroads Of Natural Gas

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario municipalities have learned they will receive more than $3,500,000 in Hydro refunds. At the same time Hydro officials are worried about the inroads of natural gas.

James S. Duncan, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, announced the rebate to the 310 municipalities the commission serves on a cost basis. He said refunds were made possible by high revenues received last year in relation to expenditures and provision for reserves.

Later presidents of the Ontario Municipal Electrical Association and the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities expressed worry about losing "much desirable and profitable business" to natural gas.

Gordon H. Fuller of Windsor, OMEA president, predicted gas will become a competitor that will cause concern.

G. R. Davis of Kingston, AMEU president, agreed but added: "Within the next 10 years we shall welcome the additional source of energy."

One of the rebates announced by Mr. Duncan was $22,432 to Woodstock.

The OMEA today is scheduled to study a resolution protecting Hydro public utilities against strikes and lockouts.

The resolution scheduled to go before the association's convention asks that all hydro public utilities be declared essential industries in the interest of public safety.

President Davis warned that labor troubles in future could place communities in a dangerous situation.

SEEK YOUNG KILLERS

DETROIT (CP) — Police in suburban Hamtramck said Monday they are hunting for two teenage killers who shot a sporting goods merchant seven times with his own revolver. Police said Bernard F. Delinski, 56, was shot in his store Saturday night and died Sunday.

On The Hustings

Coldwell Sees 2-Party System With One CCF

COURTENAY, B. C. (CP)—CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell said Monday night Canada is returning to a two-party system of government.

He said ultimately the reactionary and conservative forces in the Progressive Conservative, Liberal and Social Credit parties will come together in one party. The Progressive and Liberal forces in those parties "will join with those who are already supporting the CCF to make a great people's movement."

"I believe such a movement is taking place now," he said at a public meeting at this Vancouver Island community.

The statements were included in excerpts from the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Coldwell said there is no place for a Liberal party, a Conservative party and a Social Credit party all standing for fundamentally the same things. Canadians were becoming increasingly aware that the same financial interests support all these parties.

LEAVING "SINKING SHIP"

The CCF leader said Liberal leaders are leaving a sinking ship. Liberal cabinet ministers defeated in the last election were refusing to run in the March 31 election.

Former trade minister C. D. Howe and former public works minister Robert Winters had retired from "public affairs with a dozen company directorships."

But most revealing of all was the fact that former finance minister Walter Harris, once prominent among contenders for the Liberal leadership, had decided not to run.

"This can only mean one thing," he said. "These Liberal leaders know that the Liberal party hasn't a chance in this election; they do not want a part of the calamitous defeat that they see ahead; they do not believe that the Liberal party will be the effective alternative to the present government. Thus more clearly than ever before the CCF is the real alternative."

New Railway Route Proposed Into Northland

GRAND PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) Social Credit Leader Solon Low proposed Monday night a railway route into the northland and then said any Progressive Conservative - backed alternative route would betray the pioneer farmers of the region.

Mr. Low told a public meeting in this settlement 250 miles northwest of Edmonton that for some years he had advocated a line running from Grimshaw, in north western Alberta, to Pine Point on the south shore of Great Slave Lake. This line would go through Hay River.

Grande Prairie is in Peace River constituency where Mr. Low is seeking re-election March 31

The statements were included in a partial text released to the press before delivery.

Federal assistance to the railroads to build across the "wastelands" from Prince Albert to Pine Point would be nothing short of patronage for votes.

BASE METALS

More than 60,000,000 tons of base metals had been discovered in deposits along the south shore of Great Slave Lake.

There would be demand for these metals and the cheapest way to get them to market would be by way of Grimshaw.

If the Progressive Conservative government really means business when it says it is anxious to do something to open up the great northland, there was no transportation it could undertake which would be of more immediate importance than the Grimshaw-to-Pine Point railway.

Quebec Support Eagerly Sought By All Parties

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, expressing confidence his Progressive Conservative party is on the upswing in Quebec, has asked the province to "have faith in us."

"The conservative party is the only national party," he said here Monday, speaking in French to a mid-afternoon audience of 1,800 in a school auditorium. It was the only party with MPs from every province in the last Commons.

Obviously mindful of the fact that only nine of the province's 75 MPs were Conservatives in that Commons, he said:

"You now know us better and we are asking you to have faith in us. I am asking for effective support by the province of Quebec, and I am confident there will be many Conservative French - speaking representatives in the next Parliament."

It was the Conservative leader's fourth campaign appearance in Quebec province. For it he spoke in French longer than he has so far—15 minutes of his 18-minute speech.

STARTS ONTARIO TOUR

Today he starts three days of campaigning in Southern Ontario, opening with two afternoon and evening receptions in Toronto and a national television network broadcast.

His fast-moving mid-day swing through this industrial area of the Saguenay River and Lac St. Jean district, 110 miles north of Quebec City, was aimed at four constituencies all held by Liberals in the last Parliament. In two of them, Chicoutimi and Lapointe, the Conservative party ran no candidates in last year's election.

His speech here took a poke at the Liberals, suggesting they haven't accomplished much for the area during 22 years of government at Ottawa.

The Conservati[illegible] government, since taking office last June, had cut personal and corporation income taxes, improved most social security benefits including old age pensions, eased tight money conditions and encouraged house building.

By its farm price supports bill, the Conservative government "has done more than the former Liberal government did in 22 years to help agriculture and assure the farmer a greater portion of our national income."

Mr. Diefenbaker's visit in the area, apart from the speech, was taken up mainly with a call on Rt. Rev. George Melancon, Roman Catholic Bishop of Chicoutimi, a television appearance with Conservative candidates from the four ridings, and visits to city halls in Jonquiere, Kenogami and here.

Greeting him here was Mayor Rosaire Gauthier, who is seeking re-election as Liberal candidate for Chicoutimi riding. The mayor told reporters he will give just as warm a reception to Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson, who speaks here Saturday.

MARMORA

Officers Elected At P.C. Meeting

MARMORA — The Progressive Conservatives of this district met in the Council Chambers of Marmora Town Hall on the evening of February 28th to form a committee and officers and elect delegates to the coming convention.

Mr. Ralph Neal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association for the Hastings-Frontenac riding, was chairman and conducted the meeting. Senator George S. White ex M.P. of Madoc, was the speaker. Officers elected to represent Marmora district were: president — Nathan Mumby; 1st vice-president — Robert Gray; 2nd vice-president — Cecil Bell; 3rd vice-president — Herb Wright; secretary-treasurer — Roy Barker.

Delegates were appointed to attend the P.C. convention to be held Wednesday, March 5th at 1 p.m. in Madoc Armouries to select a candidate to contest the riding in the March 31st election.

Hon. Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Secretary of State, and Hon. Sidney Smith, Minister of External Affairs, will be present to address the nomination meeting and a possible choice is thought to be Hon. Sidney Smith.

Liberals Called 'Party of Left' By Their Leader

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DAUPHIN, Man. (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson has opened a bid for the CCF vote, describing his own party as the "party of the left" and urging Canadians to oppose splinter groups on the grounds they may lead to a weak government similar to some in Europe.

But while shifting some of his campaign fire in this rural CCF riding, he continued to concentrate his main attack Monday night against the Progressive Conservatives. He charged them with making conflicting statements on unemployment and "deceiving" the people on the employment value of their works programs.

It was another fast-moving day for the Liberal leader, conducting a gruelling fight for his first mandate. He flew into Manitoba's northland in the early morning, held a noon rally before some 800 persons at the mining community of Flin Flon and then boarded another 'plane for Dauphin, 200 miles to the south, returning to Winnipeg at midnight.

Today he speaks to University of Manitoba students before flying to Montreal.

RECEIVE GIFTS

At Flin Flon, where he received gifts of a mink bowtie, a 25 - pound trout and some ore samples, he said the Conservatives were "living in a fool's paradise" if they believed diversion of 15 per cent of Canada's imports from the United States to Britain would not invite American retaliation.

"Let's not do things that may encourage protectionists at Washington to act against us," Mr. Pearson said.

"Let us expand our trade, not restrict or divert it."

At Dauphin, a community of 7,000, so many persons tried to crowd into the town hall to hear Mr. Pearson that many had to be turned away. About 600 crowded into a hall that normally holds about 400.

It was evident from the Liberal party's over-all election program, said Mr. Pearson, "that Liberalism is a very lively and vigorous force in this country."

Splinter groups "make for instability." They could lead to stalemates and to weakening government. The best plan for Canada would be to return to a two-party system—"one on the right and one on the left."

"I am proud to belong to the party of the left," Mr. Pearson added, describing the party as one of reform without revolution, social security without socialism and individuality but with responsibility.

Corbyville Scouts Hold Father-Son Banquet

The annual "Father and Son" banquet of the 1st Corbyville Scout Troop was held on Friday evening, in the Cannifton United Church. Padre McCrea gave the invocation, following which the fathers and sons sat down to tables abounding with delicious food as only the mothers can provide. The tables were tastefully decorated with green and gold streamers and daffodils adding an air of spring to the occasion.

Following the banquet, Padre McCrea welcomed all to the annual get-together. Scoutmaster Stan Kerr introduced Local Association president Chris. Leggatt, who brought greetings from the Local Association; A.D.C. Les Boyle conveyed greetings from the district staff, and said that world travel brings association of old friends in distant places.

During a side trip to Ireland after the World Jamboree in England last summer, he happened to meet Padre McCrea and his family who were on holiday in Ireland at the time.

BADGES, CERTIFICATES PRESENTED

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of badges and certificates. A.D.C. Les Boyle, assisted by Chris. Leggatt, presented St. John Ambulance badges and certificates to the following: D. Sullivan, G. Allison, S. Urch, C. Demcyzna, R. Kerr, J. Holgate, G. Bird, and T. Luffman. Scoutmaster Stan Kerr, assisted by Assistant Scoutmaster Fred Furmidge presented proficiency badges to the following: swimmers badges, F Bird, S. Urch, T. Luffman, J. Stewart; marksmens badges to C. Allison and F. Bird; stamp collector badge to R. Kerr.

Service stars were presented as follows: F. Furmidge, 6-year; R. Kerr, 5-year; F. Bird, 4-year; J. Stewart, 3-year; T. Luffman, J. Holgate, D. Sullivan, G. Bird, S. Urch, C. Allison, C. Demcyzna each received their 2-year star, and J. Pound a 1-year star. Padre McCrea was presented with a 3-year service star. All Scouts received a Scout lapel pin.

TOASTS PROPOSED

The toast to the fathers was proposed by A.S.M. Fred Furmidge and responded to by Clarence Bird. A toast of appreciation to the mothers was proposed by S.M. Stan Kerr and responded to by Mrs. C. Sullivan.

The background for the banquet was a camp corner complete with tent and campfire, and a display of handicraft of the boys which included articles in leather, aluminum, plastic, plaster of Paris, and rope.

The evening was brought to a close with the showing of the "Moira River Valley" movie produced by the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Alberta's First Premier Credited With Founding Of University 50 Years Ago

By CHARLES MORROW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Anything more than reading, writing and arithmetic, was "high - falutin' parlor stuff" to many of the homesteaders who broke ground on the Prairies early in the century.

But for the foresight of Alexander Rutherford, Alberta's first premier, the 4,426 students of the University of Alberta probably wouldn't be celebrating the institution's 50th anniversary this year.

At the first session of the Alberta legislature in 1906 Premier Rutherford argued that man may not live by bread alone. His colleagues responded by passing an educational measure which laid the basis for the university.

CHOSE H. M. TORY

The following year Premier Rutherford went east seeking a man to head the university. In Montreal, he persuaded Dr. Henry Marshall Tory to leave his post as professor of physics at McGill University and become president of a university without staff, students or buildings.

The Province of Alberta was just emerging from its pioneer beginning with a population of about 300,000 strung out from the Montana border to the Peace River, 300 miles north of Edmonton. Edmonton then was a raw, muddy city of some 15,000.

Dr. Tory found the university's only physical assets was river lot number five, 258 acres of poplar forest above the North Saskatchewan River across from Edmonton in what was then the city of Strathcona.

"Nothing suggested human life but a few sinuous trails and a decayed log barn," said an early chronicler.

The new president wasn't beaten. He told the first meeting of his senate in the spring of 1908 that he was happy to have a fresh start rather than "re-organize some old, disrupted institution."

45 STUDENTS

Quickly appointing four professors, Dr. Tory went out himself and rounded up enough students to begin classes in September, 1908, in the upper floor of Duggan St., now Queen Alexandra, public school. Forty-five registered the first year.

The first sod for the new arts building was turned with horse and plow in 1908, but construction bogged down and the university's first building — Athabaska Hall, now a residence—was not erected until 1911.

The university grew quickly, despite recurring financial problems. A full-time director of extension services was appointed in 1912. Shortly after, the City of Strathcona built a hospital on the university grounds which when extended later became the present university hospital.

By 1925, enrolment had reached 1,118 and when D[illegible] Tory left in 1928, to become [illegible]ctor of the National Research [illegible]ncil, the university was well established.

Dr. Tory died in 1947 while serving as first president of Carleton College in Ottawa, which he was instrumental in founding.

Many storms clouded the university's course. Before its site was set, there was rivalry between the cities of Edmonton and Strathcona, which Edmonton later absorbed. Residents of Calgary protested when the site was picked.

NOTABLE CONTROVERSY

One storm broke in 1941 when a committee on which President W. A. R. Kerr sat, recommended that Premier William Aberhart be made an honorary doctor of laws. The senate rejected the plan and in protest President Kerr and the chairman of the board of governors presented their resignations. The [illegible]ations weren't accepted b[illegible] Dr. Kerr insisted and left the university shortly after.

The senate's action brought a barrage of criticism from members of Mr. Aberhart's Social Credit government.

They charged the senate was politically biased. Mr. Aberhart appointed a commission to investigate the university's administration and as a result the senate's duties were reduced and the board of governors given virtual control.

The affair didn't end there. In 1941 and for five years after no honorary degrees were awarded.

As a golden anniversary year project, Dr. John Macdonald, professor of psychology and philosophy and dean of arts and science, is writing the first comprehensive history of the university.

Britain Denies NATO Rejects Russian Terms

Dulles' Announcement Applies Only to U.S.

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain said today the NATO countries have not yet reached any decisions on Soviet terms for an East-West summit conference.

A foreign office spokesman said the NATO permanent council will meet again in Paris Thursday to discuss Moscow's terms. The council was reported to have rejected the Soviet terms at a special session Tuesday night.

Russia proposed in messages last Friday to Paris and Washington that a foreign ministers' meeting should be held in April to discuss only the agenda and composition of a summit conference in June.

State Secretary Dulles said Tuesday in Washington that Russia's insistence on limiting the work of the foreign ministers is not acceptable.

The British spokesman said Dulles was speaking only for the United States.

The spokesman declined to say whether Britain accepted or rejected Soviet insistence on fixing a date for the summit conference before the foreign ministers met.

The council met a few hours after State Secretary Dulles of the United States had rejected the Russian proposals.

A council source said "chances are even" for a summit meeting some time this year, but it did not appear that the latest Russian proposals had brought the date any closer.

MUST INVESTIGATE

"It is important that if there should be a summit meeting, one has got to go on patiently examining the Soviet proposals and we have a carefully agreed agenda which would ensure a measure of success," the source added.

The council meeting was called at the request of the U.S. to co-ordinate Western policy on the latest proposals by Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Gromyko proposed in a letter to Foreign Minister Christian Pineau of France last Friday that the foreign ministers should meet in Geneva next month for the "limited task" of drawing up an agenda for summit talks. He proposed June as the date for the top-level conference.

Light Rain Eats At Tons of Ice On Power Lines

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Weary linemen and power company officials grinned today for the first time in four days as a steady, light rain ate away at tons of ice that had accumulated on telephone and power lines from a weekend freezing rain and sleet storm.

The weather forecast had called for more freezing rain which could have undone all the repairs made by hard-pressed linemen after the storm that hit Friday. But the rain could still turn to sleet.

Saturday, lines and poles were a tangled mass and the Avalon Peninsula was without electricity.

By Tuesday power was flowing through 90 per cent of the city, although less than 75 per cent of the city's 70,000 people were able to receive it.

HELPS A LOT

Assistant manager Dave Templeton of the Newfoundland Light and Power Company said the rain helped a lot. The company now could concentrate on restoring power to Bell Island, almost completely isolated from Friday until Monday.

On the island, water could not be pumped from wells and household sewage systems would not work.

Power failures cut off pumps that normally keep the undersea levels of the Wabana Ore Company mines dry. About 2,000 miners were thrown out of work.

Mr. Templeton said he wouldn't like to guess how long it would be before electrical service will be restored to Bell Island's 10,000 residents. Premier Smallwood predicted it would be a week at least.

German Girl Weds Son of Sir Harry Oakes

TORONTO (CP)—Harry Oakes, 24, youngest son of the late Sir Harry Oakes, millionaire mining man, was married Monday in suburban Willowdale. The bride is the former Christiane Botsch, 18.

Details of how the couple met and how long they have known each other were not available.

Young Harry, who shunned publicity attracted by other members of the Oakes family, has been in business here for some years. His wife is a German immigrant here for an extension course at the University of Toronto.

Mr. Oakes told reporters: "It was love at first sight."

The wedding was performed in the office of Magistrate Fred W. Bartrem with only a handful of friends present.

BAHAMAS HONEYMOON

Lady Oakes widow of Sir Harry, said the couple are on a honeymoon in the Bahamas. She added they plan to fly to Hamburg, Germany, later for a Lutheran Church marriage ceremony.

Sir Harry, who left an estate estimated at about $25,000,000, was found bludgeoned to death in his home in the Bahamas in July, 1943. His son-in-law, Alfred de Marigny, was charged with murdering Sir Harry but acquitted. The crime never has been solved.

HYDRO MEETING SQUABBLES OVER NAMING OFFICERS

Northern Ontario Ignored Is Claim

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto man was elected to the presidency of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association Tuesday after an uproar on the platform at the annual convention.

Bertram Merson, chairman of the Toronto Hydro-Electric System, succeeds Gordon H. Fuller of Windsor.

A verbal battle erupted as delegates began what was billed as a routine nomination for the presidency. Capreol Mayor H. A. Prescott strode to the platform and nominated Webbwood Mayor Frank Dennie.

"For many years delegates from Northern Ontario have been attending these conventions and electing a president from the south," he said. "In the interests of fair play and sportsmanship we would appreciate it if we could get a president from Northern Ontario for a change.

DON'T REALIZE

"Many people in Southern Ontario," he added, "don't realize what we are up against."

A. A. Kennedy of Owen Sound, chairman of the nominations committee, and Mr. Prescott began shouting at each other. Mr. Dennie nominated Mr. Prescott but he withdrew.

The ruckus gradually subsided and the elections went ahead.

Vice-presidents include Lt.-Col. A. A. Kennedy, Owen Sound; J. L. Skillen, Dryden; C. H. Buss, Thorold; G. H. Glover, St. Marys; H. R. Henderson, Woodstock, and Roy Warwick, Blenheim.

Directors—A. T. Smith, North Bay; R. B. Shandler, Port Arthur; W. A. Ferguson, Atikokan; J. T. Armstrong, Georgetown; F. R. Kaupp, Merriton; Roy Pierson, Cainsville; H. M. Scheifele, Waterloo; T. J. Moffatt, Listowel; P. R. Locke, St. Thomas; G. E. Brown, Aylmer.

Boy Admits Pushing Two In Hudson River

NEW YORK (AP) — It seemed too much of a coincidence that an 11-year-old boy happened by when two of his playmates vanished months apart in the Hudson River. Tuesday, police said he admitted he pushed them in to drown.

The boy, George Jones, a Negro, moved from one public housing project to another with his seamstress mother. In each project, police said, he chose a chance victim.

Because of his age, Jones was held as a juvenile delinquent for a children's court hearing March 14.

First to die was four-year-old Theresa Murphy, a Negro, who was drowned last June 28. Police quoted the boy as telling them: "I was mad at her. I got blamed for things I didn't do and she was always the cause of the blame."

The other victim was seven-year-old Louis Diamant, a white boy. Police quoted the Jones boy as saying he pushed Louis off a pier Sunday in a dispute over a dime.

COST TRIPLED

LONDON (Reuters)—The final cost of Britain's atomic weapons proving ground at Maralinga in South Australia will be about £8,600,000, it was announced today — almost three times the original estimate. Some of the extra expense came from measures to speed up completion of the range. Construction started before detailed plans and specifications were drawn up.

Dressmakers Go on Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A pre-Easter strike of 105,000 dressmakers began today in seven eastern states. The walkout was the first in the $1,000,000,000-a-year industry in 25 years.

Manufacturers said most of their Easter finery already has been produced and delivered to outlets but that they stand to lose considerable business if the walkout is prolonged.

The International Ladies Garment Workers Union called the strike against some 1,550 dress contractors in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Delaware.

Wages and contract conditions are at issue.

SEEK INCREASE

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CLC) is seeking a 10-per-cent wage increase and a 40-hour work week for 4,500 operating employees of the Montreal Transportation Commission. At present the employees work 45 hours weekly at a basic hourly wage rate of $1.63.

After Waiting Year as Requested, Pianist Resumes Suit of Princess

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—Robin Douglas-Home today met his Margaretha, and stayed for lunch with Sweden's royal family.

The 25-year-old former London night club pianist flew to Stockholm Tuesday night for a six-day visit that is expected to see his engagement announced to the 23-year-old princess.

Today's meeting was their first since last year, when Douglas-Home asked the Swedish royal family to accept him as the princess' suitor. King Gustaf Adolph, the princess's grandfather, advised them to wait a year before making up their minds.

Douglas-Home, accompanied by the British military attache with whom he is staying, first made a stop at the British Embassy. Then they drove to the palace, where Douglas-Home called on Princess Sibylla, Margaretha's mother.

His visit was completely informal and no outside guests were present at the luncheon.

Stockholm newspapers are giving a warm welcome to the young suitor, nephew of the Earl of Home, Britain's Commonwealth relations secretary.

Douglas-Home fell in love with the princess in the fall of 1956 when she was visiting London.

Hidden Economic Report Back in Election Campaign

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

That hidden report is back in the campaign for the March 31 federal election.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker touched on it in a Toronto television speech Tuesday night and former Liberal transport minister George Marler discussed it at length in a radio speech from Ottawa. There was no harmony in their views.

Mr. Marler said Mr. Diefenbaker has said things about the report on Canada's economic outlook, prepared for the former Liberal government late last winter, that are "not in conformity with the facts."

Not only that, said Mr. Marler, but the prime minister had quoted only unfavorable items from the report, and in such a way as to pervert its intended purpose.

In his TV appearance, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberals "had plenty of evidence that they were heading us into an economic slowdown which would create unemployment."

"Yet they hid the true facts because there was an election coming in June" last year. If the Progressive Conservative government, after winning last year's election, had not acted immediately "the situation today would be much worse than it is."

Social Credit Leader Solon Low continued his pursuit of votes in his Northern Alberta constituency of Peace River while CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell and deputy leader Stanley Knowles promoted their party's cause in British Columbia and Winnipeg, respectively.

Mr. Coldwell said at Prince Rupert that Prime Minister Diefenbaker has postponed practically everything during his stay in office except the election. He referred to cabinet suspension of freight rate and telephone increases recently granted by the board of transport commissioners. He said Canadians will pay higher freight rates and telephone bills in Ontario and Quebec if the Conservatives are returned.

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson was cheered and jeered at the University of Manitoba in Winnipeg where he faced some 1,500 exuberant students before catching a plane to open a stand in Quebec at Montreal today.

Among other things, Mr. Pearson said Mr. Diefenbaker should explain what he means by equalization as far as federal tax-sharing payments to the provinces are concerned.

The Liberal policy on this was precise and clear. Through equalization payments all provinces would get equal revenue per head of population from the taxes which the provinces would share with a Liberal federal government, he said.

"That's a principle which Ontario Conservatives didn't like. They get nothing from it."

Mr. Diefenbaker made his TV appearance after attending two Toronto receptions at which attendance totalled an estimated 4,000 to 6,000 people. Speaking briefly, he promised an opportunity for Canadian young people to "build the kind of Canada that our resources make possible."

In his TV speech, he said home building had been falling rapidly for 18 months when his government took over. The cause was "the stubborn attitude of the Liberals in refusing to cut taxes and restricting credit at a time when an opposite course of action should have been taken."

The Conservatives had reversed the trend by easing credit restrictions and making millions of dollars available for housing.

At Winnipeg, Mr. Knowles said if Canadians "put the CCF in a stronger position" after this election, it would work harder than ever for old age pensions of $75 a month compared to $55 now.

Former Liberal health minister Paul Martin said at Edmonton that in the nine months the Conservative government has been in office, "it has been in the business of politics and not government."

At Waterloo, Postmaster-General William Hamilton said the government's public works program is already in operation, while Liberals claim it will not help unemployment soon enough.

Pope Pius Wildly Cheered By Big Crowd

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius, in his first public appearance since he cancelled the 19th anniversary celebration of his coronation, was wildly cheered today as he was brought into St. Peter's Basilica on his portable throne.

Some 10,000 persons including pilgrims and tourists from many lands, school children, student priests and members of religious orders hailed the 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic church.

The audience, a regular weekly event, was originally scheduled to be held in the Vatican's Hall of Benedictions. But so many requests for admission were received since the pontiff announced cancellation of his own anniversary celebration that the audience was transferred to St. Peter's.

The pontiff cancelled his coronation celebration Monday in "bitterness and outrage" against the verdict of an Italian court against the bishop of Prato and in protest against what the Vatican newspaper L'Osservore Romano has described as spreading anti-clericalism.

Atom-Powered U.S. Sub Sets Atlantic Record

PORTLAND, England (AP) — The nuclear-powered American submarine Skate docked at this British naval base today, and its skipper claimed a record for the fastest transatlantic crossing from the United States ever made by a submarine.

The sleek, lead-colored sub crossed the Atlantic in eight days, 11 hours—travelling under water all the way.

"That's the way to travel," said the skipper Cmdr. James F. Calvert. "I've never been so enthusiastic about any ship in my life.

"Our time of 203 hours beat anything ever done by a submarine coming from the United States to Europe."

Calvert said the Nautilus, first and biggest American atomic sub, may have clocked a similar time to the Skate's on a recent westbound return trip from Europe.

He said "a submarine is going pretty well usually if it makes the trip in around 14 days."

HOUSE HEARS PLEA TO ASSIST TOURIST INDUSTRY

Briefs All Critical Of Liquor Laws

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Legislature's committee on travel and publicity has asked the government to initiate a full inquiry into the Province's ailing tourist industry.

The committee Tuesday recommended that a select committee be appointed to investigate all phases of the industry that is Ontario's biggest earner of United States dollars.

George C. Wardrope (PC—Port Arthur) said the department of travel and publicity is the neglected member of the administration family and all too often dismissed as the junior department.

The committee instructed the department to give leadership in creating an Ontario tourist council which would co-ordinate efforts of all tourist associations, representatives of tourist businesses and Travel Minister Cathcart.

The action followed seven briefs which directed attention to declining revenues in Ontario's tourist industry and stressed difficulties of financing tourist operations, the inconsistencies and inadequacies of liquor laws and inequalities in taxation.

WANTS LOANS

The most frequent request in the briefs was for establishment of a direct government loan fund or government guarantee of regular loans to assist established tourist operators in expansion and improvement.

The Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association submitted a draft bill providing for a $3,000,000 loan fund.

Liquor laws were criticized in all briefs, including submissions from the joint board of Ontario travel assocations, the Canadian Restaurant Association, the Ontario Tourist Courts Association, the Canadian Tourist Association, the Ontario Hotel Association and the Association of Tourist Resorts of Ontario.

W. H. Green of the Parry Sound Chamber of Commerce said American tourists and urban vacationers demand liquor facilities and are surprised to find many resorts governed by outmoded regulations.

"These laws are making every operator into a bootlegger," he said.

The Outfitters Association suggested a thorough revision of liquor legislation. Others recommended restoration of room service, bigger glasses and arrangements for beer and banquet licences in local option areas.

SHARE IS DROPPING

The resorts association told the committee Ontario's share of American travel expenditures is dropping at a time when more is being spent by United States tourists. In addition, Canada's tourist balance with the U.S. was growing more unfavorable.

The resort owners asked the government to relieve them of 12-month business assessment on a seasonal operation, permit erection of highway signs, allow resorts to recover the full gas tax on fuel used in their launches and outboards, provide grants to associations engaged in promotion and amend regulations to prosecute American tourists outfitters operating in Canadian territory, who break fish and game laws.

The restaurant association urged establishment of courses in cuisine and hotel management at a Canadian university and government loans for food service operators.

Letter by Nine Bishops in Italy Seen as Effort to Ease Tension

ROME (Reuters) — Nine Roman Catholic bishops have called on all Catholics to "rectify the false ideas that have led to the anti-clerical campaign" in Italy.

In a letter to their flocks, the nine bishops of Lombardy apparently aim at easing the tension caused by the conviction of the bishop of Prato, Msgr. Pietro Fiordelli, by a Florence court Saturday for defaming a couple who refused a church marriage.

The letter deplores the "growing and aggressive anti-clerical campaign" and calls the verdict a "victory for atheist communism." However, "we want to co-operate in re-establishing serenity in public opinion, especially among honest and objective citizens. . . ."

"We are not aggressors—we are the victims of attack. We cannot accept the accusation that the church and Catholics are threatening the prestige and authority of the state."

Il Popolo, the newspaper organ for Italy's ruling Catholic Christian Democrat party, dismisses comparisons made by some Catholics that the situation of the church in Italy is similar to Communist China or the period of the catacombs in ancient Rome.

The influential Il Messaggero, which usually supports the government, criticizes church quarters which have been "fanning the flames."

The neo-fascist Social Movement Tuesday night introduced a bill in the Senate to ban criminal proceedings against bishops for actions in the exercise of their ministry except by special permission from the president of the republic.

Russians Offer To Attend Parley In Washington

Eisenhower Says Plan Best if Talks Are Long

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today Russian leaders have sent word they are willing to come to Washington for a summit conference. He said he thinks that might be a good arrangement if such a conference was going to be lengthy.

If it was to be just a short meeting, Eisenhower told his press conference, he would be ready to go to any convenient place. But for a long session, he said, he should stay in the United States.

Eisenhower said, however, it would be absolutely futile and damaging to attempt to hold any summit meeting at all without very careful preparation and advance evidence of achievement.

The United States, he said, never will close the door on East-West talks. If there is any possible avenue—no matter how narrow—that will take the world even one step toward the achievement of peace, he is perfectly willing to try it.

ENDORSED DULLES

But he endorsed State Secretary Dulles' statement Tuesday against becoming involved in some sort of Soviet manoeuvre that would amount to a "hoax," as Dulles called it.

Dulles also used the word "fraud" in describing the kind of session he said the United States would not want to become involved in. Eisenhower said he did not recall Dulles' using the word "fraud," but in any case he was sure Dulles didn't mean to close the door to talks.

Eisenhower said he had a long talk with Dulles beforehand and that Dulles' comments reflect Eisenhower's own views on a summit meeting.

This obviously covered U.S. rejections of Soviet conditions for a pre-summit foreign ministers meeting. Dulles particularly objected to any such meeting that would be barred from going into the substance of East-West issues.

SOURCE NOT STATED

Eisenhower did not disclose how the Soviet willingness to meet in the United States had been transmitted to him. A reporter remarked that he had left something of a mystery and inquired whether he and Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet Communist party chief, had been in touch with each other.

Eisenhower replied no and added amid some laughter that no one should find wickedness if no evil was intended.

He said he thought it was not proper to identify every message that came to him. Sometimes they came by word of mouth; sometimes they were written.

Soviet sources, however, said the Russian attitude was told to Eisenhower Monday by Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov.

FIRE AT RIOTERS

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) — Police fired warning shots Tuesday as rioters fought in the strike-torn town of Cipolleti in central Argentina. The strike, by fruit pickers and packers for higher wages, became almost general during the weekend. A worker was badly beaten by pickets in Cordero and appeals for police assistance have come from other boroughs in the zone.

Receive Threat Against Life Of Earl Rowe

ALLISTON, Ont. (CP)—Provincial police today were looking for a man, believed mentally ill, who threatened to shoot Hon. Earl Rowe at a political meeting Tuesday night.

Mr. Rowe, who has represented Dufferin-Simcoe riding for 33 years as Progressive Conservative member of the House of Commons, was informed of the threat at a party nominating meeting in this town 30 miles northwest of Toronto.

His son Lennox passed him a note saying he would be escorted home by police and patrols would guard his nearby farm.

Police said they received a report earlier Tuesday that a man had threatened to shoot Mr. Rowe. The man was believed to have a shotgun in his car.

Police said they believe the suspect is mentally deranged.

The meeting was held without incident. Mr. Rowe was nominated to contest the seat in the March 31 general election.

Police placed guards at the doors and had about 10 plainclothes officers searching the hall and adjoining arena while the meeting was in progress. Mr. Rowe said he believes the threat was the "work of a crank."

Farm Inspection In Cheese Market Schemes Planned

TORONTO (CP) — Subsidies to old-age homes would be paid to them monthly instead of to municipalities annually under a government amendment to the Homes for the Aged Act introduced Tuesday in the legislature.

Changes in the Milk Industry Act were introduced by Agriculture Minister Goodfellow.

One of the provisions would require an order from the milk industry board before agreements between producers and distributors could come into effect. Other provisions would enable more arbitration by the board.

Inspection of dairy farms would be permitted in cheese marketing plans, and negotiating committees could determine the conditions upon which a new producer may make a agreement with a distributor for the supply of fluid milk.

Boy and Girl From Alexandra Win Contest

Queen Alexandra public school walked away from a spelling contest last night with two first place winners to its credit.

Nancy Knowlton, grade 8, won the girls' division and grade eighter Alan Slavin out-spelled the 15 boys in his division.

The spelling bee in Queen Alexandra school was attended by 150 parents and friends of the 30 participants.

Mary Burfoot, 8B, of Queen Mary, took second place honors among the girls and Iris MacLean, grade 8, of Queen Alexandra, came third.

Peter Carver, grade 8 of Queen Alexandra, won second place among the boys and Laurie Rowbotham, grade 8A, of Queen Mary, came third.

The spell-master was E. J. Buckley. Judges were Mrs. Charles Powell, president of the central council of home and school associations in the city, Lawrence A. Kells, superintendent of public schools, and C. I. Frederick, former principal of Belleville public schools.

Nancy Knowlton and Alan Slavin were presented with shields by the public school board, which will be kept in Queen Alexandra school, and the Home and School Council awarded them leather loose-leaf binders.

Blood Clinic Has Social Side

A blood donor clinic has its social side as well as its actual blood-giving aspect. After giving their pint of blood, donors are asked to take a brief rest and are served with coffee in the hospital cafeteria. Shown are a party of donors, clinic and hospital officials, following the official communcement of the Belleville General Hospital blood donor clinic Tuesday evening. Seated, left to right are, Mrs. Helen Ketcheson, Mr. Archie Lewis, Ald. Effie McCabe, Mrs. Bessie Marsh, Dr. Alec Rota, hospital pathologist, and Rodney Cameron, chairman of the Red Cross clinic committee. Serving coffee are Mrs. Carl Haynes of the St. John Ambulance, and Mrs. R. Dulmage, Red Cross.

Board Chairman First Donor

Mr. Frank Domenico, chairman of the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors, was one of the first donors as the hospital's Red Cross blood donor clinic got underway Tuesday evening. Objective of the campaign is to get 30 donors for each Tuesday night. Picture shows Mr. Domenico donating blood, attended by Nurse Nora Wolfe, while Arthur Whitehead, of Point Anne, chairman of the hospital board's public relations committee, awaits his turn.

28 Pints of Fresh Blood Received at First Clinic

Plan B went into operation last night at the Belleville General Hospital. From 6.30 until after nine o'clock 28 men and women donated 28 pints of fresh blood to the hospital through the local branch of the Red Cross.

Plan B is a new way of getting blood for the hospital. The Red Cross branch collects fresh blood for processing through the hospital laboratory and for eventual use in the hospital. If after three weeks the blood has not been used, it will be taken by the Red Cross to be made into plasma.

There is no charge for the blood, but $5 will be paid by recipients to defray laboratory costs. Under Plan B it is not necessary for the receiver of transfusions to supply two repaying donors for each pint of blood he receives.

The Red Cross said this morning that 33 donors are required every Tuesday night. (The odd number to allow for rejects and for donors who do not show up at the clinic.) It is hoped that 30 pints of blood will be obtained every week.

Among the first to donate last night were the chairman of the hospital Board of Governors, Frank Domenico, the president of the Belleville branch of the Red Cross and the regional commissioner of the Boy Scouts movement, Archie Lewis, and other members of the hospital board, Mrs. J. E. Marsh and Arthur Whitehead.

Here is how the clinic operated last night:

When a donor walked in he or she was escorted by a Red Cross volunteer worker to the cloak room, which was tended by a St. John Ambulance worker. Then they were given a bottle of pop or orange juice from the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary canteen. Next they were recorded by the Red Cross. After a brief wait the donor was taken into the screening room where a member of the Argyll chapter of the IODE asked a few questions and filled out a form.

SERVED REFRESHMENTS

After another short wait the donor was escorted into the clinic where two volunteer registered nurses, attended by Red Cross volunteers and a physician, took the donation. This took about 15 or 20 minutes. Then IODE and St. John Ambulance workers served coffee and cookies in the new cafeteria.

The whole operation is painless. It only takes about 45 minutes to provide a pint of blood that could mean the difference between life and death for a patient in an upstairs ward.

Blood is one of the substances the human body cannot go without. God gives it to everyone. Does every person share a pint now and then with someone who needs it?

Air Cadets Will Provide Program For Wing Assoc.

No. 606 (Belleville) Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets stationed at Quinte Secondary School will provide the program for tomorrow night's monthly meeting of 418 (Belleville) Wing of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association.

The meeting will be held in the social centre at RCAF Station, Trenton.

Squadron Leader E. A. Craighead, D.F.M. commanding officer of the Air Cadet squadron will be on hand to direct operations. The cadets will present a film, and members of the wing are assured of getting an insight into the functions of the Belleville Air Cadet squadron.

One of the sidelights of the meeting will be a raffle for 30 minuts of dual instruction flying at the Prince Edward Flying Club.

It is understood that the April meeting will be held at No. 6 Repair Depot, where wing members will tour the installations there. Group Captain T. A. Spruston, C.O. of the depot has extended the invitation.

Membership in 418 Wing is well over the 70 mark and it is climbing steadily. A little more than a year ago membership was under 20.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market reversed Tuesday's upward trend and dipped lower today in light morning trading.

Industrials and western oils eased on their indexes. Golds also eased but base metals added almost half a point on index.

Sales to 11 a.m. totalled 510,000 shares compared with 446,000 Tuesday at the same time.

Most declines were fractional among industrials but Page Hersey Tubes lost a point at 117 among steels. Trans Canada Pipe Line was off ⅜ at 28⅝ but Trans Mountain Pipe Line advanced ½ at 42½.

The mining list was firm in an otherwise declining market. Falconbridge added ⅛ at 24⅛ to boost senior base metals higher. Campbell Chib climbed 15 cents at $4.45 among lower-priced coppers but Campbell Red Lake was off 15 cents at $7.00 among golds.

Western oils eased after posting strong gains Tuesday. Home Oil B added ¾ at 15⅝ among senior oils but Triad lost 25 cents at $4.50 in lower-priced stocks.

Sid Fitzgerald, Shannonville, New Prexy of Fairs' Assoc.

Congratulations are in order this week for Sidney Fitzgerald, unofficial "Mayor" of Shannonville who at the annual convention of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies held in Toronto last week was named president of that body.

Mr. Fitzgerald steps up from the office of vice - president and succeeds Stan Darling of Burks Falls as the Association prexy. He is the second man from the Quinte district to hold the post and the first since 1949 when Ben Bleecker of Halloway was president.

Elevation to the presidency of the Ontario fairs association is the fulfillment of a lifetime dream for the popular Shannonville fair enthusiast. He is director and past president of the Shannonville "World's Fair" which has been in existence for 102 years.

Prior to becoming vice-president of the Fairs Association three years ago he served as district director for No. 3 fair district for five years. Current district director is W. E. Henderson of Picton who succeeds John Thompson of Queensboro.

Mr. Fitzgerald is a member of the Tyendinaga township council, and is a warden at Trinity Anglican Church at Shannonville.

As president of the provincial fairs association Mr. Fitzgerald expects a busy year ahead and says he will be expected to fulfill many speaking engagements throughout the province.

Speaking of last week's convention in Toronto he reported a higher than ever interest in fall fairs with the biggest attendance ever at the convention. Total delegates at the convention numbered 880, with 480 men and 400 women registered.

One of the features of the convention was a panel discussion on whether small rural fall fairs should be discontinued. The discussion brought out all aspects both for and against the small rural fairs.

However, no action was taken as result of the discussion and Mr. Fitzgerald says there is no thought of the Ontario Department of Agriculture discontinuing any grants for the smaller fairs.

The new fairs association president said he was personally disappointed that Dr. J. Russell Scott, president of Belleville fair, was unable to be present at the convention to give his address on the value of midways to fair programs. Dr. Scott was injured in an auto accident a day or so before the convention and was unable to attend.

Mr. Fitzgerald noted that he had directed the secretary of the fairs association to write to Dr. Scott expressing regret and wishing him speedy recovery from injuries suffered in the accident.

WIN LEAGUE TITLE

The Rockets, above, were named winners of the RCAF regular league play last week when they ended the series with 36 points, two ahead of the second place F.I.S. Of the 21 games played the Rockets won 17, lost 2 and tied 2. The Rockets defeated the Comets 6-5 in the first game of the finals last night at the Community Centre. Two Motions on New Police Station Rejected by Council

TRENTON — Two motions concerning the building of a new police station near its present site were rejected by the town council yesterday afternoon.

The regular meeting Monday night ended at around 11.30 p.m. and as the agenda had only been half completed due to the lengthy debate then on the proposed new police station a special meeting was called at 4 p.m. Tuesday to complete the town's business.

Councillor Worrall, chairman of the Protection to Persons and Property committee, presented a second motion on the new building with only slight difference from the previous one. It was again rejected through a tie vote with Councillors L. Worrall, Ray Fox and C. Hilton for, and the other three councillors voting against.

A second motion presented by Councillor Vagn Lange which called for the building of the police station but not mentioning the site was also rejected by a tie vote with Councillors Worrall, Fox and Hilton voting against and the remaining three councillors voting for.

Following are excerpts from remarks by the councillors as they expressed their opinion on the matter:

Councillor Lange: " . . . It would appear that the primary interest is to get approval from the Municipal Board to build the police station on the present site. It is my sincere wish this building be built but I feel it would be best to see if we can get the board's approval and if we can raise the money through debentures, then go ahead and build."

Councillor Hilton: " . . . I am satisfied that we should build the police station and on the present site. We own the land there, so why should we buy more?"

Councillor Fox: " . . . . It is not necessary for us to go over the amount of $75,000 for the building and it will give the architect something to work on. I'm for almost anything to get the resolution in gear and get the thing going."

Councillor Gould: "...I'm not so sticky on the $75,000 amount council proposes on police station, and the police certainly need a new station. It would like it to be a good one. However, I feel the location is very important. I feel we should be sure it is in the right place and it should be really planned and if necessary move the fire hall out of the way of the new building. I'm all for it if it is properly planned."

Councillor Worrall: " . . .there is no mention in the motion as to how close it should be built to the old building and no one is saying it should be smack up against the firehall. It could be built in any spot of the market square and that gives considerable space to place it."

Councillor McDonald: " . . No matter how you look at it the cost will go far beyond the proposed $75,000, but the police will be using it for many years. I strongly feel the site of this new building should be given much more consideration.

The re-drafted motion read that a maximum of $75,000 be set for the cost of the building and that the architect's plans would be subject to the approval of the council.

Council Briefs

BOOST RATES

Notice was received from the Children's Aid Society in Ottawa that they will also be raising their rates per child. The new rate will be $1.77, a boost of 30 cents over last year's rate. The councillors were informed the town was responsible for the care of two children in the Ottawa Society.

APPROVES TAXI

An application by W. L. Bigford for taxi licences for two cars was given approval by the council. Mr. Bigford will be running a two-car taxi service with headquarters at 59 Albert Street. He informed the council he had seen the Chief of Police who had instructed him to get the permission of the town councillors.

SEWAGE PLANT

Councillor Hilton presented a report from his committee, Sanitation and Waste, concerning the site of the new proposed sewage disposal plant. It has been suggested, he said, to put it on Campbell Street and as close as possible to Bay Street without offending the residents of that street. The most economical spot is also being sought. He said the plans for the plant are nearing completion. He stated he has received a letter in reference to the test borings as well as a report on the river crossing for the sewage line from the west to east side.

TAKES CHAIR

Due to the absence of Mayor Ross Burtt, who is attending an electrical convention, Councillor James McDonald took over the chair, as acting mayor. Mr. McDonald stated it was the first time he had conducted a council meeting from the chair.

OFFER ESTIMATES

TRENTON —A letter from R. K. Kilborn and Associates Ltd. was read at the council meeting Monday night offering the town free estimates on any projects they may be planning this year or in the future. The council filed the letter for future reference.

LETTER FROM HEES

The town clerk read a letter to the council from Hon. George Hees, Federal Minister of Transport, acknowledging receipt of the town's letter on the new organization planning to make the Trent Valley into a beauty spot for tourists. Mr. Hees praised the work and thoughts of this group and informed them he would see the letter went through the proper channels in Ottawa.

IN HOSPITAL

R. S. Campbell, town solicitor, was unable to attend the last meeting of the town council due to the necessity of his going to the D.V.A. hospital in Kingston for treatment. He did, however, leave a letter to explain a previous town query on his views concerning the legal aspects in the retaining wall on Shuter St. Councillor Hilton informed the council the public works committee had decided they will move it back off the town line and rebuild it on the taxpayers' property at the expense of the town. The committee felt it was the fault of the town due to an error by a former employee. They will first get the property owners' written permission to go ahead with it.

TOP SCORER

Gord Crowder, above, of the Rockets in the Trenton RCAF league ended the regular season with 84 points to win the top scoring title. Crowder scored 43 goals and assisted on 41 others to give him 84 points. Sgt. Crowder has played with RCAF teams ever since joining the service ten years ago and before that time played with various intermediate and junior teams. The 31-year-old star is married and has two children, Charles, 7, and Nancy, 4. Sgt. Crowder will be playing with the Trenton RCAF all-star team in the training command playoffs and will also continue with the Rockets in their inter-station finals.

L.O.B.A. WORK

A letter from the Regional Development Association was read by town clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry concerning the appointment of a member from the town which will come up in the near future. Mr. Larry explained the letter was only for information purposes and went on further to explain the working of the L.O.B.A.

DOG CATCHER

Three applications for the job as dog catcher for the town were received by the council. They were turned over to the chairman of the Protection of Persons and Property for study and to bring back a recommendation to the council. Clerk O. W. Larry told the councillors that a dog catcher is required to make his rounds in the morning and again at sunset. He is hired from March 1 to October and is paid $150 per month. He is also required to own his own vehicle for transportation and a building which is suitable for a pound. He normally makes reports to the police department and is required to take any dogs which he catches to a place outside or near the town limits.

STANDING RULE

Councillor Ray Fox moved that in the future when members of the council address the chair they should stand. It was felt this would help considerably to cut down the time of the meetings as well as keeping debates to a minimum. This method of addressing the chair is at present covered in the rules of procedure for a council meeting and other councillors agreed it should be adhered to.

VON REPORT

Council was informed the VON had sent their annual report to the town office and it was available if any of the councillors desired to see it.

BOND COVERAGE

Council approved the schedule of bond coverage as contained in the comprehensive dishonesty, disappearance and destruction policy whereby the following will apply for the year 1958: O. W. Larry, $20,000; R. G. Alan Weaver, $50,000; G. D. Huycke, $10,000.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — Lights went off on the west side of the river in Trenton yesterday morning for about an hour. It was reported to have been caused by trouble at the sub-station but apparently not of a serious nature. Power on the east side of the Trent river was not affected.

TO HOLD MEETING

The Town Planning Board will hold their regular meeting in the Board Room of the Municipal Building tomorrow night with chairman, Councillor James McDonald, presiding. It is expected that considerable discussion will be held on the location of the sewage disposal plant which is in the planning stage at the present.

START CHARGING

Something new has taken place at RCAF hockey games held in the Community Centre. All year there has been no admission charged for these games but now as they enter their playoffs the rink commission decided to tack on a small 25 cent admission charge. They claim it is to cover expenses in cleaning the seating area following the game. They do, however, split 60-40 with the RCAF league. One local business man commenting on it this morning said, "If they keep doing things like that, it will likely end up with the RCAF building their own rink out at the air base."

TO HOLD BANQUET

Members of the National Defence Employees Association will hold a banquet and Social evening at the Legion's Memorial Hall in Trenton on Friday, March 7. Things are expected to get underway at 8 p.m. William T. Wilson is president of the group.

TWO YEARS FOR THEFT

William Druce of Water St., Trenton was sentenced to two years in the Kingston penitentiary yesterday in Magistrate's Court, on a charge of car theft. Commenting before passing sentence Magistrate Jackson said at this stage there was little hope of reform but it was just a matter of "putting you away to protect society."

TEAM ON WAY

The RCAF hockey team representing the Trenton base left today for St. Johns, Quebec, where they will play their first game in seeking the eastern zone championship tonight. It is expected they will fly down. A win in this sudden death game would send them on to Camp Borden for the final game in the training command playoffs.

HIGHLY PRAISED

"Cap" Bowen, who has been acting manager of the Community Centre for the past few months, has a weathered eye towards the ice on the river. At the first signs of break-up he is expected to take to the sea for another summer. Rink commission officials highly praise the work "The Cap" has done during his stay at the rink.

WILL PLAY HERE

Three teams of curlers from air transport Command Headquarters in Montreal will be arriving Friday night to play in a one-night bonspiel with local R.C.A.F. curlers.

NO CONFIRMATION

Charlie Drake, manager of the Trenton Junior Bearcubs said yesterday he plans to have an exhibition hockey game for his team each Saturday night. Some reports have been heard that the Juniors will take on a team from the RCAF station Trenton on this Saturday. No confirmation on this was available today.

SAW ROBIN

Andrew Fritz, a railway man living at 17 Baptiste Street reported he had seen a robin near his home last weekend. It is believed to have been the first robin seen this year in Trenton and would indicate spring is just around the corner.

Cast, Helpers Kampus Kapers Enjoy Banquet

The cast and helpers of Kampus Kapers (which was staged recently at BCIVS) were honored last night at a banquet in the school cafeteria.

Sponsor of the festivities was the boys' athletics society, with secretary George Casey being singled out as the student upon whose shoulders most of the organization of the banquet fell.

Guest speaker was the Rev. Norman Rawson of St. James' United Church, Montreal. No stranger to Belleville, Mr. Rawson kept his youthful audience spellbound with his masterful technique of public speaking. It seems wherever this distinguished gentleman appears, his audience regrets when his address closes. He has an almost unique aptitude of speaking to mixed assemblies and, on one occasion, it was reported, the sound of a dropped pin could be heard when he addressed an assembly of 1,500 students at McGill University.

His address last night was liberally sprinkled with humor and seriousness. Mr. Rawson does not need a script for a guide nor does he usually prepare his address beforehand. He is an accomplished "off the cuff" speaker.

About 160 participants in Kampus Kapers attended the banquet. The guest speaker was introduced by Dick Fuke and thanked by Wayne Muirhead, the emcee of Kampus Kapers. Cameron (Cam) Buskard, president of the boys' athletic society, chaired the meeting and Mrs. G. Buntin led a sing-song.

Albert College Dramatic Group Places Third

Albert College Dramatic Society journeyed to Kingston last weekend to take part in the eleventh annual secondary school drama festival.

Under the direction of Mr. C. M. Irwin, the Albert players presented "Dark Brown," a melodrama by Philip Johnson. A cast of seven was required and all fulfilled their parts very well. At the conclusion of the festival, the best actress award was won by Pat Joy of London, Ont., who played Jenny Brown in the Albert College play. This play was awarded third place (first and second places were taken by Kingston schools).

Those taking part were: Marilyn Bateman, Carolyn Franklin, Pat Joy, Carole Dickinson, Dave Conklin, Dorothy Scovell and Pete McConnell.

Cathy Burr assisted with the make-up. The costumes, which represented the late 1890s, were made under the direction of Miss Mary Beattie and Miss Beth Collier.

BLOOD DONORS NEEDED

Money in the bank? There's nothing like it to give one that pleasant feeling of security. But there's something else we need in the bank - - blood.

People can't open their own blood bank accounts? No they cannot, but they can co-operate in keeping a comfortable balance in a community blood bank.

One of the major annoyances in connection with blood banks in many communities has been that recipients have been required to obtain donors to replace the blood they have received from the bank. We cannot blame hospitals for that policy. It was their duty to make certain that an adequate supply of blood was kept on hand. But the method sometimes involved difficulties for recipients of blood.

Here in Belleville the local branch of the Red Cross Society is co-operating with the Belleville General Hospital in a better method of handling the problem of assuring an adequate supply of blood. The Red Cross has undertaken to obtain blood donors in order to relieve recipients of blood from the responsibility of obtaining blood donations after they have had a transfusion.

This is an excellent plan. Unfortunately, the response to the appeal for donors has not been encouraging.

What can be accomplished in an appeal for blood donors was shown during the war. The need now is much less, but fewer people are answering the appeal. What is needed is a list of some 1,500 donors. This would be adequate to assure the Red Cross of obtaining the blood donations it needs.

Why don't you put a pint of blood in your community blood bank? You may need it sometime. Telephone WO 2-5406 now and register as a donor.

PEOPLE WANT CONFERENCE

George Bain, staff reporter of the Toronto Globe and Mail, stated early this week in a despatch from London, England, that the Russian acceptance of the West's proposal for a meeting of foreign ministers as a preliminary step towards a summit conference "doesn't cover everything the government had in mind in saying there should be adequate preparation." He then added a pertinent observation. "But," wrote Bain, "in the present state of public opinion it probably comes close enough."

The only interpretation we can put on that remark is that British public opinion favors a summit conference.

That is particularly significant when considered in conjunction with the opinions of Cyrus Eaton, Canadian-born U.S. industrialist, as expressed during an interview on the CBC television network Sunday evening. Eaton was already on record as favoring "a deal" with the Russians and Sunday evening he repeated his plea for such an "accommodation" and explained the basis of his thinking. Roughly this consists of a conviction that neither the U.S. nor Russia can force its own economic system on the other, that Russia, as well as the Western countries, would like to get rid of the burden of heavy expenditures on armaments and that the alternative to "a deal" is a Third World War.

Eaton's views, while interesting, would not in themselves be of great importance were it not for the fact that he maintains there is growing support, in Washington, amongst influential U.S. newspapers and in the country as a whole, for his appraisal of the situation.

If Eaton is correct, and if Bain has provided us with an accurate picture of British public opinion, we shall almost certainly see a summit conference some time this year.

Whether this will mean much, little or nothing, time alone will tell. A successful conference would only be possible if those attending it were not only willing to talk but willing, in Eaton's phrase, "to deal."

It does seem to many, however, that the Western nations' argument that a summit conference that fails is worse than no conference at all is being outmoded by events. It is the view of the U.S. and its allies that a conference that fails does not merely leave old tensions unrelieved but actually heightens them. Tensions, though, are already reaching the point where it is doubtful if they could be intensified short of the actual outbreak of war. It is difficult to believe that the mere failure of a conference could result in touching off that holocaust which well-informed men of all nations now appear to agree would be the end of civilization as we know it, and perhaps of the history of man.

YOUNG BOY'S LAMENT

There ain't no fun at home these days,
No tricks for me to play.
Nobody comes that I can tease
Since sister went away.
I don't get candy any more,
Nor quarters, I'll allow;
And sister's beau don't care for me,
'Cause he's her husband now.

He used to be real nice to me;
But now he doesn't care.
And if I hang around the room
When he and sis are there
He never ever says a word,
Nor tries to figure how
To send me somewhere else, because
He is her husband now.

Gee whiz! I never thought he'd be
As stingy as all that!
I s'posed he'd always candy bring
When he came just to chat.
But marriage changes men a lot,
Although I don't know how.
He ain't the same man that he was,
'Cause he's her husband now.

Interpreting Science

UNESCO Features

The Kalinga Prize for the popularization of science, offered annually by Unesco, has been awarded for 1957 to Bertrand Russell, British philosopher, scientist and writer.

The award was established in 1952 by Mr. B. Patnaik, of the State of Orissa, in India, for the dual purpose of recognizing the importance of popular interpretation of science to the general public and of strengthening links between India and scientists of all nations.

Bertrand Russell became interested in interpreting science for the general reader. In his long career he has written more than 40 books, many of them dealing with mathematics or philosophy, which have been widely translated. He won the Nobel Prize for literature in 1950. His radio and TV broadcasts on philosophic and scientific questions have added greatly to the wide audience reached by his writings.

Below is part of the address delivered by Bertrand Russell on receiving the Kalinga Prize from Dr. Luther H. Evans, Director-General of Unesco, at a ceremony in Paris on January 28.

"There was a time when scientists looked askance at attempts to make their work widely intelligible. But, in the world of the present day, such an attitude is no longer possible. The discoveries of modern science have put into the hands of Governments unprecedented powers both for good and for evil. Unless the statesmen who wield those powers have at least an elementary understanding of their nature, it is scarcely likely that they will use them wisely. And, in democratic countries, it is not only statesmen, but the general public, to whom some degree of scientific understanding is necessary. To ensure wide diffusion of such understanding, is by no means easy. Those who can act effectively as liaison officers between technical scientists and the public perform a work which is necessary, not only for human welfare, but even for bare survival of the human race. I think that a great deal more ought to be done in this direction in the education of those who do not intend to become scientific specialists. The Kalinga Prize is doing a great public service in encouraging those who attempt this difficult task.

"In my own country, and to a lesser degree in other countries of the West culture is viewed mainly, by an unfortunate impoverishment of the Renaissance tradition, as something concerned primarily with literature, history and art. A man is not considered uneducated if he knows nothing of the contributions of Galileo, Descartea and their successors. I am convinced that all higher education should involve a course in the history of science from the seventeenth century to the present day and a survey of modern scientific knowledge in so far as this can be conveyed without technicalities. While such knowledge remains confined to specialists, it is scarcely possible nowadays for nations to conduct their affairs with wisdom.

"There are two very different ways of estimating any human achievement you may estimate it by what you consider its intrinsic excellence; or you may estimate it by its causal efficiency in transforming human life and human institutions. I am not suggesting that one of these ways of estimating is preferable to the other. I am only concerned to point out that they give very different scales of importance. If Homer and Aeschylus had not existed, if Dante and Shakespeare had not written a line, if Bach and Beethoven had been silent, the daily life of most people in the present day would have been much what it is. But if Pythagoras and Galileo and James Watt had not existed, the daily life, not only of Western Europeans and Americans, but of Indian, Russian and Chinese peasants, would be profoundly different from what it is. And these profound changes are still only beginning. They must affect the future even more than they have already affected the present. At present, scientific techniques advances like an army of tanks that have lost their drivers, blindly, ruthlessly, without goal or purpose. This is largely because the men who are concerned with human values and with making life worthy to be lived, are still living in imagination in the old pre-industrial world, the world that has been made familiar and comfortably by the literature of Greece and the pre-industrial achievements of the poets and artists and composers whose work we rightly admire.

"The separation of science from 'culture' is a modern phenomenon. Plato and Aristotle had a profound respect for what was known of science in their day. The Renaissance was as much concerned with the revival of science as with art and literature. Leonardo da Vinci devoted more of his energies to science than to painting. The Renaissance architects developed the geometrical theory of perspective. Throughout the eighteenth century a very great deal was done to diffuse understanding of the work of Newton and his contemporaries. But, from the early nineteenth century onwards, scientific concepts and scientific methods became increasingly abtruse and the attempt to make them generally intelligible come more and more to be regarded as hopeless. The modern theory and practice of nuclear physicists has made evident with dramatic suddenness that complete ignorance of the world of science is no longer compatible with survival. On this ground, above all others, I am happy to be associated in the work which the Kalinga Prize exists to promote."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The two boys who recently perished in the blizzard on a weekend hike in the semi-wilderness of an Ontario cottage resort area were victims, in a sense, of the propaganda that has been so powerfully disseminated in recent years about the Canadian wilds. The tourist industry of Canada, the winter sports industry, the romantic stories published, broadcast and televised, all celebrate the manly joys and attractions of the wilderness.

The forest is a friendly place. But in the twinkling of an eye, as every person who has been lost in the bush remembers with curious horror, the wilds can recoil and become an implacable and utterly heartless monster.

How we Canadians can prevent such pitiful disasters as that which befell the thirteen year old little amateur woodsmen is almost as hopeless a question as how we Canadians can prevent the annual tally of drownings which mar our sweet summer seasons. Against drowning, we wage a publicity campaign in promotion of swimming and water safety. In our propaganda for the wilds we should include a proper proportion of realism with regard to the primitive menace of the wild which, until recent years, was part of the natural inheritance of Canadians from their pioneer fathers.

The more Boy Scouts and Cubs we have, the more we encourage our sportsmen's associations to launch junior clubs for the instruction of boys, the better for the dissemination of more balanced propaganda hootin' and hollerin' for the tourist trade.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOUR WORLD

The Creator has given to each one of us a World of our own — one to cultivate and be our very own. Yes, you can have a world of your own, but do not expect it to walk right up to you and say: "Here I am. I am yours. Take me-" No. We have to dream, to work, and do a great deal of planning if we want a world of our own. We can not just go to sleep in the shadow of the world we wish to make our own. Even worlds are slyly stolen from us when we are not looking! You can, however, own a world, and then give it away. There are always some people hunting for the opportunity to have a world of their own. And they don't want an old, worn-out world, but one that is new and unhandled. One that has never been developed or tried out. If you have your own world, you can feast day upon day of all that a world can give — beauty, hope, love, happiness, power, influence, experience and knowledge. With a world of your own you can become a traveller in both big and little things, and constantly inspired.

You can make your world as you would like to have it, spilling its opportunities all about you. Never a dull minute or an uninteresting life experience. How wonderful if each one of us had his own world to himself! Would we be any better off than we are with little that keeps assuring us of personal happiness and the opportunity to be a blessing to others?

Rudyard Kipling one wrote: "If you can fill the unforgiving minute with sixty seconds' worth of distance run — yours is the Earth and everything that's in it!"

A large audience was present at the Carman opera house last night the occasion being the grand military concert under the auspices of the bugle band in connection with the 15th Regiment. The program presented several enjoyable features not the least of which was the music of the Chalaupka augmented orchestra which gave two selections in an exceedingly fine manner. There were acts by the members of the bugle band with plenty of volume. A pleasing feature was the girl buglers and drummers who showed fair skill and looked very fetching in their natty uniforms. Parallel bar stunts were neatly done by W. Symons, W. Zufelt, H. McCoy and R. Wallace. The Rube Band gave some entertainment and certainly made enough noise. Sergt. Lynn swung clubs in an expert manner. The second part opened with a school scene which was entertaining. An enjoyable feature was a vocal solo, "The Grand Old Flag" by Lieut. Vincent Doyle assisted by a chorus. A tableau, "The Defence of the Colors," closed the entertainment.

Partnerships Of the Deep

Smithsonian Institution Bulletin

There are curious partnerships among sea animals.

Such for example, is that between the large sea anemones of the waters around the Palau Islands in the South Pacific — flowerlike creatures closely related to corals but without hard skeletons — and the highly colorful little "clownfish". The anemones are static animals that live by entrapping other organisms with their stinging tentacles.

The curious co-operation is described by Frederick M. Bayer of the United States National Museum and Dr. Robert R. Harry-Rofen of the George Vanderbilt Foundation in the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution. The two scientists carried out an extensive study of sea life around the islands.

The anemones, they say, allow the fish to seek protection among their tentacles whenever danger threatens. The clownfish rarely stray far from their hosts and are ready to dart down among the stinging tentacles at the first hint of danger.

"It is believed", says the report, "that the fish avoid being stung by swimming in a distinctive fashion that is recognized by the anemone. Clownfish have been seen to drag food to the waiting tentacles of the anemones, but on the other hand we have watched one seize a tentacle of its host in its mouth and, with a few quick tugs, pull it loose and eat it.

"This finny ingrate expected and received sanctuary from the very anemone it had been nibbling upon, for it dashed headlong among the tentacles when we approached too closely. Some investigators have suggested that, by eating bits of the anemone, the clownfish builds up an immunity to the poison."

One of the most startling discoveries of the two biologists was the close association of a fish and a starfish. This resulted in one of the prize catches of the expedition — tiny black and yellow fish less than an inch long which first were mistaken for shrimp. At another place they found two kinds of shrimp and at least four kinds of gobies living together.

"Each pair of shrimps", they recount, "excavates its own burrow and then plays host to a pair of fish. The fish sit just outside the mouth of the shrimp burrow while the shrimps repair and deepen it, bring load after load of sand to the surface on the large claws, bulldozer fashion. But should any danger threaten, the gobies dart down the hole in a trice, tumbling the shrimps over in their haste.

From this activity the shrimps detect that something is amiss and cease digging until the fish regain their composure and their usual position on the front doorstep."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ALLERGY TO FOODS MAY TRIGGER MIGRAINE HEADACHES

We have discussed migraine headaches before, but here is some additional information that may be applicable to many readers.

After all, it has been estimated that 10 per cent of the population is subject to migraines, and three out of four of these sufferers are women.

No single cause of such attacks of misery has been found. The cause—or at least the "trigger"—varies in different persons. Some women suffer them about the menstrual time, but have relief at the menopause. Others find that the intensity of the headaches subsides somewhat as they grow older, but before menopause.

In some—quite a few, I dare say—allergy is the inciting element, especially allergy to foods. If the offending food can be discovered, and then eliminated from the diet, dramatic relief follows. Does your headache follow a pattern, and come after you have eaten a certain food? To find this out, a diary is the obvious means. Keep tracks of the foods you eat, and mark down the time each headache strikes. You aren't likely to find the answer at once, but after a period the pattern begins to emerge.

I must caution, however, that in some cases there's particular cause, as far as we can discover.

However, migraine sufferers may usually have in common sensitive, aggressive personalities; a tendency to tire easily; being perfectionists who want everything they do to be just right and persons who are under more or less constant stress. Incidentally, I know of an instance in which the attacks are provoked when the patient is annoyed by her husband.

IT'S A DEFINITE PATTERN

One helpful aspect is that the migraine fits into a definite pattern (if you can recognize it) and gives some warning. This may be anything from numbness to spots before the eyes, or an odd sense of taste.

The true migraine attack is usually on one side of the head, and ordinarily accompanied by vomitting.

(Not all hard headaches are migraines.) There are, especially, the tension headaches which in many ways resemble migraine.

Migraine is relieved by a drug containing ergot — ergotamine tartrate particularly, often with the tablet also containing caffein and sometimes other medications.

In reply to specific inquiries, a patient with elevated blood pressure shouldn't use ergo too generously. In this regard, keep in mind that one may develop a tolerance to the drug so that the effects from a given amount will decline.

Often a small amount of ergot, taken at the first sign of a migraine, will prevent the attack. Often, too, resting in a darkened room, along with some sedation, will check it. The purpose of my earlier remarks, about recognizing an attack when the preliminary signs appear, are for the dual purpose of helping one to avoid it and of having to take less medication. Your doctor will prescribe and control your medication. This is important. See him.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is porter beer good for me? Friends tell me it helps the blood.—A.D.Z."

The argument that something is "good for the blood" is an old one, usually dredged up as a high-sounding excuse for something that somebody wants to eat or drink. Ignore controversy. Beer's beer.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is a blood transfusion given regularly for pernicious anemia?—Mrs. D. R."

Usually it's not necessary, because with proper dosage of Vitamin B12 or liver extract, the response in the blood stream is prompt and effective, and can be maintained by regular injections.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading my booklet "Ten Ways to Stop Constipation." For a copy write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20c in coin to cover handling.

Bossie Likes Waltz Tunes

Christian Science Monitor

The cow that jived is out of date. Hey-diddle-diddle and over the moon is passe. It does nothing for milk production. And while in the nursey rhyme the cow appears to be having a good time, the fiddling cat is going to get a shallower saucer of milk than if she had played Johann Strauss.

If we sound dogmatic it is because we have noted the results of tests made by two owners of dairy herds in Missouri and Illinois. One of them played rock 'n roll to his cows; the other played waltzes. The latter might well have had two herds in three-quarter time to judge by the relative figures on milk production. For the waltzes inspired a 227-pound increase from the previous year, while the jitterbug approach only gave the cows subjected to it the jitters.

We can't help hoping that future tests will supply additional data. For example, do cows give richer or more watery milk to the strains of "On the Beautiful Blue Danube"? Does "Where the Citrons Bloom" tend to sour the output? And do the cows ever imagine that other famous Strauss waltz is titled "Tails from the Vienna Woods"?

Of course, we do not expect the "cats" (not the kind with the fiddle but the sort that swoon to the sound of a washboard) to take all this lying down. Composers of jive must now take a page from Strauss and woo the moo, or else. This may mean a new blight of blues on the musical soundscape, like "Cowbell Boogie" or the "Jersey Jive". But meanwhile, Bossie, may we have the next waltz with you?

WAY OF THE TRANSGRESSOR

One seldom encounters a thoroughly bad man. Let your mind wander back over the years and then survey the multitude of people you know now, and you will no doubt find this to be true.

But Benedict Arnold, the Revolutionary War traitor, was a thoroughly bad man. His treason to the revolutionary cause was carefully premediated and done in order to enrich him and personally to advance him. He received about $25,000 for his treachery, the rank of Brigadier General in the British army, a life allowance for his wife, and British commissions for two of his sons. Arnold, upon being detected, fled, assumed a command in the British army, ravished in particular the country in which he had been brought up as a boy, and vented his spleen upon the state of Virginia because it was the home of his enemy, George Washington.

But back in England, Arnold found himself an object of contempt. A speaker in Parliament once stopped in the middle of an address declaring that he would not proceed because the American traitor had come into the visitor's gallery. Throughout the rest of his life, the traitor was shunned and hated.

Finally, he sank into melancholy and after some years died. His last words were, "God, have mercy on my poor soul."

Infidelity of any kind wreaks fearful vengence. The way of the transgressor is always hard.

Harry Danford Again Winner In Seed Judging

For the second consecutive year Harry Danford has won the Bishop Trophy for taking top honors in the Grain Judging Competition held in the Stirling Community Hall on Friday, February 28th. This annual competition is sponsored by the Hastings Junior Farmer Association in co-operation with the Hastings County Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and is one of the highlights of Junior Farmer Activities during the year.

The contestants were required to judge two classes of oats, barley, wheat, alfalfa and red clover and give reasons on one of each. They also had to identify twenty weeds, five forage seeds and five forage plant mounts in order to complete the competition.

Apart from individual competition there was a competition for High School Teams comprising five members to a team, and one for teams of three members who were coached by Junior Farmer members 16 years of age or older. Team members, Clayton Benedict, Ron Urch, Don Reid, Kloas Tuinman and Don Stapely were victorious in winning the Junior Farmer Shield for the B.C.I.V.S. for the [illegible] consecutive year. The winner of the Hastings County Crop Improvement silver tray donated to the Junior Farmer coach of the winning team of three was Harry Danford.

The H. R. Tompkins Medal which is an annual award made to the contestant with the highest total points in small seeds, weeds, forage plants and seeds was won by Harry Danford. Harry also won the $10. MacDonald Award for highest total points in coarse grains.

The ten top competitors in the competition will represent Hastings County in the Seed Judging Competition to be held in conjunction with the Central Ontario Spring Show at Peterborough. The winning contestants were: Harry Danford, Douglas Rollins, Paul Heagle, Clayton Benedict Ronald Hamilton, Glen Heagle, Ronald Urch, Donald Stapely, Donald Brant and Clayton Asselstine.

Service Station and Operator Have Role in Community Life Kiwanis Club Members Told

Although gas consumption has risen 82.6 per cent within two years, the number of new service stations being built has increased by only 5 per cent within six years, local Kiwanis club members were informed at their regular meeting yesterday, by Ellsworth F. Large, Toronto sales supervisor for Imperial Oil Co. Ltd.

In an address dealing with the role of the service station and its operator in community life, Mr. Large said gas consumption has doubled to over two billion gallons a year in 1956 from one billion in 1950, while the number of service stations has increased to 33,000 in 1956 from 31,470 six years ago.

"The reason the number of new retail gas outlets has not been proportionate to the increase in gas consumption is that as the old-style smaller stations close, new, larger and more modern stations take their place," he explained.

The speaker explained the new, clean, bright stations, as well as serving the basic needs of an automotive community, also help improve community appearance by replacing old, dirty, run-down stations.

"In this modern automotive age, when a good transportation service is essential to community life, the service station is almost as necessary as the supermarket," he said.

TREND TO ALL-ROUND TYPE

"Today's trend is to an all-round type of service station well equipped for large volume," the speaker said. "More interest in building design will be shown in future", he added.

The role of the service station operator has also changed, he stated. Where 30 years ago an operator was usually a man who liked to "tinker with motors" today the dealer has assumed managerial position.

"Dealers today have a sense of belonging to a community, and take an active part in community life," Mr. Large said. 'Many hold civic offices, are members of service clubs, such as Kiwanis".

Mr. large also informed his audience of some of the problems facing the service station business such as the high cost of land sites, restrictive by-laws still on the books in many communities, which can lead to discrimination against operators, restriction of trade, and the setting up of "gasoline alleys" in communities.

"Gasoline alleys — areas where service stations are clustered together — result also from lack of community planning and zoning", he stated. "Such communities haven't been adapted to the modern age." he added.

The speaker explained the key to the overall problem of the service station, is that it merely "responds to traffic needs." It does not create more traffic, he said.

He explained that much research goes into the selection of site for new service stations. This research is based on the volume of automobile business in the area, safety, convenience to customers, and other factors.

An experimental service station in Toronto, under the control of the Marketing Research Division of Imperial Oil Co. is being used as a research laboratory, the speaker informed.

In speaking of the future of service stations, Mr. Large said by 1980 the daily gas consumption will have reached 19 million gallons. Today it stands at 8½ million gallons daily.

The speaker also predicted there will be seven million cars on the road by 1980, as compared with three million today.

PRESENTED WITH TOKEN

The speaker was introduced by Ross White and thanked by vice-president Gerry Wishart. He was presented with a token of the club's appreciation by president Charles Lusk.

Prior to the address, Dr. Donald Scott gave a brief address on behalf of the local branch of the Red Cross regarding the blood donor service being instituted in Belleville.

He urged Kiwanis club members to support this service, inaugurated by the Red Cross and the Belleville General Hospital board, by signing up as a blood donor. A 1,500-donor panel is needed for this area, he explained.

A salute to education week was observed by the club at the meeting yesterday.

A brief address highlighting some of the problems facing educationists today, was given by Quinte Secondary School principal Les Reid.

"One of the main problems is the great tidal wave of students entering elementary and secondary schools," he said. "In 1955 there were approximately 50,000 students; by 1965 it is estimated there will be over a million."

A big jump in Canada's birthrate, (now higher than India's) and immigration are the main causes, he said.

"There is a growing awareness that we must compete with Russia in the field of education—in the event of war, our schools will be the frontline of battle," he said.

He explained Russia is challenging us in the field of universal education. The USSR is spending more than 8 per cent of its gross national product on education, while western countries are spending less than 3 per cent.

"It was acknowledged at the conference on education held in Ottawa recently, if we are to compete with Russia, we must have good teachers to stimulate students, higher standards in the teaching profession, wider variety of schools, and courses, and more bursaries, to enable a greater number of students to attend universities," Mr. Reid stated.

Education Week

Instrumental Music in P.S.

By A. COOPER

Instrumental music was introduced into the public schools in Belleville about 1936 or 1937 and for a number of years this city was the pioneer for this course. This form of education has been extended over the last few years, so that there are now several public schools in Ontario that have bands, orchestras or instrumental groups.

One of the fundamental principles of education is to train the pupils to think for themselves. Instrumental music is particularly valuable in reaching such an objective. The young pupils are taught to read music by note, which entails the following: recognizing the value of notes and rests, the names of the notes, the various key signatures, the different rhythm patterns and the fingering of the instruments. All this produces co-ordination of the eye, the mind, and the fingers which in themselves contribute to quick thinking. Instrumental music also teaches self-discipline. Good results can only be obtained by the interests of each individual being forgotten for the good of the whole group.

The best results in the teaching of instrumental music are obtained by starting with the pupils in grades four and five. There are several reasons for this: At their age they have very few other interests and are keen to learn; also to be effective any training period must last from five to six years. The work may be started in grades six or seven, except that there is less time in their school program. Grade eight is too late to start, as these pupils will soon be moving on to high school. Students, though, who have had some instrumental training in the public school find it invaluable in music courses in high school. The student though, who has started his work prior to grade eight, lays for himself an excellent foundation in instrumental music.

In Belleville the following system of instruction is used. In September, beginners start with a book known as "The Easy Steps to the Band." Throughout the week classes are given in the various schools. On Thursday nights from seven-thirty to nine-thirty, students from all schools assemble to Queen Victoria School to carry on further instruction and practice. In April beginners become members of the band, who hold practices on Tuesday nights at the same school.

The procuring of instruments is much easier today than several years ago. Most of the pupils who take up instrumental music rent an instrument for three months at a nominal charge of fifteen dollars. At the end of that period the instrument can be purchased outright or financed on small monthly payments.

Over a lengthy period of teaching music in the public and high schools, I have found that those children who studied instrumental music have acquired leadership qualities and an incentive to obtain high academic standings. In high school, students who have taken the instrumental music course made valuable contributions to drama and glee club work.

Although I never stress the financial returns from this training, I know several students who have earned money from their playing ability which has helped them to pay for a college education. A former student who has made a name for himself is Carne Bray who three years ago was only beaten by 27 votes from becoming president of the Musicians' Union and last year was written up in Maclean's Magazine. Another student, Arnold Carter, has travelled extensively with the Royal Canadian Signal Corps Band.

Quiet Gas War Going on in Quinte District

Price cutting by gasoline service station dealers in Toronto, Hamilton and Windsor is getting considerable newspaper publicity these days, and is meeting with gleeful response on the part of motorists in the above areas.

But in the Belleville area there has been a quiet gasoline war on for a number of years with price for standard grade gasoline as low as 39.9 cents per gallon, lower than the regular price by five or six cents.

Longest continued gas price war has been in the village of Cannifton, with as many as three service stations involved at various times. Lowest price in this gas war is 39.9 cents.

Also on Foxboro Road one service station has been selling standard grade gasoline at the 39.9 cent price, while the same is true of at least one station in the city and another on the Kingston Road.

West of the city one station is selling standard gas at 40 cents, while still another is quoting 41.9 cents.

Regular price for standard grade gas in the city is 44.9 cents per gallon with some stations selling at 43.9. Price for premium gasoline used in the latest high compression ratio engines is 49 cents.

Police Blotter

It may have been a case of forgetfullness caused by exuberation over the Kingston hockey team's 5-1 win over the local McFarlands, but a Kingston man Tuesday night temporarily lost track of his car after leaving the local arena.

Excited about the believed disappearance of his car which he maintained he had left on the Loblaw parking lot, the Kingston man reported its theft at the police station.

The desk sergeant recorded the occurrence and a short time later patrol officers found the vehicle — on the Collegiate parking lot.

Police also reported that three teen-aged Kingston girls had been picked up at three o'clock this morning on Dundas street.

The girls were brought to the police station by the patrol officers where they said they had left home because "they were tired of being kicked around."

The girls' parents came to Belleville this morning and took them home.

On The Hustings

Says PC Policy Made More Jobs Building Homes

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — It was "meet the people" day for Prime Minister Diefenbaker Tuesday as he campaigned to keep the big block of Toronto district constituencies in the Progressive Conservative camp next March 31.

The Conservative leader shook hands until his knuckles ached at a giant afternoon reception. Then he went back at it again at an evening reception. He capped off the day with a 15-minute broadcast on a national television network.

He asked his television audience to consider "how much worse" unemployment might have been if the former Liberal government had been re-elected last June and continued its policies.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that the pace of house - building, for example, had fallen rapidly during the last 18 months of Liberal rule because of "the stubborn attitude of the Liberals in refusing to cut taxes, making tight money tighter, and restricting credit at a time when an opposite course of action should have been taken."

ANOTHER JAB

At the evening reception in an east-central Macedonian Greek Orthodox Church he took another jab at the Liberals, heaping sarcasm on the Jan. 20 Commons move of Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson in proposing that the Conservatives hand over power to the opposition without an election.

That proposal, he said in mocking tones, meant: "Give us back our jobs but don't hold an election."

Some 1,800 persons jammed into the church hall and overflowed into a downstairs room. Only a couple of hundred got a chance to shake his hand, crowding around as he entered and then left after 45 minutes to keep his television date.

The high point in this campaigning day came at an east-side suburban Scarborough golf club where a crowd estimated by reporters at between 3,000 and 5,000 lined up inside and outside to meet him.

Mr. Diefenbaker was in the receiving line for two stints—his wife stayed to shake hands throughout—and at one point he went outside to chat with some 200 unable to get in.

HAND SHAKES AGAIN

He said later his hand was sore. But he was handshaking again vigorously in the evening. And today two more afternoon receptions are scheduled, at Windsor and Leamington, before an evening speech at Chatham.

The two Toronto receptions were aimed at six of the 18 ridings in Toronto district. Conservatives won all but one of the 18 in last June's election.

In his television broadcast, Mr. Diefenbaker said his government reversed the tight money policy of the Liberals, provided millions of dollars for house - building loans and helped produce a record wintertime pace of house construction. In the last three months of 1957, housing loans had increased by 402 per cent from a year earlier.

"It has meant jobs to Canadians."

If the Conservative government had not acted immediately "the situation today would be much worse than it is."

"That's my answer to the apostles of gloom who endeavor to inject fear in the hearts of Canadians when it's time for faith."

Referring to other government actions aimed at easing unemployment, he said the government "will not hesitate to budget for a deficit this year."

"As long as I am prime minister, this government will not rest while one Canadian remains out of work. No one will be allowed to suffer."

At his evening reception, Mr. Diefenbaker said the size of the meeting was characteristic of his campaign so far.

"I have never seen anything approaching the tremendous upsurge of enthusiasm that characterizes our party in every part of Canada."

The prime minister received oratorical support from Ontario's Premier Frost, who called the Conservative party "a party of the people . . . a party dedicated to peace." Turning to Mr. Diefenbaker he added:

"John, you and I have seen the wars and troubles of other years."

Both the prime minister and Mr. Frost were invalided home from France in the First World War. Mr. Diefenbaker is the first Canadian prime minister to have been a war veteran.

Commonwealth Breach on Suez Said Now Healed

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Lester B. Pearson told cheering, jeering students Tuesday he believes the Commonwealth breach caused by the Suez crisis has been healed and the partnership of nations is as strong as ever.

The Liberal leader, ending a lightning-paced, nine-day western campaign, faced the biggest and noisest crowd of students so far as he agreed to appear at a noon rally at the University of Manitoba residence hall.

His original itinerary did not call for a Winnipeg speech. In a late change of plans appearances at Minnedosa and Portage La Prairie were cancelled and he accepted an invitation to appear at the university.

More than 1,500 students jammed into a hall that normally holds about 900. They even came through a skylight and stood at the back of the hall five deep. They jammed the aisles and filled nearby halls where loudspeakers were hooked up.

CARRY SIGNS

Some carried Pearson banners. Others held up signs bearing the words "Carry on, John," a reference to Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The cheers for Mr. Pearson were as loud and persistent as the boos. He acknowledged both.

After some sharp questioning, Mr. Pearson was given noisy applause.

He spoke of the Liberal program and attacked the Progressive Conservative approach to the unemployment crisis.

Questions from the floor came quickly. Would Mr. Pearson as prime minister stand by the record of former prime minister St. Laurent? Yes, he would, Mr. Pearson replied.

As for the Commonwealth breach caused by the 1956 Suez crisis, that now was over. The breach had been healed. India, Pakistan and Ceylon, who threatened to withdraw from the Commonwealth because of Britain's armed intervention in the Israeli-Egyptian dispute, now were strong partners.

Why, the Liberal leader, was asked did he now advocate 40,000 scholarships for university students when the Liberals had been in office for 22 years and had not done so previously. Wasn't this just a vote - catching gimmick launched because the Liberals had their backs against the wall?

There wasn't anything wrong with a proposal catching votes provided it was a good proposal, Mr. Pearson replied. But it wasn't true the Liberals had done nothing before. Their aid to Second World War veterans to secure university educations was one of the world's best.

How about his Jan. 20 non-confidence motion in the Commons when he tried to get the Conservatives to move out and allow the Liberals to take over the government without an election? That move was perfectly constitutional. It was done to show that the Liberals had a program to overcome unemployment. It was done also when the Conservatives "carefully manufactured" an amendment in the first hour of Mr. Pearson's Liberal leadership, in a vain attempt to get defeated and thus have an excuse for a winter election, rather than face the problems of recession and growing unemployment.

Says PC's Plan Higher Freight And Phone Rates

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell said Tuesday night Canadians will pay higher freight rates and bigger telephone bills in Ontario and Quebec if the Progressive Conservatives are re-elected March 31.

He made the statement at a public meeting here in referring to the government's decision to suspend until May 1 recent freight rate and telephone increases approved by the board of transport commissioners. Before May 1 the cabinet will hear appeals against the increases, amounting to 3.6 per cent for the railways and to three per cent for the Bell Telephone Company.

Mr. Coldwell described the government's action as a "smart political trick."

The postponement, he said, "can mean only that the government's decision when it comes will be politically unpopular. It can mean only that the government, if re-elected, will approve these increases with perhaps some face-saving modifications."

"NOT FAIR"

That was the only reason a decision had been postponed and it was not fair to the people of Canada.

The statements were included in excerpts from the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Coldwell said the government's decision to delay action on the appeals was an example of government postponement and evasion.

"Never before have so many problems been postponed in so little time by so many cabinet ministers. The record of the Liberal government was one of procrastination and delay, but surely that of the Conservative government is one of postponement and stall."

RIVER YIELDS BODIES OF CHILDREN

Volunteer rescue workers carry the body of one of the 23 school children caught in a watery death-trap as a school bus plunged into the rain-swollen Levisa fork of the Big Sandy river near Prestonburg, Ky. Eight navy frogmen aided in the search that ended with the grim discovery of the bus some 200 feet downstream and on the opposite bank from where it plunged into the torrent after colliding with an automobile wrecker and a truck.

Energetic Club Tours Bakelite Plant

The Energetic Club of Holloway St. Church met recently with Cam and Anne Hitchon's group entertaining. A most interesting tour of the Bakelite plant was the first item on the program.

The devotional period was held immediately after the members returned to the church. Those taking part were, Anne Hitchon and Ross Dryden, using "Prayer" as the theme.

The usual business meeting was conducted by the president, Bill Campbell.

Humorous readings by Jeannette Outingdyke and Anne Hitchon were enjoyed after which refreshments were served by the group in charge.

The "Tattler" was read by the reporter, Wyn Parks.

The next meeting will be held on March 12.

Eggleton M.B. Enjoys Study On 'Japan'

MADOC JUNCTION— On Friday afternoon the February meeting of the Eggleton Mission Band was held at the school.

At the front of the school on a table, was a lovely worship centre, with a winter scene in the background, and in the front the open Bible.

The president, Audrey Stapley presided over the program, which had been prepared by Diane Prest and Kenneth Danford and opened the meeting with Sharon Reide at the piano.

For the Scripture lesson, Audrey Stapley read the 67th Psalm, after which Mrs. Fitchett offered prayer.

A reading "The Snowflakes" was given by Glen Stapley.

Isobelle Prest read the minutes and called the roll, showing 20 children and three adults present. March meeting to be held on Friday afternoon, March 21st. Sheila Clarke was appointed to arrange the Worship Centre for the next meeting.

Wayne McMullen gathered the offering, which was dedicated with a prayer, read by Diane Prest.

The leader, Mrs. Maurice Clancey told in story form the chapter "Hana Discovers the City", from the study book. She also showed a number of pictures of Japanese children: at their meals, at play, how they sleep and also displayed a sample of Japanese writing. These pictures are to be posted in a scrapbook on Japan. The leader then divided the pupils into groups. Each group drawing different pictures, as umbrellas, shoes, Japanese eating bowls, lanterns etc. The best of these drawings are also to be put in the scrap book.

A short, but lovely children's prayer service was held with Beverley Stapley, Grant Reid, Isobelle Prest, Marilyn Stapley, Ricky Phillips, Sheila Clarke, Lois Danford and Sharon Reide each taking a part.

Mrs. Fitchett gave a short talk and showed the children twigs of cotton picked in South Carolina.

"Jesus Bids up Shine" was sung and Mrs. Reide closed the meeting.

The lunch conveners, Audrey Stapley and Grant Reid served dainty homemade cookies.

CANADA'S FASTEST-SELLING COUGH REMEDY

Old Time Prices Cited at Melrose W.I.

In spite of the inclement weather and snowy condition of the roads, over 30 ladies convened at the home of Mrs. K. McMechan for the Melrose W. I. meeting last Thursday night.

Mrs. C. Weese, the president, welcomed all and thanked the hostess for opening her home, and presided over the business period during which it was decided to participate in the Tweedsmuir History Workshop, a district service to be held in the near future conducted by Mrs. Walker, a former provincial convener of Historical Research and Current Events.

A letter was read from the Provincial President, Mrs. Haggerty, informing of the opening of the new provincial office at 20 Spadina Rd., Toronto, where all correspondence should be sent.

A generous donation was made to the Relief Fund for flooded areas of Ceylon and a nice selection of babies' wear was received from members in response to the U.N. appeal for layettes for Arab babies.

At this time, Mrs. J. English, convener of Historical Research, took charge and all joined in community singing with Mrs. Bates kindly acting as song-leader.

Mrs. English expressed regret that due to weather conditions, the guest-speaker couldn't be present, but on short notice Mrs. English had arranged a most interesting program. She had on display the "Tweedsmuir History" and stated the purpose of compiling one; to stimulate patriotism; to preserve the history of the locality, and to reveal a study of the forefathers. It is well-known that items are soon forgotten if not written down, and thus these efforts in this direction will be appreciated by the future generation.

In a wooden cradle of long ago lay a large doll dressed in infants' garments worn in those olden times, which provided an appropriate setting for a lively discussion conducted by Mrs. Earl Badgley on "What Mothers Expected of Their Children 50 Years Ago."

A brisk intercourse followed and some thoughts expressed were that there was lack of discipline in the home today and children were inclined to have their own way. The old adage, "Children Should Be Seen and Not Heard," had been reversed and the value of money is unknown to youngsters of today. Everyone agreed that children are as cute and charming as they always were, and will continue that way.

Mrs. C. Hagerman described an "Exhibit of Historic Relics on Display," in a window of a popular jeweller in Belleville. Featured in it is a copy of a survey of the city drawn up in 1816. Several newspapers on view included issues of the Victorian Chronicle, the Ontario, and the Intelligencer, all published in Belleville dating back to 1846.

Mrs. G. McLaren followed with a reading, "The Mighty Dollar," which recalled the good old days when a dollar-bill really had buying power. She itemized the prices of various articles for sale at several stores in Belleville years ago. Following are some bargains mentioned: ladies' cotton vests 10 cents; boys' suits $1.75 to $4; cotton blankets 75 cents a pair; quilts 93 cents; flour $2.60 a bag; bran $13 a ton. The slogan of "Lots of Good Stuff at Rock-Bottom Prices," certainly proved to be true.

The Roll-Call "An Antique and its Description" was most amusing as well as educational.

Mrs. Weese read a humorous article re "Income Tax Deductions," which suggested "Destruction Items," due to children's playful fun.

Refreshments were served.

Hattie Carnegie comes through with a smartly simple, high bloused crown cloche White grosgrain trims the red toyo cloche and ties in a deft bow. This hat, which fits "up" on the head rather than cupping it tightly, provides an exceptionally good balance for the shorter, straighter line.

River Valley W.I. Sponsors Euchre Party

STIRLING — On Friday evening 22 adults attended the euchre party sponsored by River Valley Women's Institute at the school house.

Five visitors from Frankford, Stirling, Ridge Road and Bethel were in attendance. The prizes were donated by Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Donohoe and there were five tables in play.

Mrs. J. R. Donohoe, Mrs. Ina Free and Mrs. Percy MacMullen each had a score of 68 points and tied for first prize. In the draw Mrs. J. R. Donohoe was first and Mrs. Free second. Men's high, Claude Tucker, Allyn Warren.

The proceeds of the four February parties, clear of expenses, will be approximately $35. Mrs. Ed. Heasman voiced thanks on behalf of all those who attended the parties in February and to the conveners Mrs. Harry Morrow and Mrs. J. L. Donohoe. A birthday ovation was given to Ed Heasman.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

Club Activities

TRINITY LADIES' CLUB

MADOC — Despite a cold night a large attendance marked the Trinity Ladies' Club meeting held at the home of Mrs. G. C. Moon.

Mrs. George Devolin presided and various activities were planned for April including a banquet and rummage sale.

Club members are asking parents of the United Church to take advantage of the baby-sitting service which is being conducted during the morning church service.

Mrs. Empey was in charge of an interesting program which began with a group of songs, sung by Miss Anne Nickle. Mrs. Lane led in a worship service, stressing the influence Christianity has on national life. This was followed by Mrs. Rodgers reading the Bible Story.

Mrs. Empey spoke on the work confronting missionaries in Japan. Continuing, the speaker asked "What is required of Christians in their own community?" Mrs. Empey pointed out the need of humility, justice and striving for peace.

A cup of tea and a social half hour then were enjoyed.

ST. PETER'S W.M.S.

MADOC — St. Peter's W.M.S. held its meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Walden. Miss Vankleek, president, opened with prayer.

In the absence of Mrs. D. Blakely, Mrs. Cecil Woods acted as secretary. There were 15 members and two visitors present.

Mrs. Charles Spencer took charge of the program. The Bible Story was from Acts, and meditation was read by Miss Cecelia Heslip.

Mrs. Spencer gave an interesting reading from "The Challenge", on Kitimat, B.C., telling of the development and the work of the church out there.

Mrs. Woods read a poem "His" and also took the topic "The Christian Church in Japan". In part the story of how in 1549 a Jesuit missionary, Francis Xavier, landed on Japan's shore bringing the Christian faith. In 1597 persecution and martyrdom broke out. For decades the country had a closed door and Christianity moved at a snail's pace. It is almost 100 years since Christianity re-entered Japan. The World Christian Education Convention being held there this year commemorates 100 years of protestantism in Japan. Since Japan has opened her doors and her heart to the message of Christ, Christians must not fail in her hour of need.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

WESLEY W.A.

The February meeting of the Wesley W.A. was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wright, but owing to the inclement weather there were only seven members present.

The president, Mrs. B. Burnett, opened the meeting.

In the absence of the devotional convener, the members turned to their business meeting. It was decided to hold a St. Patrick's supper on March 15th at the church. It will commence at 6 p.m.

The members present paid their 1958 dues and it was decided to continue with the birthday box and copper contest.

After the meeting closed a social half hour was spent with the hostess serving refreshments.

Mrs. Wright was thanked for opening her home for the meeting.

The March meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. William Frederick.

New Addition To TB Hospital Is Dedicated

SEOUL (AP) — A modern outpatient clinic called Canada House has been dedicated here as a new addition to a children's tuberculosis hospital.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova of Ottawa, executive director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, represented the Canadian contributors at a ceremony at the hospital site on the western outskirts of Seoul last Friday.

The Canadian contribution of $12,000 was the largest among several foreign benefactors who helped build the $26,000 clinic.

Dr. Hitschmanova said $9,300 of the Canadian contribution was collected by the Victoria, B.C., Daily Times and another $1,200 came from officers and men of the western area command in London, Ont. The rest was donated out of Unitarian general funds.

She said the funds were collected during a four-week Christmas campaign.

Seoul Mayor Huh Chung presented a citation to Dr. Hitschmanova at an earlier ceremony "for exceptionally outstanding services to relieve the suffering of the people of Korea." She now is on a world tour to survey Unitarian service committee programs. There are 44 programs in 10 countries.

Medical Assoc. L.A. Hears Talk On Blood Clinic

The monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Hastings and Prince Edward County Medical Association was held Thursday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Scott, with 24 medical wives present.

The president, Elizabeth Scott, chaired the meeting.

Following a brief business discussion, the annual reports of the association were read by the secretary, Mrs. J. S. Loynes, and the treasurer, Mrs. A. N. Rota.

Mrs. Peter Loder expressed the thanks of the group to Mrs. Scott for her fine achievements as president of the association during the first year of its existence.

Mrs. A. E. Miles, representing the nominating committee, read the names of the new slate of officers. These include:

Past president, Elizabeth Scott; president, Aileen Ross; vice-president, Joan Douglas; secretary, Helen Loynes; treasurer, Dorothy Walters; corresponding secretary, Barbara Allen; press secretary, Sylvia Cronk. Directors are to be appointed at the next meeting.

Dr. Donald Scott spoke to the group of the new "Blood Donor Clinic," being formed at the Belleville General Hospital by the Red Cross and stressed the great need for blood donors, that the clinic may be a success.

Dr. Scott pointed out that previously patients requiring transfusions were requested to have donors replace the blood used on a two-for-one basis. The patient was also required to pay a service charge for the transfusion.

With the blood donor clinic in successful operation, the patient will be required only to pay the service charge of $6. This service charge covers the cost of equipment required for taking the blood and for transfusing the patient and the cost of typing and cross-matching the blood.

The blood donor clinic will be held in the hospital and planned by appointment for the convenience of the donor.

Coca Cola will be served before the donation and coffee and light refreshments will be served following it.

Nurses will be in attendance throughout the process.

Volunteer blood donor cards were distributed to the members along with a pamphlet entitled "A Gift of Life."

A social period with coffee and refreshments brought the meeting to a close.

This --- and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Going shopping?

Please don't be too dismayed when you hear that our cost of living index is up a bit—you knew it all the time. The main item that made the index increase was the price of oranges and imported fruits and vegetables. The reasons for this increase has been covered in This and That over the past month. Most other products have remained at the same level, so we will turn to other lines of shopping. Cottons are again in the full surge of popularity. This fabric, which has not been too widely used for good underwear since grandmother's day, is making a comeback in that category again. Slips, fancy nighties and panties are lovely in the new drip-dry fine cottons. Most of these are very flowery and "pretty", with sprigs of daintily colored nosegays and greenery sprinkled over a white background.

We were told that, if you are contemplating wearing the chemise fashion, very good, longer foundation garments are a "must," even more so than with our other fashions. You will notice in our last sentence we say "if." It will be interesting to see, come spring, just how many will make the plunge. Bennett Cerf says the chemise is an insult to every man, but then he should know that you can never tell about women and their fashions.

On looking through a recent fashion supplement, we came to the realization that, while straight pictures of fashions showed the chemise line, the advertisements using beautiful models to interest the viewer in other products had them dressed in the more curvy clothes that we are accustomed to see.

Color will be very important this spring. Last year we were offered brighter shades in underwear and stockings which may have been the forerunner of the brilliant oranges and greens we see coming our way now.

New raincoats are going to look like raincoats for a change. For several years rainwear designers have been stressing styles that disguised their function. The development of so many man-made fibres intrigued the designers into making raincoats a real style item, made from tweed, taffeta and even velvet synthetic yarns.

This year the fashion pendulum has swung back to the classic raglan and trench coat styles. The use of easy-care fabrics has not diminished though; the raincoats that do not look like raincoats are still with us in bengalines, jerseys and corduroys. Dacron and cotton or 100 per cent nylon in poplin weaves are top favorites for the newer plain styles.

Two last bits of news in the fashion line: belts have swung so they have slipped right down to the hipbone where most of them have settled. But most of them can also be cinched at the waist level, so it is still up to you. The soft orlon sweaters can now be obtained in bulky look styles to keep up with the trend of bulk in sweaters. In fashion, they tell us that 'trend' is everything.

GOOD SHOPPING!

February became, for some inexplicable reason, a month of coincidence in so far as annual gatherings that are called "conferences" are concerned. There arrived in our mail no less than three monthly bulletins, reports, news letters or treatises. Each was the result of profound thinking and patient research into the proper methods to be used in organizing a conference. One was written by the Royal Bank of Canada, another by Conference Counsellors of New York and the third by the Committee of Correspondence with which we are associated. T and T refers to this matter because the conference and workshop is an important factor in our modern society. No longer are the great conferences just social gatherings for convivial drinking and horse-play. More and more they become forums of opinions, and governments take seriously the many resolutions passed. In a real sense, but less direct one, they also have considerable influence on public opinion. It has been our privilege to be present at several conferences in New York, Montreal and Toronto over the past few years and women the work over attend them sincerely and seriously. In these few comments we distinguish between conferences and just "hurrah boys" conventions. We hope the serious conference and work-shops are permanent fixtures in society.

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP . . . ON PARTY MANNERS

Don't be a "squatter" at a party. Don't always expect the other guests to come to where you are sitting, to entertain you. And don't stay with the same group all the time. Circulate

NEVER USE "FRAT" FOR FRATERNITY!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My girl friend and I had a date with two college men from a city nearby. During dinner I said something about a "frat," and from the quick, black looks I got from the two fellows and from my girl friend you would think I had shot off a pistol or something. Nothing was said at the time, but afterward my girl friend explained to me that it is considered an unforgivable error to say "frat" instead of "fraternity." I had never heard of such a thing. Is she right, Mrs. Beeckman? — R. M.

Absolutely right! Banish that word "frat" from your vocabulary forever for its is an abbreviation scorned by everyone who knows what's what, and most particularly by a man who belongs to a fraternity.

TOO MANY FLOWER GIRLS MAY STEAL THE SHOW

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In our family we have so many lovely nieces who would love to be in our daughter's Bridal Party. So would it be proper to have four flower girls — two 5-year-old girls to drop rose petals, and two 8-year-old girls to carry flowers in baskets? Then how many bridesmaids should the bride have? We thought four, and one maid of honor. And how many ushers? — Bride's Mother

In my judgment you're getting too "fancy" in your plans about flower girls. Naturally all the nieces want to be in your daughter's bridal party, but the bride-to-be, not the children, must decide about this. And you and she should heed this warning: too many lovely nieces, dramatically dropping flower petals and carrying baskets of flowers may, very definitely may, steal the spotlight from the bride. Too often I've heard wedding guests saying "Aren't those children cute?" when they should have been saying "What a beautiful bride!" And if you have these four flower girls in the recessional (which I hope you won't), they may very well steal the spotlight from the bride and groom.

However, if you do decide to have the four (or only two) flower girls, I advise that they carry the small, pert, so-called "old-fashioned" bouquets, so appropriate and charming. Two or four bridesmaids, besides the maid of honor, would be correct. And the number of ushers depends on the number of guests to be seated . . at least one usher for every fifty guests invited.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mr. E. D. — Our children won't listen to us.

Flora D. — Our mistakes were their fault.

• • •

Mr. E. D. — My wife and I are very much concerned about our son and daughter, who seem to feel that they have arrived at such a ripe old age they have no need at all for their parents.

Denis is 24 and Flora is 21. They do exactly as they please in every way and won't take any advice from us. Flora has already had two broken engagements. These could have been avoided if she had listened to us in the first place. Denis went into business partnership with a friend of his and lost his shirt. I warned him, but he wouldn't listen.

How can we make them understand that their parents have a little more experience and wisdom than they have?

• • •

Flora D. — Our parents really have no understanding of us or our problems. Anything we do they say is wrong. They say they know better. Sometimes we turn out to be right, but they overlook that.

My parents say my broken engagements could have been avoided if I had listened to them. But it was their fault that I got engaged in the first place. They wanted me to marry someone I didn't like at all and I just got engaged to get them off my back.

The same thing happened with Denis. My father wanted him to go into a particular line of work, which he happens to hate. Just to get rid of Dad's pressure, Denis got into business trouble.

• • •

The Council: It sounds as though the E. D.'s have foolishly allowed themselves to get into a pointless contest of wills with their children.

The question in this family no longer is, "What is the right thing to do?" but "Who knows better—a parent or a child?"

The E. D.'s seem determined to prove that their children can't get along without them. The children, lacking self-confidence, do everything possible to prove they have no need whatever of parental advice. But if things go wrong, they feel they have a right to blame their parents because the parents are too ready to feel responsible for them.

The E. D.'s must recognize that Denis and Flora are adults and old enough to be parents themselves. They cannot possibly expect this young man and woman to obey blindly.

From Flora's statement it appears that neither she nor her brother have yet accepted full responsibility for their decisions and for their lives in general. Mature, clear-minded women don't get involved in engagements they don't mean and then turn around and blame their parents for the whole affair. It was a mighty silly way of coping with pressure.

Flora and Denis need to make their own decisions, based on reason and ethical considerations, not reaction against their parents. They will learn from their mistakes only if they get into the habit of taking complete responsibility for their actions.

The E. D.'s should recognize that their role in their children's lives is now that of "elder statesmen." The children may come to them for advice, if it is taken for granted that Flora and Denis can and must make the ultimate decision.

WEDNESDAY

(Dinner Party for Husband's Guests)

Trencherman's Steak Sandwiches (see Monday); Tossed Green Salad with Italian Salad Dressing (see Tuesday); Dutch Apple Pie; Cheese; Coffee.

ORANGE DIAMONDS

One and one-third cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¾ cup butter, ¾ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, 1 tablespoon orange juice, 4 unbeaten eggs, ¼ cup white raisins or currants, ¼ cup coarsely crushed sugar cubes (or ¼ cup granulated sugar), ¼ cup chopped blanched almonds. Sift together flour and baking powder. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream well. Blend in orange rind and orange juice. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Blend in flour mixture until well combined. Spread in 13 x 9 x 2-inch pan which has been well greased and lightly floured on the bottom. Combine raisins, sugar cubes, and almonds, sprinkle over dough. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. 25 to 30 minutes. Cool For diamond shapes, cut diagonally across pan at 2-inch intervals. Then repeat, cutting in opposite direction.

PINEAPPLE BARS

One and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup chopped nuts, 2½ cups uncooked quick rolled oats, 1½ cups brown sugar, packed, 1 cup shortening, melted. Combine first 6 ingredients. Add melted shortening; mix well. Press half of dough very firmly into 12" x 8" x 2" baking dish. Spread with pineapple filling (see below); cover with remaining dough; pat down well. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 25 - 35 minutes. Cool in pan; cut into bars or triangles.

PINEAPPLE FILLING

Six tablespoons sugar, 4½ teaspoons cornstarch, 1½ cups canned crushed pineapple, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Simmer all ingredients, stirring, until thick. Cool.

VARIATIONS

To 1½ cups mincemeat add ¼ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, ½ teaspoon lemon juice, or to 1 pound dried figs, cut or ground, add ¾ cup sugar, ¾ cup water, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt. Simmer all ingredients, stirring, until thick. Cool, and use either of these fillings instead of pineapple.

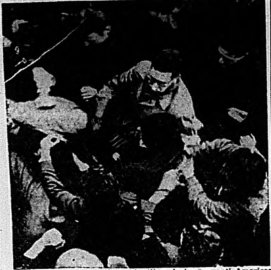
ANTI-U.S. BRITONS STAGE PROTEST



Demonstrators are shown battling during an anti-American march on Ruislip air force base near London, Eng. Shouting and placard-waving demonstrators called for the United States to abandon its British bases, but failed to ruffle the routine of "business as usual" at the air fields. The long-heralded and Communist-backed "Yankee, Go Home" demonstration produced no serious incidents. The marchers were either ignored or watched with amused curiosity by the Americans. U.S. base commanders refused to receive petitions against the proposed setting up of four U.S. guided missile stations in Britain on the grounds they were not authorized to deal with political matters.

Clarify Use of Fire Equipment Outside of Town Limits

PICTON —Failure of Picton's fire department to respond to a call outside of the town when the home of Fred Shearns on the Glenora Road was destroyed resulted in regulations governing the use of the fire truck being clarified at Monday night's council meeting.

A resolution of the fire committee that in future, any member of the town council may order the Picton fire truck to proceed to a fire outside the town limits was approved by council.

This resolution was formulated at a meeting of the fire committee on Feb. 22 when Reeve Carman Scott. Councillors Arthur Morgan and Randolph Clapp and Fire Chief George Jones were present. This meeting was to ascertain "why" the fire department had failed to respond to a call to the fire at the Shearns' home.

The report of the fire committee stated "as all the members knew our restrictive by-laws had been removed some time ago and was left so that the fire department could answer any call at the discretion of the chief."

"Apparently, this was thought by the chief, that he could refuse a call at his discretion when asked by members of council, and in this particular instance it was the decision of the chief that it was a bad place to put the fire truck and refused to go, with the result that the house was a total loss in spite of the wonderful response of the army fire department, and the town of Picton came in for a lot of ridicule over a wide section of the province for its apparent unconcern of the matter."

When the restrictive by-laws were removed it was done as above so that there would be no official red tape to cut in an emergency and a situation of this sort could have been taken in hand without delay, so to clear any misunderstanding in future, a resolution was passed by this committee meeting to ask council for a motion that any council member could order the truck out in future.

It is to be hoped that members will bear in mind the responsibilities that go with it and not attempt to send the truck where it can do no good or too far from home to be practical, concluded the report.

COLD NOT GET OUT

In the discussion which preceded passing of the resolution, Councillor Randolph Clapp said that Fire Chief Jones was of the opinion not to go to the fire as it was possible that the truck might not be able to get out afterwards (the burned house was down a lane off the highway and it was a wintry day).

"There is danger of members of council being able to order the fire truck out. It is not a desirable situation. Members of council are not firemen — but rather than have such at situation happen again, we arrived at this decision," stated Councillor Clapp.

"I do not want to see this thing happen again," said Councillor Andrew Jarvis.

Councillor Robert Hill thought the mayor, reeve and fire committee alone should have the power to order the use of the truck.

Councillor Arthur Morgan said that it could happen that at some time when an appeal for help was received that only one or two members were available. He felt that the main point in the resolution was that all members of council had a say in the matter of ordering the fire truck outside the town limits.

"We want to be good neighbors. The resolution has its pitfalls but every member of council should be responsible enough not to send the fire truck on a 'wild goose chase'. We are not going into the 'fire business' but if we can help somebody, let us do so," said Councillor Jarvis.

"A good neighbor policy is a good thing but we are leaving ourselves wide open. Everyone will be calling the Picton fire department," said Councillor B. Hepburn.

Reeve Carman Scott presided in the absence of Mayor H. J. McFarland.

PICTON — L. B. Calnan, editor of the Picton Gazette, was admited to Prince Edward County hospital here yesterday suffering from a broken rib and a broken foot along with cuts, sustained when his station wagon collided headon with a half-ton truck on the outskirts of the village of Bloomfield. A passenger on the truck Miss Dorothy Morris, R. R. 1 Hillier is in hospital with broken knee cap and facial lacerations. Driver of the truck, Clifford Morris was not hospitalized.

Mr. Calnan was driving to Belleville and the Morris Truck proceeding to Picton. They crashed headon on a sharp rise in the highway. Both vehicles were badly wrecked. Though Mr. Calnan's eyelid was cut through, sight of the eye was not affected. Dr. K. E. McQueen attended the injured at the scene. O.P.P. investigated. No charges have been laid.

MACS ACCEPT RATING

PICTON — Picton Macs, who have accepted Intermediate 'B' rating from the OHA, instead of 'C' as first entered, have been advised that they will meet Little Britain of the Lindsay district in the first round of the Ontario playdowns. First game in the three-out-of-five series is being played in Picton, Thursday night. Defeating Kingston Flyers here last Thursday by a 12-5 score, the Macs have a record of ten straight wins with Smiths Falls the only team in the Eastern league, all other 'A' entries, which they have not beaten. They tied the Falls three times.

Finals in the Eastern Ontario Juvenile 'C' group will see Wellington and Bancroft play at Picton tonight, Wednesday Wellington has a four goal lead in the two games, goals to count. series. Convener Doug Patterson of Stirling will be on hand to present the Eastern Ontario championship trophy following the game.

Hallowell Wins Top Spot in Bacon Show

PICTON — Picton armouries was thronged by farmers and their families Tuesday afternoon when a spring fair and bacon show was held. The large building was filled with exhibits of machinery, seeds, grains and cars.

Of special interest was the display of hog carcasses, each township having entered four hogs which had been sent to Peterborough for slaughtering.

Hallowell won top place in the township entry with two carcasses being place in first award category, two in second place.

Runner-up was South Marysburgh with a first, two seconds and a third. These hogs were entered by G. Striker, G. Walker, W. Miller and G. Parks. Making up the Hallowell entry were W. Gibb, G. Sprigings, H. Hayden and Gordon Parks.

The champion carcass was that shown by William Cobb, Hallowell, with reserve going to Gordon Striker, South Marysburgh.

Hillier township was third with a first, two seconds and a third. Exhibitors were B. Eggleton, J. Skratt, N. Allison, L. Wight.

Other townships placed in the following order: Ameliasburgh, Sophiasburgh, Athol, North Marysburgh.

There was a splendid entry in the seed and grain section.

During the afternoon Douglas Parks of Kemptville Agricultural school, spoke on seeds and grains. In the afternoon Miss Nancy Conger, Home Economist with the Department of Fisheries, gave a demonstration on cooking fish to a large number of ladies gathered at the United Church.

A Landrace boar was sold to M. J. Kleinsteuber for $140. Donated by E. M. Warwick, proceeds will be used locally to sponsor grain corn growing. In the evening 200 heard Mr. Warwick tell of a trip to Russia. The banquet was held at the County Centre at the fair grounds.

CAMPSTOVE
CAMPSTOVE

Oil stoves, candles and lamps are being sent to St. John's, Newfoundland, after the most crippling sleet storm in the city's history. Ice forming on power lines snapped poles, leaving a mass of dangerous wire clogging streets and cutting off electricity to homes, hospitals and business. Stores were sold out of candles and fuel of all kinds within a few hours of the weird storm, and emergency supplies were sent in. Television aerials toppled by the dozen; oil furnaces stopped functioning and few homes had any means to cook hot meals. Authorities say it will be a week before electric service is restored to normal. Above is TCA stewardess Olive Newbury checking a shipment of oil stoves by lamplight.

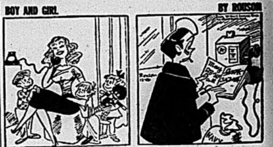
BOY AND GIRL BY ROUSON



Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs Dan Gerber (MOTHER OF 5)

It's a real triumph for baby when he pulls himself to his feet for the first time. However, while Junior quickly discovers the art of getting up, it's a bit harder to learn the knack of sitting down. If you suddenly find baby hanging on to play pen or furniture edges for dear life, show him how to let himself down easily. After you've come to his rescue a few times, he'll suddenly let go on his own. When he finds it doesn't hurt particularly, baby will try all kinds of experiments.

• • •

Winning combinations. There's a good reason why creepers and toddlers love combination foods—more ingredients mean more flavor. Gerber Junior Vegetable Meat Dinners are especially popular because they combine vegetables, meat and cereal for mouth-watering flavor and hearty good eating. They're seasoned to suit the more "grown-up" tastes of toddlers and evenly minced for easy chewing. 5 tempting choices.

• • •

"Life-saving" tips. Creepers and toddlers have a way of dirtying more duds than anyone. You can lengthen the life of oft-washed fabrics by using the right water temperature:

Hot water fabrics: linen, all cottons, including knits, seersucker, corduroy. Before buying, make sure colors are fast.

Tepid water fabrics: wool, nylon, dacron, orlon, etc. Remember, detergents work just as well in tepid water.

• • •

More on meal appeal. Easy way to please a toddler . . . give him extra nourishment, too. Gerber Protein Cereal Food has a toasted, nut-like flavor that appeals to toddlers . . . and a 35% protein content for growth and strength. Like all Gerber Cereals, it contains vitamins and minerals and is ready to serve with warm milk or formula. For further meal appeal, top with a Gerber Junior Fruit. Non-Operating Unions Ready To Give Briefs

MONTREAL (CP) — Union negotiator Frank H. Hall was expected to complete today his formal submission to a three-man federal conciliation board hearing an employees' dispute with the major railways over a new contract.

Fifteen unions representing 130,000 non-operating railway workers, and six railway companies and an express agency are involved in the scrap.

The railways say about $128,000,000 is at stake if the union demands are accepted. They have rejected the union proposals.

Major concession sought by the union representatives is a wage increase amounting to about 35 cents an hour.

Mr. Hall, chairman of the unions' negotiating committee, Tuesday outlined three different ways of achieving parity with wages paid in the durable goods industry plus compensation for "substandard earnings" in the last two years.

GIVES IDEAS

His patterns of payment were a one - year contract with an hourly increase of about 28 cents, a two-year contract with a flat hourly boost of about 32 cents or a two-year contract with pay increases totalling about 35 cents spread over two payments.

Mr. Hall defined the durable goods industry index as the "irreducible minimum" to the union proposals. This index is based on wages paid in such industries as steel and iron products, transportation equipment, wood products.

It was first advanced in 1950 by the railways as a fair method of comparing railway wages with rates paid in outside industry. Since then, the railways have repudiated the yardstick and are to introduce a new method at the present hearing.

MADOC

Successful Farming Due to Yield Per Acre

MADOC — "Increased yield per acre and not increased acreage is the key to successful farming", stated Allan Ketcheson, president of Eldorado Cheese and Butter Co-Op, and associated with many other farm organizations, as he addressed the Madoc-Kiwanis Club at their dinner meeting on Friday night.

Mr. Ketcheson, himself a successful Madoc township farmer, emphasized that the need for extensive soil study, the addition of proper fertilizers, the conservation of the soil from erosion, and proper crop rotation, is the financial answer to the modern farmer, rather than the addition of more acres which raise production costs.

He also stated that few young people are taking up farming as a vocation and mentioned that in the township of Madoc there are only 14 farmers between the age of 21 and 30.

Mr. Ketcheson was introduced by past-president W. J. Hulin and club appreciation was expressed by secretary Harry Roscoe.

FISH TROPHY

An added highlight of the meeting was the presentation to Constable Mel Schultz of the local O.P.P. detachment of the trophy for the largest 'lunge caught in Moira Lake during 1957. The fish, a real beauty, weighed 34 pounds. Other fish trophies were won by the following: largest bass, 5½ pounds caught by Harry McConnell, of Stoneborough, Penn.; largest pickerel, 7½ pounds, caught by Robert Yule, Willowdale, Ont.

Britons Advised Delay Plans To Immigrate

LONDON (Reuters) — Britons wishing to emigrate to Canada were advised Monday night by the director of the Canadian immigration service here to wait until the unemployment situation improves.

L. G. Cumming said in a television interview that employment would 'e more settled in the spring.

One British immigrant on the program complained that he was given no impression of the "insecurity" in Canada before he arrived there.

"There is definitely insecurity there," he said. "As you look around you find things on the American style. You expect to see more of the British way of life."

"I feel I made a mistake and I would not advise anyone giving up a home as I did to go out there."

Two Scottish immigrants who also have returned to Britain painted a different picture. They said Canada was a land of clover provided immigrants were prepared to work.

They said British immigrants were "very highly thought of but at the same time there are some who are bitterly disappointed. They do not expect to work hard."

Former Commanding Officer Of Hasty Pees Now Heading Canadian European Brigade

SOEST, Germany (CP) — Tall ones are disappearing fast from the nine Canadian "forts" that nestle on the rolling hills of the Westphalian plain in Western Germany.

A "tall one" is the army's expression for an excuse for a misdemeanor. Said one crestfallen soldier, sadly recalling a recent blot on his crime sheet: "They just don't work around here. The 'old man' knows all the tricks."

The 'old man' is Donald C. Cameron, the remarkably young-looking commander of the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group on NATO duty in Europe, whose shoulder epaulets carry the crown and three pips of a brigadier.

WAS A PRIVATE

Cameron learned the tricks more than 30 years ago, when, as a youth of 16, he enlisted as a private in the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders. He has a deep respect for the resourcefulness and ingenuity of Canadian soldiers on just about every count except that of excuses.

"It is rather amusing the way the same old stories are trotted out with little or no variation. I used the same ones myself as a rookie."

A junior officer, speaking from personal experience, described his superior's disciplinary methods as "unusual and effective."

"He listens poker-faced to what you have to say, then in a deceptively gentle voice asks a few pointed questions that make you realize what a damn fool you've been. It's not an experience you feel like repeating."

Cameron's velvet-glove technique appears to be effective. When his brigade replaced the 2nd Brigade Group last November, experienced officers expected there would be an increase in the number of "incidents" involving the civil population.

POTENT BEER

The experience of previous brigades was that it took upwards of four months for soldiers newly arrived from Canada to become accustomed to German drivers, who are reckless by North American standards, and German beer, which is tasty and potent.

But since the arrival of the 4th Brigade, the number of road accidents and the incidence of drunkenness have not only failed to register the usual rise, but have fallen appreciably.

Cameron disclaims credit for the fall. "Each brigade learns from the experience and mistakes of its predecessors. We knew what to expect and were ready for it."

This quiet, rather retiring approach is characteristic of the man. Around a conference table, he prefers to sit back and listen rather than lead the discussion. When he does speak, even in casual conversation, he leaves an impression of having carefully weighed each word and each thought.

And he has a habit of emphasizing deeply-held convictions by prefacing his remarks by "I say." He's been known to employ the phrase 15 times in a 20-minute conversation.

There has been nothing reticent about his service career. Born at Alexandria, Ont., in 1911, he jumped to commissioned rank two years after starting at the bottom of the ladder with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders in 1926.

AWARDED DSO

During the Second World War, he served with and later commanded the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, winning the Distinguished Service Order and Bar for gallantry and leadership in action.

Returning to Canada in 1946, he was appointed commandant of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry at Camp Borden, Ont. In August, 1953, he became director of infantry, a post he held until he took over the 4th Brigade in 1955 with the rank of brigadier.

At Soest, Cameron's normal working day averages between 10 to 12 hours without taking into account a heavy round of social engagements.

Cameron and his slim, dark-haired wife, Edith, entertain extensively at their luxurious villa, which overlooks the Moehne See, a lovely man-made chain of lakes, which, in parts, bears a striking resemblance to the Qu'Appelle valley in Saskatchewan. The waters are held back by the Moehne dam, which was breached in the famous wartime dam busters raid in May, 1943.

With the Camerons in Germany is their 14-year-old son, Ian. A daughter, Anthea, 10, is attending a girl's school in Switzerland. Ian already is planning a military career, but it is a subject that is never discussed between father and son. "Ian has lived in a service environment all his life," said the brigadier.

STERN EXPRESSION

Physically, Cameron is of medium build with the erect, square-shouldered stance of the professional soldier. Iron-grey hair and a closely-trimmed moustache add to a distinguished appearance and the stern expression of a man long used to command.

Like most Canadians, he tends to call people by their first name even on short acquaintance — a habit that sometimes causes mild astonishment among more reserved Europeans.

He abhors petty restrictions on his men, who are free to stay out until 2 a.m. or later and can obtain a 48-hour pass with no more formality than signing their name in a book. But the brigadier's eyes quickly lose their twinkle if a man neglects his work.

"We believe a soldier should be treated as a responsible, mature person and we put the onus of responsibility on him."

TO FOLLOW REDS

HONG KONG (AP) — More than 9,000 self-styled capitalists in Peiping have vowed to turn themselves in two years into laborers and wage earners, Peiping radio reported today. A resolution passed at a mass meeting Tuesday said they were determined to change their political standpoint, accept leadership of the Communist party, work for socialist construction and learn from the workers.

Economists Expect Huge Outlays on New Construction

OTTAWA (CP) — Expectation that $9,600,000,000 a year will be spent on new construction in Canada by 1980 is expressed in a study prepared for the Gordon royal commission on Canada's economic prospects and made public today.

The study, prepared by members of the Royal Bank of Canada staff, said its authors anticipate that 1980 construction spending will amount to $3,000,000,000 for new non-residential buildings, $3,900,000,000 for new engineering works such as roads and $2,700,000,000 for new housing. Repair work would be $3,200,000,000.

While final figures for 1957 are not yet available, government forecasts have indicated the comparative expenditures would be $2,052,000,000 for non-residential structures, $3,094,000,000 on engineering projects and $1,556,000,000 on new housing for a total of about $6,700,000,000.

In making the study public, the commission headed by Walter Gordon, Toronto economist, said it does not necessarily accept responsibility for its contents. James Muir, chairman and president of the Royal Bank, also said its views do not necessarily represent those of the bank.

The report is dated Oct. 10, 1956.

Between 1955—starting point of the study—and 1980, there would be construction expenditures of some $235,000,000,000 in terms of 1955 dollars, the authors estimated.

This would be divided between $180,000,000,000 for new construction and $55,000,000,000 for repairs.

During the 25-year period, it was estimated, there would be 3,700,000 new housing units completed as the population rose from its present 16,500,000 to some 26,700,000 by 1980. According to the calculations the average cost of a new house over the period would be around $15,000.

Students of Two Quebec Colleges Extend Boycott

MONTREAL (CP) — Students at the University of Montreal and Quebec City's Laval University have voted to extend a one-day boycott of classes called by student leaders last week.

The boycott is to protest against Premier Duplessis' refusal to meet demands for more provincial financial aid for higher education.

Students at McGill University and Bishop's College, at Lennoxville, have decided against any extension of the boycott, set for Thursday.

Laval students voted Tuesday for a three-day boycott beginning Thursday. Students of the University of Montreal have called for an indefinite boycott.

The province's other two universities, Sir George Williams College and the University of Sherbrooke, have not yet made a decision whether to prolong the boycott. The Sherbrooke students were to vote today.

About 21,000 students are involved.

OPINIONS DIFFER

Opinions differed on the decision to stage the boycott.

The province's two major labor bodies, the Quebec Labor Federation (CLC) and the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, pronounced themselves in favor.

Presidents Roger Prevost of the QLF and Gerard Picard of the CCCL said in a joint statement that students, in deciding to boycott classes, are underlining their "legitimate demands" on Premier Duplessis.

The Social Democratic party of Quebec (CCF) also backed the students, calling their action a defence of truth and justice.

But university officials were opposed. They said the "strike" might alienate public opinion, which was swinging in favor of the students.

Police Raid Home Arrest Four Men After Robbery

TORONTO (CP) — Four men were arrested and an elaborate arsenal seized Tuesday when eight policemen raided a west-central Toronto home.

Robert Wilson, 20, Godfrey School, 22, and Nick Moschitto, 25, all of Toronto, and John Coleman, 20, of Glace Bay, N.S., and Whitby, were charged with armed robbery in connection with a drug store holdup half an hour earlier.

The raiders, led by Chief Inspector William Bolton of the holdup squad, said the four men rushed for the doors when the officers burst in with drawn guns. They were subdued after a short struggle.

Police said they were led to the house by a car parked nearby. The vehicle bore the licence number seen by a woman during the $150 holdup of a Tamblyn drug store in the west end of the city.

Hidden in closets and under beds in the house were three .22-calibre rifles, a shotgun, starting pistol, Japanese knife, blood stained billy, private detective's badge and five uniform caps. In a wastebasket was $125 in cash.

The holdup, in which druggist Alvin McKnight was locked in a basement, was the 71st of the year and occurred a block from the Cowan Avenue police station.

PRESENTS AWARDS

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen presented awards and insignia to 185 men and women at an investiture at Buckingham Palace Tuesday.

RETURN OF THE RUNAWAY BRIDE

Raven-haired Irene Arzedi, 29, the runaway bride who disappeared on Feb. 22, just five hours before she was to have married Joseph Pinto, 31, left, is welcomed back to her home in Brooklyn with loving arms. Mrs. Anna Arzedi, second from right, who has been near collapse since her daughter's disappearance, was so excited she left her bed and dressed for the reunion. At right is Irene's father, Louis. She told police that she took a bus to Los Angeles on her flight and on her return to New York she told her brother Carlo, "I don't know why I did it. I was scared."

Consumer, Sooner or Later, Will Break Up Recession But Now Buying With Caution

WASHINGTON (AP)—The consumer is the man who, sooner or later, will break up the recession. But right now he is buying with caution, saving more, trying to get old bills paid before he takes on new debt.

That's the story told in city after city to Associated Press reporters conducting a "how's business" survey across the United States. In Reno, Nev., where gambling is flourishing and business is ahead of a year ago, a puzzled banker said:

"People are nervous without knowing what they're nervous about."

Retailers reported buyers are well-heeled but bargain conscious. They seem less willing to pledge a piece of future income for a new car or refrigerator, either because they're less sure the income will hold up or because they think prices may drop a bit if they wait—a vain hope, so far.

The average consumer is drinking a bit less liquor, buying more hamburger and less steak, giving smaller tips. He is likely to buy a pair of slacks to wear with an old coat, instead of getting a new suit.

GAMBLING OFF

Except in the harder-hit areas, church contributions and planning his summer vacation at the same resort. In more rarefied income brackets, he is keeping up his country club membership. Gambling at the winter tracks is just a few percentage points off from a year ago.

The survey suggested that the salaried, white collar employee hasn't felt much pinch. Even so, more wives are looking for part-time jobs, all across the country. And more people are letting their part-time maids go. More children are carrying lunches, instead of buying hot lunches at the school cafeteria.

Across the country it is factory workers who are bearing the brunt of the recession.

Major credit organizations report that defaults and repossessions are up a trifle but the losses still are low—certainly not alarming, nothing to suggest that the consumer is overloaded with debt.

CREDIT TIGHTER

The "how's business?" survey indicated that in spite of Washington's well-publicized swing to easier money, credit is tighter for millions of lower-income consumers.

But the high-quality borrower or instalment buyer is being wooed by stores and banks as he has not been since the credit binge of 1955. A Charlotte, N.C., contractor remarked: "Last year you couldn't get a loan unless you were a prime customer. Now they're out asking you wouldn't you like some money."

A curious byproduct of recession is an upturn, in some areas, in the luxury trade. Macy's vast department store in New York city reported it is selling more jewels, furs and perfumes, and costlier ones.

Men's clothing sales have lagged this winter while women's apparel flourished. "When the family starts curtailing the clothing budget, men are the first to go" explained Milton Fried, research director of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union.

Movie attendance is so-so.

From Vermont to Oregon liquor sales and cocktail spot patronage were off.

Girls Like Men Better Than H-Bomb Ban

OXFORD, Eng. (Reuters) — A strike against the hydrogen bomb by Oxford University co-eds has all but evaporated in a mushroom cloud of male charm.

Only four of 40 girls students remained Tuesday night in what they called the "no-sex-for-sadists campaign." The girls had pledged to have no dates with male students until they supported proposals for nuclear disarmament by Britain.

But said one co-ed: "The girls like men much more than nuclear disarmament."

The two ships made the transfer in mid-Atlantic. Nature of her illness was not disclosed but she was reported in good condition when the Vulcania arrived in Halifax. (CP Photo).

Marler Says Statements on Report Incorrect

OTTAWA (CP) — Former Liberal transport minister George Marler says that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's statement concerning the so-called "hidden report" on Canada's economic outlook "is not in conformity with the facts."

Mr. Diefenbaker has said the report was prepared by federal economists and presented to Liberal cabinet members in March, 1957. He has said this report forecast an economic recession but that the Liberals, then in power, did nothing about it.

The prime minister said in the Commons Jan. 20 that the report "was hidden away so well we just found it."

Mr. Marler said the report at that time had been in Mr. Diefenbaker's possession "for more than two months" and that it had been put before Acting Immigration Minister Davie Fulton at the end of June, 1957, soon after the Conservatives assumed office.

Mr. Marler said he received a copy of the report in March, 1957. It was entitled Canadian Economic Outlook for 1957 and was marked "secret" on the cover and on the first page.

CLAIMS TORN OUT

Mr. Marler said the two pages marked "secret" had been carefully torn off the copy Mr. Diefenbaker produced in Parliament. Nevertheless, the prime minister had been able to give the correct title an dto name correclty the division and government department which had prepared it.

Mr. Marler was speaking in a recorded free-time political broadcast on the CBC's dominion network. His statements were included in a text of the address issued to the press before the broadcast.

Mr. Marler, Liberal candidate in Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount, said the prime minister had put on the Commons record only the unfavorable factors referred to in the report. He had made a one-sided presentation which gave an "entirely wrong impression of its conclusions."

"For example, Mr. Diefenbaker carefully avoided saying that the report predicted that Canada's exports would be higher in 1957; and now, contrary to what the report said, he is saying on the hustings that the report said that our exports would be lower."

Mr. Marler said the warning signals of a recession appeared only in the latter part of 1957 after the Conservatives had taken office.

Plan to Question Man About Two Ontario Killings

TORONTO (CP) — Chief Insp. W. J. Franks of the provincial police said Tuesday one of his men has left by air for Winnipeg to question a wounded prisoner there about two killings in Ontario last year.

He said Insp. Jack Craig of the criminal investigation branch will question Maurice Joseph Philion, 22, of Ottawa, sentenced in Winnipeg Monday to eight years in penitentiary on charges of carrying an offensive weapon and theft.

The chief inspector said the officer would also continue his investigation into the Jan. 23 robbery of a Bank of Nova Scotia branch at Campbellville, Ont., when $17,000 was taken. Insp. Franks said one of three suspects in custody had a car "stolen in North Dakota, and that's just a little way from Winnipeg."

He said some of the holdup loot was used to purchase another car in Winnipeg.

TO QUESTION HIM

Insp. Franks said Insp. Craig would question Philion in the case of Constable Ronald Pitt of Morrisburg, Ont., fatally shot while trying to apprehend a car thief. Philion would also be questioned in the slaying of Mrs. Robert McLaughlin of Chesterville, Ont., beaten to death at her farm home with a hammer and sickle.

Philion was shot in the chest Feb. 21 by police attempting to arrest him outside a Winnipeg restaurant. He was sentenced to five years on the weapons charge and three for theft of $818 from the Sisters of Charity House, St. Boniface, Man.

Philion appeared in court Monday, showing few signs of his wound. He said he was wanted in connection with armed robberies at Ottawa, Windsor, and Hull, Que., and on forgery and breaking and entering charges at Ottawa.

SATELLITE MAY FALL

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Russian woman scientist suggested Tuesday that the Soviet Sputnik II may soon plunge to earth. Alla Massevich said the satellite, launched four months ago, is changing its orbit "so quickly and irregularly" that forecasting its movements is becoming "significantly more difficult."

Roads Program Gobbling Up All of Ontario's Revenues Liberal Critic Maintains

TORONTO (CP) — A want-of-confidence motion was presented by John J. Wintermeyer (L—Waterloo North) Tuesday in the legislature as he led the Liberal attack on Premier Frost's budget.

The Opposition financial critic opened budget debate with a stern, 80-minute lecture condemning the government's method of bookkeeping and the still-rising public debt.

He proposed a highway program "that will stand on its own feet and prevent the gobbling up of all the ordinary revenues to the detriment of welfare and education."

This should be done by putting highway expenditures in a separate budget and ending the existing distinction between ordinary expenditures and capital expenditures, he said.

WOULD CHANGE PROPOSAL

Mr. Wintermeyer's want-of-confidence motion amended a government proposal to go into committee of supply by adding these words:

"But this House regrets that the budget does not in any wise recognize or solve the fundamental problems of the province of Ontario in its rapid evolution from an agricultural to an industrial economy and in particular lacks imaginative leadership in the solution of:

"1. Municipal provincial fiscal relations.

"2. A long-range program for highway construction and financing.

"3. A failure to devise a plan for managing the ever-rising debt."

When Highways Minister Allan asked the Liberal member whether he is in favor of toll roads he replied:

"Obiviously we're not quite ready for toll roads and obviously they're coming some time in the future."

"POLITICAL EXPEDIENCY"

Mr. Wintermeyer said the government's spending program, which raised the debt by $100,000,000 in this fiscal year and is expected to raise it another $140,000,000 in the year ahead, is based on political expediency.

"The government's philosophy is that nobody shoots Santa Claus."

In last year's budget the government had promised to pay at least 65 per cent of capital expenditures out of the ordinary or day-to-day account, thus restricting the debt.

"But look at the record this year. Instead of keeping its promise the government has decided it can only pay 45 per cent. Look at the forecast for next year and you can see it is 33 per cent.

"Where in the world are we going?"

For 10 years the government had increased the public debt while it boasted of surpluses on ordinary account.

"We've gone into debt in the best years of this province's economy."

On municipal-provincial fiscal relations, Mr. Wintermeyer said that in spite of the extra $33,000,000 allotted by the government for education grants to municipalities, local governments are still paying 43 per cent of education costs.

"All you're doing is giving inflated dollars."

The State of Pennsylvania was using 50 per cent of its budget for education and stabilizing local and expenditures by demanding only a specific number of mills for education taxes.

"That's leadership—but where is it in this budget?"

University education in Ontario was costing students $50,000,000 and the government contributed less than eight per cent of this sum. The $3,000,000 student loan fund would be on a revolving basis.

"Who can say we do not have a privileged system of education? Who can say we all have equal opportunity?"

CHALLENGES PREMIER

On unemployment, the Liberal member challenged Premier Frost to name the extra jobs created by the public spending program supposed to provide 235,000 jobs.

When the premier said last year only 215,000 jobs were provided he replied:

"Of course our economy is expanding. But name some jobs created solely for the purpose of combatting unemployment."

Mr. Wintermeyer had harsh words for Premier Frost's fiscal negotiations with the new federal government, which Mr. Frost says has produced an extra $22,000,000 for Ontario.

When the Liberals held power at Ottawa an extra $50,000,000 was budgeted for Ontario, said Mr. Wintermeyer, but the premier was loud in saying an additional $100,000,000 was essential for the province in 1957.

VOTED THEM OUT

And "the people of Ontario believed him and they supported him and they voted the Liberals out of office.

"But the simple truth is that he hasn't got, won't get and doesn't hope to get anything like $100,000,000 either this year or next.

"The people of Ontario want you to stand up and be counted." he said to Premier Frost. "Either you're with the people of Ontario or the Conservative party."

SKIPPER DIES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Capt. George Wigsten, 71, one of the last of the old windjammer skippers of the Pacific, died Tuesday. Swedish born, Wigsten went to sea at 14 and boasted that he "never earned a penny ashore" afterward. He sailed the seven seas in square-rigged vessels until steam drove them out of business. His final voyage was in 1941 when he took the last sailing ship around Cape Horn with a load of explosives for South Africa.

Kremlin Feels Move to Hold Conference Can't Be Stopped

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Kremlin apparently feels that its glacier-like move for a summit conference cannot be stopped.

This seems to be the background of the new proposals and conditions for the conference by the Russian leaders, who have managed to do an about-face without changing direction.

The Russians have reversed their stand regarding a prior meeting of foreign ministers, now saying not only that one should be held but that it should be held promptly, in April.

But—and here is where the mental callisthenics appear—the Russians say the West must agree before the foreign ministers meet that a summit meeting definitely will be held, and they suggest June.

This reasoning would be almost silly, if it were not remembered that great hopes have been aroused around the world by talk of a summit meeting.

Any country or countries turning thumbs down now on a summit conference would run the risk of a shattering propaganda defeat in the eyes of ordinary folk in many countries.

Russia would pose as the mighty but benevolent nation that sought understanding and peace, only to be rebuffed by the "war-mongering" West.

Under the new Russian proposals, the foreign ministers would have to limit themselves to questions of procedure, and to deciding what countries would attend the summit talks. Presumably the Russians would want the presence of Red China if Far Eastern affairs were to be discussed.

The summit agenda, in its turn, would be limited to questions on which there was hope of agreement. Thus Russia would be able to veto any subject it doesn't want discussed, such as the reunification of Germany in the proposed nuclear-free central European belt.

The Russians suggest broadening the summit meeting to include countries other than the world powers, such as the so-called neutralist countries, thus providing an even greater propaganda sounding board.

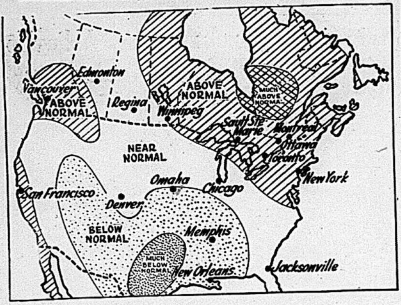
All this is beginning to sound more and more like the first summit conference in Geneva in 1955, which was a disappointment. Just how much of a failure it was has been described by Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain, when he said:

"In effect, the members of the conference did not confer. They made a series of speeches to each other, in strict rotation, each taking the chair for one meeting.

"These speeches were nominally secret, but immediately at the end of each session, by some mysterious means, the full text of the speeches made by each delegate reached the 3,000 or 4,000 journalists assembled in Geneva.

"There were, of course, a good many very pleasant photographs taken, and some agreeable dinners organized. Indeed, it was only at the dinner parties that anything like discussion began to take place, but as they were usually bilateral that also had its limitations on the idea of a conference. . . ."

RAINFALL MODERATE, WEATHER NORMAL OR BETTER



From the weatherman comes word that the next three weeks should be normal or above normal throughout Canada. The forecast made by the U.S. weather bureau calls for moderate rainfall for the rest of March.

Mack Resigns, Called to Tell About TV Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a congressional investigating subcommittee has called on Richard A. Mack to "tell all he knows" about the television channel fight that led to his resignation from the Federal Commications Commission.

Mack resigned Monday, saying "I have done no wrong" but conceding that his usefulness as an FCC member had been damaged by testimony about the pressures surrounding him for the award of Miami's TV Channel 10.

President Eisenhower quickly accepted the resignation, effective immediately. Eisenhower had named Mack, a Florida Democrat, to the commission in 1955.

Representative Orrin Harris (Dem. Ark.), chairman of the subcommittee which heard the testimony, said Mack now "should reveal all the facts and tell all he knows, regardless of whom it involves, on those that got him into this mess, making it necessary for him to take this action."

Mack is scheduled to return Wednesday before the committee to continue testimony he abruptly ended Friday after a face-to-face demand from Harris that he resign. He could not be reached for comment after the White House announced his resignation.

WON TV CHANNEL

Public Service Television, Incorporated, a wholly-owned subsidiary of National Airlines, won TV Channel 10 in Miami in a 1957 decision of the FCC. Mack was among the 4-to-2 majority who voted for Public Service over three other applicants.

Mack has acknowledged taking loans and free stock in two companies from a long-time friend and Florida lawyer, Thurman A. Whiteside, who testified that he was interested in National's application for the TV channel. He said he did not represent the firm, however.

DESERONTO

Town Surplus Slightly Down From Last Year

DESERONTO — On Monday night the town council held their regular session in the town hall beginning at 7.00 p.m. Routine business occupied the members in what started out to be a quiet, orderly session.

Following regular business Councillor Knight introduced a discussion regarding the issuance of summons to delinquent payers of dog taxes. This matter was left to the police committee with power to act.

Councillor A. Marks then brought forth a motion regarding the deed from the Dravo Co. covering the right-of-way to the bay in front of his property. He was advised that the matter was delayed owing to the illness of the town solicitor but would be completed shortly.

H. Sweetman asked council to consider acquiring some property east of the town limits and advised council that the assessment values would be worth adding to the town roll. This matter was left for consideration.

At this time the mayor vacated the chair and asked Reeve Walker to take charge of the meeting.

The town auditor presented a preliminary report on the finances for 1957 and advised council that the surplus at the end of the year was $2,116, a considerable drop from last year. There was a slight increase in the assessment but the important feature was that the costs of education had risen about one-third over the previous year and had cost the town almost $45,000.

The chairman of the police committee then addressed council regarding the fees collected by police for the issuance and serving of summons. He suggested that the police be paid better salaries and such fees be turned into the town. This brought on a heated exchange regarding the police that ranged from the allotment of duties to the use of taxis in their work. Reeve Walker finally had to bring the council to order. Councillor Knight then moved that the clerk be instructed to write the office of the Magistrate for full information regarding the collection of such fees.

Just before adjournment Mrs. A. Stubbs spoke to council regarding the editorial in the Napanee Beaver of last week. She thought the editor should be taken to task about his remarks. George Knight, a former councillor also spoke regarding the editorial.

Following adjournment a short session of the Court of Revision was held. This was to strike from the rolls certain uncollectable taxes of previous years.

Deseronto

DESERONTO — Six ladies from the Deseronto Legion Bowling League journeyed to Picton on Saturday to bowl against a team from that town. The Deseronto team was composed of Ina Thompson, Rita Wager, Eileen Punchard, Noreen Hubble, Nora Tinney and Frances Transue, and they took all three games.

The high score was won by Ina Thompson; the mystery score by Rita Wager and the low score by Mrs. Innesley of Picton.

Following the match the teams were royally entertained at supper at the Picton Legion Hall. There will be a return game in Deseronto on March 14th.

MARMORA

Marmora Evens Playoff Series With 8-3 Win

MARMORA (Special)— Marmora Millionaires squared their three-of-five OHA intermediate "C" group semi-finals at two games each here last night by whipping Campbellford 8-3.

The fifth and deciding game of the set is slated for Marmora on Friday night. The winner will meet Madoc in a four-of-seven series for the loop title.

Marmora took last night's important victory with their play in the second and third periods. The clubs battled 1-1 in the first but the Millionaires made it 5-2 at the close of the second and 8-3 at game's end.

Jones and Brooks spearheaded the homester's attack last night, each with a pair of goals and one assist. Trumble also was a two-goal man with Bob Maynes and Brown each scoring once. Earl Cousins earned a pair of assists with one each for Gus Leonard, Therrien and Mantle.

Herrington and Garvey topped the Campbellford point-getters with a goal and assist. J. Rattan also scored and Scott and Wilson had assists.

Referees Art Casterton and Stan Scrutton, both of Kingston, handed out only 8 minor penalties in the cleanly played contest.

MOUNTAIN TOP TUMBLES

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — Half the top of Sauerkraut Mountain sheared off Monday in a mighty earth slide 600 feet wide. It roared 3,500 feet down the mountain and dammed the high-flowing Salmon River for a short time. By late afternoon the Salmon had altered its course slightly and poured a muddy tide over one corner of the construction. There appeared to be no danger to downstream communities.

Bouncing Czechs Decorate Ice With Sprawling Russians In 4-4 Tie

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

This piece was written prior to last night's game between the McFarlands and the Kingston CKLC's. It is written because in a manner Coach Bun Cook, according to one Michael Rodden of Kingston, east o' here, has issued or "inferred" solemn warning to the McFarlands.

The answer will be found in the story of the game elsewhere or if this department can beat the deadline, at the bottom of this column.

Writes Mr. Rodden: "Coach Bun Cook, who was one of the most respected players in the history of the National Hockey League, has lost all patience with erring members of the Belleville team, and retaliatory measures are in the making. Yesterday he stated in no uncertain terms that he has become weary of watching Belleville players protesting nearly every penalty they have been assessed. He also inferred that the period of tolerance has passed."

Apropos of that, it would seem that the "restraining hand" was perchance a little too heavy here last Friday when the "machine" gave the CKLC's a hockey lesson and won the pastime going away. Mr. Cook should not be in too big a hurry to weary of watching "Belleville players protest every penalty." The best the Cookmen could do, with the Macs in the hoosegow most of the time, was a narrow 4-2 victory. It seems to us that it was much more the "guiding hand" of the referee that was in the main accountable for the Kingston victory.

* * *

AFTER THE GAME

Perhaps Mr. Rodden had his tongue in his cheek when he wrote the foregoing, for the Kingston CKLC's outside of doing their dangdest, and successfully, too, to win the game last night, showed no signs of "retaliatory measures," whatever that was supposed to mean.

Referee Gerry Olinski handed out thirteen penalties, seven to the Kingston crew with one of the Macs' sentences being a misconduct. There was no sign of rambunctioness on the part of either club, nor were there any blowoffs. It was a hard-hitting affair with the greater majority of the checks legal.

While the Kingston victory was clean-cut in itself, it couldn't be otherwise with the club playing almost faultless hockey and taking advantage of every break and opportunity that came their way, in fairness to the McFarlands it must be said they were on the scowling side of Lady Luck's countenance while a jinx rode herd on them when within scoring distance.

While they battled their hearts out only to be frustrated by the clustered Kingston defence and the fine work of Lyn Davis in the foemen's nets, they could not get their paydirt plays clicking when within range of the target. Their passes often went astray and the finish and polish that marked their 7-3 win last Friday night was lacking. Try as they may, they just did not have what was required, despite the fact they outplayed the opposition and outshot them 36-28.

It was one of the Macs' nights off and through no fault of their own. They couldn't shake the gremlin that rode herd on their plays and made them ineffective against the neat passing, hard shooting and general all-round fine performance of the inspired Kingston team.

There was a touch of pessimism in some circles this morning but this series is far from over. The teams meet again tonight in Kingston and you can bet your grandpa's store molars it will be a desperate McFarlands squad that steps on Kingston ice tonight. The squads clash in the fifth game of the series here Friday night and regardless of tonight's result, that should be another thriller.

The Macs are fully confident they can turn the tables on "foreign" ice tonight, and it is reasonably safe to believe they will do just that. Luck like they had last night surely cannot extend itself into another game. However tonight's tilt is an important one for both teams. A win for Kingston will put them in the driver's seat and the McFarlands' backs definitely against the wall.

Incidentally last night's victory was the first for a Kingston team on Belleville ice this season.

'Dodgers Dead' Says Former Brooklyn Coach

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Billy Herman, former Brooklyn coach, Tuesday classified his former Dodger mates as a dead ball club and predicted that even the transfer from Flatbush to Los Angeles won't help them.

"Prima Donnas, pouters and complacent athletes who have to be forced to work," Herman said of the Dodgers.

"Do you think the fan reaction in Los Angeles will inspire fellows like Pee Wee Reese, Duke Snider, Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges? Veterans like them don't respond to cheers. They'll continue to play their normal game. You can't fire them up any more.

"The Milwaukee fans did a lot for the Braves. That's because they were a young ball club. The boys were hungry players. The cheering acted as a tonic."

The Dodgers, according to the former star infielder who switched from Brooklyn to Milwaukee as coach last November, were an old club just going through the motions last year.

Reds Get 'Canadian' Belting In World Tournament Upset; Sweden Whips Americans

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OSLO (CP) — Every Canadian youngster that ever laced a skate knows the old proverb, "they can't score goals when they're lying flat on the ice."

It became evident during Tuesday night's world hockey tournament play that the time-honored saying has been effective translated into Czech.

Czechoslovakia, the most "Canadian" team in Europe, gave a vigorous, practical demonstration of it as they decorated the ice surface of Jordal Amphi Stadium here with sprawling Russian talent in the course of holding the Soviet side to a 4-4 tie.

The effects of the belting on Russia's attacking formations offered an object lesson to watching members of Canada's idle Whitby representatives who meet the Soviet team in the final match of the round robin series Sunday night.

HOLD PRACTICE

The Canadians still lead on the strength of three victories in as many starts. They were back on the ice for a 1½ hour practice session Tuesday and attended a reception at the Canadian embassy in the afternoon.

Meanwhile, Sweden, the defending champions, drew level with Canada on points by beating the injury-riddled United States team 8-3.

But the Canadians, with 50 goals to their credit and only one scored against them, have a big bulge over Sweden's 22-5 goal spread which would decide the title in the event of a tie in the final standings.

A crowd of 4,000 cheered Czechoslovakia's battling underdogs as they came from behind twice to tie the favored Russians.

START USING WEIGHT

The Czechs, who haven't beaten a Soviet side in five years since Russia first entered the world tournament, trailed 3-0 until late in the first period before using their weight to break up Soviet passing patterns.

Veniamin Alexandrov, Russia's flashy centre, had just returned after serving a penalty for deliberately shooting the puck into the crowd when Karel Gut put the Czechs on the score sheet with an unassisted tally.

Then Gut and Stanislav Bacilek electrified the crowd by tying the score in the second period.

Yuri Krylov got the lead back for the Russians with less than five minutes left.

Czechoslovak hopes slumped when their first effort to get the score for keeps was disallowed because of a player being in the goalcrease. The fans, thoroughly pro-Czech by this time, whistled and booed in exasperation.

CROWD WENT WILD

But the Czechs got their second chance when Russia's Dmitri Ukolov was sent off for tripping with barely a minute of playing time left.

It was Miroslav Vlach who finally drove the puck home as the crowd went wild and his teammates threw their sticks into the air.

The Americans gave Sweden a battle until Johnny Mayasich, their stick - handling mainstay, dislocated a shoulder in the second period with the Swedes ahead 3-2.

The loss of their tall centre unsettled the U.S. squad and they put up only token resistance thereafter.

Two winless teams — Finland and Poland—meet in today's only match at 1 p.m. EST.

The Canadians are scheduled to meet Sweden Thursday. Each of the eight teams in the tournament plays one game with the others.

OSLO, Norway (CP) — Standings in the world hockey championships at the end of Tuesday's play:

Badminton Stars Ready for Rugged Tourney

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP) — There must have been blood in the eye of the committee that planned today's draw at the Canadian badminton championships.

The merciless round of opening-day matches was to begin at 1 p.m. EST and continue to an hour when most residents of this slow - paced provincial capital have long since retired.

The result will be a cutting down on each of the five major events to 16 individuals or teams in each competition.

If all goes well, the last of the day's rounds will be run off at 2:30 a.m. EST.

There were no matches scheduled in the junior men's and women's or the veterans' classifications. Instead, the five indoor courts of the weather-worn Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club are to echo to the play of the big guns—the open-event contestants in men's and women's singles and doubles and the mixed doubles.

The top-seeded players in all events get a bye in the first round. For the men's singles, the first round consists of one lone game, to reduce the number of competitors to 32.

Other open events have less than 32 competitors so open-round play is restricted to as many matches as are needed to knock the number playing down to 16.

The men's first-ranked singles player, Dave McTaggart of Vancouver, takes on John Bracken, 16-year-old from Winnipeg, in his opening match, the start of his bid to win the singles crown for the third consecutive year.

Jim Carnwath of Woodstock, who follows McTaggart in the seedings, plays Ken Lloyd of Vancouver in his first match. Other highly ranked players also meet comparative unknowns in the opening rounds.

Mrs. Kae Grant of Montreal and Mrs. Marj Shedd of Toronto, seeded No. 1 and 2 in that order, got first-round byes in the ladies' singles as did top-rated competitors in the three doubles events.

McTaggart and junior titleholders Harvey Hurd of Victoria and Anne Murray of Winnipeg are the only ones present who took honors in last year's championships at Kitchener, where American entrants were to the fore.

This year the entry list of about 120 individuals contains only a scattering of Americans, from the northwestern states. There are Canadians entered from all but the three easternmost provinces.

Ruel Resigns From Tiger Brass

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Herold D. (Muddy) Ruel has resigned as assistant to the president of Detroit Tigers.

Ruel, former general manager and farm director with Tigers, submitted his letter of resignation from Rome, Italy, where he has been living for several months. John E. Fetzer, chairman of the board, announced Tuesday Ruel's resignation had been accepted.

Ruel, who joined Tigers as farm director in 1951 and became general manager two years later, said his chief interest still lies in baseball but added that he has given some thought to returning to a law practice.

JOINS TROIS-RIVIERES

GUELPH (CP) — Leon Rochford, right winger with Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, has left to join Trois-Rivieres of the Quebec Hockey League, it was announced Tuesday night. Rochford will be with the New York Rangers farm club on a trial basis only. He has a year of junior eligibility remaining and is expected to return here next season.

Barrie Flyers, who finished their regular schedule Ontario Hockey Association Junior A games in sixth—and last—playoff spot, caused an upset in the first of their best-of-five quarter final games.

Flyers defeated Toronto St. Michael's Majors 4-2 Tuesday night. The Majors finished in third place in the standings.

The loop's first-place squad, St. Catharines Teepees, edged Toronto Marlboros 3-2 to take a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven series.

Bob Blackburn tallied three times as Flyers, patsies for St. Mike's all season, scored two unanswered third-period goals to take the verdict.

ONE IN EACH PERIOD

Blackburn's goals—one in each period — were separated by a single by Flyers' Murray Davison and counters by St. Mike's Bob McKnight and Lou Angotti.

Matt Ravlich scored Teepees' winning goal against Marlboros, the puck glancing into the Toronto net of Marlboro defenceman Bill White's stick.

Jim Hayward and John McKenzie gave St. Catharines a 2-0 lead midway through the first period. Stan Osborne and Ian Anderson replied for the Marlboros.

The second Barrie-St. Michael's game will be in Barrie Thursday. St. Catharines and Marlboros play their second game in Toronto Sunday.

Kerwin, Dupas To Fight Again

OTTAWA (CP) — Lightweights Gale Kerwin of Ottawa and Valley Stream, N.Y., and Davey Dupas of New Orleans will meet here March 18 in a return bout, Ottawa promoter Howard Darwin said Tuesday night.

Dupas Monday night won a split decision from Kerwin at Dallas, Texas.

Darwin said a report earlier from Pittsburgh that Kerwin would meet welterweight Don Alderson of Canonsburg, Penn., here on that date was based on an announcement made prematurely.

WILL GO INTO BUSINESS

TORONTO (CP) — Howie Meeker, former coach of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, said Tuesday he will move to St. John's, Nfld., to take up business interests. He did not specify what the interests are but said they are not connected with hockey. He recently turned down an offer to direct hockey activities in St. John's.

Pembroke Blanks Chevies 5-0 Dutchies, Dogs Win Openers

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, who powered their way to first place in the OHA-NOHA Senior A regular schedule, Tuesday night piled on the pressure in the first of their best-of-seven semi-final games against Sudbury Wolves.

Wolves, third - place finishers, crashed 8-2, but for the last two periods were without regular goal tender Johnny Albani, injured near the end of the first.

Wolves had to press Whitey Davis, a practice goalie, into action.

Windsor Bulldogs, who jumped into a playoff berth at the close of the regular season, caused an upset in the first of their best-of-seven semi-final games against Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds. They nipped the Sault squad, who finished second, 3-1.

JOLT BELLEVILLE

Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Eastern division semi-final action saw Kingston CKLCs jolt Belleville McFarlands 5-1 and Pembroke Lumber Kings shut out Cornwall Chevies 5-0.

Kingston now has a 2-1 lead in its best-of-seven series. Pembroke leads Chevies by the same margin.

Albani was gashed under the jaw by a skate in the Kitchener-Sudbury duel. The game was resumed after a 75-minute delay with Davis in Wolves' net.

Don Rope and Jerry Theberge, with two each, Ron Howell, Art Hurst, Jim Uniac and Billy Graham tallied for Dutchmen. Nick Tomiuk and John Gillis replied for Wolves.

Greyhounds' goaltender Don Campbell was also on the night's injured list. He, too, had a skate wound and the game was held up 20 minutes in the first period. Five stitches were needed to close the gash.

Elmer Skov netted twice for Bulldogs, Reg Abbott getting the other. Defenceman Skov's second goal came in the third period when Sudbury pulled Campbell cut.

Greyhounds' goal was scored by right winger John Lumley.

MAKES 24 STOPS

Pembroke goalie Andre Payette turned aside 24 shots to post his shutout. Chevies' Ray Frederick also had 24 stops.

The Giesebrecht trio — Bert, Jack and Bruce—all had singles for Pembroke whose other goals came from Jim Farelli and Dennis Menard.

Outstanding goaltending by Kingston goalie Lynn Davis gave his squad their upset win over McFarlands.

Doug Senior led Kingston with two goals. Brian Anderson, Roy Partridge and Gerry Moore contributing the others. Keith MacDonald scored the only Belleville goal.

Tonight Windsor is at Sault Ste. Marie in the OHA-NOHA semi-finals. Thursday Kitchener is at Sudbury. Belleville is at Kingston tonight in the OHA Eastern series, with Pembroke at Cornwall Thursday.

Kingston Defeats McFarlands 5-1; Take Game Lead In Semi-Finals

Gives Inspired Performance Against Luckless Homesters To Grab Clean-Cut Victory

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

An inspired Kingston team, which could do little if anything wrong, raced to a clean-cut 5-1 victory over the Belleville McFarlands, who could do hardly anything right, here last night to take a 2-1 lead in their current Eastern Ontario Senior "A" league semi-finals playoffs.

Nearly 2,100 fans saw the Kingston team, clicking in all departments, score two goals in the first period, add three more in the second and hold a frustrated, desperate McFarlands squad to a lone marker in a thrilling third frame.

The Hildebranders had an edge in territorial play, outshooting their conquerors in every period with an overall total of 36-28. They hit the post from close in with the goalie beaten at least a half dozen times, missed completely on other occasions while Lyn Davis in the Kingston nets came up with his third outstanding performance of the series.

SENIOR SCORES TWO

KEITH MacDONALD
——"Broke the Egg"

Don Senior paced the winners with two goals with singles going to Brian Anderson, Roy Partridge and Gerry Moore. Keith MacDonald was the McFarlands lone triggerman. All the Kingston goals were clean cut while one of the big factors in the victory was the sterling work of Joe Levandoski and Gauthier on the defence, Levandoski appeared to show little effects of his eye injury.

Referee Gerry Olinski of Kitchener had the game well under control handing out thirteen penalties with Kingston getting the odd one. Wiener Brown was assessed a misconduct for arguing a minor sentence too strenuously.

The teams meet in the fourth game of the best-of-seven series in Kingston tonight with the fifth game slated for Belleville on Friday.

The McFarlands had the better of the play in the first period, outshooting the CKLC's 14-9 but they failed to capitalize when close in. Their shooting was off and Davis took care of the rest.

Benoit drew the first sentence with no damage done and Kowalchuk electrified the crowd by skating through the CKLC's but missed the net. Levandoski was the next to go but the Macs jamming in around the goal were off the net.

Brian Anderson opened the scoring for the visitors slapping in a short pass from behind the net after Toppazzini slipped him the puck out. Benoit got his second sentence of the frame and he was scarcely back when Senior pushed the puck across the goal-line from a scramble after Levandoski had fired it from the point.

Wiener Brown was assessed a minor penalty, did not like the sentence, said so and referee Olinski promptly tabbed him with a misconduct. Levandoski went off again at 6.02 and with his sentence 22 seconds short, Davis clung to Hildebrand and was given a minor, Moore serving the crime time. The Macs poured on the pressure but again they failed to hit paydirt missing the net completely or hitting the post.

The CKLC's fired by early success, roared to the attack opening the second period and Partridge raced down left wing alone to fire a low-shot into the corner to give the visitors a 3-0 lead.

The McFarlands plainly in the bad graces of Lady Luck swarmed around Davis but again were hitting the post or missing, with Davis kicking the others out. Paul and Youngberg drew sentences but again the Macs power plays failed to click.

Gerry Moore put the CKLC's four goals up on a neat passing play with Partridge and Bellringer and three minutes later Senior made it 5-0 while Kowalchuk was sitting out a minor sentence.

Wiener Brown hit the post for the third time and the frustrated McFarlands showed signs of being somewhat disorganized.

Gauthier went down on all fours to smother a puck when a Mac forward broke through, and was waved off. Then Menard raced into the clear at centre and Thomson hauled him down from behind and he too went into durance vile. The Macs outshot the CKLC's 12-10 in the period.

With a two-man advantage for 15 seconds in the third period, the Macs ripped to the attack and Davis kicked two lightning shots out and a second later robbed Menard on his doorstep.

The Mac winger was given the gate for alleged high-sticking, but the Kingston team failed to add any scoring gold.

At the seven minute mark Lady Luck looked around for a split second and Keith MacDonald pushed a loose puck over the goal-line following a goal-mouth scramble for the Macs' lone score of the game.

The McFarlands had the major part of the play from here in with the CKLC's apparently resting on their honors, icing the puck to relieve the pressure. They held the CKLC's on their own end of the ice but again it was a miss-or-hit-the-post effort with Davis coming up with some sparkling work to keep the puck out. Menard again broke in on the youthful goalie and again he hit him in the pads.

Ted Williams In Shape in Three Weeks

NEW YORK (AP) — The baseball report is more of a medical report.

Star invalid is Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox slugger. His doctor looked at an x-ray of Ted's lame left ankle Tuesday in Sarasota, Fla., and said the batting champion should be in perfect shape in about three weeks.

Billy Bruton, Milwaukee centre fielder has a game knee. His doctor said he was pleased about the knee's condition "but it still will be quite a while before he is able to have full workouts."

Bobby Bragan, Cleveland manager, assigned Herb Score to pitch against the San Francisco Giants Saturday in Tuscon, Ariz. Score hasn't pitched since he was hit in the eye by a batted ball last May.

The Giants took team pictures in Phoenix, Ariz. The "team," in the person of Willie Mays, wasn't in uniform. He was running a fever.

Lee Walls, Chicago Cubs outfielder, needed four stitches when he gashed his head against a steel girder in Mesa, Ariz. He turned reminiscent, added up his other injuries since he joined the club last season and announced, "I must have more than 100 stitches."

Reds Discipline Soccer Coach

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The senior trainer of one of Russia's leading soccer clubs, the Moscow Torpedoes, has been reprimanded for being too much under the influence of some of the club's players.

The players include 20-year-old Edouard Streltsov, who was kicked off the national team for drunkenness.

The Communist Youth League newspaper Komsomol Pravda said Tuesday trainer V. A. Maslov has been warned that unless he tightens team discipline he will be "removed from its leadership."

Matt Baldwin's Alberta Rink Unbeaten in Curling Tourney

(Byes: Manitoba, Quebec, Alberta, Newfoundland)

VICTORIA (CP) — At this year's Canadian curling championship, when it comes to talk of curling prowess, the feats of one man dominate all others.

The man is Matt Baldwin.

Sure, some of the enthusiasts remark how Terry Braunstein of Winnipeg seems to have a surprising amount of curling knowhow for an 18-year-old.

And sure, there are many who think the Saskatchewan rink from Eston appears to have the best over-all team form of the 11 competing here.

But when any appreciative comment is made, be the speaker a participant or an onlooker, it generally winds up with an admission something like this:

"But if I really had to put my money on anyone it would be Matt Baldwin."

BEAUTIFUL DELIVERY

It isn't just that he's skipping an Alberta foursome in the Canadian curling championships for the fourth time in five years. He rates respect as skip of the defending champion but he gets more than that.

Usually the comment is that he has the most beautiful delivery of any of the 44 curlers in competition here. He takes a long gliding motion that carries him to and past the hogline. He floats his 40-pound rock down with all the delicacy that anybody else would use with a bomb or glass.

His accuracy is phenomenal. And never more so than on a crucial shot.

The 31-year-old Edmonton petroleum engineer is considered to have a good rink behind him but some doubt that it is as good as the Campbells of Avonlea, Sask., who won the 1955 title. But few curlers will give you an argument that Baldwin himself is possibly the best individual curler of the last decade, especially in his skip position.

COULD SHARE RECORDS

Anyway, Baldwin has a chance this week to share records with two other curling immortals. If he wins the title he will join Ken Watson of Winnipeg as the only skip to win the championship three times. And he'll also share with Gordon Hudson of Winnipeg the record of winning in successive years. No one else has done it in the 29 years of the competition.

Baldwin's rink after the fourth round Tuesday was the only undefeated rink in the 11 - round competition. He has defeated Manitoba 13-11, Prince Edward Island 11-7 and Northern Ontario 9-7. He has had one bye.

In the fifth round today at 6 p.m. EST, he's drawn against British Columbia, one of three rinks with a 3-1 record who have still to meet Baldwin. The others are Saskatchewan and Ontario.

FIFTH-ROUND MATCHES

Other fifth-round pairings are: Saskatchewan - P.E.I.; Quebec-Nova Scotia; Ontario-Newfoundland; and Manitoba-New-Brunswick. Northern Ontario has a bye.

Quebec, P.E.I., B.C. and Saskatchewan came up with fourth-round victories in addition to Alberta. Newfoundland had a bye. P.E.I. beat New Brunswick 10-7, B.C. eked out a 10-9 extra-end win over Manitoba, Quebec won over Ontario 11-6 and Saskatchewan trounced Nova Scotia 12-6.

Ontario, skipped by Murray Roberts of Unionville, had its victory string cut at three when the unheralded Quebec rink from Cap-de-la-Madeleine scored an 11-6 victory.

It was the first win for Bob Lahaie's foursome which has had two losses and drawn a bye.

Gotham Fans In Raves Over 'Handy Andy'

NEW YORK (AP)—Blase New York sports fans have taken fanatically to Andy Bathgate, 25-year-old hockey player from Winnipeg.

He currently is the hottest player in the National Hockey League, playing for New York Rangers, the hottest team in the league.

The second-place Rangers are riding an eight-game unbeaten streak—six victories and two ties and Bathgate is the propellant. He has scored 17 points in the eight games to gain a tie with Montreal's Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard for second place in the league scoring race with 69 points.

Bathgate leads Richard in goals, 28 to 25. He trails Montreal's Dickie Moore by four points in the battle for first place and the $1,000 award that goes with it.

This great surge by the Ranger forward has paid off in many ways. A month ago he had 49 points. In 10 games since then he scored eight goals and 12 assists.

There's no real secret to Bathgate's showing. It is hard work.

"The more I play the better I seem to go," he says. "I feel stronger and have more confidence than I ever had. I think my play has reached its peak and I hope to keep it that way."

Bruins Drive for 3rd Spot With 2-1 Win Over Red Wings

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It means taking on Montreal Canadiens in the Stanley Cup playoffs, but Boston Bruins are making a determined bid to end in third place in the National Hockey League.

Coach Milt Schmidt figured his Bruins, who finished third last season, would have little trouble holding it this year. But that was reckoning without injury to goalie Don Simmons and with some high scoring from all lines.

Simmons was hurt halfway through the schedule and only one line has produced for much of the season, so that when Boston defeated Detroit Red Wings, 2-1 in Tuesday night's lone game it only brought Bruins to within one point of the third-place Wings.

END OF THE LINE

The muscular Habitants have clinched first place and will meet the third-place team in the playoffs, and past performance indicates that will be the end of the line for the third-place team. Boston and Detroit each have nine games left.

Bruins were heartened by Tuesday night's scorers—Larry Regan and Don McKenney.

For Regan, 27-year-old North Bay native and last year's rookie-of-the-year when he scored 14 goals, it was his ninth this season.

McKenney, whose starry linemates of last season, Real Chevrefils and Leo Labine, have both flopped this year, is apparently ready to roll in the playoffs. His goal, in the final two minutes, was his 22nd, equalling his previous NHL high in 1954-55.

BIG SCORING PUNCH

Most of Boston's scoring this season has come from the line of Bronco Horvath, Vic Stasiuk and Johnny Bucyk, who have produced 64 of Boston's 159 tallies.

While Bruins angle for third, with a solid eight-point lead over fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs, Detroit coach Sid Abel has high hopes of second for his Wings. They trail New York Rangers by six points.

The loss broke a six-game Detroit unbeaten streak in which it collected nine points on three wins and three ties. Hero of the match was Gordie Howe who has 12 points in five games. He scored Detroit's lone goal against Boston, his 28th.

Boston's win was its third straight after three losses on a six-game road trip. Goalie Harry Lumley, a one-time Red Wing, stopped 37 shots against 26 for Detroit's Terry Sawchuk.

On the Tracks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Tartan Stable's Meeting sped to a five-length record victory in the $99,000 Hialeah Turf Handicap Tuesday, closing feature on the 40-day meeting.

Ridden by John Ruane, Meeting ran the 1½ miles in 2:27 4-5, clipping a full second off the record set by Royal Vale in 1953 and tied by Picador in 1954.

Mrs. E. E. Bankhead's Jabneh, winner of this stakes last year, was second. Courtney Burton's Roman Battle was third.

STILL CAN SPEAK

LONDON (Reuters) — Speakers Corner in Hyde Park—the visible symbol of Britain's freedom of speech — will be preserved against the push of progress. The House of Commons was assured Tuesday that plans for widening nearby Park Lane will not do away with the spot where any man can—and often does—have his say. The only change might be to move speaker and audience back into the 361-acre park.

Little Benny's Notebook

It started to get dark all of a sudden and I thought, Gee, I'm not suppose to be late for dinner any more this week.

And I started to run home, thinking, Heck, this will make the 3rd time. Oh well, maybe they haven't even started yet for some reason, I hope, I thought.

Hoping wrong, because they were half ways through when I walked in the dining room trying to act naturel, and I said, Gee, you must of started exter erly.

I beg your pardon, sir? pop said, and he looked at ma, saying, Do you happen to know this gentleman, my dear?

Well now, let me see, he seems to be someone I've been vaguely expecting, but it's been sutch a long time since I've seen him I dont seem to recollect the name, although his face reminds me of somebody, I cant think who, ma said, and pop said, That's just how he impresses me. He looks faintly familiar. He reminds me somewhat of a gentleman that's very hard to get up in the morning and almost impossible to get to bed at night. No it cant be, this gentleman's face is mutch dertier, he said.

That's what confuses me, too, ma said. I'd say he was a certain gentleman without the slightest conception of time, if it wasn't for those unusual streeks on his face, she said, and I said, Aw heck, I'll wash it.

And on my way upstairs I could hear them laffing to each other, and I thought, Oh well, anyways, they cured themselves of being mad.

Making me feel partly lucky.

Student Hears From Russian Hockey Brass

WATERLOO (CP) — Douglas Hammond, 19, a first-year general arts student at Waterloo College, Tuesday received a parcel and a letter from the secretary of the Russian ice hockey section.

They came in answer to a letter Hammond wrote, addressed to Communist Party Secretary Khrushchev, asking for "some visible evidence" of the Russian hockey team's visit to Canada last year.

The parcel contained autographed action shots of the 1957 Russian all-star team and pictures of Lenin Stadium in Moscow. The letter said members of the touring team were impressed by the hospitality of the Canadian people.

Indies Assured Of Cricket Tie

KINGSTON Jamaica (Reuters) The West Indies was assured of tying the series when it beat Pakistan Tuesday by an innings and 17 runs in the third cricket test match.

The depleted Pakistan team—two men were unable to bat—lost its remaining three wickets and was all out for 288 runs in 40 minutes play. It scored 328 runs in its first innings, West Indies replying with 790 for three declared.

The West Indies won the second test after tying the first. Two tests remain to be played.

Hoad Bows To Gonzales

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Veteran Pancho Gonzales continued his comeback against Australi's Lew Hoad here Tuesday night before 4,500 fans, by defeating Hoad 13-15, 6-4, 6-2.

It was Gonzales' third successive win over the Australian and cut Hoad's lead to 18-12 in their 100 - match cross-country tennis tour.

Archie Moore Wins by TKO

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore scored a technical knockout over Bert Whitehurst of Baltimore with just 18 seconds left in their 10-round non-title bout at Swing Auditorium Tuesday night.

Moore came in at a portly 196½ Whitehurst weighed 194½.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicoutimi Sagueneens, leading team in the Quebec Hockey League thumped Montreal Royals 3-1 in Montreal Tuesday to increase their point-count to 69, while second - place Shawinigan Cataracts edged Quebec Aces 4-3, increasing their points to 64.

The results made no difference in the standings, leaving Quebec third with 53 points and Montreal fourth, one point behind and four points ahead of Trois-Rivieres Lions.

SPORT IN BRIEF

LIONS PASS BUDGET

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions have passed a $546,000 budget for the 1958 season in the Western Football Conference. Lions' total revenue last year was $513,000. Of the $33,500 extra capital, $15,000 will come from new club members' fees. Additional revenue is to come from two pre - season exhibition games.

HOCKEY FILM HONORED

(CP) — A movie entitled How to Play Hockey, produced by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, was one of three films awarded a gold medal Monday night in the 14th international festival of short sport films.

SET FIGHT DATE

LEICESTER, Eng. (AP) — The Willie Pastrano - Joe Bygraves heavyweight fight in Leicester was set Tuesday for April 21. Pastrano, of New Orleans, agreed to the fight last week after defeating Brian London here.

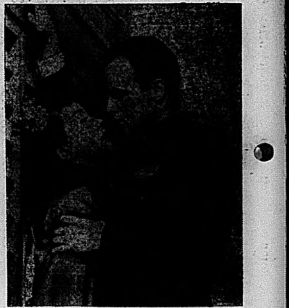
TO FIGHT IN OTTAWA

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jack Lakin, manager of welterweight Don Alderson of Canonsburg, Pa., said Tuesday Alderson will meet Gale Kerwin of Ottawa in a 10-round feature bout in Ottawa March 18.

AUSSIES WIN TEST

Africa (Reuters)—Australia beat South Africa by eight wickets in the final test match here Tuesday, winning the series 3-0 with two matches drawn. Scores: South Africa 214 and 144; Australia 291 and 68 for two.

AT THE McCARTHY — A crashed Messerschmitt — a Luftwaffe pilot at bay — and a group of Home Guard soldiers and their cook (armed with hastily grabbed meat chopper) watch warily as Franz von Werra (Hardy Kruger) decides whether or not he will fight it out — or allow himself to be taken prisoner. A scene from "The One That Got Away." "The One That Got Away" tells the story of the daring escapes from wartime captivity of Luftwaffe pilot Franz von Werra. Hardy Kruger plays von Werra. The film based on the book by Kendal Burt and James Leasor, is produced by Julian Wintle, directed by Roy Baker and made at Pinewood Studios by The Rank Organization. "The One That Got Away" is having its North American Premiere at the Odeon McCarthy theatre, and continues until Saturday evening.



AT THE BELLE — Last year it was "Giant". 1958's fabulous new motion picture is "Sayonara", the stirring story of an American jet ace and the leading and most beautiful dancer from Japan's revered theatrical troupe, the Matsubayashi. Nominated for 10 Academy Awards including Marlon Brando for best actor of the year, and Red Buttons for the best supporting actor, Sayonara, in Technicolor is continuing at the Belle Theatre.

Jacob Leads Orleans Field

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tommy Jacob of Whittier, Calif., fired a three-under-par 69 Tuesday to lead qualifiers for the $20,000 Greater New Orleans Open golf tournament.

Tom Strafaci of Brooklyn had a 70, while Winnipeg-born Bill Ezinicki of Stoneham, Mass., and Bill Nary of Wayne, Mich., had 71s. Par-shooters included Jerry Magee of Toronto.

A total of 69 golfers qualified Tuesday. There were 81 who qualified automatically. The 72-hole tournament opens Thursday with the final round Sunday.

Other Canadian qualifiers were Bob Dean of Cornwall, with 75; Rudy Horvath of Windsor, 76, and Johnny Henrick of Ottawa with 77.

Quebec Named Curling Site

VICTORIA (CP) — Quebec City will be the site of the 1959 Canadian curling championship, it was announced Tuesday night.

Chief Justice Thane Campbell of Prince Edward Island, championship trustee, said the 30th playing of the championship is scheduled for the week of the first Monday in March.

The championships were last held in Quebec City in 1942.

Another Brave Enters Wigwam

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Reliever Don McMahon, whose pitching played a key role in Milwaukee Braves' pennant drive last year, agreed to terms of his 1958 contract Tuesday, leaving the world series champions with four holdouts.

The four unsigned Braves are Lew Burdette, pitching hero of the series, infielder Johnny Logan and Frank Torre and outfielder Wes Covington.

PLAN BIG EXERCISE

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A huge amphibious exercise for the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, employing 40,000 sailors and marines, will be held March 13-31, with 60 ships and 260 navy and marine aircraft participating.

Edward G. Robinson Forced To Work Hard for Art's Sake

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I've always lived a little bit beyond my means. Then I can have the things I enjoy and I'm forced to work hard. I don't mind work; I think it's good therapy."

This theory could set the economy on its ear, but it has worked in the case of Edward G. Robinson. For three decades he has labored steadily on the stage and screen, meanwhile enjoying what he loves best, great art.

Robinson is back in his Beverly Hills home here after a couple of years absence. He is in his third year of playing in the gruelling drama Middle of the Night. Here for a two-week run, he will close the play in San Francisco.

"Yes, it has been tough," he sighed as he relaxed in his art-laden den. "Even walking across the stage becomes an exertion because you've got to project all the time. But there is an enormous satisfaction in it too.

What happens after the play closes?

"Perhaps another picture," he said. "I feel I should make some movie to live down some of the old ones that are playing on television. Fortunately I'm in the theatre every night, so I don't see them. But I know what they must be like."

Middle of the Night is impressing Hollywood anew that Robinson is one of the screen's fine performers. He does a movable portrayal of a love-starved middle-aged manufacturer, about as far removed from his gangster roles as he could possibly get.

"Actually, I only played gangsters in about 10 out of 80 pictures I've done," he said. "I've gotten stuck with that gangster tag because of night club imitators with their 'okay, you guys, I'm boss around here—see.' They don't even imitate me; they imitate other imitators."

Newly married, Robinson is back in the home where he and his former wife, Gladys, once housed their fabulous art collection. The great paintings went with the divorce settlement, but Robinson was able to buy back four. He's again buying more masterpieces as fast as he is able.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)— Every sort of chore and duty can be properly attended to today and quickly. Also, leave time in which to put your wardrobe and your surroundings in nice condition and order. Get desk work caught up.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)— All spare time during the day [illegible] be utilized getting your [illegible]earance and health up to par and better. Also, be a perfectionist to your work. P. M. fine for increasing popularity and income. Be gay.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)— All affairs at home need minute and particular attention today. Get utilities in order, repairing done to roof, etc. P. M. invite your fellow workers in and have an interesting, lucrative evening.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — A fine day for running around doing errands and buying all those necessary things that make life happier. Also, contact those with whom you want to sign agreements, etc. Be most generous.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Spend the morning adjusting your budget for greater flexibility and more intelligent handling of your money. Then make the repairs to your real estate, belongings that will pay great dividends. Labor.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Look to own intimate affairs first today. Then impress others with your vitality, fine personality and be helpful with others' problems. Today's efforts will bring about unlimited possibilities for the future.

Libra (Sept. 13 to Oct. 22) — Spend as much time by yourself today as you can, and figure out ways and means of getting tasks done without the assistance of others for best results. P. M. attend to any civic, or philanhropic matters.

Scorpio (Oc. 23 o Nov. 21) — Precise and talented pals are most happy to assist you today in gaining your goals. Show own interest in their happiness and resolve to make it a co-operative effort plan. Tonight, have fun with loved ones.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — The ideal day to corner that Bigwig and outline your plans. Do it most intelligently and be practical. Then others will also give you benefit of support and put their shoulder to the wheel with you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — The data you have vainly sought for so long is available to you today, so go after it. Then try to meet all the fine and important persons possible and impress them with your intellect and commonsense.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Keep your nose to the grindstone today as you figure out ways of earning more money. Also, be kind to the needy, those who come to you for advice. Follow that intuition you have and it will help you reach your goals faster.

Pisces (Reb. 20 to March 20)— Long conversations with those in your immediate orbit result in getting true picture of their regard and some fine suggestions. Cement better relations and you then are able to solve your problems perfectly.

If your child is born today . . . The very bright child born today is the type who will expend such energy in the right direction, understanding all phases in connection with whatever is at hand, and being most helpful to others with real, admirable humility Much education in ethics, spirituality will bring out the fine success in this chart, but lack of it will ruin an otherwise wonderful start.

Demerit System To Be Used on Erring Drivers

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government plans a demerit system for the regulation of motorists, Highways Minister Allan announced Tuesday in the legislature.

He introduced a bill changing the Highway Traffic Act so that police would have to stop and identify delinquent drivers instead of writing a licence number on their tickets.

"This establishes the first step in a driver control program and makes possible a demerit system," said Mr. Allan.

"It is necessary to know definitely who is driving the car if an accurate record of drivers is to be kept. Such records will be maintained for all drivers in the province."

The change was one of more than 30 amendments to the Highway Act included in Mr. Allan's bill.

STIFFENS PENALTIES

Stiffer penalties would be provided for some offenses. Careless driving could result in two-year instead of one-year licence suspensions, and impaired driving would bring down suspensions of three months for first offences and six months for second offenses, both doubled in the case of accidents.

First, second and third offences would be considered within a 12-month period instead of the previous calendar year.

Pedestrians, too would be affected. They would be able to cross intersections only with a green light. Up to now they could walk against red lights if they didn't interfere with traffic.

Another change would permit payment from the Unsatisfied Judgment Fund by the transport department, with courts making paying only in disputes.

New traffic regulations included a 40-mile-an-hour speed limit in built-up areas beside highways and right-hand passing in cities only if the car ahead is making a left turn or the street is one-way or comprising four lanes.

INCREASES PENALTY

The litter penalty would be raised to a maximum of $50, $100 and $200 plus a 6 day licence suspension.

It would be an offense to open a car door on a highway without due precaution. Children with roller skates, ski or sleds would be prohibited from hitching rides on motor vehicles or street cars.

The transport department government would license and regulate driving instructors and require chauffeurs to submit references as to their character.

Among the few concessions in the amendments is elimination of forfeiture of motor vehicles when driving permits are obtained during a suspension or cancellation.

In addition, the gross weight limit for three - axle vehicles would be raised to 40,000 from 30,000 pounds.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Three Mill Tax Reduction For City

Education Grants, More Assessment Bring Rates Down

Public Works to Spend $265,000 During Year

As result of increased educational grants from the province, and slightly increased assessment Belleville ratepayers this year will get a three mill break on their tax rate.

This was announced yesterday by Mayor Gerald B. Hyde as council met in a special session to set the 1958 tax rate. The 1958 rate will be 71.5 mills for residential property and 78.5 for commercial and industrial.

Mayor Hyde noted that the increased educational grants would mean an additional $115,000 in payments to the three school boards, public schools, high schools and the Separate school. Through co-operation of the boards this money was largely being passed on to the city, he said.

City expenditures for 1958 will be over the two million dollar mark, with total costs for all services estimated at $2,081,361.37.

HOW BROKEN DOWN

Of this amount $377,222.35 has been designated for maintenance, debenture and interest for the public schools system, while the Separate School board will cost the city $42,062.77. The Bay of Quinte High School board will cost an estimated $238,291 in city funds; the city's share of local improvements $20,568; property owners' share of local improvements $87,407.35; hospitalization, $70,000; Welfare, $75,000; street flushing (property owners' share) $7,231.65; general debentures and interest $106,240, and sundry expenditures $1,057,337.

Public works this year will spend an estimated $265,000, including provision of $20,000 for commencement of a program for complete replacement of public vehicles over a six year period.

Public schools mill rate on an assessment of $19,005,945 will be 19.60 and will raise $377,222.35. The same rate on a separate school assessment of $2,145,060, will raise $42,062.77.

The secondary school rate is 9.84 and on an assessment of $21,151, 005, will raise $208,125.88.

Sundry receipts will total an estimated $160,186 applicable to residential assessment and $81,623, from the per capita grant.

The industrial and commercial share of sundry receipts will total $137,612.

A mill rate of 34.20 mills on the general rate assessment of $11,318,205 will raise $387,032.61, while the industrial and commercial millrate of 41.20 mills on general rate assessment of 9,721,460, will raise $400,524.15.

PENSION MAINTAINED

With details of the budget thrashed out in committee, only one item saw discussion as the budget by-law came up for ratification.

This was an item of $2,400 annual pension for former city clerk Wilfred Holmes. Ald. Ben Safe recommended that this item be reduced to $1,200.

"This is not a matter of personalities," he said, "but I feel that the council of that day made a serious mistake in voting a pension of $200 per month to a man who did not contribute one cent to a pension fund."

Ald. Safe noted that pensions of $100 per month had been voted to former city treasurer Stock and to ex-fire chief William Lynch. "I could never figure out why $200 was voted for Mr. Holmes," he said.

He said that other city employees due for retirement in the near future and whose pensions under the city pension would be low, might well ask the city to make up the difference to total $200 monthly.

Ald. Les. Digby said it would be morally wrong to reduce Mr. Holmes' pension although it might be legally right. He said that Mr. Holmes had retired on the understanding that he was to get $200 monthly pension.

He compared the recommendation with a motion passed early this week when council decided not to honor a commitment made four years ago.

The recommendation to reduce the pension for Mr. Holmes was defeated 9-4. Favoring the recommendation were Aldermen Argue, McCabe, Safe and Whalen. Opposing were Mayor Hyde and Ald. Collins, Digby, Forrester, Graham, Grandame, Temple, Tice and Wishart.

SYRIA CHARGES SAUD WANTED NASSER KILLED

Offered 60 Million For Murder, Claim

DAMASCUS, Syria (CP) — A new rift appeared in Arab relations today following a Syrian charge that King Saud of Saudi Arabia had attempted a multimillion-dollar plot to kill Egypt's President Nasser and prevent the Syrian-Egyptian union.

Col. Abdel Hamid Serraj, Syrian Army intelligence chief, told a press conference Wednesday night that he had been offered more than $60,000,000 to engineer the coup.

He said he accepted $5,300 000 in bribe cheques but cashed them and turned the money over to the new Egypt-Syria United Arab Republic after informing the Egyptian war minister, Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, of the plot.

Serraj said the intermediary in the plot was Assad Ibrahim, one of King Saud's fathers-in-law, but "the West was behind this."

Nasser himself referred in a speech in Damascus earlier Wednesday night to a plot by "imperialists and oil interests" to block the union. But the Arab Republic president did not name Saud, and made no mention of the alleged plot on his own life.

TUNISIAN ACCUSATION

From the other side of the Arab split, Tunisia accused a Tunisian extremist leader of launching a plot from Cairo to assassinate Tunisia's pro-Western President Habib Bourguiba. The Tunisian exile, Salah Ben Youssef, said the charge was fabricated to divert Tunisian public opinion from pressing Bourguiba into joining the UAR.

Nasser's campaign appears to Western observers to be another attempt to unseat regimes standing in the way of his ambition to dominate the Arab world. Egypt and Syria tried unsuccessfully last April to foment the overthrow of Jordanian King Hussein, and both also have been accused of plotting against Faisal of Iraq chief of state of the Iraqi-Jordanian Arab Federation.

Saud so far has refused to join either the Arab Federation or Nasser's UAR, and is reported hoping to act as a mediator between them in the interests of Arab unity.

Wide Range of Topics Fills Air as Campaign Tightens

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pipelines. . . protection . . . unemployment . . . Quebec's love affair with the Liberals . . . political realignments — topics filled the air like snowflakes in Wednesday's campaign for the March 31 federal election.

At Chatham, Prime Minister Diefenbaker promised Canadian farmers protection against "the dumping proclivities of the Americans."

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson in Montreal said Quebec for the last 60 years has always sent a majority of Liberals to the House of Commons. He found this "sacred union" of his party with that province "evidence that the Liberals always recognized that a truly national government cannot exist without a sufficient number of French - speaking ministers."

Deputy CCF Leader Stanley Knowles, meantime said at Moncton, N.B., that Canadians are recasting their political thinking.

"They realize that what we need is not two old parties, between whom there are no real differences, dominating Parliament while the CCF fights the battles of our workers and farmers from a third party corner in the House of Commons."

Saying his party could become the government or official Opposition, he added:

"This election belongs to the CCF. We will emerge as a major party. The Liberals will go down still further. The CCF will come up."

Social Credit Leader Solon Low continued his labors in Northern Alberta.

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell told a Vancouver audience private ownership of natural gas and oil pipeline companies has brought "the most fantastic exploitation of the Canadian people and insidious undermining of Canadian industry."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker spent a vigorous day shaking hundreds of hands in the Windsor area. But he also found time to toss verbal snowballs at the Liberals.

While he spoke during the afternoon, about 30 persons marched outside bearing placards with such inscriptions as: "Twice as many unemployed since your last visit. What now John?" The picketing was sponsored by the Windsor Labor Council, which is backing the CCF.

At Chatham, Wednesday night Mr. Diefenbaker told an audience of 2,300 in that farming area his government "will not allow the Canadian farmer to be sacrificed by the dumping of agricultural products by the United States." He was applauded loudly.

Mr. Pearson suggested to his Montreal audience that the Progressive Conservatives are not really a national party because they have no strong cabinet representation from Quebec and have never had a national party leader from that province.

At Vancouver Mr. Coldwell said the Conservatives and Liberals won't do anything about the quick fortunes made by pipeline promoters at the public's expense. But the CCF advocated public ownership of such projects.

At Flin Flon, Man., Transport Minister George Hees said the Conservative government is planning the greatest national development since Sir John A. Macdonald's day. It would provide new jobs for 250,000 Canadians this year. Higher unemployment at present was "due just about 100 per cent to the Liberal tight-money policy."

NEW U.S. 'MOON' PROBABLY NEVER ACHIEVED ORBIT

Teams Scan Skies For Lost 'Explorer'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) "Moonwatch" teams stood by today for a sky search for the newly launched and mysteriously missing American satellite Explorer II.

At the same time the conviction grew that the six-inch metal cylinder, 80 inches long and weighing about 32 pounds, never achieved an orbit.

There were persistent reports that signals from the Jupiter-C launching rocket convinced some army missile experts, within the first hour after Wednesday's firing at 1:28 p.m. EST that the final stage of the four-stage vehicle had failed to fire.

Officials of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency and of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory which built the high-speed upper stages, were unavailable for comment.

Experts said that failure of the final stage to fire on cue would have meant that the satellite, even though it was at orbital altitude of 200 or more miles, would achieve a velocity of only about three miles a second as against the five miles a second needed to maintain the orbit — 10,800 miles an hour instead of 18,000.

INTO AN OCEAN?

This in turn could mean that the satellite would tumble into the South Atlantic, or into Africa or the Indian Ocean beyond.

The cylinder would travel less than half way around the world at that speed before tumbling down through the atmosphere.

In Washington Wednesday night Dr. Richard Porter, chairman of the earth satellite panel of the United States National Committee for the International Geophysical Year, told reporters there was "some indication" that the satellite was not "functioning normally."

Porter said there had been indications from the minitrack radio tracking station here and at one other point that the fourth stage did not function.

"There is other information, however, that it probably did and that the difficulty is more probably in the radio transmission equipment" Porter added.

At Pasadena, Calif., Dr. William Pickering, head of JPL, said it probably would take several days to interpret technical data sufficiently to find out what had happened to it.

Big Ice Chunks Break Dam Wall As 20 At Work

Give Names of 11 Dead And Toll May Be Higher

MONTREAL (CP)—The bodies of 11 men—some reports said as many as 18—lay pinned today under the Riviere des Prairies, entombed in the wreckage of a steel coffer dam buckled under pressure attributed to ice.

Black, thaw - swollen water surged into the coffer dam Wednesday afternoon as men were working beneath the river surface. Three escaped with minor injuries.

President Paul Dufresne of Dufresne Construction Company, throwing a bridge across the river skirting Montreal island's north shore, said 11 men failed to punch their cards after the accident.

He said the death toll would be higher than 11 "only if unauthorized personnel were in the dam at the time."

The report of 18 dead came from Laval des Rapides police who said they obtained their information from a diver.

About 20 men were working at the bottom of the dam when the north wall was struck by ice floes and collapsed.

The list of known victims:

Charles-Edouard Pilon, Rosemont; Guy Meloche, Ste. Dorothee; Germain Villemaire, Montreal; Jean - Jacques, Clermont, Aord-a-Plouffe; Raymond Theoret St. Eustache; Laurent Deslauriers, Montreal; Guy Trudel, Montreal; Benoit Marquis, Montreal North; Gerard Lantaigne, Beauharnois; Jules Anaud, Ste. Dorothee; Adolphe Lavallee, Valleyfield.

Emeric Leonard assistant superintendent of the Dufresne Construction Company, said today he has no information yet as to the exact number of men who were killed.

SEARCH FOR BODIES

Divers and frogmen were to begin the grim, hazardous task of retrieving the bodies, believed caught beneath the dam's steel casing.

Mr. Leonard said the company is checking the payroll list, containing about 450 names, and would know later today the exact number of dead.

A police officer in Laval des Rapides said today he believed 18 had been killed. But Mr. Leonard said: "I think the number is closer to 11."

Paul Dufresne, president of the company, said Wednesday night: "We think about 10 men were killed, or possibly 11. Some got out but we don't know if they left without punching their cards."

SOME MEN ESCAPED

Two or three men escaped from within the dam when it buckled. Three others saved themselves after the shock tossed them from the top of the dam into the current of the river—known in Montreal as the Back River. None was seriously injured.

"It all happened in about 30 seconds," Laurent Theoret, 23 of St. Eustache, Que., said from a hospital bed. "I still don't know how I managed to escape."

The tragedy happened at about 5:15 p.m. EST.

Only the previous night, a wooden form prepared for concrete pouring had burst into flames on the bridge site, endangering momentarily the lives of 20 workmen atop it. Officials said damage was at least several thousand dollars and construction would be set back several weeks.

COFFER DAM TYPICAL

The coffer dam was the typical one on such jobs, made from long inter-connecting steel piles driven deep into the river bed. Within the watertight dam, construction men were working on foundations.

Mr. Dufresne said the water was about 26 feet deep at that point and the victims were at about the 32-foot level. The coffer dam was about 25 feet wide and 100 feet long. He said the whole structure disappeared, giving the trapped men no chance to use a number of ladders leading up the steel walls.

Mr. Theoret, who suffered minor face injuries said he had no idea how he got out. He said he thought a steel supporting beam collapsed and the water surged in.

RIVER WAS HIGH

Mr. Dufresne said the water was "a little high" at about two feet above normal — result of springlike temperatures the last few days—but lower than it had been.

Bulganin Sends New Message To Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Bulganin sent a new message to President Eisenhower today on problems of arranging a summit conference.

Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov delivered the message to State Secretary Dulles for relay to Eisenhower.

Menshikov said he believes it will be made public Friday in Moscow. The message replies to Eisenhower's last letter to Bulganin Feb. 15.

The Eisenhower letter suggested that leading Soviet citizens come to the United States and see the country first hand.

Menshikov said the Bulganin reply "deals with the questions" raised in Eisenhower's Feb. 15 letter. He declined to give any other detail.

Police Fire Shots

TORONTO (CP) — Police fired six shots early today on midtown College Street in an effort to recapture Thomas Saito, 26, of Toronto.

Saito later was taken into custody in the bathroom of a house on Cecil St.

Police said they originally took him into custody on a break-in charge. He jumped from a police cruiser and fled. After his recapture he also was charged with breaking and entering the house where he was caught.

Korean Reds Down U.S. Jet; Free Those on Stolen Plane

PANMUNJOM (CP) — The North Koreans finally released today 26 passengers and crew members kidnapped by the Communists in flight, but simultaneously the shooting down of an American jet fighter produced new Korean tension.

The release of all but eight aboard the South Korean airliner which landed in the Communist North Feb. 16 was held up for hours because of bickering over the release receipts the Communists wanted signed.

The other eight elected to stay in North Korea, and some of them were accused by the South Koreans of having hijacked the plane to take them to the Communist side.

As the freed group crossed the demarcation line, however, came word of the shooting down of a United States air force F-86 Sabre jet by what the U.S. called "Communist ground fire" near the demilitarized zone.

The pilot was seen parachuting "just over the Communist side of the line," the air force said.

It was the first incident of its kind in the Korean area since May, 1955, when the U.S. air force reported that a flight of eight Sabre jets was attacked by 12 to 16 Communist fighters over international waters off North Korea.

The air force said further information would have to come from the UN command indicating that delicate armistice questions were involved.

Two American pilots, a West German couple and 22 South Koreans were handed over at the Panmunjom truce headquarters after several hours delay caused by South Korean refusal to sign the release receipts provided by the Communists.

A representative for the South Korean Red Cross finally signed after a telephone call to Seoul. Representatives of the U.S. Embassy and the West German legation signed without any objection.

The 22 Koreans were the first released. German businessman Johannes Henrichs and his wife were handed over next, and then the two American pilots, Willis P. Hobbs and air force Lt.-Col. Howard McClellan were released to the UN command.

Whitby Dunnies Beat Sweden By 10-2 Score

OSLO (CP)—Unbeaten Canada took a giant step toward the world hockey championship today by handing defending champion Sweden a 10-2 defeat. Canada has won four straight and this was Sweden's first defeat in four games.

Playing coach Sid Smith started the scoring off for the Whitby club with a goal at 1:43, defenceman Harry Sinden assisting. Less than a minute later Tom O'Connor made it 2-0 and Jack McKenzie, high scorer in the tournament, got the third goal at 8:18.

The Canadians added three more in a little more than two minutes during the second half of the period, Connie Broden scoring at 12:14, Charlie Burns tallying at 13:33 and Bobby Attersley winding up the first-period scoring at 14:36.

Canada received all three first-period penalties.

OSLO (CP) — Finland edged Norway 2-1 today in a world hockey championship game. It was the Finns' first win in the round-robin tournament and Norway's fifth straight loss.

Finland came from behind with two third-period goals by Pertii Nieminen and Raimo Pulli.

Snow that was falling stopped before the match between the two tail-end teams.

The Norwegians went ahead in the second period on a fine goal by Terje Hellerud but threw away their chances by poor shooting.

HONOR FOUNDER

DETROIT (AP) — City officials and two visiting French mayors presided Wednesday at the opening of an exhibit honoring the 300th birthday of Detroit's founder, Antoine Laumet de Lamothe Cadillac. George Doustin, mayor of Saint - Nicholas-de-la Grave and Adrien Alary, mayor of Castel Sarrasin, joined civic leaders in dedicating the exhibit at the Detroit Historical Museum.

WOMEN PROMINENT

LONDON (Reuters) — Seventy-five per cent of all Soviet doctors and 70 per cent of the teachers are women, Mrs. Olga Khvaleznova, deputy chairman of the Sovie women's committee, told a press conference in connection with the International Women's Day celebrations this Saturday. She said 45 per cent of Soviet factory and office workers are women.

60 Mile Hike Too Much for Woman But 'Copter Wins Race With Stork

MONTREAL (CP)—The RCAF told Wednesday night how communications crackled across the northland to save a pregnant Indian woman who had fallen exhausted into a snowbank on the trail to a settlement with a hospital.

George MacKay, his wife, Jeanne, and four children had spent the winter camping on the family trapline in an area vaguely known as Brotherston, 60 miles south of the tiny settlement of Shamattawa in northern Manitoba.

When it became almost time for Mrs. MacKay's confinement, the whole family set out to walk to Shamattawa. Twenty miles from their goal, after plowing through deep snow for 40 miles, Janne MacKay could go no further, and fell beside the wilderness trail.

George MacKay told the children—the oldest 16—to stay with their mother while he went on alone for help. Near exhaustion himself, he reached Shamattawa and told his story at the Hudson's Bay Company post.

Company officials radioed army base at Churchill, Man. Colonel Evans, commanding officer of the military hospital there called a mid-Canada radar line site where he knew there were helicopters.

Pilot Ross Lennox of Flin Flon, Man. stationed at the base with a commercially owned 'copter, took off for Shamattawa. He picked up Mr. MacKay and nurse Helen Dyck of the Indian health service.

Mr. MacKay guided the pilot to the place where his family waited in the freezing cold. They were taken aboard and whisked back to Shamattawa.

Mrs. MacKay was quickly installed in a hospital bed, and was reported resting comfortably. She had been suffering exposure and exhaustion.

The RCAF said they do not know if the fifth MacKay child has arrived.

Mass Boycott of Classes Begins Quietly at Quebec Universities

MONTREAL (CP) — A mass boycott of classes today began quietly at five of Quebec's six universities.

Designed to attract public attention to student demands for more provincial aid to higher education, the boycott was reported effective in most institutions. Approximately 20,000 students were affected.

At the University of Montreal, professors read or chatted with colleagues in empty classrooms. Students used snow to block roads leading to the university on the slopes of Mount Royal.

A single traffic lane was left open on the roads and students allowed members of the faculty and university officials to pass.

All Montreal police were "on call" in the event of trouble. Only one incident was reported in the early hours of the boycott.

Police said three men were detained for questioning after their car knocked down two students at a road barricade near the University of Montreal. Two students were bruised but did not require hospital treatment.

At McGill University, picket lines were set up at entrances and verbal attempts were made to dissuade students going to classes.

A students' spokesman said the strike was 95-per-cent effective at McGill. He said classes likely would be cancelled later today because so few students reported.

At Sir George Williams College in Montreal the situation was quiet with most students remaining away from classes. There was no picketing.

At Bishop's College in Lennoxville students stayed away from classes but flocked to the library to catch up on reading for their courses. There were no incidents.

In Quebec City, no incidents were reported from Laval University where the students also participated in the boycott.

Students at the University of Sherbrooke decided Wednesday night against joining in the boycott.

West Will Test Reds' Boycott Of Arms Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia has been informally advised that the Western powers intend to ask for a meeting of the United Nations disarmament commission this month.

The move is designed to test Russia's declared intention of boycotting the commission. If Moscow refuses to co - operate, the Western powers then will take the issue of disarmament negotiations into the UN Security Council.

Today's Chuckle

It takes the normal male about two years to learn to talk, and about 60 years to learn not to.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A weak disturbance over Lake Erie spread wet snow across the province during the night. The disturbance is moving east at a fair speed and will leave variable cloudiness with occasional light flurries in its wake. Pressure rises in Northern Ontario indicate an impending invasion of Southern Ontario by colder air, which will arrive overnight with light northerly winds and clearing skies. Friday should be a cool fair day, followed by increasing cloudiness in southwestern Ontario in the evening.

C OF C HAS BOOKLETS ON 'CREATIVE CAPITAL'

Robert G. Hamilton, secretary manager of the Chamber of Commerce, [illegible] today he has a limited num[illegible] of booklets from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce which deal with the Canadian free enterprise system and which also describe a film, "The Story of Creative Capital."

He suggested that secondary school teachers who teach economics might be interested in acquiring a booklet to prepare for a class or study group. Mr Hamilton has ordered the film and it should arrive soon.

Kenneth Ingram Killed in France Testing Rockets

A veteran of both World War II and of the Korean conflict, LAC Kenneth H. Ingram, Belleville, was instantly killed yesterday at his base in Grostenquin, France, when a rocket he was testing exploded.

His parents in Belleville were called later by telephone by the padre of his unit advising of the accident.

He is survived by his wife, the former Juliette LaPorte of Renfrew; a son, Robert; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ingram, 24 Ritchie Ave. and one sister, Mrs. W. D. (Jean) Livesey, R.R. 2, Belleville.

Born in Trenton, he received his education in Belleville public and high schools and early in World War II enlisted with the 32-34th Battery. Transferred to a radar unit he served the war out in Canada but re-enlisted at the outset of the Korean conflict and served two years in that country. He enlisted in the RCAF three years ago and was serving in the armament section of the No. 2 Fighter Wing in France, when he was killed while testing rockets. Before enlisting he worked at Northern Electric in Belleville.

His wife and young son were living with him at the RCAF base in France.

The funeral will be held on Saturday, March 8th, with interment in the RCAF cemetery at Choloy, France.

MUST AVOID GIRLS

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — Two teen - agers were sentenced Wednesday to stay "away from girls for six months." Judge William L. Tierney imposed the sentence on Michael J. Bochas, 18, and Kenneth C. Muller, 16, after hearing testimony that they tortured a younger student for failing to get them dates. They also were put on probation, charged with breach of the peace.

Hon. Sidney Smith Is Chosen Conservatives' Candidate in Hastings-Frontenac Riding

MADOC (Staff) — Hon. Sidney Smith, Minister of External Affairs, Wednesday afternoon was declared the unanimous choice of the Progressive Conservatives in Hastings-Frontenac to contest the March 31 election against Liberal William Shannon of Marmora.

Mr. Smith, former president of the University of Toronto, was elected member of parliament for Hastings-Frontenac in a by-election last November 4, after former M.P. George S. White was appointed to the Senate.

The acclamation of Mr. Smith did not come as a surprise to the executive of the Hastings-Frontenac Progressive Conservative Association. However, before the nominating convention started in the Madoc armouries yesterday, it was not known if other citizens would contest the nomination.

MRS. FAIRCLOUGH SPEAKS

Guest speaker was the Hon. Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, Secretary of State, who is the first woman to be named to the federal cabinet and one of the leaders in the battle to obtain equal pay rights in Canada for women workers.

Upon his acclamation Mr. Smith rose amid overwhelming cheers and the skirl of the Madoc Pipe Band and addressed the assembly of 320 delegates and hunderds of other party supporters.

After re-affirming his support of the Diefenbaker team and resolving to be of greater service to his constituents of Hastings-Frontenac, Mr. Smith was quick to shower tribute on Senator White, "who has been in on all things for the benefit of the riding."

Said the riding candidate: "If the Diefenbaker government is returned to Ottawa, we will be able to do much more in the next four or five years than we have been able to do in the past eight months."

Mr. Smith said he regarded his position as member of parliament as his "primary" job, whereas his portfolio as Minister of External Affairs is "another" job. A keen sportsman, he is looking forward eagerly to a few fishing excursions in the riding next summer.

In speaking a few words regarding his campaign, Mr. Smith said, "I will not indulge in personalities in my campaign."

Referring to the campaign slogan of the Liberal party which says "Pearson for peace," he said that implies that Mr. Diefenbaker is for war.

"How phony can the Liberals get?"

NO AXE TO GRIND

Turning quickly to Canada's position in the United Nations, he said this country has become highly regarded, "because Canada is a middle power in the world. She has no axe to grind with anyone. Canada has one desire—to bring about world peace."

Lester B. Pearson, leader of the Liberal party, has been stating that he will bring about peace and prosperity to Canada.

"To suggest that one man can create world peace," said Mr. Smith, "is ridiculous. It must be a co-operative effort among all world powers. I certainly hope the Liberals do not bring that phony campaign into Hastings-Frontenac."

Mr. Smith said: "Compare the accomplishments of the Progressive Conservative party in the past eight months to the accomplishments of the late, unlamented Liberal party over the past 22 years and you will see that Mr. Diefenbaker, to quote the Bible, 'has come to the kingdom of his time'."

The speaker said Mr. Diefenbaker is referred to by Liberal party members as the Great Promiser, "but now he is entitled to be called the Great Performer."

Mr. Diefenbaker, according to Mr. Smith, has fulfilled most of his pre-June election promises, and he "will fulfill the remainder after March 31."

Touching on Mr. Diefenbaker's works projects in northern Canada, Mr. Smith said that the development of the sub-Arctic regions is in the "best interest" of the whole of Canada.

Why were the Liberals not returned to power on June 10? Because they had become "too arrogant," he said. "They thought they owned Canada. They had become complacent. Of course that can happen to any party. We must not let it happen to us."

In conclusion, the Minister of External Affairs said: "The Liberals have not yet learned their lesson. They have lost touch with Canada's grass roots, so let them stay in the pasture for a while."

Among the platform guests were: Mrs. Sidney Smith, Mr. Fairclough; Murray Smith, reeve of Madoc; Elmer Sandercock (MLA-Hastings West); Roscoe Robson (MLA-Hastings East); Clarence Milligan, PC candidate for Prince Edward-Lennox; Jas. Thompson, vice-president of the Ontario Young Progressive Conservative Association, and Lee Grills, PC candidate for Hastings South.

NATO DENIES

PARIS (Reuters) — NATO headquarters here Wednesday night issued a statement denying that the NATO permanent council had rejected on Tuesday the Soviet proposals for an East-West summit meeting. Reuters news agency had quoted NATO sources as saying the permanent council rejected the Soviet proposals for a foreign ministers' meeting in April to discuss a summit conference in June. The NATO statement said no decision was taken by the council and the problems involved in the preparation for such a meeting are still under discussion."

The Rev. W. Griffiths of Castleton, officiated at the funeral services.

The bearers were: Dave Dingwall, Frank Isaac, Herb Ducie, Harry Dingman, Benny Dingman and Ray Comstock.

SIMON C. LaBARGE

TWEED — The sudden death of Simon C. LaBarge of Ottawa, on Friday, February 21st, was a great shock to his relatives and friends in the Tweed area. The late Mr. LaBarge died on his way to the hospital after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage.

Fifty-three years of age, he was the youngest son of the late Catharine Clement and Charles LaBarge of Otter Creek. He was in the cheese business with his brother, the late Charles LaBarge, until it was sold to The Chateau Cheese Company. Until a short time ago, he had been operating a store near Winchester, Ontario.

Surviving are his wife, the former Gabrielle Gagne; two sons, Maurice and Andre of Ottawa, and a daughter, Louise, along with four sisters and a brother: Mrs. Philip Doran and Mrs. George Mahoney of Tweed; James LaBarge of Copenhagen, N.Y.; Lillian LaBarge of Detroit, and Mrs. Ralph Yelle of Edmonton, Alberta.

Requiem Mass was celebrated in the Church of Christ The King, Ottawa, on Monday morning, February 24th, with interment in Notre Dame cemetery, Ottawa.

Relatives from Tweed attending the funeral included: Raymond Courneyea, Eugene Doran, Michael Allore and Mrs. Philip Doran.

JAMES ALBERT COLEMAN

In ill health for the past nine years, James Albert Coleman, 155 West Bridge Street, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday evening.

He was born in Detroit, Michigan, 50 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James A. Coleman and had resided in this city for the past 12 years, where he was well known and highly regarded. He was the head orderly at the hospital until ill health prevented him from following regular employment

The late Mr. Coleman was a member of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church and was active as a member of the Canadian Legion, Branch No. 99. Surviving are three step daughters, Mrs. Harold (Norma) VanAllen of this city; Mrs. Russell (Bernice) Daniels of Brighton; Mrs. Fred (Vivian) Heber of Toronto, and one step-son, William Lawson of Cannifton. His wife, the former Marjory Jardine, also survives.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 80 Highland Ave. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

HENRY L. WRIGHT

The funeral of Henry Lawrence Wright was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Thursday afternoon. The service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. C. W. Coleman, who also said the committal rites in Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were: Albert Semark, Ernie Preston, George Stevens, James Graham, Fred Irwin and Ted Lawrence.

GEORGE LLOYD
Northbrook

Funeral service for George Lloyd of Northbrook, was held in the Pentecostal Church in the village last month and interment was in Northbrook cemetery. The Rev. Heinbecker, assisted by Rev. Hutchinson and Rev. McEwen officiated.

Bearers were: Colin Thompson, Gus Wood, George Hawley, Hugh Armstrong, Donald Thompson and Melvin Green.

Mr. Lloyd died at his late residence on February 15 after an illness of three months. He was 71.

Born in Northbrook, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Lloyd. Surviving are his wife, the former Mabel Blanche Miller; two daughters, Mrs. John (Alice) McEwen of Bannockburn, and Mrs. Arthur Watchorn, of Pembroke; four sons, Ivan, Leslie and James, Northbrook, and Almonte of Toronto; six sisters, Mrs. George (Annie) Miller, Melfort, Sask.; Mrs. Aubrey (Eva) Miller and Mrs. E. (Flossie) Brochu, both of Arborfield, Sask; Mrs. Lewis (Ethel) Vaness, Northbrook; Mrs. Violet Johnston, Vancouver, and Mrs. F. (Vera) Baskey, Yorkton, Sask.; three brothers, Peter of Cloyne, Amos of Northbrook and Ezra of Arborfield, Sask., and 11 grandchildren.

A farmer in the Northbrook district all his life, Mr. Lloyd was a member of Northbrook Pentecostal Church. He was predeceased by two sons, Fred and William, and a half-brother, Loftus, who died of exposure nearly a year ago at Sulphide.

JAMES MULROONEY
Stoco

A native of Stoco and Tweed who died in Stoco on March 3 was buried in St. Edmund's cemetery today (Thursday, March 6). He was James Mulrooney, age 82 years, who had been ill for two months.

The Rev. C. E. Baker conducted the service in St. Edmund's Roman Catholic Church.

Born in Stoco, Mr. Mulrooney moved to Akron, Ohio, and returned to his birthplace five years ago after a lifelong career as a barber. His parents were the late Simon Mulrooney and Honor McGuinnes.

Mr. Mulrooney leaves a half-sister, Mrs. Dennis (Mary) Fleming of Akron. His wife, the former Elma Singer, died on February 2, 1953.

You're invited! Social evening, Knights of Columbus Club Rooms, 399 Front, Thursday at 8 p.m. Special prizes. Fun for all. Admission 25c. Come one, come all. Auspices Camel Herder Unit, Belleville Shrine Club.

Three Mishaps But Damage Not Extensive

Three accidents, involving as many parked autos, were reported in the city last night. Damage in no case was extensive.

Police said that Frank J. McDermott, Toronto, was westbound on Highland Ave. when he was blinded by the high beam lights of an approaching auto with result that his car crashed into the rear of a parked vehicle owned by Patrick J. Lynch. The impact loosened some of Mr. McDermott's lower teeth. Property damage of about $150 resulted.

Three vehicles were involved in another accident on Pinnacle Street just north of Victoria Ave. Police said two cars were southbound when the first stopped for a red traffic light. The second vehicle failed to stop and crashed into the first vehicle. The driver then backed up striking a parked car.

Little more than scratched paint resulted in the third accident involving a parked auto on Front street.

Widow and Five Children Made Homeless by Fire

BANCROFT (Special) — A Bancroft widow, Mrs. Marie Munroe and her five children are homeless today following and explosion and fire which yesterday afternoon destroyed their two-storey frame home. The home is on Sherburne St.

Cause of the blaze was believed to have been an explosion in a downstairs space heater, the fire trapping Mrs. Munroe and two small children upstairs.

Mrs. Munroe tossed her two children into the arms of O.P.P. Constable Peter Gilbert who happened to be passing and then jumped to safety. A heavy blanket of snow broke her fall and she was uninjured.

Bancroft volunteer firemen answered the alarm but already the fire was out of control and the house valued at approximately $8,000 and all household effects were a complete loss. Mrs. Munroe had no insurance on her household effects and other belongings.

Mrs. Munroe was upstairs with her two youngest children, aged two and four years, when the explosion ripped through the downstairs. Flames immediately cut off their escape down the stairs. She shoved up a window and tossed her two children into the arms of the police constable.

Bancroft firemen fought the fire under the direction of Cecil Wiggins, acting fire chief in the absence of fire chief Cec McAlpine. The Lands and Forests fire department stood by ready to come to the assistance of Bancroft firefighters if they had been needed. Owner of the house occupied by Mrs. Munroe and her family, was Mrs. Martha Moxam, Bancroft.

APPROVES FARM PROGRAM

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate agriculture committee Wednesday approved programs under which the United States would sell, trade or give away nearly $6,000,000,000 worth of farm surpluses in the next two years. The plan more than doubled the requests by Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson and ignored his recommendations for tapering off the barter of farm commodities on world markets.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

IN MEMORIAM

AYLESWORTH. — In loving memory of a granddaughter and niece, Cherylene Margare. Aylesworth, who passed away six years ago, on March 6th, 1952.

Sweet memories will linger forever,
Time cannot change them it's true,
Years that may come cannot sever,
Our loving remembrance of you.

—Ever remembered by Grandmother Aylesworth, Uncle Edwin, and Harold Aylesworth.

AYLESWORTH. — In loving memory of our darling daughter Cherylene Margaret, who was instantly killed March 6th, 1952.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you.
In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly tender, fond and true
There is not a day, dear daughter,
That we do not think of you.

—Lovingly remembered by Mommy and Daddy.

AYLESWORTH. — In loving memory of our dear sister, Cherylene Margaret Aylesworth, who passed away March 6th, 1952.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach,
Sweet to remember who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.

—Lovingly remembered by Harry, Jeannie, Glenn and Wendy.

CARDS OF THANKS

Fred Bird wishes to express his sincere thanks and appreciation to Dr. Walers and nurses of 1st West; a special thank you to the student nurses, also to the many friends who sent gifts and cards during his stay in the Belleville General Hospital.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from relatives and friends during our recent bereavement in the loss of a dear wife and mother. A special thanks to Drs. J. Stock and B. Cronk, also nurses and special nurses of 3rd South, Belleville General Hospital.

—The Roblin and Denyes families.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market climbed irregularly higher today in slow morning trading.

Trading was the slowest since early January. The 11 a.m. volume of 449,000 shares compared with Wednesday's 510,000 at the same time.

Industrials added almost half a point on index. Golds and base metals also advanced but western oils eased.

Industrial gains were in fractions. Aluminium added ½ at 29½ among manufacturing. Bell Telephone and BC Power were winners for utilities. Banks were mixed but Traders Finance A gained ⅜ for financial institutions. Consolidated Paper and Price Brothers advance for papers. Moore Corp. was off a point at 65.

The mining list was narrowly higher. Noranda and International Nickel slipped among senior base metals. Steep Rock Iron climbed 15 cents at $9.90. Uraniums were firm. Gunnar gained fractionally among senior issues and Northspan and Stanleigh had gains ranging up to 10 cents among lower-priced issues.

Golds were higher. Hollinger gained. Giant Yellowknife added 30 cents at $3.95 and Bulolo posted a 15-cent gain at $3.85. Campbell Chib was ahead 20 cents at $4.75 for lower-priced coppers.

Western oils had Calgary and Edmonton and Home Oil A ahead fractionally among senior issues. Lower-priced gains and losses were confined to 10 cents.

Remarkable Courage Shown By Smith in Answering Call

MADOC (Staff) — Hon. Ellen Fairclough, Secretary of State, spoke on behalf of Hon. Sidney Smith, Minister of External Affairs, and unanimous winner of the Progressive Conservative nomination in Hastings-Frontenac yesterday at the riding convention in Madoc.

Mrs. Fairclough, who at one time was a practising chartered accountant in her home town of Hamilton, said Mr. Smith required "keen devotion to the people of Canada and remarkable courage" to leave the security of his job as president of the University of Toronto when Prime Minister Diefenbaker asked him to fill the cabinet post of Minister of External Affairs. Security in a government post is uncertain.

Said Mrs. Fairclough referring to the appointment of George S. White of Madoc to the Senate: "When Mr. Diefenbaker finishes filling the seats in the Senate, Canada will have the best and strongest Senate ever."

PROBLEMS INHERITED

Turning then to problems the Conservatives inherited when they took over from the St. Laurent administration last June, the Secretary of State said "the Diefenbaker team" was faced with the "highest trade deficit in history . . . totally inadequate pensions . . . a tremendous wheat surplus which almost ruined our trade . . . tight credit restrictions and high interest rates . . . a disturbance between dominion and provincial relations . . . an increase last June in the number of unemployed people in Canada."

She asserted that the Liberal adminstration was "fully aware" of the growing unemployment situation, "because a few weeks before parliament was dissolved in April, the prime minister (Mr. St. Laurent) was given a report on Canada's economy. It didn't waste words. It said restrictions and high interest rates had throttled Canada's economy and that, partly because of this, the unemployment situation in the remainder of 1957 and early 1958 would be bad. Despite this warning, the Minister of Finance (Walter Harris) chose to ignore it."

The $17,000 per year Cabinet minister said that Prime Minister Diefenbaker released $350 million to Canadian builders to "create jobs."

"The first $150 million went so fast," she said, "that long before parliament convened last fall there was a great demand for more. Shortly after parliament opened, Mr. Diefenbaker released an additional $150 million to Canadian home builders."

Mrs. Fairclough touched briefly on the federal-provincial hospital plan that is scheduled to go into effect on July 1, 1958.

"It took too many years for the Liberals to finally bring into parliament a federal-provincial hospitalization plan. They procrastinated for many years. Last spring, though, Mr. Martin (the then Minister of Health and Welfare) brought one in, but said it could not be put into effect before January 1, 1959, at the earliest. But his procrastination ended with the arrival of the Progressive Conservative administration. Now, Ontario will benefit from this hospitalization plan beginning July 1, 1958."

She accused the Liberal administration of spending or committing before the June election five-twelfths of the monies allotted for the operation of government departments. This left the Diefenbaker government with seven-twelfths of the original budget which must be stretched to the end of April this year. Because the new government was short of operating funds, the Opposition "took advantage" of it in the debates in the Commons.

FUTURE OF NORTH

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has released a multi-million dollar works program to develop Canada's far north.

Said Mrs. Fairclough: "When the prime minister talks about the north, his eyes gleam, his face beams and he can hardly restrain his enthusiasm."

"It's a cold fact," she continued, "that the USSR has cities in its far north and is developing natural resources in remote areas. Canada must do the same thing."

Airplanes are of no use in transporting heavy ore from remote areas "to Canadian processing plants." Therefore, access roads must be built to these remote areas.

What was the effect of the June election on the Liberal party?

"They were stunned. They were anesthetized — they still are rather dopey and they have not learned anything from it either," said the Secretary of State.

The speaker charged the Liberal party with "death - bed repentance," because after the Diefenbaker government announced its plans and projects "the Liberals stated they had planned to do the same."

CHARGES DELAYS

She said that in the 78 days of "bickering and delays" in the last session of the House of Commons, the Liberals did their best to prolong the delays so the Conservatives could not bring in important bills.

"We've got the bills to pass," she concluded, "but we cannot pass them until the people of Canada decide upon the government they want."

After the conclusion of Mrs. Fairclough's address, little Roxanne and Barbara Kellar, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Kellar of Madoc, presented Mrs. Fairclough and Mrs. Smith with bouquets of flowers and spent the rest of the convention sitting with the distinguished women guests.

The Ontario Society for Crippled Children in association with 220 Easter Seal Service Clubs are "aiming straight" for 12,560 crippled children in the province as today marks the opening of the annual Easter Seal Campaign for crippled children. They know that you will want to "hit the target" for kids too by donating to this fine cause. The campaign, which runs until Easter Sunday, April 6th, has a provincial objective of $750,000.

Sale of Easter Seals Means Hope for Crippled Children

Today marks the day when thousands of Rotarians, Lions, Kiwanians, Kinsmen, and other service club members go to bat for crippled children in Ontario.

The 12,560 crippled children in the province, living on farms or in city homes or in remote northern hamlets, know that the 1958 sale of Easter Seals means hope. To them the Easter Seals bring treatment and training, a possibility of independence and relief from the physical handicaps that birth, illness or accident have left them.

Last year, the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, whose only appeal for funds is made in the annual Easter Seal Campaign by 220 service clubs, carried out its biggest program in all its history. This year, the more than 12,500 youngsters, who are listed on the Society's rolls as quote "active" cases, will have increased because Ontario's swiftly growing population means hundreds of new cases each year. The provincial objective of this year's Easter Seal Campaign, March 6th to April 6th, is $750,000.

The organization that cares for this number of children is amazingly small. A tightly-knit office staff at headquarters in Toronto, a score of highly-trained nurses, a corps of volunteer doctors and an army of public-spirited citizens who give freely of their time. The result is a volume of service out of all proportion to the money spent in the work.

FINE NURSING SERVICE

This work takes several forms. There is a nursing service made up of twenty-two graduate nurses, each of whom has taken a special post-graduate course in orthopaedics and is authorized by special act of the Ontario Legislature to wear the title Orthopaedic Consultant. These nurses visit the homes of handicapped children, teach the parents how to administer therapy treatment or direct the child to medical attention.

The nurses function in specific divisions of the province ranging from the Lakehead to Eastern Ontario. Available for their use are qualified therapists whose value is indicated by the fact that the Ontario Government requested the assistance of two during a polio epidemic some years ago and which assistance was provided by the Society at no cost to the province or patients.

Five summer camps this year will give a three-week holiday to more than 1,200 children, who would otherwise have no such holiday because of their inability to attend conventional camps. This is the biggest crippled children's camping program of any single political area in the world and its importance is that it more than gives a holiday, it teaches children who are often embarrassed by handicaps to care for themselves and get along with other youngsters. Year round too, Woodeden near London, is a crippled children's centre to provide special treatment for resident and out-patients.

Clinics for the examination of children in areas far from major hospital centres are also organized and attended by top medical specialists from Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, and elsewhere giving their experienced advice. If children need hospitalization, this is provided on a specialist's advice and local doctors co-operate in providing treatment at home.

In many other programs the Easter Seals provide the means from alleviating suffering and providing training such as that in the unique Variety Village, which is operated by the Society for the Variety Club of Toronto, where crippled children learn trades. All these programs add up to a chance for youngsters whose future otherwise looks dark.

With the opening of the twelfth annual Easter Seal Campaign today, there will be thousands of service club men and women going to "bat" for Timmy. Your contribution to the Easter Seal Campaign is requested. The campaign objective is $750,000.

Mayor Hyde's Budget Address

Following is the text of Mayor Gerald B. Hyde's address to council at yesterday's special meeting when the 1958 tax rate was struck:

In the introduction of this budget by-law the taxpayers of Belleville are being treated to the rather unusual circumstance of increased municipal services coupled with a substantial reduction in the rate of taxation, unusual indeed in these days of ever-increasing personal expenses. The by-law calls for a tax rate of 71½ mills on residential property and 78 1/2 on commercial and industrial property which means, reduction of three full mills on each of the rates prevailing last year.

SEVERAL FACTORS

There are several factors which account for this reduction among them being our increased overall assessment, but the major reason for the tax reduction is the recently announced grant system for education in this province, a system which resulted in the estimated grants for education purposes for the City of Belleville from the Province of Ontario, being approximately $115,000 more for the three school boards combined than they would have been prior to this announcement and with the co-operation of the school boards concerned this benefit is being largely passed on to the people of Belleville.

To deal with certain specific items in this year's estimates, it would be well to point out that under a new scheme in co-operation with the Federal and Provincial governments, the City of Belleville is now paying a net of 20% of the cost of relief to indigents as opposed to 40% of the same cost a year ago. In addition to this change in cost sharing arrangement, the regulations themselves have been changed to provide assistance for many more persons than in previous years but in spite of this, we anticipate a net reduction in cost to the taxpayers of Belleville this year with the new cost sharing formula.

Since the advent of parking meters in Belleville your city council has used the revenue from these meters as a means of tax reduction and in recent years this has amounted to approximately $20,000 per year or roughly 1 mill. With the establishment in this city of a parking authority, we have been required by Provincial legislation to turn over all meter revenues to the authority expressly for expenses for parking purposes and as a result this money is not available for tax reduction purposes for the year 1958. As can be easily seen, your council lost 1 mill from this source in computing the tax rate for this year.

All other items of sundry revenues are approximately estimated to be the same as in previous years with the exception that monies in the amount of between 3 and $400 will be received from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation as that corporation sells each of the homes it owns in Bayview and Churchill Heights. Sales to the persons living therein have numbered 30, since first being offered for sale by the Corporation and we anticipate further consistent sales again this year. From these sales the City of Belleville recovers monies which several years ago were spent on local improvements when those subdivisions were first laid out.

WILL BUILD SEWERS

Turning to the expenses that your council has been faced with this year and to list a few of the more substantial ones, may I begin with the largest spending body under council control, namely, the public works department. After several years of consistent requests from the citizens on Henry and Parker Streets for relief from storm water flooding conditions in their area, council has budgeted this year a sum of $22,000 for the installation of new storm sewers on those streets to alleviate this undesirable condition. As soon as possible, it is anticipated that work will commence on these two projects so that the people concerned will not again be bothered with water on their living room floors as has occurred several times in several homes in the past.

Another basic change in the Department of Public Works is the provision for the first time this year of $20,800 which will commence a program of complete replacement of public works vehicles over the next six years. Part of the money will be spent this year on the replacement of a three-ton and a one-ton truck and on a new street roller, and the balance set aside in a depreciation fund which if repeated in succeeding years will level cost of maintaining up-to-date public works equipment and not leave council in the position of having to budget in any one year for an unexpected large amount for this equipment. The advent of this program is one which has been long advocated by many members of council for the public works department and makes very good sense when one reviews the repair costs per year of most of our machinery as opposed to the maintenance of up-to-date machinery in this department. The normal expense of the public works department on roads, sewers, sidewalks, trees, etc. is approximately the same amount as spent in previous years and in total the budget for the public works department for this year is almost $265,000.

FIREMEN ACCEPT TERMS

The fire department staff this year has accepted a 5% across the board salary increase and this accounts almost entirely for the increased cost of operation of this department which will be some $8,000 higher than that of a year ago.

In the traffic and light department provision has been made for the first year of a three-year program, of street sign installations throughout the entire city so that anyone approaching any intersection can easily identify the street in question.

Provision has been made in this year's budget for some $5,000 to effect necessary repairs to the tower of the city hall.

Provision has also been made in this year's budget for the purchase of a new cash register for the City Treasurer's office at an estimated cost of some $3,400. With the advent of annexation and the increased work expected in that department, it was felt that a new machine was desirable as the present machine being some 17 years old has passed its peak of efficiency as far as the work of that department is concerned.

In mentioning annexation it is well to point out that the sum of $3,000 has been allocated for planning and zoning costs which will be incurred this year preparatory to taking over the large portions of Sidney and Thurlow townships which will be part of this city next year.

The cost of general administration for the city as a whole has been slightly decreased from our requirements of a year ago, despite the fact that upward adjustments have been given to virtually every city employee's salary.

The cost of the police commission operation this year is increased by some $6,000 which is attributable almost entirely to salary increases to the members of the force but this year a two-year agreement has been made with the members of the police department and no further increase in salary will be given to 1960.

This year sees the completion of some old debenture charges including those of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and in each of the next two years several other substantial amounts will be retired on our list of ancient debentures. While new and costly projects are contemplated for the immediate future, the people of Belleville should not be too adversely affected financially because of the fact that many of our old debentures are now maturing.

COUNCIL CONGRATULATED

To summarize I believe that the council this year has been very fair in dealing with the budget prepared by our City Manager and treasurer and it has been able to accomplish more in two meetings than has been accomplished in many meetings in some of the other years that I have been a member of this council and I welcome this opportunity to pay tribute to the members of the council for the co-operative spirit in which they have dealt with the rather knotty problem.

I think it is important to point out that the consistent appeal of municipal councils through their united efforts in the Association of Mayors and Municipalities in impressing the senior governments over the years with the great need for increased financial assistance in the welfare and education fields of municipal services, is finally bearing fruit and our people are now receiving long overdue tax reductions as a result of these efforts. I well remember, as will Aldermen Argue, Temple and Tice, who were also on council at that time, how forcibly this need was brought to our attention by the then mayor, McLean Haig, in his inaugural address in 1953, and while we will undoubtedly receive whatever credit accrues to municipal representatives on a council at a time of tax reduction, we would be unfair to not acknowledge the efforts of previous councils which have been at least partially responsible for this pleasant condition today.

It is a pleasure, Mr. Chairman, to recommend passage of this by-law as presented.

$18,709 Collected in Back Taxes in Last Two Months

TRENTON — A report from the town tax collector revealed that $18,709.33 has been collected in back taxes during the month of January and February of this year in Trenton.

The report was read to the town council at their last regular meeting by the town clerk-treasurer, O. W. Larry and had been prepared and presented by the town tax collector R. G. Allan Weaver.

The town clerk stated the collections for the first two months of this year were more than had been collected in the same two months of 1957 and 1956 combined. During those periods $8,999.29 and $9,349.22 respectively had been taken in in back taxes.

It was also pointed out that the arrears in tax payments at the end of 1956 were $60,000 and at the end of 1957 it was $75,000 or an increase of 25 percent.

On question by a councillor the town clerk stated that $17,000 worth of property is in the process of being registered, due to non-payment of taxes, and will be ready in another two or three weeks.

The report also revealed that auditors' verification notices were mailed to all tax payers who owed taxes of December 31, 1957. This was followed up by a letter to those who had not made a payment since the first of January 1958, requesting that either payments or some satisfactory arrangement be made on or before March 15, 1958.

Mr. Larry reported this method was beginning to show good results.

In cases where no response is received, whatever action possible will be taken immediately following March 15, 1958.

The report stated that some of the properties are liable to be registered and these owners have been notified. In some cases personal interviews have been made.

The councillors, at the end of the report, extended their congratulations to the tax collector for his good work during the past year.

Ice Fishing In River Worst For Many Years

TRENTON — Ice fishing at the mouth of the Trent River and on the Bay of Quinte has probably seen one of its worst seasons in years.

There were no good catches reported from the 40 to 50 men who went to the trouble of putting their shacks out on the ice. Some became disgusted weeks ago and brought their shacks in to shore and called it quits for the season. Others are still out on the ice but the time for a good run of pickerel is over and there are very few being caught now.

Charlie Floud of 174 Dundas St. west, has been putting his shack out for years and stated this year was "terrible."

Mr. Floud said he was out Wednesday to his shack but the slush was so deep he was unable to bring it in alone. He stated he heard reports the ice was beginning to shift and expected a break-up in the near future, and if the huts aren't brought in soon they may not be brought in at all.

He said he couldn't give an estimate on how many fish were caught through the ice this year but he said if the rest had the same kind of luck he has had there were very few.

Asked if he knew how the fishing was going on the other side of the bay he said he had not heard but there was usually a better catch in that area of the bay.

The poor fishing season was generally blamed on the late arrival of freeze-up and when it finally did come the part of the season in which the biggest run of pickerel has always been noted was over.

Most of the fishermen were unable to get out on the bay until around the middle of January. The best run of fish is said to be in December.

Part-Time Work For 29 Jobless May Be Found

TRENTON — Town officials will try to find some part-time work for the 29 jobless in Trenton who are unable to draw unemployment benefits. This was decided Tuesday afternoon at the session of Town Council held in the Board Room of the Municipal Building.

Their decision came after the town clerk-treasurer, O. W. Larry read an enlargement of Premier Frost's release concerning a special program of provincial assistance to municipalities to stimulate employment.

Councillor Lange pointed out that the work given to these men must be work which was not slated to be done before May 31st. It must be a new venture.

The council was told that the provincial government will pay 70 per cent of the cost of wages and the town will pay the balance.

Councillor Lange also urged the council to find out what type of help was available before the projects were outlined. Some mentioned had been made previously concerning the painting of town buildings, equipment, etc. They also felt that some of the men could be turned over to the Parks Board where some projects may be available.

Councillor Lange moved that the town clerk get in touch with the manager of the Unemployment Commission and have the 29 men concerned attend an interview with the town engineer as soon as possible.

Acting-Mayor Jim McDonald said he believed very little use of this program was being made across the province.

COMPARING THE ELEPHANT AND THE WHALE

Comparing the educational systems of Russia, on the one hand, and of Canada and the United States, on the other, is "a little like comparing the elephant and the whale." That, according to an advance text we received, is what Dr. Murray G. Ross, vice-president of the University of Toronto, told the Welland Chamber of Commerce Wednesday, in an address which was presumably delivered in connection with the observance of Education Week in Canada. One could wish that all these addresses were equally colorful.

Just as the elephant and the whale "exist in quite different environments, function in quite different ways, and presumably exist for quite different purposes in nature's great design," so too, said Dr. Ross, educational systems in the Eastern and Western worlds "are designed to serve fundamentally different objectives."

Dr. Ross read sections of a report following a two-year study of education in the Soviet Union, a study sponsored by the United States Government. On the basis of these excerpts, he based the conclusion that the Soviet system of education "is directed, as a machine, at producing given numbers of units of various kinds which are required to make the state strong and powerful."

Dr. Ross suggested that, if we pause and reflect on the objective of Soviet education, we may conclude "that they have developed vastly improved means for achieving unimproved ends."

This conclusion, though, and an earlier warning in his speech that what is useful to the Soviets may not be of value to us, are only valid if we accept the argument that our own educational system should have some other objective. What is this objective? Dr. Ross quotes Lord Hailsham: "The ultimate pursuit of man is perfection. That is the greatest incentive of all; the search for perfection is the true end of education. To seek knowledge for its own sake, because it is truth, and not for any other reason; to seek beauty and utility to the maximum degree in everything one does, never to be content with one's own performance, but always to seek something better; to merge service in love of people; never to accept any standard except the best. this is the true end of education; it is the true meaning of life. It is more, it is the ultimate nature of worship."

"This," says Dr. Ross, "is what we are attempting to do." It is this sentence which bothers us. To whom did Dr. Ross refer when he used the pronoun "we?" If he meant a small group of educators, we shall not quarrel with his statement. But if he envisioned "we" as including all, or even most, of the people in the western democracies, we have grave fears that he is misled. We suspect that many of those who are critical of our system of education are not merely overlooking the differences between the objectives of our system and of the Russian system, but that in truth they really look on our schools as a method of producing "so many units to fit so many slots." They would argue that the slots to be filled are in a free enterprise economy, instead of in a system of state ownership, but we are not so sure that this difference is really material. We suspect that unless we accept Lord Hailsham's view that "to seek knowledge for its own sake - - is the true end of education" we might as well admit that the objectives of our educational system do not differ basically from the objectives of the Russian system and that, therefore, the "vastly improved means" which the Russians have developed constitute a real advantage for them.

Incidentally, if any person is tempted to judge between the objectives of the two systems, as outlined by Dr. Ross, solely on the basis of results, he ought to consider that Dr. Ross does not maintain that our present system achieves all its aims, or is incapable of being improved, even by the modification of Russian methods to meet our own different needs. Dr. Ross cites an increase in the diversity of the educational pattern, a more demanding curriculum, the promotion of self-discipline by "a considerable degree of external discipline" and the encouragement of respect for intellectual capacity as four ways in which we can learn from the Russians.

APOLOGIES

When he stepped on my corn he was very polite,
He was sorry, he stopped to explain;
He apologized freely. I answered:
"All right!"
But that didn't lessen the pain.

He apologized, too, when he sat on my hat,
As profusely as sorry men do.
He regretted to hand me my hat all crushed flat,
But that didn't buy me a new.

Apologies may be all right in their way,
But a far better method than that
Is to try to avoid, every hour of the day,
The other man's corns and his hat.

Picking Up Coffee Check

Hamilton Spectator

It was coffee time. In a downtown restaurant two young men, escapees from the rigors of the office desk, were restoring their jaded breakfast vitality with a hot and fragrant brew. This was their custom; an interlude, a change of scene and perhaps, too, there was a sense, dim in the consciousness of both, that it was something the boss could not deny.

At first there was silence and sighs as both stirred diligently. Then with no sense of leisure earned they began to talk "shop". The office and its problems flowed into the restaurant.

It was business all over again, but the locale was different, rendered faintly attractive by the illusion that the boss was being robbed of a few precious minutes and the tedium of the morning broken into two parts.

The waitress dropped, between them, in that "no man's land" in the centre of the table, a little slip of paper face down and bearing the empty "Thank you" of someone who was, apparently, perpetually grateful.

The time had come to go. Perhaps there was a feeling that the boss had already glanced at the clock on the office wall. But that innocent piece of paper might have been a hot coal that neither wanted to touch. Finally one of them said "Let's go!" Reluctantly he paid the price of conscience and picked up the bill. "Give me that!" said the other. "No, its my turn", said the first. "You paid yesterday", "No I didn't, but if you like . . ."

But the other was already at the door and was opening it politely.

One was reminded of an early Chaplin comedy in which the penniless but polite little tramp insisted in face of all the expostulations of his companion in being allowed to pay the bill, only to find the other give way suddenly and himself faced, with an empty and ragged pocket, by a threatening, walrus-mustached giant waving the check.

The art since then has been improved; the check lies longer in neutral territory. But it's still a test of character and hardihood to leave it there without weakening.

There would seem to be an unfortunate tendency on the part of the purveyors of musical events in this community to resent bitterly any adverse criticism of their protegees and employees.

Belleville is fortunate to have so capable and well-informed a critic as Mr. Eugene Lang. Let's keep hands off and let him perform his proper function.

HUMBLE SERVICE

It is difficult today to enter Communist China. That country has always to some extent been hidden away from the brisk travel of the world.

In the early 1800's an adventurous man named Karl Gutzlaff wandered up and down the coast of China. His mission was unusual. Dressed as a Chinese sailor, he slipped into every coast city where his junk landed and distributed Bibles among the inhabitants. Between trips he busied himself making translations of portions of the Bible not only into Chinese but also into Siamese and Japanese.

All this was preparatory for the gigantic work of Christian missionaries who would go to these Asian countries later. They found that the ground had already been prepared for their planting. Thousands of people already knew something about the Bible when the missionaries landed.

"God works in a mysterious way His wonders to perform." It is amazing the people He chooses to serve Him and the methods He uses to further the advancement of His kingdom. We can well believe that He is sweeping through our complicated modern life with plans which will eventuate in great spiritual advances. And we may be unaware of what is going on But if we serve faithfully where we happen to be, we will have aided Him in these divine projects.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In cartoons and other more or less good-natured cracks at the CBC, the personnel, the young ones, are shown wearing fancy beards, berets and other suggestions of the Left Bank of Paris.

As a matter of fact, you do see quite a few young beards around CBC headquarters in the various cities. Yesterday, I rode down in the bus with one of them that I recognized as having seen around the set. And I asked its owner about beards.

"Well," he said, frankly, "I can't speak for others. But for myself, it is an affectation."

I was suitably astonished.

"Yes," he said, "an affectation of which I am conscious. Most people have affectations of which they are unconscious. They affect an accent, perhaps what they think is an English accent, or a cultured accent. They are silly, and don't know it."

"And you. . . .?" I suggested, aghast.

"Yes," he said, and smiled most engagingly in his beard.

He said he supposed, being in the creative side of CBC, he was what was described as a young intellectual by us elders. What had distressed him, on coming of age, were all the affectations of people, affectations of the mind, pretensions, airs, mannerisms, which made them absurd, all unawares.

"I've got this," he said, ruffling it with his fingers, "and it's fun. It is a wholly conscious affectation. I flaunt it".

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHO CARES?

We are creatures of moods. There are times when each one of us gets into a mood that makes us despondent, without being able to figure it all out. Time and again I have read in my newspaper of a person's attempted suicide, but in nearly every instance that one is always glad the attempt failed. The excuse given, if any, is that "Nobody cared!' Well, somebody there is who does care. Even a "stranger" cares. When this unhappy mood comes to us we should immediately dismiss it and try to think of someone we love who would be very unhappy if any harm should come to us. There is always someone who does care. Remember that.

Never should we fail to be grateful for life and the opportunity to make others happy. God didn't give us this life to gamble away. We were put into this world for a purpose. Galsworthy, just before he died, exclaimed: "Death is such a waste of me!" And he was thinking of every soldier, and war as a thing of waste.

More people care as to our use and happiness in the world than we realize. In a time of tragedy, where many lives are concerned, everyone within knowledge of such a situation not only cares but does something about it. That is the unity that blesses all mankind.

That one whom you least suspect may care more about your health and happiness than anyone else! How unfortunate should you add another sorrow to the load which that one may already carry! What a privilege it is to light a spark of joy in another, which may make all the difference!

Scapegoatism

In the immature new nationalisms the handiest scapegoat is "colonialism," as represented by the people who are actually needed most — the businessmen and civil servants who have stayed on, as much out of dedication as for profit, to try to keep the country in some sort of stability.

Who Promised What Anyway?

Montreal Star

State Secretary John Foster Dulles continues to annoy his allies by insisting that the Russians were guilty of bad faith after the summit conference of 1955 by refusing to implement a summit decision to reunite Germany on the basis of free elections. The fact is that such a pledge was never given by the Russians who safeguarded themselves carefully in the wording of the summit communique. This is the salient paragraph:

"The heads of government, recognizing their common responsibility for the settlement of the German question and the reunification of Germany, have agreed that the settlement of the German question and the reunification of Germany by means of free elections shall be carried out in conformity with the national interests of the German people and the interests of European security."

It all depends on your interpretation of the Germans' "national interests" and "European security." Russia interprets Germany's national interest as being a neutral and disarmed state untrammelled by an alliance with the west, a cosy western neighbor who may be traded with and who will never get uppity. Russia interprets European security as a collective security treaty among all European states, with an understanding not to join any conflicting alliance (such as NATO). If the Reds could realize both of their own definitions of the two terms, then they might agree to look into the question of uniting both Germanys in a leisurely fashion.

Mr. Dulles may be justified in remaining aloof from another summit meeting, on the ground that another ineffectual session like that of 1955 would simply add to the Russian propaganda mill. But it is a different thing again to say that the Russians reneged on solemn promises they made then. We profoundly disagree with their idea of what is good for other nations, or even for themselves, but we can hardly expect them to read communiques with a westerner's mind when the Russian text — and interpretation — is so handy.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

THE ALCOHOLIC NEEDS SYMPATHY AND UNDERSTANDING

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a very serious problem and hope you can help me. My husband doesn't touch beer sometimes for two weeks, but when he does, he drinks it all day.

"He took pills called Antabuse for 2½ years and didn't drink. He was a man. Then he started — he'd put the pill in his mouth and go to the bath room and spit it out. He was cheating.

"It's getting now so I've got lost weekends with him. Is there a liquid that can be taken instead of the pills for such a stinker? I've begged him to join the AA's but he won't hear of it. — Mrs. D.M.".

Drinking is a widespread problem. The pills, Antabuse, are a drug that makes a person sick when he drinks alcohol in any form.

The fatal weakness of this drug is exactly the sort of thing you discovered. As long as a man or woman takes it, it is impossible to drink without getting miserably sick. But there isn't anything you can do to make the person keep on taking it. Booze-hounds usually are smart people. Don't ask me why,, because my answer would be long and complicated although (I believe) entirely logical. No matter whether you give the drug in pill or in liquid form, a person who is sternly devoted to getting drunk will find some way of not taking it.

I wish you wouldn't refer to your weekend alcoholic husband as a "stinker". I admti that a conscietious alcohol-hound seems to be a thorough stinker while he is still bottle-happy, but I've known so many alcoholics who turned out to be mighty nice people by themselves (by that I mean without alcohol in them) that I'm convinced it is the drinking and not the person that is the stinker.

VICTORY COMES FROM WITHIN

Don't rely on drugs, unless the drinker himself wants them. The real victory comes in the moment at which the drinker really wants to stop drinking.

By all means keep hoping that your husband will turn to Alcoholics Anonymous, or to an alcoholism clinic if he prefers, and be ready to help him any time he is ready to start.

An alcoholic needs all the help he can get in the way of sympathy and understanding — but he himself must have the will to try.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Should a man who thinks his family is large enough undergo an operation to make him sterile? If the surgeon cuts off the sperm outlet channel (not just ties it) what effect will this have on the man's personality and physical magnetism, as well as his obtaining normal satisfaction in his sex life? — J. B."

Such questions come to me repeatedly, and the best advice I can give is "don't have the operation.' I've had letters from men who asked afterward what they could do to have it remedied, because they wanted more children. (You can't do anything about it then).

I've heard from men who, afterward, just wondered whether they had done the right thing.

Physically there won't be enough difference to be worth even passing notice. But what happens in the man's mind? You never know. That's why my answer is "don't." It's the same advice I give women who want to have their tubes tied off.

Note to the reader who has been using four kinds of cold cream: My best opinion is that none of them had a thing to do with excess hair on the face, lanolin or no lanolin. For every letter I get asking what will stop hair from growing, I get another asking what will make it grow. I don't know of a cream that will do either. Sorry.

Are you a victim of "vitamin starvation?" To make sure that your diet always contains proper food, write to me in care of this newspaper for my pamphlet, "Vitamins Alphabet Of Health," enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

From Epigram to Cliche

New York Times

It's hard to get through a day without hearing a cliche. Probably impossible, as long as you hear any words at all. You thought you and your partner had the golf game in the bag, but the other two fellows didn't play according to Hoyle and so they upset the apple-cart. That cooked your goose. But there's no use getting your back up over it, or flying off the handle. You'll just get down to brass tacks, ride hell for leather and knock the tar out of them next time. Even if it takes a month of Sundays.

• • •

A cliche is made, not born. The process begins when someone hits upon a bright new way of stating a common experience. At that point, the remark is an epigram. But if it is particularly apt as well as catchy, the saying receives wide circulation as verbal coin. Soon it is likely to be suffering from overwork. It has then arrived at clichehood. The dictionary records the doom of the successful epigram in defining a cliche: "A trite phrase: a hackneyed expression." For the epigrammatist, the only cheer in this process is that it proves his expression was good. Even this situation is covered by a cliche: "Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery."

• • •

Actually, the epigrammatist suffers a worse fate than his epigram It is a rare cliche which can be traced back to its originator. The late lexicographer Charles E. Funk, who spent a great deal of time tracking down the origins of popular expressions, found very few that he could pin on anybody. One was "Iron Curtain," which Sir Winston Churchill originated (in lower case) in his speech at Fulton, Mo., less than a year after the end of World War II. But he is a conspicious man and that was a conspicuous occasion. The legion of drawing-room wits and cocktail party wags who produce most of our epigrams are, or soon become anonymous.

• • •

Occasionally a cliche becomes totally separated from its literal origins. That is because it serves a purpose as a figure of speech even though the thing which gave rise to it has disappeared or been forgotten. This was another problem which plagued Dr. Funk. For one of his books on well-known expressions he chose, in advance, the title "Heavens to Betsy." After exhaustive research, he confessed that he had not been able to satisfy himself about the origin of the phrase. But he used it anyway because he still thought it was a good title. Dr. Funk had just as much trouble with the literal origins of such expressions as "cool your heels" and "turn the tables," among many others.

• • •

You might think, in view of the epigram's probable progress to clichehood and the epigrammatist's doom of anonymity, that nobody would try to think up a bright saying. But obviously people do. Probably there is a circular process here. Someone gets tired of hearing a thought expressed in the same tired old way, and so he cudgels his brain until he finds a new way. Thus he has coined an epigram to replace a cliche. And if his epigram is good, it will eventually become a cliche. This could go on forever.

New Darkroom For Camera Club Kiwanis Centre

Last Tuesday evening, saw a new era open for the Belleville Camera Club when Mr. J. C. R. Punchard, representing The Belleville Kiwanis, officially opened the Camera Club darkroom in the basement of the Kiwanis Centre. A darkroom has been a long-needed feature of camera club work and the club members are all anticipating extended club activities now that this room has been made available.

Don McDougall, Camera Club president, thanked the Kiwanis Club on behalf of the Camera Club and also paid tribute to those members of the Camera Club who had carried out the alterations, painting etc, to make the space suitable as a darkroom. The Camera Club also equipped the room.

Hedley James extended the Camera Club's congratulations to Mrs. F. Wallis who recently won a naturalists color slide competition in Toronto. Mrs. Wallis is a valued member of the Camera Club who specializes in nature photography.

Tuesday evening was also eventful in another way for the Camera Club as their president, Don McDougall announced his immediate resignation due to his having been posted out of town for some months. The club regrets the loss of an active and enthusiastic president but even more will feel the loss of a most faithful and conscientious member who during his three years of membership in the club helped and guided it to its present state.

At the close of the meeting everyone toured the darkroom and many fine comments were heard on the generosity of the Kiwanis Club for the space and the energy of the Camera Clubbers in readying the room for use.

Corporation Farming Threat To Family Farm

TWEED — The Farmers' Union O.F.U. Local No. 167 held their meeting in Tweed on Monday evening, in Hungerford Township Hall. The secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Jeffrey gave a report of the board meeting and also the resolutions sent from the other locals from this district. The meeting was under the direction of president Milton Elliott.

Mr. R. Clarence Graham introduced and welcomed the guest speaker, Mrs. Trosser, of Blackstock. Mrs. Trosser is president of the ladies branch of the O.F.U. and has completed four years of active union work.

She reviewed the O.F.U. since its' organization in the town of Feversham, by two young farm veterans of the Korean War, who wanted farmers to learn farm improvements.

Approximately five years ago, speakers were sent from Manitoba to assist the local in its organization as the O.F.U. was strong in that province. With only the money from the dues to work on, they organized 40 locals in one year. The following year there were 60 locals in operation. They held their first convention and drew up a constitution composed of three important clauses which the speaker thought should never be changed or altered; namely; (1) There should be a direct membership of dues organization; (2) women should have equal status with men; (3) non-partisan in politics. Since that time the O.F.U. has grown to 306 locals with nine more in the making.

The greatest threat to the family farm today is corporation farming, a real danger — a danger which could create ghost towns which could set prices. This can be fought only with a strong farm union.

The speaker noted in presenting the briefs to the governments, executives have been complimented by members for their direct thinking. The 1958 meeting in Ottawa was the best yet, 70 interested farmers attended at their own expense. O. F. U. presents briefs not only to the Cabinet but to all members as many M. P.'s do not know the farmers' problems.

Although farmers make up only 16% of the population of Canada, according to Hansard, rural constituencies comprise from 60 to 65 seats in the House of Commons.

The speaker also stressed the need of parity prices which is the platform of the Ontario Farmers' Union.

In conclusion lunch was served by the committee and a social evening was enjoyed.

A meeting of the O.F.U. was held in Madoc, March 4th, and another was held in Marlbank on March 5th. Farmers are urged and invited to attend all meetings of the O.F.U. for their own interests and profitable information.

On The Hustings

Failure to Pick Quebec Leader PC Weak Spot

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Lester B. Pearson has struck at what he considers one of the weak spots in the attitudes of the Progressive Conservatives—the fact that they had never picked a leader from Quebec.

"The attitude of the Conservative party does a disservice to national unity," the Liberal leader said during one of four addresses delivered during four rallies Wednesday night.

He raced across the city in a police-led motorcade to keep the four engagements in four hours in scattered parts of the city. Altogether he spoke to more than 3,000 persons, French, English and Jewish. He was near exhaustion towards the end of the evening, but got a dramatic standing oyation from a predominately Jewish gathering in the middle of his speech when he renewed a pledge to support the state of Israel.

There was nothing in reports spread by opponents, he said, that the Liberals had lost interest in Israel. As prime minister, he would continue to give that kind of support that he always had given to Israel since the day of birth.

NEED QUEBEC

Lionel Chevrier, one-time federal transport minister and now head of the federal Liberals in Quebec, spoke alongside of Mr. Pearson at three of the four meetings, saying that no party can rule without Quebec's support.

"I am beginning to believe," he said, "that (Prime Minister) Diefenbaker is licked and he knows it."

He claimed that Mr. Pearson saved the world from a third world war during the Suez crisis of 1956 and the Liberal leader himself touched on this point, saying:

"You should not forget that at the same time the Conservative party was critical of our policy and advocated another which I believe, had it been adopted would not have served Canada to the same degree nor maintained peace."

Mr. Chevrier repeatedly stated also that some top Conservatives had said before last June they could form a government without Quebec's support.

"They said they didn't need us. Now we say we don't need you (the Conservatives)."

CHARGES "PHONEY"

At the last of the evening's rallies, George Marler, another former transport minister, joined the speakers to charge that Mr. Diefenbaker's $1,100,000,000 public works program was "phoney."

It was another gruelling day in the Liberal leader's search for his first mandate. Opening a four-day campaign in Quebec—the Liberals' stronghold — he called on Paul - Emile Cardinal Leger, Mayor Sarto Fournier and city council and faced about 400 university students in the Liberal Reform Club.

Mayor Fournier, a Quebec Liberal senator, said it was a "deep and personal" pleasure to welcome Mr. Pearson. Inviting him to sign Montreal's Golden Book he suggested Mr. Pearson could sign "MP or PM"." The Liberal leader declined the suggestion and wrote his name only and afterward put Ottawa, Ontario.

He told the students:

1. If Mr. Diefenbaker chooses to enter into an axis with Premier Duplessis "that's his responsibility."
2. The Liberals are in favor of a distinctive Canadian flag.
3. The West should seize the initiative in the cold war and make proposals to Russia instead of the negative position of replying to proposals put out by Russia.
4. Shipment of Alberta oil to Montreal could be done economically. But the move should be considered only as a "last resort" if the United States refused to lift curbs on Canadian oil.

NATIONAL UNITY

As Mr. Pearson moved from one Montreal meeting to another Wednesday night, he kept emphasizing that the Liberals were the guardians of national unity.

"Proof of our party's abiding belief and fathering of national unity is that selection of men from both founding races as the leaders of our party.

"The attitude of the Conservative party does a disservice to national unity. This is not the only weakness of this party's policies and attitudes.

"Look about you . . . at the number of unemployed men and women. Compare the present economic situation with that which existed prior to June 10 last. Ask yourself — has the Conservative party really served your best interests since it came to power?"

Mr. Pearson will remain in Montreal today, meeting local reporters, speaking at a luncheon and preparing for a national television broadcast tonight. He will speak at Quebec City Friday and at Chicoutimi, Que., Saturday, flying to Newfoundland Saturday [illegible]

U.S. Also Sees Public Works as Recession Cure

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINDSOR (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday the United States government apparently had the same slant on unemployment as his administration because it too, launched a public works program to combat it.

Yet, he told a crowd of 3,000 Wednesday in this recession-hit automotive city on the American border Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson insisted public works were not the answer. Instead, he proposed tax-cuts which would not take full effect until tax-paying time in April, 1959.

The Progressive Conservative leader wheeled through Windsor, Leamington and Chatham Wednesday and Wednesday night, the midway point in the campaign for the general election March 31. At Leamington he talked of a "truly Canadian citizenship," merging all national strains, and at Chatham he promised the nation's farmers protection against "the dumping proclivities of the Americans."

The 3,000 persons who heard his Windsor speech packed a swank nightclub on the outskirts. Thirty-five pickets paraded outside during his 20-minute address, carrying placards demanding action on unemployment, criticizing U.S. trade policy and calling for greater aid to the automobile industry.

The man who organized the picketers outside the meetings, Charles Brooks president of the Chrysler local of the United Automobile Workers, said 100 picketers would turn up. But their numbers were never greater than about 35.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberal tax cuts could not become law for at least a month after the new Parliament meets and the House could not convene until May 8 at the earliest.

The tax change would be felt immediately by those whose taxes were deducted at source but others would receive no benefit until April, 1959.

The Conservatives, on the other hand, had acted swiftly to combat unemployment by extending wintertime job benefits, cutting income taxes by $146,000,000, adding incentives for housing construction and kicking off the greatest public works program in Canadian history.

This country's works plan was operative four months before the U.S. got its rolling, he said.

At Chatham later in the day he hinted in a speech to a packed armories that the government may soon announce the price support levels which will be effective with the new Agricultural Prices Stabilization Act.

At another point, he said: "We will not allow the Canadian farmer to be sacrificed by the dumping of agricultural products by the United States."

Today the prime minister travels to Kitchener for an afternoon meeting and then to Hamilton for a speech at night. Following that, he heads into Western Canada.

Wednesday night he made a brief reference to the picketers who carried signs about unemployment outside the meeting at Windsor.

"My heart went out to them," he said. "I know what unemployment is. Nobody can tell me anything about that."

He apparently was referring to his early days as the son of a school teacher who ran a school and homesteaded on virgin land in Saskatchewan.

Mr. Diefenbaker also spoke of the price supports his government provided last fall for sugar beets, an important crop in this area.

The Liberals now were promising support for sugar beets.

"A great change has come over the Liberal party since June 10. It's amazing how much they have learned . . . over and over again the last government was asked to act. Did they hear you? Did they heed you?"

One man in the audience shouted: "No."

Mr. Diefenbaker said one of his big policies is to encourage greater processing in Canada of raw materials.

It didn't make sense to plan, as the Liberals had, the export of 10,000,000 tons of iron ore through the St. Lawrence seaway "to provide jobs in another country, however friendly."

He also replied to a statement of Mr. Pearson that the Conservative policy of northern development was a program of roads "from igloo to igloo."

"We believe that under the igloos of the North is vast wealth that should be developed for the benefit of Canada."

Mr. Pearson apparently didn't know of "vast" resources of oil and minerals under Baffin Island and elsewhere in the North.

Oil Promoters' Profits Claimed 350,000 Per Cent

VANCOUVER (CP) — CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell says private ownership of natural gas and oil pipeline companies has brought "the most fantastic exploitation of the Canadian people and insidious undermining of Canadian industry."

He told a public meeting here Wednesday night that promoters of pipeline companies have made quick fortunes at the expense of the public and that the Progressive Conservative and Liberal parties propose to do nothing about it.

"The CCF urges as it always has that these utilities should be publicly developed like Ontario Hydro and the Saskatchewan Power Commission," he said. "The old-line parties stand for the exploitation by private monopolies but they are too ashamed to speak up on this question."

Mr. Coldwell said the most "blatant" example of a quick fortune involves the Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company which will distribute natural gas from Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Company to Northern Ontario communities.

"The president of this company, Mr. Ralph Farris of Vancouver, got 37,500 shares at four-fifths of a cent apiece which were subsequently offered to the public at $10 for a fantastic capital gain of 125,000 per cent," he said.

"In other words, for every dollar he put in he made $1,250 and then when the stock rose on the market, his gains on every dollar of investment rise to about $3,500 or 350,000 per cent, certainly a rate of profit that is unprecedented."

Another "trick" of these companies was to manipulate their capital structures to obtain immediate and immense capital gains. This was done by keeping equity capital down to a small fraction so that profits went to a favored few.

Mr. Coldwell said that as a result of this manipulation capital gains totalled some $600,000,000 for four gas and oil pipeline companies.

He said still another "trick" of these companies is to sell gas to United States corporations which dominate them at rates lower than available to Canadians.

The Westcoast Transmission Company sold gas to a U.S. corporation at 22 cents per 1,000 cubic feet while the price to Canadian distributors was 32 cents.

The statements were included in the text of excerpts from a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Education Week

Guidance in Secondary Schools

Editor's note: This being Education Week, The Ontario Intelligencer is following its customary practice of presenting a series of articles by local educationists on various topics connected with their vitally important field of endeavor.

By G. LOCKLIN

The Secondary School Guidance program has a number of aims, but the most important is to assist the pupil to choose a worthwhile goal and to help him reach it. To accomplish this, it helps him to adjust to a new school, it measures his abilities, it records his progress, it presents an overall view of occupational opportunities in Canada today, and it assists the pupil to select from these opportunities those which seem to suit best his own interests, abilities and aspirations. Outlined here are a few of the ways in which this program is carried out.

Pupils entering secondary school are given an opportunity to learn about it before leaving public school. Guidance personnel visit Grade 8 classes in the spring to register pupils for Grade 9 and give them information about courses offered, options, and educational requirements for certain jobs. After registration, the pupils are given a short counselling interview to verify their course selections. Having selected courses the pupils are now ready for visiting day which takes place in June. At this time, they visit the secondary school to meet their new teachers, visit their new classrooms, and are shown around the school. It is felt that this orientation program does much to bridge the gap between the elementary and secondary schools.

Records are an important tool in the guidance program. An accumulative record folder is maintained for each pupil in the school and into this goes his public school record which shows his progress since he began school. To this is added his secondary school record term by term, his information and interview reports, and the results of special tests. This information will be accumulated over his high school career and is invaluable when problems of subject strength, special interests or career choice are considered. After the student has left school, this folder is carefully preserved so that its information will be available if needed by the student for future reference.

Occupational opportunities in Canada are presented at two levels. In Grade 9, two periods per week are spent in exploring occupations. In Grade 12, one period per week is spent in group work. In Grade 9 the pupil is encouraged to take a critical look at himself through special reading, learning and interest tests. When he discovers that he is different in interests, abilities and aptitudes from others, he is ready to look at occupations to see which require what he has to offer. Next the student learns about the steps to take in getting a job through advertisements, application blanks, letters of application and the interview.

In Grade 12 much more time is spent in testing and encouraging the student to make use of special abilities in career planning. Opportunities for further education are considered—course requirements, financial assistance and professional opportunities available after completion of the course. Since many students leave Grade 12 for employment, considerable time is spent on the mechanics of obtaining a job. The student who takes, full advantages of these opportunities for critical evaluation of himself in the light of available opportunities cannot help but benefit from this program.

Counselling services are provided for all pupils. Pupils have available the service of an experienced counsellor and a good library of educational and vocational information whenever they request assistance. All Grade 9 and senior students are interviewed once during the year in order to consider course and opinion selection. Students in other grades are counselled upon request or as the need arises. All students who have failed in term tests are interviewed and assisted in correcting study programs each term. Any pupil who seeks help can get it through the counselling program.

Placement of pupils in jobs is carried out to a limited extent. Employers often contact the guidance department to make known their employment openings. Students who are ready to leave school or who are looking for summer employment are informed of these employment openings.

By assisting the pupil to know himself, to know his opportunities, and to know how to make the most of them, the Guidance Department contributes to the secondary school program.

City Ward Re-distribution To Be Requested by Counci

A re-distribution of the city ward system, calling for the elimination of two present, wards the extension of two others and the setting up of two new wards in the area coming under the municipal board's annexation award, will be recommended for approval by the Ontario Municipal Board.

Yesterday afternoon at the special budget meeting, council agreed to the ward redistribution and approved of the plan being presented to the Municipal Board.

Under the scheme the present Foster and Samson wards would be combined, as would Ketcheson and Baldwin wards.

Bleecker ward would retain its present boundaries, but Coleman would take on Murney 18 and 19, while Murney would be extended to the west to take in the annexed area west of the city.

PLAN NEW WARDS

North of the city and east of the city two new wards, still to be named, would be established.

Mayor Gerald Hyde said the re-distribution would see all wards with a present or potential population of approximately 5,000 persons.

Foster and Samson wards would have approximately 4700 persons; Ketcheson and Baldwin would have about 5571; Bleecker would have just over its present 3000; Coleman would have about 5000; Murney and its planned extension about 3400. The ward to be set up north of the city would have about 3400 and the new ward east of the city about 1000.

The ward to the east of the city would have the greatest population potential as it is there the greatest housing development would be expected to take place.

School board representation in the new ward system wou remain the same.

WOULD EXTEND BOUNDAR

As chairman of the city pla ning committee Ald. Les Digb also noted that the city woul recommend the eastern bound ary of the annexed area be ex tended slightly to obviate a pro blem which Thurlow townshi would have in school attend ance.

It is suggested that the an nexed area take in all of lot 1 in Thurlow, which would ex tend the boundary just east o the Haig Sideroad. This woul allow some 18 children livin on Haig Sideroad to continue t attend Bayview School instea of having to attend anothe school two miles away.

Ald. Digby suggested that thi was "the fair way out" insofa as the township was concerne

PAINTED TOWN RED

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three Ohio State University students were dismissed from school Wednesday after officials said the trio literally painted the town red. The three were spotted by a campus policeman as they were using their scarlet - loaded paint sprayer. School officials said they had painted 118 campus parking meters and a parking lot entrance. The policeman fired two shots in the air to bring them to a halt.

German Girl Met Husband At House Party

TORONTO (CP)—Harry Oakes, 25, son of the late mining multimillionaire Sir Harry Oakes, has left here for a Bahamas honeymoon with the 18-year-old German immigrant girl he met at a house party four months ago.

The couple were married Monday in a civil ceremony in suburban Willowdale. First public news of the wedding came Wednesday when they talked to reporters just before boarding an airliner for Nassau.

The bride is the former Christiane Botsch, daughter of a Hamburg meat packer who came to Canada 18 months ago to visit family friends and attend a university extension course here.

Friends of the bride described the Botsch family as "wealthy," but Christiane would not comment, except to remark: "I just don't know what to say to that."

Harry is the youngest of three sons of Sir Harry Oakes who struck it rich in goldfields near Kirkland Lake in 1911. Sir Harry was found bludgeoned to death in his Bahamas mansion in 1943. His son-in-law, Alfred de Marigny was charged with the murder and acquitted. The crime has never been solved. The Oakes estate was estimated at $25,000,000.

BECAME ENGAGED

Harry met Christiane last November at a house party in suburban Scarborough. The slender blonde girl said they became engaged in January and quietly made plans for the March 3 wedding.

The ceremony was performed by Magistrate Fred W. Bartrem in the magistrate's office and attended by a small group of relatives and friends.

The couple will stay in the Bahamas at the home of Sir Sydney Oakes, Harry's older brother who inherited his father's baronetcy. They plan to go to Hamburg later this month for a Lutheran church wedding, then return to make their home in Toronto's fashionable suburb of Forest Hill.

Harry Jr., has shunned the publicity which has surrounded the Oakes family all his life and little is known about him. While attending university he worked one summer under an assumed name at the family's mine, Lake Shore Gold Mines, at Kirkland Lake. None of his fellow workers knew his identity. The mine was sold to the Little Long Lac group two years ago.

TALK TO REPORTERS

Before their departure Wednesday the newlyweds chatted freely with reporters about their romance. The bride said she was "very much in love" and "very, very happy." Said the smiling groom: "It was love at first sight."

They said the marriage had the blessing of Harry's mother, Lady Eunice Oakes, who attended the ceremony and the reception.

The bride, who displayed a wedding ring of platinum set with six small diamonds and an engagement ring with a solitaire diamond, said: "I like Canada. I know we'll be happy here."

For the marriage, she wore a soft green-and-brown tweed suit. Mrs. Oakes said she isn't in favor of the new chemise style for women.

"I hate those sacks. I wouldn't wear one."

SAFETY CAMPAIGN

MONTREAL (CP)—The board of the Quebec provincial women's institutes passed a motion urging municipal councils to implement safety measures to reduce traffic accidents, and to establish a program of motoring education for young people.

Parkdale W.I. Has Interesting Program

Parkdale W.I. held its regular monthly meeting at the hall on Wednesday evening with the Foxboro and Plainfield Institutes as guests.

The president, Mrs. G. Palmer, opened the meeting and gave the two visiting Institutes a hearty welcome.

There was one report from the sick committee with one baby being born. Roll call was answered by 20 members and several visitors on "How I Can Be A Good Citizen."

The president, during the business, advised that the nominating committee should select its new officers for the coming year. Girls to help for the teen-age party that was held on Friday evening were also requested.

After the short business meeting, Mrs. Palmer turned the meeting over to Mrs. G. Priest, convener for the evening, with Mrs. H. Fralick reading the motto, "Be A Good Citizen, Help One Another." "Never Say 'Diet'," was read by Mrs. J. Salmon of Plainfield, followed by current events by Mrs. A. McAuley.

Mrs. Shorey from Foxboro gave a humorous monologue entitled "The Inventor's Wife," and Mrs. Rombough delighted with two musical numbers with guitar accompaniment.

Mrs. Elliott, of Plainfield, gave a reading, "Are You A Worker Or Do You Just Belong?"; Mrs. Hayton of Foxboro, a monologue on "The Colored Lady." All the talent from Foxboro and Plainfield was much appreciated to round out a most entertaining evening.

Mrs. A. Hughes gave an interesting talk and demonstration on the "Decorating of Tables for Children at Easter," showing how to make several things that would be amusing for the small fry such as Easter bunnies and carts.

Mrs. Priest divided the group into six small groups. Two contests were worked after which refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostesses, Mrs. N. McKibbon, Mrs. E. Gray and Mrs. A. Robinson.

Wedding

JOSS — LEWIS

CAMPBELLFORD — A quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Saturday, March 1st, when Grace Evelyn Lewis of Ottawa, daughter of Mrs. Allan Lewis, of Hastings, and the late Mr. Allan Lewis, became the bride of Walter Joss, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hans Joss of Lucerne, Switzerland.

The Rev. A. E. Toombs of St. Andrew's performed the ceremony and Mr. Albert Hazell played the wedding music.

Mrs. Jack Taylor, sister of the bride, sang the "Wedding Prayer", and "The Lord is My Shepherd."

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Don Lewis of Peterborough, the bride wore a gown of beige lace with matching jacket, a small petal point hat and a corsage of green orchids. Matron of honor was Mrs. Milan Chvostek, of Toronto, sister of the bride, gowned in old gold taffeta and carrying Talisman roses. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Ferdinand Wenger, of Switzerland.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom.

After a short honeymoon trip, the couple will take up residence at the bridegroom's home on No. 30 highway.

Holloway St. United WAEB Plans Tea

Last Tuesday evening, the Evening Group of the W.A. of Holloway St. United Church met in the ladies' parlor at the church. There was a good attendance and nine new members present.

Mrs. Helen Joblin expressed her delight in seeing so many out especially, since Mr. L. W. Digby, clerk of session, was to be guest speaker for the evening.

After the opening hymn, Mrs. Joblin introduced Mr. Digby who spoke on the "Duties of the Official Board of the United Church." This was an informative talk and much was learned from it.

The worship service was taken over by Mrs. Ethel Knight and her group. The Scripture reading was taken by Mern Richardson. Dorothy Wills read the meditation which was followed by prayer with Mrs. Gwen Kerr leading.

A business meeting followed. Mrs. Grace McCauley was asked to be the official pianist for the coming year and especially thanked for her work in the past.

It was decided that the March meeting would be held with the afternoon group.

The "Spring Tea" is to be convened by Mrs. J. Bateman, Mrs. Gwen Kerr, Mrs. Helen Harper, and Mrs. Jean Townsend. This is to be held sometime in May.

Mrs. Ethel Knight who is an expert in the art of icing cakes gave an excellent demonstration and iced a cake for the group which was auctioned off and went to the highest bidder, Mrs. Ruth Bailey.

Mrs. Joblin thanked Mrs. Knight for helping to make the evening a great success.

Delicious little cakes and coffee were served by Mrs. Knight's group.

Women's Institute

REDNERSVILLE W.I.

The February meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Redner on Thursday evening with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. Harmon Montgomery, took charge.

The grandmothers were guests at this meeting.

It was decided to send a delegate to Guelph in May to the Officers' Conference. Also to send 25 cents per member to the F. W. I. O. and $10 was donated to go to Ceylon to help the flood victims.

Another euchre is to be held this week.

The conveners, Mrs. Douglas Redner, and Mrs. Hubert Townsend took charge of the program. Mrs. Townsend gave "Current Events". Each member was to wear something to represent an old song. Everyone enjoyed guessing the song's title. Several readings were given.

A vote of thanks was tendered to hostess, program conveners and lunch committee. A prize was given the youngest grandmother present, Mrs. Ralph Redner; also a prize to the one who had the most grandchildren and Mrs. Doxtator was the winner.

Mrs. Townsend conducted a contest with Mrs. Green and Mrs. Montgomery the winners.

A pot-luck supper is to be held at Victoria Church in March.

'Shining Hour' Given Fine Performance by Local Cast

By ELAINE JARDINE

Last night the Belleville Theatre Guild staged an extremely successful production of Keith Winters' "Shining Hour," at the Park Theatre.

Directed by Betty Sadler, this play gives the local Guild a wonderful opportunity to display its treasure of talent. Mrs. Sadler has directed her performers with a sensitivity and sureness which hold great promise for her as a director in the future and her stage crew headed by Roy Binns as stage manager, provided an excellent setting. Don Thomas as producer of the play co-ordinated all the activities to provide a very pleasurable evening worthy of the support of the entire community.

The action of the play occurs in a country house in Yorkshire over a period of several weeks and begins with the return of Henry Linden and his recent bride, Mariella to Henry's old home.

Harry Mulhall as Henry was most convincing and is to be congratulated on his ease of delivery and gesture. Nicky Thomas as his wife, although not completely at ease as the aloof, serene woman of the world in the beginning of the play, gradually improved and except for a slightly plaintive quality in the third act gave the sterling performance we have come to expect of one of Belleville's veteran actresses.

AUDIENCE'S FAVORITE

Sadie Rose who played the role of Hannah, the sharp-tongued spinster, was easily the audience's favorite and except for occasional over-emphasis and a slight need for variety, her characterization was excellent.

Lovely little Flo Yanover scored another acting success to her credit as Judy, the tender, self-effacing wife, who introduces tragedy into, the story through her absolute devotion to her husband David—played by Syl Quinn.

In spite of a rather weak entrance and a tendency to overplay casual scenes, Syl plays a different part with understanding and sensitivity and the able techniques he has acquired through many varied roles in the local theatre productions comes into full play to create a polished performance.

The remaining character, young Mickey Linden, was performed by David Evans and although he sometimes could not be heard, his performance was every bit the high standard set by the others. With more experience, this young actor will be a credit to himself and his art.

At times the whole cast needed to project a little more and there were a few important lines lost through not allowing time for laughs. A slight unevenness in building to each climax will be corrected by repeated performances.

After its presentation in Belleville the "Shining Hour" also will be seen in Picton and Stirling.

Bridge St. W.A. Enjoys Talk on Spirituals

The February meeting of Bridge St. United W. A. opened with a hymn, followed by prayer by Mrs. W. Dallas, the president.

Mrs. H. Parker, secretary and Mrs. McBurney, treasurer, read their reports. Mrs. C. Massey reported many cards sent to the sick and bereaved.

Mrs. Gilmour and Mrs. Denyes were commended for their efforts on behalf of A.O.T.S. dinner.

Four groups held meetings during the previous month as follows: Mrs. H. Seldon, with Mrs. Morton; Mrs. Gurnett and Mrs. Sutton combined with Mrs. Parrot and Mrs. F. Johnson and Mrs. H. Fuke with Mr. J. Demeza.

The W. A. purchased 30 new chairs which were much appreciated.

The program was in charge of Mrs. H. Fuke and Mrs. J. Demeza. Mrs. Demeza favored with two vocal solos: "He Smiled on Me" and "Be the Best of Whatever You Are".

Mrs. Casey read Scripture Acts 4:5-20. The theme was, "The Owner's Stamp," read by Mrs. Fuke.

Mr. R. F. Sherwin, assistant minister, gave a most interesting talk on negro spirituals which he pointed out were a contribution of a slave race. Some of these songs are well-known, "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?"; "Standing in the Need of Prayer". Guidance is found from these spirituals.

Mrs. W. H. Finkle thanked the speaker and tea was served by the group in charge.

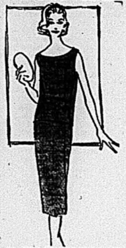
Favorite Fabric



By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Silk with a linen-like weave and texture is favored again for resort things and would seem to be a strong contender for summer fashion honors. Ready for resorting is this pretty two-piecer in silk linen. The bodice is straight in back, the belt slipping through slits at the seams. A rhinestone buckle brightens it.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

SLIPPERS FOR THE "TALLER-THAN HE-IS" BRIDE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At my May wedding I am wearing a formal off-white satin dress with a medium train, lace veil. My problem is my slippers. I want very much to wear the satin high-heeled ones, but since my groom-to-be is about an inch shorter than I am, I think perhaps I should wear matching-satin flat-heeled or ballet slippers. What do you suggest? — A. C.

I suggest you wear the flat-heeled or ballet slippers . . . many brides do this, not only for better-appearance for the "taller-than-he-is" bride, but also for great comfort during long receiving-hours.

SURPRISE . . . THE HOSTESS SERVED AFTER-DINNER TEA

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A charming couple whom we met on a cruise some time ago invited us to their apartment to dinner last week. (They were both born in England, are now American citizens.) There were eight at table, the two other couples English, I believe. The dinner was delicious and there was good companionship, good talk. Cocktails were served before dinner, but we were surprised that no after-dinner coffee was served. But about an hour or so after dinner, as we were talking together in the living room, tea was served, with tiny delicious cookies. The other couples seemed to take it for granted, but this was a new one for us. I liked the idea, as I'm a tea-enthusiast, but my husband longed for his after-dinner coffee. Tell me, is this after-dinner service of tea considered correct? — Reader

The after-dinner service of tea is an English custom occasionally followed here, is correct, and can be a cheerful and cozy delight to tea-enthusiasts, to those who really prefer tea to coffee, and to those who prefer to drink tea rather than alcoholic drinks after dinner. Your hostess was right in serving the tea not directly after dinner, but about an hour after.

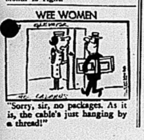
PROPER FOR 14-YEAR-OLD SISTER TO BE MAID OF HONOR?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My only sister, whom I dearly love, is just 14 years old. I would very much like to have her as my maid of honor in my wedding in May, and she very much wants to be. Do you think she is too young for this? I plan to have no bridesmaids; to have four ushers who will walk in pairs in both the Processional and Recessional. My father is to give me in marriage. What do you think of these plans, particularly about my sister being maid of honor? — M. R.

A fine and entirely proper idea for you to have your 14-year-old sister as your maid of honor, if she has poise and a sense of cooperation. And I like the idea of your having your close family group going up the aisle together . . . your sister, whom you love so dearly, walking just ahead of you and your father. No need to have bridesmaids if this is your preference, and your plan to have the four ushers walk in pairs in both the Processional and Recessional is right.

WEE WOMEN



"Sorry, sir, no packages. As it is, the cable's just hanging by a thread!"

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Lucy R. — My husband entertains women.

Felix R. — It really pays off.

• • •

Lucy R. — My husband and I have been married six years and have two children. We have been fairly happy, except for one thing.

My husband goes out with lots of very young, attractive women. He claims he has to do it for business, but I know that many other men in his line of work don't do it. They have business conferences in their offices with these women — maybe a lunch, but that's all.

My husband is constantly taking these women out to cocktails, dinner and sometimes a show. He swears his interest is strictly business and I have no right to be jealous, but I just can't help it.

• • •

Felix R. — I always tell Lucy as long as it's "women" and not "woman" she's worrying about, she can just forget the whole thing. There's safety in numbers I always say.

Lucy is right that many of the men in my line of work don't entertain these women the way I do. I don't operate like them in lots of other ways. I have my own ideas. Another difference between those guys and me is our yearly incomes. Mine happens to be a heck of a lot higher.

I find that women like to be entertained. They feel flattered when a man wines and dines them. It really pays off in the end and my wife and family benefit.

• • •

The Council: If Lucy is forced to stay home and gnaw her finger-nails evenings while Felix is out flattering women in order to raise the family income, we can easily understand her discomfort. We can well believe that she would be willing to accept a somewhat more modest style of living — plus the company of her husband.

We don't mean to encourage Lucy's jealousy. Wives have to accept the fact that their husbands will brush elbows with young and attractive women in today's business world. In most cases they have little to fear. Most of the women aren't vampires, nor do the men fall into temptation at the flutter of an eyelash. Most marriages are far too solidly founded to be threatened by the fleeting contacts either partner may have with the opposite sex.

However, we do think that Felix is being both unorthodox and unfair to his wife and the other women by entertaining in the way he describes outside of business hours. His wife is left lonely and his "date" for the evening may very easily get the idea that an unhappily married man has become interested in her. This may very well awaken interest on her part — with who-knows-what results.

The customary procedure for married men in entertaining women business contacts outside of business hours makes much better sense. The man may invite the woman to his home for dinner, or take her out with his wife, and sometimes another man. This may bring down the income a bit, but it is far more ethical and we doubt whether it would lead to bankruptcy.

THURSDAY

Sausages Baked on Scalloped Potatoes; Cauliflower with Grated Cheese; Slaw with Green Pepper and Dill Weed and Emem's Mayonnaise (see Tuesday); Shredded Fresh Pineapple; Orange Diamonds (see Wednesday); Coffee.

SUNDAY

Chicken Hunter Style (Gallina Alla Caccittore) (see Thursday); Fine Buttered Noodles; Jellied Beet and Celery Salad on Shredded Leaf Lettuce; French Dressing (see Tuesday); Bavarian Cream; Pineapple Bars (see Wednesday); Coffee.

GALLINA ALLA CACCIATORA:

(In plain English, Chicken Hunter Style): One frying chicken, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, flour, ¼ cup cooking oil, ¼ cup onions, chopped, 1 green pepper, chopped, 1 pimiento, chopped, 1 clove garlic, minced, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 cup sliced or whole canned mushrooms. Cut chicken into serving pieces. Season with salt and pepper and dip in flour. Heat cooking oil in frying pan and brown chicken on all sides. Add onion, green pepper, pimiento, garlic and tomatoes; cover and simmer gently for 1½ hours. Add sliced mushrooms and simmer 10 minutes longer. Garnish with green pepper rings and serve with green salad, fruit, cheese and coffee.

VITELLO ALLA SCALOPPINA (Veal Scallopini):

One and one-half pounds veal cutlet, sliced ½" thick, ¼ cup flour, 1¼ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup cooking oil, 1 small garlic clove, ¾ cup apple juice (or Sauterne) ¾ cup water, 3 teaspoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspon marjoram, ¼ bay leaf, 3 whole cloves. Cut veal into small pieces. Combine flour, salt and pepper. Roll meat in flour mixture until well coated. Pour cooking oil into heavy frying pan. Add garlic clove and place over moderate heat. Brown meat on all sides. Remove garlic and add rest of ingredients. Cover frying pan tightly and let simmer for about 30 minutes or until tender. Serve on cooked rice. Garnish with olives and watercress when entertaining guests. Serve with garlic bread, tossed salad, fresh fruit, and coffee. Variation: Serve over hot buttered broad noodles instead of rice.

A dish for the casserole crowd that calls for spaghetti is also a good vehicle for leftover ham and costs little.

SPAGHETTI MICHEL:

Two cups uncooked spaghetti, 4 cups tomatoes, fresh or canned, ½ cup ground ham, 1 onion, 1 green pepper, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon salt. Break the spaghetti into inch pieces. Cook in 4 cups boiling water until tender. Without draining, add the tomatoes, and cook 15 minutes longer. Dice onion and green pepper, and fry slowly with ham until tender. Add seasoning and spaghetti and tomatoes. Turn into casserole and bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven, 350 - 400 degs. Fahr.

Rev. L. Keighley Addresses St. Paul's WMS Service

STIRLING — On Sunday evening St. Paul's United Church Womans Missionary Society held its annual church service with a good attendance. Several members of River Valley W. M. S. were present, also guests from other points and Presbyterial officers.

The Scripturer's group of St. Paul's, under the leadership of Don Williams, sat in a body at the service and also took part in the Fellowship Service.

Mrs. George Carlisle, president of St. Paul's W. M. S., was in charge of the service. She introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. Leonard Keighley, who is on his first furlough from Japan and is taking extra study at University of Toronto.

Mr. Keighley attended St. Thomas Collegiate and the Western Ontario University and then completed his theology at Emmanuel College, Toronto.

In 1952 Mr. and Mrs. Keighley sailed for Japan and took up their duties at Nagano. Here Mr. Keighley conducted Bible classes and organized Young Peoples' work. He was also instrumental in establishing a Christian reading room for university students, and this also helped all the young people in the area who were interested in Evangelistic work among their own people. He also assisted in developing evangelism in a rural area and eventually a Japanese pastor was procured; land purchased, and plans made to erect a church building.

Many lines of work in the industrial district have been given renewed strength and Mr. and Mrs. Keighley have contributed greatly to a new Christian atmosphere in Japan.

JAPAN'S SCENIC BEAUTY

Mr. Keighley gave a concise and vivid picture of the scenic beauty of Japan and told of the seclusion of the people for over 200 years.

When Commodore Perry visited that island, Christianity was a dangerous and a foreign faith; however, in 1959, Japan will commemorate 100 years of Protestant Christianity.

The opening stages of Evangelism have just begun. Less than half a million Japanese are Christians out of a population of 90 million. Japan can boast that they are 97 per cent literate; the best educated people in the world.

Many of their young students can speak three languages fluently. Christians are minority group but this new faith has worked wonders in many phases of the nation's life. Both men and women who have held high positions are extending the influence of Christianity through their loyalty and devotion to the torch of faith.

A NEW JAPAN

A new Japan stands at the threshold and the recognition of true human worth is being revitalized by the spirit of Christ.

The Japanese people are courteous and in their culture, they are strong lovers of nature.

The Japanese youth in the past five years have been most responsive to the Christian gospel. Evangelistic meetings have been held continuously since 1951, and some 16,000 non-Christians have taken a public stand for Christ and His way of life. Another 15,000 church members have rededicated themselves to Christ.

In the past five years every church in Japan has been rebuilt and they are able to be 50 per cent self-supporting. Now they are sending students to remote corners of the island to establish new churches and to organize groups on their own with very little help from headquarters.

Many Japanese people are dedicating all of their leisure time to the promotion of Christianity. This is done in various ways, but as each person sees the need, he dedicates himself or herself.

Mr. Keighley also gave an intriguing picture of the builders of the Japan of tomorrow where a gospel is required that will promote Christ and awaken the souls of the unreached millions.

NEEDS PROTESTANT FAITH

Japan needs a Protestant faith that will be truly "The Church of Christ in Japan."

The address gave a general picture of the work of evangelism, what has been accomplished, and a bird's-eye view of his own experiences while serving as a missionary. He was warmly thanked for his inspirational message by Mrs. Carlisle.

Mrs. Carlisle opened the meeting with "Christ for the World" and Mrs. Roy Tucker, leader of St. Paul's Baby Band, read the Bible lesson and Mrs. Harry Waite, assistant Mission Band leader, offered prayer.

The choir, under the direction of their organist, Mrs. Grace Calvert, of Belleville, sang, "Still, Still With Thee." Mr. and Mrs. Grant Richardson rendered a vocal duet entitled, "Teach Me To Pray."

The offering was gathered by Mrs. Oliver Stapley, Mrs. Sid Williams, Mrs. William Brown and Mrs. James Hough, and dedicated from "Thine Is the Glory" leaflet, saying, "It is more blessed to give than to receive." John Oxenham's missionary hymn depicting that all Christly souls are one in Him throughout the whole wide earth was a gentle reminder that Christ gave His life for all.

Mrs. Carlisle expressed welcome to all and in her address she gave a brief picture of the work of the Women's Missionary Society in Canada and elsewhere.

At the present time, about one woman in five, who are members of the United Church have affiliated themselves with this great organizaion.

The Woman's Missionary Society seeks to unite all the women of the church for the World Mission of Christianity.

Some 70 years ago women in various denominations saw the need and responded to it and small groups were organized; Their aim was to provide, healing, education; friendship and Christ's Gospel for women and children in Canada and in other lands in 1929 these Missionary groups combined and today we have auxiliaries and to younger societies in the churches, with Presbyterials, conference branches and over all the Dominion Board W.M.S.

To date the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada has a membership of over 200,000. They support 65 missionaries and 83 associate workers in Canada, and 112 missionaries are at work in Angola, West Africa, Northern Rhodesia, Central India, apan, Korea, Trinidad and Hong Kong.

The aims is to share in sending the Gospel of Jesus Christ to every Canadian and to people of other lands, and to aid in the development of the world wide church of Jesus Christ.

The Overseas Mission work of the Woman's Missionary Society co-operates with all the Christian churches of the world through the International Missionary Council, and the World Council of Churches.

The membership cards in this organization bear the words: "The Aim and Object," printed thereon.

Mrs. Carlisle closed her address with the reading of this message which stresses study, prayer and giving, on behalf of Christian missions at home and abroad.

The service closed with "Thy Way is in the Sea and Air," and a prayer that the Christian witness at home, as written in the Epistle to the Philippians, might help one and all to make the best use of his or her time, ability and money in this great missionary enterprise.

The group then repaired to the Sunday school room for a delightful fellowship hour.

Mr. Don Williams led in assembly singing of old favorite hymns which included "When He Cometh." Miss Sandra West officiated at the piano.

A Bible quiz followed, after which tea and cookies were served.

The closing number was a series of movie pictures given by Mr. Williams depicting their recent trip to Florida. This showed views of Cypress Gardens, "The Parrot Farm," orange groves, deep sea fishing, and various scenes along the way.

Freddie Palmer, president of the Scripturer's group, welcomed the guests to the fireside hour.'

Miss Donna Carlisle, assisted by Mrs. James Hough and Mrs. Earl Eggleton, served refreshments and Mrs. G. Carlisle voiced appreciative thanks to the teen-agers.

Rawdon Jr. Farmers Re-Organize

A large group of Rawdon Juniors met in the township hall on March 3rd, at 8.30 to re-organize the club which had not been in operation since 1952. Carl Reid acted as chairman and called upon Jack Riddell, assistant agricultural representative, who spoke briefly, outlining some phases of Junior Farmer activities.

Mr. Bruce Servos and Mr. Stuart McArton, representatives from the Ontario Hydro Commission, were present and spoke to the members on many of the different aspects of hydro development in Ontario. Mr. Servos explained to the members where the commission obtained the money needed for the numerous expenses that have to be met and how it is applied to meet those needs. The speaker mentioned the many benefits received from hydro and also demonstrated effectively how dangerous it can be to overload your circuits and to continue to use wiring that is not adequate for your needs.

"POWER ON THE OTTAWA"

A beautifully colored film, "Power on the Ottawa," was shown and viewers learned more of the tremendous power that this river supplies.

Carl Reid expressed the thanks of the club to the guests and then called upon Jack Riddell to conduct the election of officers.

Members of the new executive prepared a table for a pot-luck lunch.

Rombough's Orchestra provided music for dancing for the remainder of the evening.

Before leaving, an executive meeting was planned for the following night at the agricultural office.

The belief was expressed that the evening had been a success as the club already has a membership of 37 with more prospective members. Officers are: president, Carl Reid; vice-president, Ruth Mumby; secretary, Pat Merrill; treasurer, Barbara Hadley; directors, Marilyn Reid, Vernon Clarke, Harry Danford, Paul Heagle, 5th director, Bill McKeown press reporter, Ron Heath; auditors, Jack Bailey and Gerard Ryan.

H–S Assoc. Holds Panel Discussion

B.C.I.V.S. Home and School Association held its monthly meeting in the girls' gymnasium on Monday, March 3, with Mr. Fewtrell, vice-president, in the chair.

Following routine business, the meeting was entertained by the Junior Glee Club under the direction of Mr. Boate. The girls sang "Lift Up Thy Head," "Where'er She Walks," "Flow Gently Sweet Afton."

The rest of the program consisted of a panel discussion of the rôle of vocational education in the secondary school. The members of the panel were: Mr. N. Reid, chairman; Dr. F. S. Barlow, Advisory Vocational Committee; Mr. Stanton, personnel manager of Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Company; Miss E. Grout, home economics department; Mr. R. Phillips, agriculture department; Mr. C. Lappan, shop director; Mr. J. Snetsinger, commercial department; Mr. F Marchand, guidance department; Mr. H. G. Seldon, advisory vocational committee.

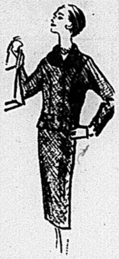
Some of the questions discussed were: "Is the role of the vocational course to prepare students to earn a living?"; "Do vocational graduates make good employees in industry?"; "Does the vocational school provide the best courses for the indifferent student who must attend school until the age of sixteen?"

Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the stimulating and thought-provoking discussion of these problems, spiced with enough wit and variety of opinion to make it entertaining.

It seems unnecessary to report the details of their findings as CJBQ is broadcasting them in full on Saturday of this week at 6.50 p.m. when all listeners may enjoy the ideas of this group of mentally alert, well balanced people whose conclusions are based on years of experience and thought.

The meeting adjourned to the cafeteria where, with coffee and cookies, the discussion continued. At times too much talk seems futile, it does seem that understanding and awareness of problems is the first step toward their solution.

Trim Suit



By VERA WINSTON

A fine wool tweed in bronzy green and brown makes a good-looking short-jacket suit. Seams from the shoulder line converge into two verticle lines at the sides of the front. The jacket is notched on each side at the hem; a self belt, simulated at the front closing, slips through and buckles in back. Skirt is straight.

You owe it to yourself to see the exquisite beauty of a RONALD KEEL diamond ring . . . for this once-in-a-lifetime investment . . . for beauty worthy of being passed on to future generations, you can make no better choice.

When you are tempted to buy your diamond at a "Bargain" Price . . . it's wise to compare before you buy, not after! Often, these so-called "Bargains" — when truly appraised— end in heartache and disillusionment. And since young people in love know little of diamond value, it's vitally important to deal with a jeweller of integrity.

"At Ronald Keel's" you have the utmost assurance of full value for your money—with complete satisfaction as to both quality and value.

NORTHPORT — Mr. and Mrs. Jack Norton, of Belleville, were guests for supper on Wednesday of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Norton.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Stackhouse spent several days last week in Ottawa and were there to help celebrate the 84th birthday of Mr. Stackhouse's father.

Adult fellowship was held at the Northport church hall on Wednesday evening. Doughnuts, ice cream and coffee were served at the close.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith, Lois and Corinne were supper guests on Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. William McCaw, Picton, RR 9.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. Howard Mallett in the sudden passing of his brother, Eric, in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Keep, of Picton, were guests a few days of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lindsay and family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Kerr and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Smith attended the funeral of the late John Shepherd at Picton on Monday afternoon.

Mr. W. G. Creeper, who spent several weeks with his granddaughter, Mrs. Jack Clarke, of Belleville, has returned to his home in the village.

Glad to report Mrs. Judd able to be out again after being confined to her home for over a week.

The Northport W.A. was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Howard Mills with 18 present. Plans were made for a potluck supper for the church congregation, March 6th, at 6.30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rabbie, Jr., called Sunday evening on Mr. and Mrs. Merton Christie, Mt Pleasant.

Russian Woman Wins Ski Title

LAHTI, Finland (AP)—The Soviet Union Wed. gained its first gold medal of the 1958 world Nordic ski championships when 28-year-old Alevtina Kolchina won the women's 10-kilometre (6.3 miles) cross-country race in 44 minutes, 49 seconds.

Another Russian, Lubov Kozyreva, came in second in 45:28.2 and Finland's Siiri Rantanen took the broze medal in 46:02.8.

The 33 women competed under difficult conditions, an overnight leap in the temperature turning the snow soft.

The race was predominantly a Nordic-Russian affair with only a handful of other competitors from Germany, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

TIRE STALLS TRAIN

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A 180-car freight train was stalled for an hour by a flat tire Tuesday night. Pranksters laid the tire on the tracks and it flipped up between two cars as the train passed over, breaking an air hose. The emergency brakes were applied with such force that a drawbar connecting two cars was broken.

SWIFT ANNOUNCES
TWO NEW LAYERS

SKY-HI 314A—AVERAGES
289 WHITE EGGS

In tests during 1956-57, Swift's new Sky-Hi 314A averaged 289.8 eggs per hen, had less than 2% mortality to 17 months of age, and showed a feed efficiency of 3.83 lbs. of feed per dozen eggs. The nearest competitive layer in the test averaged 18.2 eggs less than the Sky-Hi 314A.

SEX-SAL-LINK—OUTSTANDING NEW
BROWN EGG LAYER

Swift is pleased to produce and sell this new salmon cross from the famous J. J. Warren Breeding Farm. In the 1956 Storrs egg-laying test, the Sex-Sal-Link placed third out of 102 pens entered, with production of 285 eggs per hen housed. This is 54 more eggs than the average of all birds entered.

Refuse to Clear Military Record Of Gen. Mitchell

WASHINGTON (AP) — An attempt to clear the military record of the late Brig.-Gen. William (Billy) Mitchell, whose sharp-tongued campaign for a stronger air force brought him a court-martial, has failed.

Air Secretary James Douglas overruled an air force board Tuesday and rejected a petition from Mitchell's son that the American air pioneer's 1926 court-martial conviction and sentence be voided.

Douglas had words of praise for the stormy, outspoken officer who died in 1936. He said Mitchell's views "have been vindicated" and his "vision concerning the future of air power was amazingly accurate."

However, the secretary said the evidence submitted against Mitchell substantiated the charge and the verdict that he had conducted himself to the prejudice of good order and military discipline and in a way to bring discredit on military service.

There were 18 members in attendance. Mrs. Edith Therrien read the minutes in the absence of the secretary.

A report was given on the recent bridge and euchre which was successful.

Mrs. John Gartland offered her home for the April meeting.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

EUROPEAN PEAKS

The Alps, with peaks up to 15,000 feet, cover 61 per cent of the whole area of Switzerland.

BOURGUIBA HAS HIS OWN IDEAS

At a press conference, Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba gestures emphatically as he tells of his opposition to the creation of a "no-man's land" between his country and Algeria. This plan was advocated by British and U.S. mediators in the dispute initiated by the French bombing of a Tunisian town. Bourguiba said a NATO commission should collaborate with a North African committee in seeking a solution to the Algerian problem.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — Mr. and Mrs. Walton Reid were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shillington, Kingston.

Stiffer Traffic Penalties, More Policemen Demanded To Curb Heavy Loss of Life

TORONTO (CP) — Stiffer traffic penalties and more policemen have been demanded of the Ontario government by the Liberal opposition.

John J. Wintermeyer (L—Waterloo North) and Ross Whicher (L—Bruce) led the attack in the legislature Thursday on the government's traffic safety program as the House considered Attorney-General Roberts estimated expenditures for the coming year.

Mr. Roberts disclosed provincial policemen investigated 850 traffic fatalities last year and the total fatality figure for the province would be "more than 1,000."

Mr. Wintermeyer said speeding is the cause of accidents and called for licence suspensions to eliminate it. He said Connecticut sharply reduced its road toll by imposing sentences for speeding.

"People won't stop speeding to save their lives—the one thing they don't want is to lose their licences."

If speeding and impaired driving were eliminated "auto casualties would be cut to a small percentage of what they are now." The government was "way off base" in using speed traps and unmarked police cars—it contributed little to prevention.

Mr. Whicher sait it is the presence of policemen that reduces driving offences and declared the 1 730 provincial policemen employed by the government are insufficient. A vast increase was needed.

"If you really want to reduce traffic deaths," he told the attorney-general, "you must put more of those black and white cars on the highways."

Answering Mr. Wintermeyer, the attorney-general said stiffer licence suspensions for impaired driving are contained in the new amendments to the Highway Traffic Act.

"It's a matter of enforcement and it's up to the magistrates," he said.

"But it's you who must take the lead," countered Mr. Wintermeyer.

Mr. Roberts outlined his department's safety program for the coming year, emphasizing a bigger role for research. He told Mr. Whicher that a study now is being carried out to determine how many policemen would be most effective in patrolling highways. A 30-mile test section of highway had been selected for the study.

The department was also fighting traffic accidents with films, safety films, organization of traffic court clinics and magistrates' conferences.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver asked why $60,000 was being requested for this year's program when $65,000 was spent last year. Mr. Roberts replied that much of the program has been shifted to the new department of transport.

Harry Nixon (L—Brant) rapped the government for the accident hazard at railway crossings without overpasses and Gordon Innes (L—Oxford) demanded action to replace narrow bridges.

Arthur Reaume (L — Essex North) said: "Up in our part of the country half of the accidents are caused by holes in the road. I don't think you've poured a teaspoonful of tar on 15 miles of Highway 39 since I was elected as a member of this House."

Farming and Road Traffic Get Most of Play in Houses

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Farming and road traffic got most of the play in provincial legislatures debates Wednesday.

In Edmonton, improvements in the Social Credit government's new farm-purchase loans program were recommended in the Alberta legislature by Liberal Opposition member Harold McLaughlin.

He said the maximum of $7,500 available for the purchase of farmland could be higher, terms of loans longer than the present 20 years and interest rates lower than five per cent.

Agriculture Minister L. C. Halmrast tabled in a return showing that no loans have yet been made, although 30 farm-purchase boards have been set up in rural municipalities.

In Halifax, the Progressive Conservative Agriculture Minister E. D. Haliburton, told the Nova Scotia legislature there are bright spots in the province's agricultural picture although many problems exist.

The minister said efficient producers of fluid milk were reasonably prosperous. Apple growers expected 1957 to be a bigger year than 1956. Floor prices for eggs enabled producers to meet production costs.

In Regina, CCF Highways Minister J. T. Douglas attacked the federal government for not doing more to help the provinces build roads.

Saskatchewan was the only province which had finished its section of the trans-Canada highway and the only province not now receiving federal aid for highways.

In Winnipeg, Duff Roblin, Progressive Conservative Opposition leader, charged that the whims of examiners and the incompetence of markers are reasons for 85 per cent of the variation in failure rates from year to year in Manitoba's Grade 9 students. He backed up his charges from a report by C. B. Germain, assistant professor of statistics at the University of Manitoba.

Domestic Pets Can Transmit Polio--Doctors

LONDON (Reuters) — Three doctors say domestic pets can transmit poliomyelitis to human beings.

They said numerous animals, including dogs, cats and even moles, had been named in the past as possible carriers of the virus, but medical laboratories never had been able to confirm this.

Now they produced evidence that a nine-year-old boy died last Aug. 28 nine days after a pet budgerigar — recovering from paralysis of its legs—had gripped his lip.

Dr. R. G. Sommerville, Glasgow University authority of bacteriology and infectious diseases, R. I. C. Munro, a Scottish county health officer, and Dr. C. C. Cuthbert write in the medical journal Lancet of their investigations.

They say that in this particular case there seemed little doubt that the bird became affected with a polio virus and excreted this for at least three weeks. Another bird in the same cage died a few days before and an investigation had shown that it was infected with polio virus.

BUSINESS MEN AT LUNCH TIME

Two animal models, who have been known to earn up to $100 an hour, enjoy a leisurely luncheon at an animal talent scout headquarters in New York. Victoria, young "giant red" kangaroo, gets her nose in, while Farley, a white-tail buck deer, stands waiting.

Govt. Requested To Materially Assist Operators

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government has been confronted with demands from some of its own supporters as well as the Liberal Opposition.

Four Progressive Conservative members called Wednesday in the legislature for government-backed loans for tourist operators so that facilities might be expanded and improved.

G. C. Wardrope (PC — Port Arthur), A. R. Herbert (PC—Timiskaming), R. J. Boyer (PC Muskoka) and W. G. Noden (PC Rainy River) were the petitioners. Their requests came during discussion of a request for an inquiry into the tourist industry made Tuesday by the legislature's committee on travel and publicity.

The discussion on tourism was opened by Mr. Wardrope, who rose to emphasize his criticism of government tourist policies during Tuesday's committee meeting was not intended to mean the industry is in a slump.

"There is no evidence to indicate that the travel industry in 1957 even slipped," he said. Business volume was four per cent higher than in 1956 and almost equal to the record year of 1955.

SUPPORTS REQUEST

His position during the committee meeting was mostly intended as a support for a request by the Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association for government-guaranteed loans.

"Our operators should be in a position to improve the size and condition of their facilities to take care of the influx of tourists," said Mr. Wardrope.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver said that although Mr. Wardrope may not have described the tourist industry as depressed, several briefs submitted to the committee had done so.

Children Get Much Freedom And Too Early

WELLAND (CP) — Dr. Murray G. Ross, vice-president of the University of Toronto, says Canadian children get too much freedom too early, resulting in conformists and a culture of conformity.

He told the Welland Chamber of Commerce of developments in education in Russia which he said could benefit Canadian education.

Dr. Ross cautioned the meeting to recognize differences in the Soviet and Canadian educational systems when comparing them.

"It is a little like the elephant and the whale. Both are mammals and they have a good deal in common, but they exist in different environments, function in differet ways and presumably exist for differet purposes in Nature's design."

Dr. Ross said the Soviet system is not devoted to producing free and responsible men but to producing "given number of units of various kinds which are required to make the state strong and powerful."

ON THE INDIVIDUAL

"Our objective has always placed emphasis on the individual on stimulating and nourishing the unique capacity and potential of each individual."

Developments he said could be adapted without "throwing the democratic baby out of the educational bath" were:

The diversity in the Soviet system where a boy or girl completing secondary school has a wider range of choices for further education than a Canadian boy or girl.

The 10-year Soviet public and secondary school curriculum which compares with 13 years in Ontario. It is achieved by a "six-day school week, Liberal doses of homework and a positive attitude to study and hard work."

A respect for intellectual capacity, where the Soviets "take as much care to discover, develop and reward intellectual capacity as we in Canada do to discover and reward hockey ability."

Airline Agrees To Pay $45,000

TORONTO (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines has agreed to pay Mrs. Daisy Ellen Kennedy and her son, Robert, 18, of Toronto $45,000 for the loss of her husband, Clarence G. Kennedy, in an airplane crash Dec. 9, 1956.

Mr. Justice G. A. Gale in a court ruling released Wednesday gave judgment in the action in accordance with the agreed settlement.

Kennedy was a passenger aboard a TCA plane which crashed into a mountain peak near Hope, B.C., killing all 62 persons aboard. The plane was eastbound from Vancouver

HOLSTEIN SETS NEW WCANADIAN RECORD

A new record for lifetime milk production has been set by this Holstein cow, Glenkindie Opal Posch. She has produced 228,455 pounds of milk containing 7,450 pounds of fat. This is enough to provide an average family with enough milk, two quarts a day, for 125 years. Her owner, E. L. Anderson of Campbellford, Ont., credits much of Opal's performance to the loving care she receives from his daughter Linda.

Britain Pushing Development Of Nuclear Powered Subs

LONDON (CP)—British naval strategists think any future battle for sea supremacy may be fought under the sea instead of on or above it.

Admiralty spokesmen emphasize this new trend in naval thinking. And Britain is pushing the development of nuclear-powered submarines as a matter of urgency.

Robert Allan, financial secretary to the admiralty and a wartime naval officer, said in the Commons Tuesday night that the "coming of nuclear submarines is inevitable" and is bound to transform naval warfare.

The Commons was also given a hint that the navy is considering using the American intermediate-range ballistic missile, Polaris as the main armament for its own nuclear-powered submarine, Dreadnought. Both Polaris and the Dreadnought are in the development stage and are not expected to be available until after 1960.

Allan said Britain cannot be without "ballistic sea power" and hope to remain a major nation with any effective say in world affairs.

This represents something of a turnabout in British strategic thinking. Two months ago the defence chiefs were giving a cool reception to suggestions that Britain should develop rocket-carrying submarines.

The recent visit to London of Admiral Hyman Rickover, the United States navy's atomic expert, may have caused them to change their minds. He is understood to have given the admiralty detailed results of the performance of American atomic submarines together with considerable information on Polaris.

Scientists report that an experimental model of the Dreadnought's nuclear power unit has proved "highly satisfactory." It is understood the Dreadnought will have a water-cooled reactor and be rather smaller than the 3,000-ton U.S. nuclear submarine, Nautilus.

RCN Considers Building A-Powered Tankers for Fleet

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Navy is considering construction of atomic-powered tankers to replenish the fleet so that it could remain at sea almost constantly.

The problem has arisen because of the capability of submarines to fire nuclear missiles hundreds of miles and thus hit coastal or even inland cities from far out to sea.

Consequently, RCN submarines will have to be able to patrol for long periods far from port to try to prevent approach of enemy sub marines to the Canadian coasts in event of war.

"This means," says Gen. Charles Foulkes, chairman of the chiefs of staff committee, "that our naval forces, like our air forces, must be out on station ready to act every day and every night."

New RCN destroyers of the St. Laurent class are designed to operate away from base facilities for as long as two months—nearly twice the length of time a Second World War destroyer could go without dockyard attention.

But atomic - powered submarines can stay at sea for many months. Thus the RCN will require a system of resupply at sea to keep destroyers on patrol around the calendar.

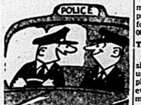
Current naval thinking is that the most economic means of achieving this would be construction of atomic-powered tankers which could transport big cargoes of fuel and other supplies to the fleet and do a fast turn-around in port.

Commodore B. R. Spencer, the RCN's engineer-in - chief, dealt with this problem Tuesday in a speech before the Canadian Shipbuilding and Ship Repairing Association at Montreal.

He said at one point:

"The RCN will probably be using oil-fired vessels for some considerable time to come and, if squadrons composed of such vessels are to be competitive with nuclear-powered forces, then I think it is not unreasonable to assume that some type of replenishment vessel propelled by nuclear power might greatly assist in enabling conventional fleets to operate alongside nuclear fleets without embarrassment to either."

"Jest a Second"



"I know where there's a brand new Stop sign!"

RECEIVE U.S. FUEL

PARIS (AP) — France Wedesday received the first shipment of nuclear reactor fuel under the United States program for sharing atomic energy for peaceful purposes. Thirty - five nuclear fuel elements, valued at $118,000 and including 51 isotopes for scientific research, arrived in special containers aboard a commercial airline flight from New York.

Say Political Pressure Caused Over-Spending

HALIFAX (CP)—A bipartisan royal commission says that political pressure on two road foremen was largely responsible for $19,400 in unauthorized money spent in two Nova Scotia highway districts.

The commission report was tabled Wednesday in the legislature by Conservative Highways Minister G. I. Smith.

"We feel that every effort possible should be made to prevent political interference for any reason in the conduct of highway work," Commissioners Ian M. M. MacKeigan of Halifax and A. C. Milner of Amherst said. Dr. MacKeigan is a Liberal and Mr. Milner a Conservative.

Mr. Smith said in tabling the commission report that the political appointment of road foremen and superintendents is not an easy tradition to change. "We will spare no reasonable effort to improve this situation but will require the co-operation of both parties."

IN TWO DISTRICTS

The two-man commission was named last September to investigate irregularities in highways department payrolls in two Richmond County districts. Together they comprise 36 miles of the county's 465-mile road system.

Mr. Smith said the two road foremen involved were dismissed. One was later reinstated because of favorable mention made of him in the commission report.

Both, he said, had disobeyed "specific and emphatic" orders issued in 1956, barring highways department employees from accepting orders of anyone but their immediate superiors.

The commissioners said the "most significant irregularity . . . was the political pressure on the two foremen concerned to . . . over-expend during the three weeks" before last June's federal election.

Named as those exerting political influence were a defeated Richmond County Conservative candidate in the 1956 provincial election and a Conservative campaign manager.

Union Negotiator To Face Board For Examination

MONTREAL (CP) — Chief union negotiator Frank H. Hall is to face examination by railway representatives on the contract demands of non-operating unions at today's session of a federal conciliation board.

He will be called upon to answer questions arising from the detailed union brief he has presented at the public hearings under Mr. Justice H. F. Thomson of Regina.

Wednesday Mr. Hall, heading a team of negotiators representing 130,000 railway workers across Canada, amplified a demand included in a list served on the railways last fall calling for an $11,000,000 severance pay fund.

The proposal would have the major railways set up the fund by putting aside four cents an hour for each employee until the $11,000,000 total is reached.

TO AID JOBLESS

Mr. Hall said the plan is designed to meet "the impact of unemployment on railway employees and especially, the uneven distribution of unemployment that comes from technological and organizational changes—that comes from such forces as dieselization and automation."

He said the 15 non-operating unions, which represent employees who do not actually run trains, would compromise on the form of the fund itself but would fight for severance pay.

The railways have rejected the union demands, which include a wage increase of 35 cent an hour.

Hold Election In Collegiate

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Kenner Collegiate is holding its own federal election today. The more than 1,000 students have a choice of five parties who in the last week have held nomination meetings, and are waging an active campaign for support.

Each class is a riding and will elect a member. A prime minister and cabinet will be sworn in Friday. Walter Pitman, head of social studies at the collegiate, said he hopes the mock election will teach students to sort "reasonable argument from emotional propaganda" and become more aware of the modern political scene.

Foreign Ministers' Meeting To Work Out Agenda for Summit Parley Likely in May

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Despite Washington's cool reception of the latest Soviet overtures the feeling in London is that a meeting of foreign ministers to work out an agenda for a summit conference will probably take place in May, followed by the summit meeting itself in July or September.

The somewhat intransigent line taken by Russia on what subjects the foreign ministers should discuss and the quick rejection by State Secretary Dulles of Russia's chief conditions for holding the talks are viewed in British official quarters as merely preliminary sparring before both sides get down to serious business.

The tenor of a political address in London by Prime Minister Macmillan was that the talks can and must take place coupled with a note of caution about the results that can reasonably be expected to be achieved. He said some progress might be possible in a "limited" field but it would be "a great mistake if we put our expectations too high."

BRITAIN DIFFERS

The pressure in Britain for summit talks is causing the government considerable concern. There is an almost pathetic desire on the part of the general public to see the talks started and a tendency to think of the talks as an end in themselves.

Britain is in general agreement with the United States that the latest Russian proposals are unacceptable. Moscow proposed in messages to Paris and Washington that a foreign ministers' meeting be held in April with discussion limited to the agenda and composition of a summit conference in June. This would put the West in the position of accepting a date for the summit conference before the foreign ministers met.

Where Britain and the United States differ is on the question of handling the proposals. Dulles has, in effect, rejected them outright. Britain is striving to use them as the basis for further negotiation.

PROPAGANDA FORUM

Significantly, the foreign office has made a special point of discounting reports from Paris that the action of the NATO permanent council amounts to a rejection of the Soviet terms.

Although there is a general feeling of optimism in London that the talks will take place, not even Britain expects too much to come out of them.

For one thing, Russia's proposals to increase the number of countries participating is creating doubts over her sincerity. There is a strong suspicion among the NATO countries that Russia intends to use the summit as a propaganda forum, making no real effort to discuss such East-West tender spots as Germany.

Broaden Rights Of Individuals

TORONTO (CP) — Legislation designed to broaden the rights of individuals or the press to inspect municipal documents has been introduced in the Ontario legislature.

Under an amendment to the Municipal Act introduced by Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender Tuesday, most municipal records would be open to public access at "reasonable hours."

Exceptions, as outlined in explanatory notes on the amendment, would be "interdepartmental correspondence and reports of officials of any department or solicitors for the corporation made to council, board of control or any committee of council.

Last year the Supreme Court of Ontario denied a request by Editor-in-Chief Arthur Ford of the London Free Pres to read a municipal document concerning annexation by the city of London of adjacent territory.

The court ruled that council was within its rights, as then defined by the Municipal Act, in withholding the document.

At London, Mr. Ford writes in an editorial to appear in today's edition:

"It is a move in the right direction, protecting the freedom of the press and the rights of the public to know what its elected representatives are doing."

Not Pulling Weight

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is not pulling its weight in Arctic research, officials said Wednesday.

They were commenting on results of an international conference on Arctic sea ice at Easton, Md., last week. Nations represented at the conference included Canada, the United States, Britain, Russia, Sweden, Finland, Denmark, Germany and Japan.

One authority here said Canada has more icebound coastline than any other nation but is doing less on ice research than any other country represented at the conference.

NEW MICROSCOPE

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians have developed a super-microscope which magnifies more than 1,000,000 times and enables scientists to see separate atoms of the element barium, Izvestia reports. The government newspaper says the image is projected on the flat bottom of a device resembling a television electronic tube. A current of several thousand volts passes through a needle, which emits electrons that bombard the screen and produce a greatly magnified image of the needle's point.

4,500 RED TROOPS LEAVE GERMANY

Soldiers everywhere collect friends among the young fry and here is an East German boy who is pleased to hold the music for a Russian bandsman at Fuerstenwalde. The occasion was the departure of the Soviet garrison from the German town. In all, 4,500 troops were withdrawn to Russia.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was looking at his mail at breakfist to see which ones he wanted to reed and which was bills and he said, Well, here's one for you, Benny.

Meening a letter with Master Benny Potts written on the outside in typewriting, and it was from the Star Novelty Company offering to send me 2 duzzen cakes of strawberry soap for me to sell and keep the change if I sent them 5 dollers ferst, and pop said, Is it something important, Benny?

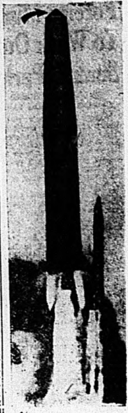
No sir, just a bizzness letter, I said, and pop said, What a bore.

G, pop there's no cancel mark on the stamp, the postoffice must of missed its aim, I said. Will it be all right if I peal it off and use it on another letter, pop? I said, and he said, That stamp has alreddy carried one letter safely through the mails, and to ask it to do dubble duty would be unfair to your government. You are facing the same problem that faced Wickhard Hardwick, he said.

Who was he? I said, and pop said, He was a bank robber when he finished but when he started he was a boy your age who pealed an unmarked stamp from an envelope and put it to werk again. Well, he didn't feel any serious after-effects, so his next step was to help himself to 2 free samples of food although the sine plainly said Take One. From that it was an easy step to berrying his face in his newspaper and keeping his train tickit if the conducter didn't actually poke him, and so on till he robbed his ferst bank, and after that he really went down hill. So I suppose the moral is, beware of the ferst falts step, pop said.

Which I did, pealing the stamp off and tearing it up to keep it out of temtation.

THOR CARRIES ATOM WARHEAD



Here is one phase of the launching of an air force Thor, 1,500-mile range ballistic missile, at Cape Canaveral, Florida. Arrow points to the new type nose cone being used. It was reported that the new device was the first actually created to carry a thermo-nuclear warhead.

Prices Higher

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were higher Wednesday than last year at the annual bull sale sponsored by the Ontario Beef Cattle Improvement Association.

Top price was $1,250 paid for Belgrave Rupert, consigned by James R. Coultes of Belgrave. The bull went to the artificial insemination unit of the Waterloo Cattle Breeders' Association.

About 83 Hereford bulls, first to go on sale, brought an average price of $572, while 17 Aberdeen Angus bulls brought an average of $645.

CHOOSE NEGRO

NEW YORK (AP) — A Negro pastor Monday night was elected moderator of the New York presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Rev. Edler G. Hawkins, 50, of St. Augustine Church in the Bronx, is the first of his race to preside over the governing body of 65 churches in Manhattan, the Bronx and Staten Island.

Tigers, like house cats, usually look upon water as something to be avoided, but not Mike of the San Francisco zoo. When heavy rains filled the moat around his zoo area, it was just fine for him. He would climb to a rocky perch, dive in; swim to shore and repeat the performance.

Russia Defeats Poland 10-1 Canada, Sweden Clash Today

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OSLO (CP) — Russia defeated Poland 10-1 in the opening game of today's four-game card at the world hockey tournament, holding on to their slim chance to win out despite their tie earlier this week.

The victory sent Russia to the top of the eight-team standing pending the result of the afternoon game between favored Canada and Sweden. The win gave the Russians seven points for four games, one more than the Canadians and the Swedes who have six points for their three straight victories.

Russia's tie with Czechoslovakia, the only other strong contender, spoiled the chances of both.

This morning's game was played in a blinding snowstorm which made for scrappy play. It was hoped that the weather would let up for the Sweden-Canada game.

RUSSIANS TAKE OVER

The Russians looked little better than the Poles in the early part of the game. Eleven minutes went by before they got their first goal, but from then on they took charge.

The Russians turned in some fine hockey in the second period and capitalized on breakaways. Several members of the Canadian squad also turned up for the match at the outdoor Jordal Amfi Stadium, and Canadian player Alf Treen commented:

"The Russians look just as good now as they ever did."

The other two games today were Norway against Finland, after the Russian-Poland game, and Czechoslovakia and the United States tonight.

The headline attraction of course is the Canada - Sweden battle. A victory would give Canada's Whitby team undisputed possession of the top rung and place it in the driver's seat for the dash to the world title that in all probability will be decided on the last day of the tournament Sunday.

LOOKED SLUGGISH

The Swedes, who had no North American opposition when they won the world championship from the Russians in Moscow a year ago, looked sluggish in their early matches of the present tournament. But their stock rose sharply when they easily defeated the United States 8-3 Tuesday.

While the Canadians and Swedes are tied for first place in points, the Canadians have a wide edge in the scoring column with slightly more than twice as many goals as the Swedes. If the 10-day tournament should end in a tie, the team with the best goals average is the winner.

There is no sudden death overtime or a playoff in this tournament.

Whitby manager Wren Blair isn't taking the Swedes lightly. He had his players out for two practices Wednesday to guard against the possibility that their two-day layoff might take the edge off their game.

Want Ontario Limited to Single Entry

VICTORIA (CP) — Two Alberta delegates had the Dominion Curling Association annual meeting in an uproar Wednesday when they proposed that Ontario be limited to one entry in the Canadian curling championship.

The proposal was made by Shim Laskin of Edmonton, president of the Alberta Curling Association.

At present both Northern Ontario and Ontario are represented at the championship, making 11 entries for the 10 provinces.

Alberta suggested Northern Ontario withdraw and that the Northwest Territories be invited instead.

When the resolution was presented, Senator John Haig of Winnipeg, a trustee of the championship contest, put on his coat and prepared to leave the meeting.

"If you boys are going to bring up these controversial issues, I'm going to resign."

He was prevailed upon to take his coat off and in the vote which followed all the delegates opposed the resolution except Cliff Lee of Edmonton, vice-president of the Alberta association and seconder of Laskin's resolution.

The same resolution as applied to the Canadian school curling championship was also defeated.

Bulldogs Whip Greyhounds 4-3; Take 2-0 Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor Bulldogs, who jumped into a playoff berth just as the curtain was falling on the OHA-NOHA Senior A series regular schedule, have moved into the limelight in a hurry in the semi-finals.

Tuesday they dumped Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, second-place finishers, 3-1. Wednesday night they repeated the dose—4-3—to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series.

In the Ontario Hockey Association Eastern series semi-finals, Belleville McFarlands, who finished in first place, tied their best-of - seven series against Kingston CKLCs 2-2, winning 6-1.

MILNE STARS

Right winger Andy Milne was the star of the Bulldogs' repeat performance. He notched a goal in each period. Leftwinger Ches Warchol scored the other. Matt Mesich, Jim McBurney and Birley Dimma tallied for Greyhounds.

McFarlands cruised to victory against Kingston, outshooting CKLCs 33-18 as they led 2-0 after the first period, 3-0 after the second.

Barton Bradley paced the winners with two goals, playing coach Ike Hildebrand, Minnie Menard, Davey Jones and Crawford adding the others. Ron Anderson netted the lone Kingston goal.

Fifth game of the series will be in Belleville Friday the sixth at Kingston Monday.

Next Soo-Windsor clash is at Windsor FFriday.

Chuck Scherza Gets $4,000 From Benefit Game

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Chuck Sherza's friends haven't forgotten the former American Hockey League star.

More than 2,500 persons turned out Wednesday night at the Rhode Island Auditorium for Chuck Scherza Night. The affair was arranged as a benefit for Chuck who suffered a serious eye injury earlier this season while serving as player-coach of North Bay Trappers of the Ontario Hockey Association-Northern OHA Senior A league. He has lost the sight of his left eye.

The crowd contributed approximately $4,000, all of which will go to Sherza.

In the exhibition game which was the feature of the night Providence Reds of the AHL defeated Trappers 5-2.

Herb Score Ups Tribe Hopes In First Mound Appearance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland's Herb Score, who befuddled American League batsmen with his blinding fastball and crackling curve before suffering a damaging eye injury early last season, is back on the beat and the Indians may have to be reckoned with in this year's pennant race.

In his first appearance under game conditions since being hit in the right eye by a line drive off the bat of the Yankees' Gil McDougald last May 7. Score struck out six men in a three-inning intra-squad stint Wednesday at Tucson, Ariz.

The 24-year-old lefthander fanned four of the first five batters he faced. He weakened a bit after that and gave up a run on two singles and a pair of walks. In his final inning, Score struck out two more batters and drew warm applause from the crowd of 1,500 as he left the field.

FELT GREAT

"I felt great," Score said later. "Had a little trouble getting my curve over, but my fastball was good and I was throwing as hard as I could."

If the Indians are to improve on their sixth place finish of last season, Score is the guy who'll have to carry most of the pitching load.

Herb won 16 games in his first big league campaign in 1955 and followed it with a 20-9 performance in 1956. He led the league in strikeouts in both seasons.

Score's apparent recovery tempered the rather gloomy reports that emanated from some of the other major league camps.

Outfielder Irv Noren suffered a possible fractured rib when he crashed into a grandstand wall in a St. Louis Cardinals pepper game. The veteran was ordered to a hospital.

And outfielder Duke Snider, pitcher Johnny Podres and infielder Don Zimmer were injured when an automobile driven by Snider was in an accident. Snider re-injured his left knee, operated on last December. Podres hurt his neck and Zimmer came out of it with a bruised forehead.

X-RAYS NEGATIVE

Preliminary x-rays of Snider's knee and Podres' neck for possible fractures proved negative.

At the Chicago White Sox quarters in Tampa, Fla., a bone specialist directed that outfielder Al Smith take it easy for 10 days because of an inflamed tendon. Smith was acquired from Cleveland in a trade last December.

Several other teams prepped for Saturday's opening of the exhibition schedule by playing intra squad games.

Second baseman Billy Martin took his first turn at shortstop for Detroit. He handled two chances flawlessly and hit a home run and a single in four batting appearances.

In other news, Milwaukee shortstop Johnny Logan and first baseman Frank Torre came to terms, leaving world series star Lew Burdette and Wes Covington outside the Braves fold . . . Manager Paul Richards of Baltimore Orioles said that outfielder Dave

Granny Hamner Will Open For Phillies

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Fifteen months ago Granny Hamner was advised by a doctor he would never play baseball again. Today, the veteran Philadelphia infielder is practically a cinch to open the 1958 season at second base for the Phillies.

"Only a miracle would enable you to play again," the doctor said. "It would be an act of God if you could swing a bat properly."

"You playing days are over," the doctor continued as Hamner listened in silence. "No surgery in the world will help you. An operation can cure you but it means you're through."

Six months before, Hamner had jammed his left shoulder diving for a ball. He ripped a tendon next to an old injury—another torn tendon—that still had not fully healed following an operation. More than a year of torture followed.

The pain became unbearable when he tried to stretch his arm out for a line drive or reach out for a grounder.

This winter he took a job as coach of a paraplegic basketball team at a veterans' hospital.

"Then the mircle referred to by the doctor occurred," Hamner related. "The pain in the shoulder became less and less. Now it has disappeared altogether . . . I'm as good as new now."

REFEREE STOPS BOUT

GLASGOW (AP) — Peter Keenan, British Empire bantamweight champion, stopped Dick Currie of Scotland in the last round of a 10-round non-title bout Wednesday night. Keenan floored Currie with the first blow of the bout, and kept well ahead on points all the way. The referee stopped the match a few seconds before the end.

Nicholson, who signed for a bonus close to $100,000, would be sent to the minors in the next few weeks.

National Hockey Will Divide $168

By W. R. WHE
Canadian Press St

MONTREAL (CP) — There's $168,500 ready to be handed out by the National Hockey League in a month or so, although many an itching palm is already assured of a soothing cash lotion. The amount depends upon several factors.

The post-season pot is the biggest ever, by $36,000. The increase is applied entirely to the Stanley Cup playoffs. It was agreed to by the NHL owners, not without some urging from the players, at a Florida powwow last month.

When the league schedule and the cup playoffs are completed and votes for special awards totted up, several players might pick up $5,000 or $6,000 extra apiece. Plenty will cut in for lesser amounts.

Breakdown of the big pot is: $117,000 for the playoffs, $36 000 for positional finishes in the league race, $9,000 for all - star players and $6,500 in the specia awards.

Allotment of playoff money b teams: $22,500 to the winner each of the semi-finals, $13,500 t each loser; $31,500 to the winn of the final $13,500 to the lose

A player on a semi-final wi ner gets $1,250; a player on ea lesing team, $750.

Each member of the Stan Cup championship team gets extra $1,750; a player on the ing team in the final gets

In the league race each pl on the first-place club gets 000: second place, $500; place, $350; fourth place, $1

Each of the six players to the first all - star team $1,000; those named to the end team, $500.

There are six special aw worth $1,000 each.

The goalie playing the games for the team least sc on gets $1 000 along with the zina Trophy. The league's c pion point-scorer gets $1,000 the Ross Trophy. The runn gets $500.

Tickets Are Available for Friday Game

There are a number of good seats available in Memorial Arepa for tomorrow night's Kingston-McFarlands game, Manager Drury Denyes said today.

After the Macs' convincing 6-1 victory Wednesday night, the Kingston club will be battling desperately to again take the lead in the best-of-seven series.

A win Friday will give the Macs 3-2 edge, and if they play the same type of hockey tomorrow night they should come out on top.

In any event it will be a thriller.

Tickets are available at Bill Cook's Cigar Store.

Macs Roar Back To Fihawks Deeper In Cellar With 5-2 Victory

Score Two in First Period Ride Home Rest of Route; Hildebrand Gamble Pays Off

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The CKLC's of Kingston should have known better. They should not have handed the McFarlands that 5-1 defeat Tuesday night here because it backfired before nearly 3300 hometown fans last night when the angry Hildebranders gave them a 6-1 hockey lesson that squared the semi-finals series at two wins each.

The Macs fired home two goals in the first period, and to all intents and purposes the game was over then as far as the CKLC's were concerned. The Belleville crew never glanced backward, fired a single goal home in the second and slapped in three more to a lone return in the third frame.

Playing coach Ike Hildebrand pulled a last-minute surprise strategy, and it paid off. He benched Benoit and Kowalchuk, using Keith Montgomery on the defence and Davy Jones on a front line. Both players came up with fine performances.

The Macs had their shooting eyes dead on target, blasting 33 at Lyn Davis in the Kingston nets, while Gordie Bell had 18 fired at him. The teams resume the series here tomorrow night, playing the fifth game in Memorial Arena.

BRAD STARTED IT

Barton Bradley sparked the Macs' offensive, scoring two goals with Ike Hildebrand getting one and two assists. Minnie Menard, David Jones and Floyd Crawford completed the scoring rout. Joe Lepine had two assists with Brown, Guidolin, Payette, Muretich, Montgomery and MacDonald getting into the helper column.

Paul Payette suffered a seven stitch cut in the forehead with Crawford having a three-stitcher opened near an eye. Both injuries were accidental.

KEITH MONTGOMERY
Comeback was Good

BART BRADLEY
Started the Ball

While Referee Gerry Olinski handed out 14 penalties, eight to the Macs, two of which were misconducts, the Kingston half-dozen proved costly to the homesters. The Macs power-plays were clicking like castanets and they scored three of their goals while CKLCs languished in the crime cell.

Johnny Muretich drew one of the misconducts with the two Joes, Lepine and Levandoski, drawing similar sentences with the clock ticking off the minutes. The Belleville defence backed by Gordie Bell played outstanding hockey as did the up-fronters in penalty-killing duty. On one occasion the CKLCs hemmed the Macs behind their blueline for 1½ minutes of a two-minute sentence but failed to dent the Bell-Macs defensive combination.

The lone Kingston goal, scored by Brian Anderson, went into the net when the Macs were at full strength.

Bart Bradley spearheaded the first Mac power-play at 3.30 while Billy Colvin was cooling off a penalty, firing the rubber home after a pattern passing play with Hildebrand and Wiener Brown. Montgomery's penalty caused no damage and at 9.06 Bep Guidolin stole the puck, skated over the Kingston blueline and flipped it to Menard whose blazer hit Davis' body and caromed into the net.

The play was slower than that which characterized the teams here the previous night but from the start it was plainly evident the McFarlands were back in form. They easily had the play although the official "counter" said only four shots were fired at Davis and three at Bell in the period.

Gauthier flopped on the puck but no penalty was forthcoming and he and Muretich started a shoving match that netted both minors and the McFarland a misconduct.

The CKLC's drove hard in the second frame but they got nowhere with the effective backchecking of the Mac front lines and the defence. They failed to take advantage of a Guidolin penalty then Senior dumped Joe Lepine and was chased. The Macs organized their power play and Bart Bradley scored his second goal slamming home Lepine's pass from behind with Hildebrand in on the play.

The CKLC's down three goals drove hard and Bukacheski failed to beat Bell from close in. The Macs outshot the foemen 13-7 in the period.

Thomson dumped Davy Jones hard three minutes after the third period opened and six seconds later Hildebrand fired the fourth goal on a blistering slapshot from right point with Lepine and Payette assisting. Guidolin was chased for a minor sentence and it was here the Kingston club hemmed in the Macs for 90 seconds without success. Three seconds after Bep was back, the homesters still in power-play formation scored their only goal of the night, Anderson batting home the puck from Bukacheski and Colvin.

Two plays later the Macs got that one back Davy Jones beating Davis after Montgomery sent him and Muretich away on the sortie. With four minutes to go Crawford fooled young Davis completely taking MacDonald's pass to circle the Kingston net and poke the puck behind a post while the goalie was looking for the pass-out.

Levandoski boarded MacDonald heavily and Lepine rushed over. The result was the two "Joes" got misconducts. Then Thomsen hooked Paul Payette when the centre was in the clear and was chased. Eddie Marineau who played an outstanding game missed the open net on the resulting power play, and the game was history.

Lineups — Belleville: goal, Bell; defence, Montgomery, Botley, Lepine, Crawford; forwards, Bradley, Marineau, Brown, Payette Menard, Hildebrand, Muretich, Guidolin, MacDonald, Jones.

Want Schoolboys Excluded From Big Tournament

By ERWIN FRFICKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP) — The Dominion Curling Association has taken the first step to prevent schoolboys from competing in the Canadian curling championship.

The action was asked Wednesday in a report presented at the association's annual meeting by Ken Watson of Winnipeg, chairman of the association's school curling committee.

The National Association was requested to recommend to its affiliated provincial associations that boys attending school below the university level be excluded from provincial and national championship play.

There was no discussion by delegates on this section of Watson's brief and nothing to support reports the action grew out of this year's Manitoba championship. The Manitoba winner and entry here at the Canadian championships is a rink of four Winnipeg teen-agers skipped by 18-year-old Terry Braunstein. With Terry's exception, all still attend high school.

TOPIC NOT MENTIONED

Professionalism, another subject which it was reported would be discussed at the meeting, was not mentioned.

The Ontario Curling Association recently banned two members, Garnet and Don Campbell, noted curlers from Avonlea, Sask. from competing in the Ontario championship because they had been paid as instructors in that province.

Outside the meeting, DAC president Sam Rothschild of Tudbury said as far as the Dominion association is concerned the Campbell brothers — members of the 1955 Canadian championship rink are still eligible for Canadian championship play.

But their eligibility for the Ontario championship was "strictly an Ontario matter and we don't interfere with the provincial associations," he said.

Academic qualifications of participants in the association-sponsored schoolboy playoffs and championship was discussed.

Watson said there has been the odd case of schoolboy curling "tramps" so there had been some rule stiffening but it was difficult because of the varying educational setup across Canada.

Delegates then approved Watson's report which requested that a common entry form across Canada be used. It must be certified by the applicant's school principal.

Canada will participate in a demonstration of curling in the winter Olympics of 1960 in California delegates were told.

Colin Campbell of Toronto, program committee chairman, also announced that Canada will send a team of 26 Canadian curlers for a tour of Tcotland in 1960.

Bears Underdogs To Cleveland In AHL Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hershey Bears, who held a seemingly insurmountable 16-point lead early in the season, found themselves the underdogs to Cleveland Barons today in the race for the American Hockey League's regular season championship.

The teams are tied for the lead with 75 points each. But Hershey has only six games left on its schedule compared to eight for Cleveland.

Barons created the first place deadlock Wednesday night by defeating Hershey 3-1 at Hershey. Gordon Vejprava paced the winners' attack with two second-period goals. George Bouchard netted the other Barons' tally while Bob Solinger deprived Cleveland goaltender Johnny Bower of a shutout.

In the only other game, Springfield Indians whipped Buffalo Bisons 8-4 to move within three points of third-place Providence Reds.

Gerry Ehman led the winners with two goals. Other Indians' scorers were Cal Gardner, Ken Schinkel, Beckett, Real Chevrefils, Jack Caffery and Harry Pidhirny.

Buffalo marksmen were Wally Hergesheimer, Larry Wilson, Dick Gamble and Kenny Wharram.

OVERPOWER RANGERS

QUEBEC (CP) — A classy group of all-stars from the Quebec Hockey League's five teams Wednesday night overpowered the National Hockey League New York Rangers 6-2 in an exhibition game. Dick Bouchard, Fern Perrault, Mike Labadie, Ken Hayden, Ken Mosdell and Guy Rousseau scored for the winners. Parker MacDonald and Dave Creighton were Ranger goalgetters.

Macs Roar Back To Form With Decisive 6-1 Victory Over Kingston

Score Two in First Period Ride Home Rest of Route; Hildebrand Gamble Pays Off

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The CKLC's of Kingston should have known better. They should not have handed the McFarlands that 5-1 defeat Tuesday night here because it backfired before nearly 3300 hometown fans last night when the angry Hildebranders gave them a 6-1 hockey lesson that squared the semi-finals series at two wins each.

The Macs fired home two goals in the first period, and to all intents and purposes the game was over then as far as the CKLC's were concerned. The Belleville crew never glanced backward, fired a single goal home in the second and slapped in three more to a lone return in the third frame.

Playing coach Ike Hildebrand pulled a last-minute surprise strategy, and it paid off. He benched Benoit and Kowalchuk, using Keith Montgomery on the defence and Davy Jones on a front line. Both players came up with fine performances.

The Macs had their shooting eyes dead on target, blasting 33 at Lyn Davis in the Kingston nets, while Gordie Bell had 18 fired at him. The teams resume the series here tomorrow night, playing the fifth game in Memorial Arena.

BRAD STARTED IT

Barton Bradley sparked the Macs' offensive, scoring two goals with Ike Hildebrand getting one and two assists. Minnie Menard, David Jones and Floyd Crawford completed the scoring rout. Joe Lepine had two assists with Brown, Guidolin, Payette, Muretich, Montgomery and MacDonald getting into the helper column.

Paul Payette suffered a seven stitch cut in the forehead with Crawford having a three-stitcher opened near an eye. Both injuries were accidental.

BART BRADLEY
Started the Ball

While Referee Gerry Olinski handed out 14 penalties, eight to the Macs, two of which were misconducts, the Kingston half-dozen proved costly to the homesters. The Macs power-plays were clicking like castanets and they scored three of their goals while CKLCs languished in the crime cell.

Johnny Muretich drew one of the misconducts with the two Joes, Lepine and Levandoski, drawing similar sentences with the clock ticking off the minutes. The Belleville defence backed by Gordie Bell played outstanding hockey as did the up-fronters in penalty-killing duty. On one occasion the CKLCs hemmed the Macs behind their blueline for 1½ minutes of a two-minute sentence but failed to dent the Bell-Macs defensive combination.

The lone Kingston goal, scored by Brian Anderson, went into the net when the Macs were at full strength.

Bart Bradley spearheaded the first Mac power-play at 3.30 while Billy Colvin was cooling off a penalty, firing the rubber home after a pattern passing play with Hildebrand and Wiener Brown. Montgomery's penalty caused no damage and at 9.06 Bep Guidolin stole the puck, skated over the Kingston blueline and flipped it to Menard whose blazer hit Davis' body and caromed into the net.

The play was slower than that which characterized the teams here the previous night but from the start it was plainly evident the McFarlands were back in form. They easily had the play although the official "counter" said only four shots were fired at Davis and three at Bell in the period.

Gauthier flopped on the puck but no penalty was forthcoming and he and Muretich started a shoving match that netted both minors and the McFarland a misconduct.

The CKLC's drove hard in the second frame but they got nowhere with the effective backchecking of the Mac front lines and the defence. They failed to take advantage of a Guidolin penalty then Sailor dumped Joe Lepine and was chased. The Macs organized their power play and Bart Bradley scored his second goal ramming home Lepine's pass from behind with Hildebrand in on the play.

The CKLC's down three goals drove hard and Bukacheski failed to beat Bell from close in. The Macs outshot the foemen 13-7 in the period.

Thomson dumped Davy Jones hard three minutes after the third period opened and six seconds later Hildebrand fired the fourth goal on a blistering slapshot from right point with Lepine and Payette assisting. Guidolin was chased for a minor sentence and it was here the Kingston club hemmed in the Macs for 90 seconds without success. Three seconds after Bep was back, the homesters still in power-play formation scored their only goal of the night, Anderson batting home the puck from Bukacheski and Colvin.

Two plays later the Macs got that one back Davy Jones beating Davis after Montgomery sent him and Muretich away on the sortie. With four minutes to go Crawford fooled young Davis completely taking MacDonald's pass to circle the Kingston net and poke the puck behind a post while the goalie was looking for the pass-out.

Levandoski boarded MacDonald heavily and Lepine rushed over. The result was the two "Joes" got misconducts. Then Thomson hooked Paul Payette when the centre was in the clear and was chased. Eddie Marineau who played an outstanding game missed the open net on the resulting power play, and the game was history.

'Ab Wright' Fund Gets Under Way

A short time ago popular 19-year-old Ab Wright, well-known city athlete, suffered a fractured skull. The resulting operation and hospital and medical care has mounted the costs of recovery.

An "Ab Wright Fund" was started in the city yesterday by a committee, and an appeal will be made to sportsmen to assist in relieving the financial responsibilities of the family.

Hockey insurance amounts to $500. This amount will be absorbed by operational costs. There are medical and hospital bills to take care of.

Donors will be sent an official receipt at the end of the campaign. Donations will be deductable from income tax.

Names of donors, but not amounts, will be published in this newspaper. Those desirous of contributing to this worthy fund are requested to send their donations to Geo. H. Carver, sports editor, Ontario Intelligencer; Jack Devine, CJBQ; "Red" Doran, the city hall or Harry Rollins, Houston Lumber Company.

Lists of donors will be published three times weekly.

Alberta Wins Five-In-Row In Canadian Curling Tourney

By ERWIN FRICKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP)—Three Newfoundlanders curling as a rink in the Canadian curling championships are making a better showing than most of the normal foursomes.

The three are skip Bud Fisher, second Jack Gullage and lead Bill Piercey.

Their vice - skip, Bill Howell, has been laid up with flu for all but one game—one of the two Newfoundland has lost. The game was a fifth-round contest Wednesday which Ontario won 11-6 and Howell was far from his best because of his long layoff and weakness.

The effort sidelined him again Wednesday night when Newfoundland met Nova Scotia in the sixth round of the 11-round round-robin championship.

The Cornerbrook trio with Gullage throwing four rocks, made one of the slowest starts in championship history for a winning rink. They trailed Nova Scotia 8-0 going into the seventh, then laid a four-ender and went on to turn in a 11-10 victory with three on the final end.

In other sixth-round matches Alberta defeated New Brunswick 12-4 to give skip Matt Baldwin his fifth straight win: Manitoba beat Saskatchewan 10-4; Northern Ontario won 14-9 over British Columbia; and Prince Edward Island defeated Quebec 16-7. Ontario, whose 4-1 record is second to Alberta's perfect score, drew a bye.

In the fifth round, Alberta downed B.C. 13-8, P.E.I. beat Saskatchewan 11-9, Quebec defeated Nova Scotia 14-10 and Manitoba's teen-agers won 8-6 over New Brunswick. Northern Ontario had a bye.

The won-lost standings going into today's play: Alberta 5-0, Ontario 4-1, Newfoundland 3-2, Manitoba 3-2 British Columbia 3-3, Saskatchewan 3-3, Prince Edward Island 3-3, Quebec 2-3, Northern Ontario 2-3, Nova Scotia 2-4, New Brunswick 0-6.

In today's seventh-round draw at noon EST the matches are: N.B.-Northern Ontario; Quebec-Manitoba; Newfoundland- P.E.I.; N.S.-Ontario; and Alberta-Saskatchewan. B.C. has the bye.

Newfoundland started competing in the Canadian curling championship in 1951 but until this year had won only five games of 65 played.

Fisher, 43, and his front men are members of the Blomedon—a variation of "blow me down"—Curling Club and also curled in the championship at Kingston last year but won only one game.

His two other victories here were at the expense of New Brunswick 16-7 and Quebec 9-6.

The Saskatchewan rink, from a province with 540 curling clubs compared to only 425 curlers in Newfoundland, just sneaked a 11-9 victory from him with a two-count on the final end in the second round.

Baldwin's sixth-round victory was his 16th straight victory in Canadian curling championship play. A perfect record here would make him the first skip in the 29 stagings of the championship to make two successive clean sweeps.

Smythe Idea Might Help Hapless Leafs

TORONTO (CP) — Baseball has its pitching coaches, catching coaches, batting coaches and outfield coaches.

In football there are line coaches and head coaches.

What about hockey? Could three or four coaches do a faster and better job of bringing a hockey team short on experience up to maximum efficiency?

Maybe, says Stafford Smythe, one of the men who runs Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League. The idea came to him at a practice Tuesday.

The plan might be especially suitable for the fifth-place Leafs, who are rebuilding and have plenty to learn in every phase of the game.

WAS STAR CENTRE

Smythe noted that coach Billy Reay was a star centre with Montreal Canadiens in his playing days. There wasn't much reason to expect Reay to be an expert on goaltending or defensive play.

Possibly Reay could be backed up by two or three coaches experienced in other departments.

Leafs have the material. In their chain are former goaltender Turk Broda, old defencemen Bob Goldham and King Clancy and former defensive star Bob Davidson.

"Maybe it wouldn't work in hockey," said Smythe. "But it's worth thinking over. It works well in football and baseball."

Canuck Troops Will Root for Whitby Dunlops

OTTAWA (CP) — Sixty - two Canadians from Soest, Germany, will cheer Canada's entry in the world hockey championships at Oslo, Norway, in the last three games, army headquarters said Wednesday.

The Canadian contingent, composed of 57 soldiers of the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group four of their wives and a bank manager, will leave Soest by bus today and arrive in Oslo Thursday night.

The Whitby team plays Czechoslovakia, the United States and Russia in their last three games.

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—George Cairns of Niagara Falls, Ont., was fined $256 Tuesday on three charges. He pleaded guilty to impaired driving, driving while his licence was suspended and having liquor in a place other than his residence. The charges were laid after Cairns' car collided with another Feb. 24.

Newsman Given Curling Honor

VICTORIA (CP) — Billy Finlay of Vancouver Wednesday was named a life member of the Dominion Curling Association, the first newspaper man to be given the association's highest honor.

Public relations officer for the Vancouver Sun and a former sports editor of the paper. Finlay began curling in Winnipeg in 1904 and has played in three Canadian curling championships with British Columbia rinks.

Life memberships were also awarded to Ernie McMurtry of Toronto secretary of the Ontario Curling Association, and to Jack Dutton of Winnipeg.

NO HOPE FOR REDS

LONDON (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope flew back to the United States Tuesday night after trying seven days to get a visa for Moscow. "There seem to be complications," he said at the airport. "I don't know why. I have never said anything about the Russians." Hope wanted to go to Moscow to film a television show.

Tickets Are Available for Friday Game

There are a number of good seats available in Memorial Arena for tomorrow night's Kingston-McFarlands game, Manager Drury Denyes said today.

After the Macs' convincing 6-1 victory Wednesday night, the Kingston club will be battling desperately to again take the lead in the best-of-seven series.

A win Friday will give the Macs 3-2 edge, and if they play the same type of hockey tomorrow night they should come out on top.

In any event it will be a thriller.

Tickets are available at Bill Cook's Cigar Store.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba vans moving household furniture into or through Ontario now can do so without paying an Ontario licence fee. An agreement to this effect was concluded Monday.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — The longest harness - racing meeting undertaken in Ontario opens at Toronto's Old Woodbine three-quarter mile track on Tuesday, July 1, and continues through 50 racing days to Wednesday, Aug. 27. Track manager Clarence McPhee, who announced the dates Tuesday, said that closing day for entries for the meeting's early-closing events is Saturday, March 15.

All programs will be staged in the evening, as last year, including Saturday and holiday cards.

McPhee said minimum purses for all trotting and pacing events have been increased by the Ontario Jockey Club under whose auspices the meeting will be held.

Lowest purse for a single dash will be $500 for class D events. Class C purses will be worth $750 a dash, class B $1,100, class A $1,500, class AA $1,700, junior free-for-all $2,000 and free-for-all $2,500.

Old Woodbine will participate in the $85,000 Canadian juvenile circuit which will be conducted on eight tracks in Ontario and Quebec. The Canadian juvenile circuit two-year-old pace for a stake of $9,500 will be held Saturday, July 26.

Manchester U Edges Albion

MANCHESTER, Eng. (AP)—Manchester United Wednesday night reached the semi-finals of the Football Association Cup defeating West Bromwich Albion 1-0 with a goal scored in the last minute of play.

Right winger Colin Webster, one of the youths brought into the team after eight Manchester stars died in the Feb. 6 Munich air crash, scored the winner.

Manchester meets Second-Division Fulham in the semi-finals March 22.

Three survivors of the Munich crash played in the floodlit game goalkeeper Harry Gregg, right back and captain Bill Foulkes and left winger Bobby Charlton.

In addition to the 60,000 inside the ground, 30,000 persons tried to gain admission, but the gates were closed an hour before kick-off.

PERFECT PASS

As the minutes ticked away and extra time seemed inevitable, centre half Ron Cope sent inside right Ernie Taylor away for Manchester. Taylor tricked his man and pushed the ball out to Charlton, who raced downfield toward the corner flag. Webster was in the middle to receive Charlton's perfectly - placed low centre. Calmly and unhesitatingly, he sidefooted the ball into the net.

One minute later the referee blew his whistle for time.

Manchester is still unbeaten since the Munich crash. The record is two Cup ties won, one Cup tie tied and a league match tied.

The entire game was relayed by a special telephone line to Munich, where crash survivors, including United manager Matt Busby, heard the result in Rechts De Isar Hospital.

Busby was jubilant when he spoke on the telephone to acting manager Jimmy Murphy. "Just the thing . . . wonderful . . .," he exclaimed.

Barons, Maple Leafs and Red Wings earned their way into the squirt semi-finals at Memorial Arena last night but the Browns and Rangers and the midget squads, Home and School and TPT's failed to settle their series.

In the midget game, which was the second of a goals-to-count affair, the TPT's downed the H. and S. team 5-4. The clubs tied last week but the first game has been thrown out, according to Bill Brennan of the BMHA, and will be replayed at a later date. TPT's thus hold a one - goal lead in the semi-final series. The winner will meet Booth Radio - TV's for the championship.

The Rangers and Browns squirt series is now tied at four goals each. Browns took last night's game 3-2 following a 2-1 Ranger victory the previous week. The series will likely be decided by a sudden - death game.

In the other squirt contests Red Wings downed Canadiens 7-5 to take series 11-9. Barons and Bruins tied 5-5 with Barons taking set 15-7 while Leafs downed the Black Hawks 4-2 for an 8-4 series victory.

In the second game, D'Arcy Lawrence and Moe Hunter personally handled all the TPT's seven scoring points. Lawrence had three goals and one assist while Hunter scored twice and added one assist. Both are top stars of the midget OMHA team which eliminated Kingston.

"Pug" Keller, another of the all-star selections, fired two goals for Home and School with D. Archer earning three assists. L. Moreau had a goal and assist while D. Sinclair also scored.

Mike Sharland netted two goals in the Browns' squirt victory with Bruce Fitzgibbon getting the other. Paul Armstrong and Doug Olson replied for the Rangers.

David Bearesford with three goals led Red Wings to victory. James Pringle scored twice with John Blakely and Bob Butcher getting the others. Stephen White and Gary Pringle had two goals each for Canadiens. Jim Beattie fired the other.

Stuart McIntosh, John Smith, David Emerson and Harold Bawden had one goal apiece in the Leaf win. Don Muldoon and Ted Clarke were the Hawk marksmen.

Jan Morris fired three goals and Gary Lucas a pair as the Barons tied Bruins and advanced to the city semi-finals. Paul Ford had a pair of goals for Bruins with one each for Kirk Reed, David Arthurs and Harold Wishart.

OSD Girls Win Quinte COSSA Hoop Titles

O.S.D. junior and senior girls basketball teams made a clean sweep of the Bay of Quinte Group "B" secondary school district championships, and earned the right to represent this district in the COSSA finals to be played in Barrie this Saturday.

After eliminating Albert College, the seniors met Madoc high school, the northern group winners in a home and home series, winning both games by scores of 36 to 14 and 41 to 27. The juniors met Stirling high school girls in a home and home playoff series, winning 38 to 7 and 30 to 15 to take the junior championship.

Both O.S.D. teams went through the season without a loss. The seniors registered victories over BCI, Tweed, Albert College and Brighton. The juniors defeated Quinto Bantams, Quinte Juniors, Tweed and Stirling. They are worthy representatives of this district and should give a good account of themselves in Central Ontario competition on Saturday. The seniors will be aiming for a repeat of last year's performance when they won the COSSA "B" Group championship.

The teams are: Seniors — Co-captains Marlene Caldwell and Donna Roult, Evelyn Caldwell, Patsy Bishop, Marilyn Bishop, Betty Williams, Lillian Kluba, Nancy Moon, Diane Lew, Bernice Spence Barbara Beaumont and Margaret Schneller.

Juniors — Co-captains Beth Wright and Margaret Munsie, Geraldine O'Dell, Ruth Massicotte, Donna Mosher, Elaine Bennett, Elizabeth Spark, Jean Shaw, Lorna Gilders, Carol Ann Palmer, Lee Hunter, Beverly Clayton.

Screen Writer Never Had Any Roots in a Community

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ketti Frings, screen writer who penned the Broadway smash, Look Homeward, Angel, lived in 14 different states before she was 14.

As a writer she views that as bad—and yet good.

"I never had any real roots in a community," she observes, since my father was a salesman. I've often thought this was bad for me as a writer.

"The really great American writers have all had one place to write about, where they grew up. They were able to watch the growth and development of people they knew. I never could do that.

"Yet, I think my very rootlessness had a lot to do with my becoming a writer. My mother died when I was 11, and my father was away a great deal. I still remained very close to my father by writing him letters.

"I think that's something we lack nowadays. This is the great age of communication. We can pick up a phone and talk to anyone. But we're losing the art of letter writing, of communicating with each other with the written word. My own daughter, who is away at school, never writes me; she always telephones collect. She isn't getting the training I got in expressing herself with letters."

Ketti Frings is a good-looking, expressive woman who has been turning out top - notch movie scripts (Come Back Little Sheba, The Shrike) for years. Last fall she left the relative anonymity of a screen writer to turn the Thomas Wolfe novel into a hit play.

How she cut the massive Wolfe book down to an absorbing play has amazed many critics.

"It isn't a matter of cutting," she corrected. "It's more a problem of boiling down the basic ingredients, sort of like making a soup." Now she is cooking up another appealing project, a dramatization of the current best-seller, By Love Possessed.

Reflecting on her childhood, Mrs. Frings said she was always writing. She wrote publicity, advertising copy, radio scripts, magazine articles, finally landing in Hollywood to do some movie magazine work.

Undaunted by one flop play she decided to tackle Look Homeward, Angel. Said she: "I had always loved his books and was intrigued to learn he had once written an unsuccessful play and had wanted to be a playwright. I wondered why he hadn't chosen his more successful stories. Look Homeward, Angel seemed the logical one to try."

Filmed Account of Hiroshima Bombing Planned on Sunday

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Seated before the large screen in the television projection studio, it seemed that he was at the controls of a B-29 again.

Here, in camera closeup, were the instrument panel and the control pedestal. Out through the plexiglas dome he could see Pacific cumulus clouds in the glare of morning sun.

"We started our climb to 30,000 feet at 7:40. At 18,500 feet I set the C-1 automatic pilot up for the last time until after 'bombs away.' I checked with the crew at 20,000 and all stations reported satisfactory. We reached our altitude at 8:30. Nelson received a report that our primary target is the best target. So we will make a bomb run on Hiroshima. . . ."

THAT'S WHAT HE WROTE

The husky man in the projection studio shifted suddenly at the memory of writing those words in the plane which he now saw on the screen roaring toward Hiroshima and a new era of history.

He saw the bomb falling. Then everything grew dim in a flashing white brilliance. There was a cloud, an enormous and strangely shaped cloud. He remembered whispering to himself, "my God, what have we done?"

The screen of the projection studio darkened suddenly and the lights came on. The man who had been flying that B-29 to Hiroshima in memory again, Robert A. Lewis, turned to the man beside him.

"That's exactly the way it was," he said.

FIRST FILM VIEW

Lewis had been viewing for the first time recently declassified top-secret films of the preparations that led to the dropping of the first atomic bomb on Aug. 6, 1945. The television audience will see this same filmed account next Sunday on Twentieth Century (CBS-TV).

Using films and a diary of the mission kept by co-pilot Lewis, Phil Reisman Jr. has written a fine documentary of the historic event.

Lewis and his crew were selected for the job because of his extensive experience with B-29s and his outstanding record as a pilot. Col. Paul Tibbets Jr., pilot of the plane, was the squadron commander. The bomb was finally assembled on the flight from Tinian to Hiroshima for fear the heavily laden plane might crash on takeoff.

NOW DOMESTICATED

Like many another veteran, Lewis is a thoroughly domesticated civilian now. He and his wife live in Old Tappan, N.J., with their four sons and one daughter. Lewis, who once commuted to the Japanese mainland, now travels daily from Old Tappan to a candy manufacturing firm in New York where he is personnel director.

"I don't think that my mission to Hiroshima was useless," he said after viewing it on film. "When I was in Japan after the war was over I heard people say it was 'God's wind' that wiped out one city instead of the entire empire. I'll say this. I'll say it was God's wind if it proves to be a deterrent to future wars. If it is, and I believe that it is, then the bombing of Hiroshima was worth it."

'Y' Basketball

There was an upset in the "Y" Senior Basketball League when the Stags went down under in both games of their double header. The Hasbins came out victors in the first game 51-47 while the down and under Steam Rollers rolled their way to a 84-41 tally.

High scorers for the Steam Rollers were Walters with 32, also scoring, Gibb 2, Bongard 2.

First game: Hasbins — Batchelor 11, Walmsley, B. Bongard 2, Walters 16 — 51.

Stags: Hynbidia 2, Massey 10, Hastey, Kane 16, Terejko 19 — 47.

Second Game: Steam Rollers: Donaldson 8, Matthews 26, Graham 16, Walters 32, Gibb 2—84.

Stags: Hyndibia 12, Massey 4, 4, Hastey 4, Kane 9, Terejko 1 —41.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, March 6

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—In the morning you may be kept from the things you truly want to do because of some annoying tasks that need attention. Meet your obligations quickly, then off to the progressive interests with intelligent persons!

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—The morning blues can be dispelled by contacting those friends who will turn the day into a most productive and happy one instead of the depressive one your mood might have plunged [illegible]. You don't give yourself enough credit.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Unavoidable argument with family ties prevents you from dashing off to business in early A.M. But this soon clears and you can make up for lost time, also go off to some charming spot with inspiring friends.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — Labor is all about you today to such an extent that it confuses you. But by digging right in, you lop off the major portion of it quickly. In P. M. a good intuition also makes your day fine since it brings you closer to a dear pal.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Leave all that dull - doldrum work behind which has you feeling you are doomed to labor for life. Spend very little, but have a whale of a time and relax your nerves. P. M. your dearest friends show their affection.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — You arise thinking that your mate is not as loyal or helpful to you as you would desire. This may be due to indigestion. Then you think more logically and can make some fine decisions. P. M let sociability reign.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A personal anxiety could certainly give you delirium tremens today if you don't quickly turn to the highest endeavors you are capable of and excelling in these. Tonight you find you can have a fine, happy time, too.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Although the mountain of little details that face you today seems to be so much debris in the way of your progress, by getting them out of the way now, you start building on a firm foundation. P. M. enjoy life at own fireside.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Take care to follow each established law applying to own endeavors today or you lose out materially, endanger the security so laboriously earned. P. M. do your marketing, visit with friends, have fun.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Are you up to date on the latest innovations, modes of living? Sift your newspaper thoroughly, get in touch with successful persons, etc. P. M. ideas come to you how to get richer, ethically. Be smart.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Fuming over an unavoidable situation does no good. Nor does the remark of some jealous person require a moment's consideration on your part. Stick to tried and true, go along with them now. P.M. delight everyone

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Altercation between a partner and a person of power as regards the proper procedure to follow could cause you to get in the middle, to your detriment. Stick to own work religiously. P. M. plan the future wisely.

If your child is born today . . . The dear child born today is the kind who will early develop the habit of playing sick just for the enjoyment, help he or she can get out of it, or worse still, want to do everything in the hardest possible way. Let your progeny cry "wolf" several times, or leave your child to own resources and this is corrected early. Then the attitude changes and the sky is the limit to the real perfectionist born.

Propose to Make Libel Law Apply To Radio and TV

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government has moved to bring radio and television commentaries under the laws of libel and slander that have governed newspaper reports for nearly 50 years.

Attorney-General Roberts said in an interview Wednesday a bill providing for the changes will be presented soon to the legislature for second reading. He said defamation on radio and TV often may reach more people and cause more damage than if printed in newspapers.

Under the new Libel and Slander Act defamatory words in broadcast or telecast will be regarded as having been published.

The new bill follows submissions by the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers' Association the Civil Liberties League and the Canadian Bar Association.

The new act broadens the scope of newspaper and broadcast privilege; that is, the activities on which news media may base reports without fear of prosecution unless malice in publication is proved.

Items added to the list include reports of the findings or decisions of trade, business, professional, sporting, artistic and religious associations.

The amending legislation also eases the burden on the parties to actions for libel and slander.

Under the present law, to have grounds for a slander action where there is no proof of special damage, the plaintiff must show the offending words were not ones of general abuse but were related to his office, profession, calling, trade or business.

The new act says any words tending to injury or prejudice the plaintiff's reputation in his office or profession are actionable without proof of special damage and regardless of whether they are spoken in relation to the plaintiff's calling.

The present law requires the plaintiff in actions of slander of title—that is, making disparaging remarks about a man's property—slander of goods or malicious falsehoods intended to cause financial damage, to prove that there was special damage.

The revision removes the necessity of proving special damage.

Again, the existing law requires that the defendant prove the truth of every word and separate charge to succeed with his defence in a defamation action.

The new law amended this by making it possible for the defendant to succeed if he proved so much of the charge was true that the unproved remainder wouldn't appreciably heighten the injury to the plaintiff's reputation.

Don't Suffer Indigestion Sour, Acid Upset Stomach

Get Prompt Relief, Enjoy Meals by Taking Syntona Herbal Tonic. Eat Better, Feel Better, Sleep Better. You'll be Glad You Used Syntona.

"For a long time I suffered with my stomach and I became very run down, but the first bottle of Syntona convinced me it is a great medicine," Mr. John May, 15 Woodworth Ave., St. Thomas, Ontario, said.

"My chief trouble was with gas, indigestion and heartburn after my meals. I would become bloated and have a full, heavy feeling across my chest. Sour acid risings came up in my throat. I was subject to throbbing headaches and rheumatic pains.

"My wife had used Syntona before and finally insisted that I try it. To my surprise the gas pains and sour indigestion soon cleared up and I could enjoy my meals. Now I feel better, sleep well at night and I am relieved of constipation and headache. At the same time Syntona relieved the rheumatic aches and pains in my arms, limbs and shoulders.

SYNTONA is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan the Druggist.

Hydro to Cut Power Costs to Municipalities

TORONTO (CP) — New Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission policy will cut municipal power costs by several million dollars in future years, the Ontario Municipal Electric Association has been told.

The new policy is a result of negotiations between the association and the commission to establish some formula under which the municipalities need no longer pay into terminated sinking fund.

Details of the policy were outlined Wednesday in a report to the association's annual meeting.

The commission, which began serving municipalities in 1912, set up 40-year sinking funds to retire bonded indebtedness incurred for construction of facilities.

Both rural Hydroc ustomers and municipalities contribute to this type of fund. Rural customers only contribute to other sinking funds set up to retire bonded indebtedness for construction of rural distribution facilities.

The province pays grants-in-aid amounting to 50 per cent of the capital cost of supplying power to rural areas. When these areas are annexed by municipalities, provincal grants are repaid at cost by the municipalities.

The first sinking fund was completed in 1952. Prior to negotiations, when part of a rural area was annexed the commission was willing to transfer sinking fund equity in the rural distribution facilities only.

Now the municipality will get credit for a portion of the sinking fund equity in both the rural distribution and power system facilities.

The plan will go into effect almost immediately.

Druggist Fined

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Druggist Ernest M. Rix was fined $200 and costs or two months in jail Wednesday on each of three charges of selling without a prescription a sedative listed in the Food and Drug Act as requiring one. He was given a week to pay the fines.

Earlier another local firm, (Cairncross and Lawrence) was convicted and fined $100 on a similar charge. The drug is Sedormid, known chemically as allylisoprophylacetylurea, and is distributed by a Montreal wholesaler.

Madoc Junction

MADOC JUNCTION — Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Wannamaker and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Waterfall and a number of other friends from Stirling attended the pot-luck supper held at the school on Wednesday night.

There was a good attendance at Sunday School on Sunday morning. During the opening period, Mrs. Maurice Clancy gave an interesting missionary talk about how a little Japanese girl came to attend classes in Japan and to learn the stories of the Bible. Also at the Sunday School session "Happy Birthday" was sung for Sharon Reide, as she dropped her pennies into the birthday box.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ray and children, of Bancroft, were weekend guests at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ray.

A pleasant time was spent on Wednesday night at the school when about 60 were present to enjoy a bountiful pot-luck supper sponsored by the Eggleton W.A. A nice sum was added to the W.A. funds.

Miss Fair, of Belleville, spent Wednesday night with her friend, Miss Donna Stapley.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Clancy and Lloyd and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fitchett visited Mrs. Carl Clancy, of Wellman's, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William McMullen, Wayne and Keith, visited with relatives in Belleville, recently.

Railways, Unions Reach Agreement On Welfare Plan

Scratch Issue off List Of Demands Under Study

MONTREAL (CP) — The railways and the 15 unions representing 130,000 non-operating railway workers have agreed on improvements to health and welfare plans with the help of a federal conciliation board hearing their contract dispute.

The agreement was reached privately Thursday before the hearing was adjourned to Monday.

While the settlement was described as "interim," all parties agreed to have the issue scratched from the list of union demands to be heard by the conciliation board.

The terms of the agreement have not yet been disclosed, but it was understood that some concessions were made. The unions originally sought a monthly contribution of $8.50 per employee from the railways.

Main issue in the dispute is the unions' demand for a 35-cent wage increase.

Doukhobor Sect Planning Move To Russia Soon

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Leaders of British Columbia fanatical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect are confident that the group's plan to migrate en mass to Russia will soon materialize.

In his first statement since returning with a four-man delegation from discussions with the Soviet government, Freedomite secretary Bill Moojelsky said Thursday he was sure "Russia will give the Doukhobors the dignity of human beings and the right to live as a family unit."

He said the Sons of Freedom have made an informal application to the Soviet government for land in the Altai region of southwestern Siberia.

There are some 2,500 members of the sect a breakaway group from the 10,000 Orthodox Doukhobors who have mostly become absorbed into the Canadian way of life since migrating from Russia in 1899.

Outbreaks of violence, bombings, house burnings and nude parades, designed to show their hostility to man-made laws, have marked the 50 years' existence of the Freedomite sect.

ANTICIPATE RUSH

Moojelsky said the delegation has asked the Soviet government for sufficient land for 12,000 Doukhobors, anticipating a rush of applicants from both Freedomite and Orthodox groups once plans are completed. Freedomite reports say 2,000 Sons of Freedom and 1,000 others have already indicated they want to go.

But there have been reports of a split in the ranks of Freedomites with some under the leadership of John Lebedoff, opposing the move to Russia. Lebedoff first proposed the move as chairman of the sect's fraternal council in 1949.

Pilot's Skill Credited With Saving Five

SAULT STE. MARIE Ont. (CP)—A bush pilot's skill today was credited with saving five lives in the crash of a Beaver plane near Lochalsh, CPR mainline whistle-stop 180 miles northwest of Sudbury.

Claude Godin, 23, flown to hospital here Thursday, said pilot Fred (Holly) Hollingsworth, 39, crash-landed the plane Wednesday while flying blind during a snowstorm. Godin was the only one injured in the crash.

Hollingsworth was flying a party of four New Brunswick surveyors from Lochalsh to Wabatongushi Lake when the plane was caught in the sudden storm. Godin said the men in the aircraft could see nothing, but the pilot brought the plane down on the lake. The skis were smashed and the wings and tail ripped off.

Godin said Hollingsworth snowshoed six miles to Lochalsh to get help. A provincial air service rescue plane was unable to get through the overcast until the next day to pick up the men, who spent Wednesday night in a lakeshore cabin with emergency rations.

Godin's companions, Ed Randle, 24 Wayne Horner, 25, and Merle Currie, 23, were brought out to Lochalsh and returned here by train.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A large high pressure area centred over Hudson Bay and extending southward across the Great Lakes promises generally sunny weather for Ontario today and Saturday. Temperatures will be about normal for this time of year. Maximums will range from the mid-30s in Southern Ontario to the mid-20s in the North while tonight's minimum will range from 25 above in the south to zero in the north.

Work Through Night to Free Bodies in Dam

MONTREAL (CP) — Helmeted construction men worked through the night at clearing away debris so underwater rescue workers could resume attempts at daybreak to free bodies of their companions from the wreckage of a collapsed coffer dam.

Floodlights played on the black waters of the Riviere des Prairies, swirling past the twisted shell of the coffer dam that took 11 lives when it caved in Wednesday under pressure of ice and water.

One body was recovered Thursday. A diver and three frogmen engaged in the grim and dangerous job of recovering the others said they located two pinned down by the steel beams that had formed the wall of the caisson.

The diver remained on the scene during the night. The frogmen were to begin work at first light today.

The construction disaster occurred at a bridge project on the Rivieres des Prairies — also known as the Back River—skirting the north shore of Montreal Island. The death toll was established Thursday by checking how many of the 450-man work force had "punched out."

Three men somehow rode to the surface on the churning crest of the wall of ice and water that crushed the coffer dam. All were rescued—only one suffered minor injuries.

The river was about 26 feet deep at the bridge site, two feet deeper than usual, when ice released from upstream by spring-like weather piled up against the coffer dam.

Diesel Engines Trapped by Slide

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian National Telegraphs officials said today two CNR diesel locomotives and 10 cars loaded with poles were trapped or derailed by a large landslide 17 miles east of Prince Rupert early today.

There were no reports of injuries.

Telephone and telegraph communications were cut off to Prince Rupert, on the B.C. coast just south of the Alaska panhandle.

First reports said the side of a mountain slid off into the Skeena Inlet east of Prince Rupert.

LABOR MINISTER APPEALS FOR MODERATION

Requests Unions to Cut Wage Demands

TORONTO (CP) — Labor Minister Daley has appealed in the legislature for industry and labor to work together to retain the economic gains of recent years.

In an hour-long address Thursday which preceded examination of his departmental estimates he asked industry to undertake a survey leading to levelling of the booms and slumps in employment. He asked organized labor to make no unrealistic wage demands this year.

Later during a night sitting Premier Frost and the Liberal Opposition locked in a two-hour debate on the government's method of financing.

Mr. Daley, urging labor and industry to come together for their mutual benefit, warned:

"If we allow the pendulum to swing too far we are going to destroy many of the things we enjoy. I appeal to the unions, to the working men who have made such a great contribution to our way of life, to re-examine their positions."

ON EDUCATION

The labor minister praised the leadership given by Education Minister Dunlop, but, he said, "we are going overboard on matters of education."

Where were the carpenters, laborers, plumbers and other tradesmen coming from if everyone received a higher education? More attention should be paid to the boy with ability who was unable to absorb higher learning.

Mr. Daley suggested local councils on employment should be established to attack unemployment problems at the local level. He did not feel the present economic situation wos critical, but he believed surveys should be undertaken by industry to provide a more balanced employment cycle.

He was critical of persons holding two jobs when there was a comparative job scarcity. They were, he said, using leisure hours won for them by unions to take some else's job.

Reviewing the work of his department, Mr. Daley said if there was any slant in labor relations legislation, it was in favor of labor. The department tried to keep it in balance.

British Labor Launches Drive To Ban H-Bomb

LONDON (Reuters)—The Labor party, confident of powerful trade union backing, has launched a campaign for suspension of British hydrogen bomb tests and a world pact outlawing all nuclear weapons.

A mandate for the campaign was secured Thursday at a conference with representatives of the 8,000,000-strong Trades Union Congress.

The conference produced a joint statement reaffirming official Labor party policy on nuclear weapons, and made no concessions to a new left-wing splinter group within the party.

The new group, calling itself "victory for socialism" demands closer adherence to basic Socialist principles and calls on Britain to ban the manufacture as well as the testing of nuclear weapons.

As the party-TUC statement was being issued, the dissident leftists staged a Socialist rally to launch their drive to get Britain to step out of the nuclear weapons picture altogether.

Party leader Hugh Gaitskell told a television interviewer: "We want free speech but you cannot have a situation in which the party is broken up into groups."

Unmanned Freight Train Rambles Through Town at 60 Miles an Hour

TWO RIVERS, Wis. (AP) — An apparently unmanned freight train moved out of the switching yards at nearby Manitowoc early today, roared through this community at speeds up to 60 miles an hour, crashed through the iron gates of a coal company and and plunged into the local harbor.

It was not known immediately whether anyone was aboard the train, or whether mechanical failure was involved.

The diesel engine and five loaded box cars sank immediately to the bottom of the harbor. A sixth box car, filled with empty milk cans, floated on the surface. Four other cars were left standing on the tracks.

The crew of the Chicago and Northwestern freight said they left the train with its engine idling while they were eating. When they returned they discovered it had pulled out of the yards.

The train apparently had moved out of Manitowoc on a spur track and picked up speed as it moved through this densely populated area. It passed many grade crossings.

ICE BREAKS COFFER DAM, 11 DROWN

Collapse of a coffer dam at Riviere des Prairies, Quebec, brought death to 11 persons. Fourteen men were working in a 100-by-25 foot cubicle when the walls collapsed and water flooded the 40-foot pit. Laurent Theoret, above, one of three survivors, said: "It was all over in 30 seconds. There were ladders up the side of the coffer dam but the water flooded too fast for the men to use them." Floating ice is believed to have caused collapse of the dam.

Reception-Line Handshake Used as Political Weapon

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The reception-line handshake is moving in alongside speech-making as a political weapon in the campaign for the March 31 federal election.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker for the fifth time in three days applied the technique Thursday. He and his wife shook hands for half an hour in a big municipal arena at Kitchener and in this way greeted almost half the 1,250 persons at the mid-afternoon meeting.

The technique, which brings a campaigner into more intimate relations with an audience than a speech usually does, is somewhat comparable to the informal question-and-answer sessions Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson has employed especially with university audiences.

The Liberal leader Thursday night confined his campaign efforts to a television appearance from Montreal in which he defended his party for not cutting taxes while still in office last year.

While Social Credit Leader Solon Low continued his campaign in Northern Alberta, the CCF cause was being pushed both east and west by party leader M. J. Coldwell and deputy leader Stanley Knowles.

Mr. Diefenbaker's Kitchener reception followed a pattern begun two days before in Toronto. There were cookies, tea and coffee and a dash of speech.

In his brief address, he covered familiar election topics and then referred directly to the reception as providing "an opportunity to meet people one would not meet in any other way."

At Hamilton Thursday night, the prime minister spoke to a standing-room only crowd of 2,300 about the results he said his government is getting in its efforts to have United States trade policies respect Canadian interests.

Wren Says Firemen's Union Sold Out by CCF Lawyer

TORONTO (CP) — Albert Wren L-Labor-Kenora told the legislature Thursday the firemen's union was "sold down the river by a high-priced CCF lawyer" in its submissions to the Kellock royal commission.

He said Davis Lewis, national chairman of the CCF party, was paid $200 of $250 a day but failed to present "the very meat" of the union's case.

If the commission's recommendation for removal of firemen in freight and yard service were followed, said Mr. Wren, "you're going to see wrecks like you've never seen before in this country."

The former railroader, in a blistering speech that won applause on both sides of the House, said "the rape of the trade union movement is under way," by the CPR.

The voting stock of the CPR was in American hands and American railways had "picked a weak union-weak numerically and dragged it into the bushes for the assult.

"If this railway is allowed to continue with its plan you're going to have a general strike in this country the like of which you've never seen before.

"If we don't take a sympathetic look at organized labor's problem they'll never trust us again. If Prime Minister Diefenbaker doesn't stop this he's going to hand the Socialists half a million votes on a silver platter."

Mr. Wren said the commission's investigations had not included demonstrations involving snowstorms or the complicated movement of wheat on the Prairies.

The commission had gone to Britain, where trains were toys compared to Canadian trains but it hadn't inspected a single American railroad.

It had been told that automatic "dead man" controls would stop a freight train if something should happen to the engineer, but it hadn't been told the apparatus couldn't stop a train in less than 5,700 feet — more than a mile.

Railway superintendents were against the removal of firemen "but they don't dare say anything because they're afraid of losing their jobs."

Mr. Wren said he was not talking for votes. There weren't enough railwaymen in his riding.

His speech was part of a nation-wide campaign to tell the country the firemen's side of the story—the CPR had conveyed its message through the efforts of paid publicists.

Meetings on the question are to be held across Canada, said Mr. Wren, mentioning Montreal, Winnipeg and Toronto.

After his speech he gave copies of a statement on the firemen's position to Premier Frost and other members of the cabinet.

Good Thing These Beans Not Canned

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rain, snow, hail and even beans hit Southern California in a windstorm Thursday.

In suburban Van Nuys, Miss Teto Emerson, 37, thought she saw hail pelting her office building. The pellets proved to be ice-coated navy beans.

The weather bureau said winds in the fields north of the Tehachapi Mountains could have swirled the beans aloft and carried them some 30 miles to the San Fernando Valley.

DECISION FAVORS WORKER

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Supreme Court has ruled that injuries a worker suffers during a coffee break can be considered as occurring on the job. The court ruled in the case of Mrs. Phyllis A. Clifford, 46, an employee of the Worcester Mutual Fire Insurance Company who fell downstairs while going for a coffee break in 1952. She drew $1,680 compensation.

20,000 QUEBEC STUDENTS STAY OUT OF CLASSES

No Violence Mars Protest Boycott

MONTREAL (CP)—Three University of Montreal students boarded a train for Quebec City Thursday night to begin a vigil before Premier Duplessis' office as a sequel to Thursday's boycott of classes.

Nearly 20,000 students, representing all but a fraction of student populations of five of the province's six universities, stayed away from lectures during the one-day protest move against Premier Duplessis' education policies.

No disorder or violence was reported during the boycott.

The premier said a student brief demanding more scholarships and increased university grants on a statutory basis would receive careful study, but claimed he was too busy to meet student representatives.

Following the boycott the University of Montreal trio set out for Quebec City vowing to continue their vigil until Mr. Duplesis agrees to meet with the student presidents.

INDEPENDENT MOVE

"This is an independent move on our part," said Michel Charest, spokesman for the University of Montreal student council. "We hope, however, that the other universities concerned follow our action."

The three students are Bruno Meloche, second-year law, Jean-Pierre Boyer, fourth-year law, and arts student Francine Laurendeau.

Besides the University of Montreal the other institutions involved in the one-day boycott were McGill and Sir George Williams College in Montreal, Laval in Quebec City, and Bishop's at Lennoxville.

The University of Sherbrooke, a small French-language institution at Sherbrooke, was the only university in the province at which students voted against any boycott.

Million Dollar Fire at Orillia After Explosion

ORILLIA (CP)—Fire in this town's downtown business area took five hours to control Thursday night and destroyed a department store, a shoe shop and a clothing store. A bank was left ruined.

Businessmen and merchants in this Lake Simcoe town of 14,000 persons, 90 miles north of Toronto, estimated loss as high as $1,000,000.

The blaze started after an explosion in the basement of Shreibman's department store at 6 p.m., just as proprietor John Shreibman and his wife were closing. A second blast blew the front windows into the street.

The fire appeared under control after it spread and destroyed two adjoining shops—Agnew Surpass Shoe Store and Sally Clothing.

It flared again, however, and fanned by 15-mile-an-hour winds destroyed the second storey of the Royal Bank of Canada branch building. The roof and second-storey walls fell in before it was brought under control.

The first-floor bank branch was so badly damaged a new building will have to be constructed, officials said.

Its second storey contained vacated offices.

Ascertain Second U.S. Satellite Plunged to Fiery Death in Ocean

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) A fiery death came to Explorer II, the United States Army's second space satellite, about 1,900 miles from home over the South Atlantic.

The announcement was made Thursday at Cape Canaveral, site of the vacant Jupiter-C pad where Explorer II left the earth Wednesday. Now a Navy Vanguard rocket is ready to take off this week with its own pocket-sized satellite.

The Army has another satellite just like Explorer II—but it may pass that one by to get some other satellite into space.

In Washington it said it was building Explorer III and will launch it this spring.

The blame for the failure of Explorer II was laid to the 50-pound rocket that carried the satellite as its pointed nose. This was the final stage of the Jupiter-C four-stage rocket system.

The final stage failed to fire—why, scientists don't know and don't expect to find out. The satellite lacking the added thrust, didn't get up anywhere near the gravity-defying speed of 18,000 miles an hour.

Scientists said it took a long time to find out what had happened to the satellite because of conflicting reports.

When the 80-inch satellite and rocket assembly plummeted into the earth's atmosphere again, its speed and the friction of the earth's atmosphere created its own fiery destruction.

Whitby Dunnies Blank Czechs By Score Of 6-0

Count 4 Goals in Third After Two Tight Frames

OSLO (CP)—Canada won its fifth straight victory in the world hockey championships today by blanking Czechoslovakia 6-0 in a tough game. It was the first defeat for the Czechs although they were tied twice earlier—by Russia and the United States.

The undefeated Canadian Whitby team had more trouble with the powerfully-built Czechs than with any team so far. The Canadians scored twice in the first period, were held scoreless in the second and finished off with four goals.

Canada now leads the eight-team round-robin tournament with 10 points—two more than defending champion Sweden, which defeated Poland 12-2 earlier today. Canada handed Sweden its first loss Thursday.

SUMMARY

First period: 1. Canada, Gagnon (Attersley) 2:40, 2. Canada, Broden (McKenzie) 16:10. Penalties: Ted O'Connor 12:16, Gagnon 15:01 Sinden 19:59.

Second period: Scoring: none. Penalty: Starsi 13:55.

SWEDEN BEATS POLAND

OSLO (CP)—Sweden's defending champions defeated Poland 12-2 today in world hockey championship competition. The Swedes beaten by Canada, now have four wins against one defeat.

Sweden, with two more games to play, now has eight points from five matches. Canada's Whitby team due to meet Czechoslovakia later in the day, is the only unbeaten and untied team with eight points and a goal count of 60 against three. The Swedes have scored 36 goals against 17.

Poland, next to the bottom of the standings with only one point from six matches, got the first goal soon after the start. Then the Swedes went to work with their combination plays. The period scores were 2-1, 6-1, 4-0.

Bulganin Sees Letters Playing 'Definite Role'

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Bulganin has told President Eisenhower he considers their exchange of opinion concerning a summit conference is of "positive significance" and has played a definite role in preparations for talks, the Soviet news agency Tass reported today.

Bulganin made his remarks in his latest message to Eisenhower.

Details of his reply were disclosed at a press conference in Moscow today.

"It is already obvious that the idea of holding negotiations on the highest level has met with the approval and support of all governments and wide circles of the public in many countries," Bulganin said.

Bulganin's letter said the U.S. government and the Soviet Union, as shown by the exchange of opinions, "share the view that the meeting is desirable and that its successful result can have a beneficial influence on the international situation."

Man Is Found Beaten and Cold In Deep Ditch

HAMILTON (CP) — A 63-year-old man was found early today beaten and in a condition of deep freeze in a water-filled ditch at nearby Clappison's corners, police said.

A hospital spokesman said when Andrew Walker was brought to hospital his body temperature was only 75 degrees, 23 degrees below normal body temperature.

His condition was reported "very poor" but by mid-morning he had improved and his temperature was up to 95 degrees, the hospital spokesman said.

Police charged Robert Gourlay, former Hamilton amateur boxer, with assault and robbery.

Police said Walker had only one dollar and a scrap of paper in his pocket when he was found lying in the pool of water beside the road. He had minor cuts and abrasions on his legs.

They said Walker and two other hospital orderlies were out Thursday evening and were joined by a fourth man.

Leaves Congress To Join Govt. In Labor Dept.

OTTAWA (CP) — Gordon Cushing, executive vice-president of Labor Congress, will leave that job to become federal assistant deputy minister of labor about May 1, it was learned today.

The 45-year-old vice-president, from Calgary, will succeed veteran M. M. Maclean 71, another former union man.

Mr. Maclean, former national secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CLC), has been in the department since 1942, when he started as director of its industrial relations branch.

In the new job, Mr. Cushing is expected to specialize in industrial relations between employees and employers.

He will probably start at about $13,000 a year. The salary range for the job now held by Mr. Maclean, an ace in industrial relations for many years, is between $13,000 and $14,000.

As a congress vice-president, Mr. Cushing gets $12 000 a year.

BOARD ACCREDITS BELLEVILLE HOSPITAL

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals in Canada and the U.S. today announced that the Belleville General Hospital is one of the several thousand hospitals accredited in Chicago by the commisson.

Dr. Kenneth B. Babcock, commission director, said: "Accreditation of a hospital means that it has voluntarily submitted to a survey of its facilities and its patient care. It is a badge of recognition which the hospital can display to its community to prove that it conforms to high standards of patient care."

HAROLD FARRELL SECTION CHAIRMAN

The Chamber of Commerce announced today that Harold Farrell, proprietor of Quinte Paint and Wallpaper, has accepted the chairmanship of its retail section. Mr. Farrell, who was chairman of the section in 1952, succeeds J. B Corke.

Vice-chairman elected earlier is Ronald Keel, proprietor of Ronald Keel, Jeweller, Ltd.

Mr. Farrell is automatically appointed to the board of directors of the Chamber

At a meeting of the section earlier this week, members favored continuing their support of the city parking authority's attempts to alleviate downtown parking problems.

Stephens-Adamson Mfg. Co. of Canada Limited has announced certain staff changes effective March 1st.

Mr. A. E. May, professional engineer, who has been in charge of production engineering at Stephens-Adamson for the past thirty years, has retired but will continue to act in a consulting capacity.

Mr. A. D. Janitsch, professional engineer, and a graduate of Mc Gill University, who has been in the employ of the company for approximately fifteen years, will assume the duties previously carried out by Mr. May.

Police Blotter

An elderly inebriate looking for a night's lodging called at the city police station Thursday night — and had his wish granted.

The man was charged with drunkenness and was remanded to the county jail.

Yesterday police apprehended Raymond W. Beaudrie, 18, of Plainfield, and charged him on four counts of theft of accessories from cars. The youth's car was well described was well decorated with accessories and other "doo-dads", police said.

Thomas Taylor, 174 Burnham Street, told police that his son, Donald, aged 10 years, had been struck by a car at the corner of Bleecker and Dundas Street, E. The vehicle did not stop. Mr. Taylor said he was taking his son to a doctor for a check-up.

WON'T BAN BOOK

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The literature censorship board decided today that the controversial novel The Keys of St. Peter, by French author Roger Peyrefitte, should not be banned in Australia. Earlier this week the customs department referred the book to the censors and asked booksellers to stop selling it. The novel, a story of Vatican society, pokes fun at certain aspects of the Holy See.

Sound Community Leadership Developed by Good Planning

John Pearson, field liaison officer, community planning branch of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development, last night told 50 members and guests of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board in Queen's Hotel that the primary purpose of planning boards is to develop an element of sound leadership in the community.

He paid tribute to the leaders of the past and added that there is a job ahead for men who will devote the necessary time to plan a community's expansion. The increase in Canada's population over the next 20 or more years will be "staggering." Every additional immigrant or native-born person means that some time more land must be used, and used properly in the best interests of the community.

Mr. Pearson, a native of Owen Sound and graduate of McGill University, briefly mentioned the "bitter struggle" being experienced in southwest Ontario by fruit farmers and industry. With proper and sufficient planning, no community needs to feel the pain of such a conflict. That is why planning boards must do their best to plan properly and with an eye towards the future of the community.

The speaker predicted that some time in future downtown streets will not be main arteries for vehicular traffic. Instead, he said vehicles will likely be parked on back streets while the occupants converge on the business section. In some of the larger cities, alleys and passages between buildings are providing satisfactory avenues of eliminating pedestrian traffic snarls and thus speeding shoppers about their business. Mr. Pearson also said that by-pass highways, although once thought ill-advised and damaging to a community's prosperity, are now accepted and seem to have no harmful effects on local business.

One of the main duties of planning boards, he said, is to protect industries from becoming throttled by other industries building immediately adjacent without any forethought having been given to expansion plans of the original industry.

INDUSTRY ASKS QUESTION

About the first question a prospective industry asks a community is "Will you protect us from other industries building immediately adjacent to us, and will you serve us?"

Glancing at a few aspects of Canadian business, Mr. Pearson foresaw through surveys that marine equipment production will play an integral part in the nation's growth and prosperity. He pointed out that air transportation is fast becoming more popular. Because of this some airlines are looking about for new airport sites far-removed from large cities and residential areas. He suggested that planning boards in smaller communities turn a weather eye towards the possible advent of local airports.

Mr. Pearson reminded his audience that planning boards do not have the "last word" in the planning of communities. City or town councils have the right to override any decisions and recommendations made by planning boards.

He stressed that the importance of planning depends a "great deal" on the physical conditions of the people on planning boards. Mr. Pearson even went so far as to advocate the construction of gymnasiums in large office buildings for the convenience of hard-pressed executives who otherwise might resort to relaxation as a means of throwing off the cloak of fatigue.

The speaker urged that planning-boards recruit a variety of people with common sense and keen interest in the future of their community.

He was introduced by the reeve of Thurlow township, A. T. Wickett, and thanked by Reeve J. B. Harder of Sidney township. J. J. Trudeau was the chairman and Alderman Douglas Moxam brought greetings from the city on behalf of Mayor Hyde.

In the question and answer period that followed, Mr. Pearson was challenged with suggesting the best method of zoning a new subdivision. Is the conventional grid system better than the "cul-de-sacs" method?

He replied that one is as good as the other depending, though, on a number of factors peculiar to the subdivision. Mr. Pearson suggested that each case should be considered separately to see how it blends into the proper use of the designated land.

River Breaking Up Wonderfully Says Engineer

Possibilities of a serious flood in Belleville as result of the spring break-up are decreasing day by day, it was noted today by City Engineer Charles A. Mott who said he has never seen the river break up "so nice and slow".

"The river is breaking up just wonderfully and all we need are a few more warm days and cool nights" he said.

Mr. Mott noted that from the city to the village of Cannifton the river is open almost from shore to shore, while in the city wide channels have appeared in the ice and these are widening every day.

"But you never can tell, a heavy two-day rain could raise the water upstream and shove ice over the Cannifton dam."

This was what happened back in 1936 when a heavy rain raised the water and broke up the upstream ice and sent it over the Cannifton dam. The ice then piled up at the river mouth when it was blocked by bay ice and water overflowed onto Front street.

CITY OF BELLEVILLE — PUBLIC NOTICE

THE CANADIAN RED CROSS BLOOD DONOR SERVICE

The Canadian Red Cross Society has established a Blood Transfusion Service to provide blood free of charge to all hospital patients who require it in Belleville and district.

The Belleville and District Branch of The Canadian Red Cross Society appeals to all citizens to become regular volunteer blood donors to ensure a constant and adequate supply of this miracle fluid. Any person between the ages of 18 and 65 in good health may be a donor. Approximately 1500 donors will be required to maintain the blood bank at the Belleville General Hospital.

I heartily support such a worthy project and I appeal to our citizens to volunteer for this essential service to humanity. The work of mercy never ends.

GERALD HYDE,
Mayor.

City Hall, Belleville, Ontario.
March 5, 1958.

This appeal is endorsed by the following Reeves of Municipalities serviced by the Belleville General Hospital:

REEVE A. WICKETT, Thurlow Township
REEVE B. HARDER, Sidney Township
REEVE C. LONG, Tyendinaga Township

Obituary

LEVI MARACLE
(Shannonville)

Ill for the past eight months, Mr. Levi Maracle, Shannonville, died at his home on Thursday. He was in his 78th year.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Maracle, he was born in the Tyendinaga Reserve and had lived in the district all his life. He was a member of All Saints Anglican Church and of the Mohawk L.O.L. No. 99. He was a retired farmer.

Pre-deceased by his wife, the former Margaret Jane Hill, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Manson (Lydia) Fitzgerald, Toronto, and Mrs. Bernard (Julia) Kunkel of Shannonville, and three sons, Gordon and Walter Maracle of Shannonville, and Raymond of Toronto.

Also surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Julia Gray of Hamilton, and Lillian and Annie of Albany, N.Y. and one brother, Thomas Maracle of Sask.

The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

WALTER ASHLEY JOHNSON

The funeral of Walter Ashley Johnson was held from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel on Thursday afternoon. Rev. J. C. Eastcott conducted the service in the chapel and also the committal rites at Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were Don McNevin, James Anton, Harry Farnell, Thomas Horton, James Haggerty and Keith Gummo.

The members of Moira Lodge A. F. and A. M. No. 11 held a memorial service in the chapel on Wednesday evening and William Coulby, Bert Orr, C. E. Meyers, Charles Barnett, William Ford, Harold McElrath and Mark Vanner took part.

The late Mr. Johnson was born in this city and lived here practically all his life. He worked in Toronto for 15 years, returning to the city in 1940 and in 1942 went to work for the Ontario Hydro and was a valued employee of the organization until his death.

MRS. JOHN DELYEA

TWEED — In failing health for some time, Mrs. John Delyea, the former Hannah Baker, passed away on February 28th, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Parks, (Ida) in her 92nd year. Her husband pre-deceased her in May 1957. She and her husband farmed for many years and then retired and came to the village of Arden to live.

Surviving is one son, Stanley, of Kingston; two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Parks (Ida) of Arden and Mrs. Arnold Clark (Edna) of Henderson; two brothers, George of Odessa, and Thomas of Toronto; five sisters, Emma of Napanee; Barbara of Kingston; Ethel of Windsor; Ellen of Lakeview, and Addie of Dexter, N. Y. Two grandchildren, Howard and Lorraine Clark of Henderson also remain.

The body rested at the Hannah Funeral Home, Tamworth, with funeral service in the Arden United Church, with the Rev. H. Hilder in charge.

The bearers were: Frank Boomhower, Minor Knight, Keith Knight, Robert Herrington, Guy Peterson and William Hinchey.

Entombment was in the vault at Tamworth cemetery.

John W. Sweet At 102 Will Be Voting Liberal

CAMPBELLFORD (CP) — John Wesley Sweet, 102 Thursday is looking forward to voting for the 22nd time in a federal election. He hasn't missed one since he first became eligible to vote.

Mr. Sweet says his vote on March 31 will be for his son, Wesley R. Sweet, Liberal candidate in Northumberland riding. But he won't venture a prediction on the outcome of the national election.

Mr. Sweet, who lives with his son Wesley in this town, 32 miles east of Peterborough, spent his birthday quietly, staying in bed until the afternoon while his daughter-in-law went shopping. The mailman brought many greeting cards, old friends dropped in and others telephoned greetings.

At night, he enjoyed a chicken dinner with his son and daughter-in-law, and listened — his eyesight has failed — to television.

Although his sight is not good, Mr. Sweet remains remarkably active. He takes an occasional stroll downtown with a relative or friend, and maintains a keen interest in current events. A doctor said recently that his heart was stronger than that of many a man half his age.

Born in Napanee, Mr. Sweet was a grocer in Campbellford and a carpenter and blacksmith in Saskatoon before his retirement. His wife, Agnes, died in 1941. They had eight sons, of whom five survive.

Mr. Sweet says he has no recipe for long life. He smoked and drank a little in earlier life, but gave up both many years ago.

Struck by Crane On Catwalk 60 Feet in Air

PICTON — Leroy Carr, of Brighton, is a patient in the Trenton Memorial Hospital suffering from a broken hip. Lucky to be alive, the young man was struck by a crane while on a catwalk among steel girders 60 feet from the ground.

An electrician with an Ottawa electrical firm employed in construction at the new Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co. just east of Picton, Carr was struck on the right hip by the crane which runs on a track, spun around and struck on the left hip. He lay on the steel girders, in danger of falling 60 feet to the ground, until help arrived. He had to be carried over the roof of a nearby building and then to the ground. He was treated at Prince Edward County Hospital, Picton, before being removed to Trenton.

WELLINGTON DUKES WIN

PICTON — Wellington Juvenile Dukes won the juvenile "C" intermediate hockey championship for the second year with a victory over the Bancroft entry. The Tip Top Trophy was presented after Tuesday night's game here by Doug Patterson, Stirling, OMHA executive member.

Wellington won the first game at Bancroft 8-4 and it was a two-game, goals to count series. The game at the county centre in Picton was won by Wellington 6-5, to take the series 14 to 9.

For Wellington, E. Carson scored two, McConnell, Bryant, Denard, McNaughton one each. Bancroft scorers were Stoneburg 2, Fitzgibbon 1, Stewart 1, Ray 1. Wellington continues in Ontario playdowns.

Salvation Army Young People To Hold Rally

An estimated 400 young people will be converging on Belleville tomorrow to participate in the annual three-day Salvation Army Youth Conference, announced Brig. Morgan Flannigan, of the mid-Ontario Divisional headquarters.

The young people, ranging in age from 13 to 30, will represent some 48 corps in the mid-Ontario division which takes an area from Whitby to Gananoque and from Picton to Fenelon Falls.

The conference, which is held to focus attention on the problems of youth, opens Saturday night with a welcome meeting at the Salvation Army Citadel at 8 p.m.

Three sessions will be held Sunday at Quinte Secondary Sschool — one at 10:30, one at 2.30, and another at 6.30 p.m.

The conference will be under the direction of National S. A. Youth Secretary Brig. Frank Moulton, of Toronto headquarters.

An inspiring address based on a "Challenging Theme for Youth" will be delivered by Brig. Moulton, after which individual papers by young people on various subjects dealing with the problems of youth today, will be given.

Participating in the opening night program at the Citadel will be 54 young representatives from Oshawa Young People's organization, the Peterborough Temple ladies trio, Kingston YP band, Tweed Brownies, Napanee YP singing company, and Belleville representative Gerald Greening.

The conference is being planned by the mid Ontario divisional command headquarters, and is the special responsibility of divisional youth officer, Capt. June Dwyer, said Brig. Flannigan.

The annual inspection of work done by young people's groups in this division will be made Monday by Brig. Moulton. This will include a review of Sunday School attendance, and activities of the S.A. guides, brownies, cubs and scouts, Brig. Flannigan explained.

The conference will conclude with an "Afterglow" meeting on Monday evening.

MORE ALCOHOL DEATHS

NEW YORK (AP) — The death toll from distribution in Harlem of a quantity of poisonous wood alcohol as a beverage rose to 27 Thursday with the death of Enrique Disdier, 33. Police said he drank "King Kong"—wood alcohol diluted with fruit juice and soda—at a party last Sunday in the basement apartment of Juan Hernandez, 32, who also died.

TOUGH CEMENT

The first patent on portland cement was granted to Joseph Aspdin of Leeds, England, in 1824.

A meeting of the temporary board of the elleville Community Chest was held yesterday afternoon in the YMCA under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. Forrester.

In her introductory remarks Mrs. Forrester spoke of her recent attendance of the mid-winter conference of the community funds and councils of Canada, held in London. Community Chest representatives from coast to coast attended the meeting. She reported on the organization of the chests of Regina and Sault Ste. Marie, which would meet the needs of a community the size of Belleville.

An eight-minute film and slides, prepared by the public relations committee of Regina's Community Chest followed Mrs. Forrester's remarks. It was agreed that local similar films and slides would have appeal in Belleville.

Discussion followed as to the necessary and wise procedures of organizing a Community Chest in Belleville on an annual basis, with its committee structure functioning on a standing basis.

It was suggested that the board of directors consist of 10 members, covering various categories or business classifications in the city. Executive, public relations and budget committees are to be appointed in due course. Another suggestion stated that the overall Community Chest organization should be composed of 10 people on the board of directors, one representative from each agency, who is nominated and not delegated by the agency, and 10 representatives from the city-at-large, covering a cross section of the city.

WILL SET UP COMMITTEE

A committee is to be set up to compile a constitution which will be submitted and tentatively adopted by the board and confirmed at the annual meeting. The Community Chest, as organized in other centres, is an organization of the donors. It was suggested that annual meetings be used for reports, to introduce the new organization coming in and to serve as the initial "kick-off" of the campaign. All contributors are eligible to vote at the annual meeting. Mr. L. Smith of Ottawa is to be invited to work with the Belleville organization.

A motion was made that a constitution committee be formed of Ernest G. Gurnett, as chairman, and members, Mrs. J Forrester and Joseph G. Demeza, to prepare a constitution for presentation for approval at the next board of directors meeting. On another motion, a temporary nominating committee composed of D. G. Williams as chairman and J. C. R. Punchard is to be formed to compile a suggested list of names for the Community Chest organization.

The list is to represent every category in the city. It was further recommended that this list and the categories be mimeographed and sent to all members of the board, so that each may add to it. Mr. Gurnett stated that he would take care of the mimeograph work.

The next meeting is slated for March 13 in the YMCA.

Department Will 'Crack Down' on Dog Owners

The Department of Lands and Forests, Tweed, gave warning today that it intends "cracking down" on dog owners who allow their animals to run at large in areas where deer are usually found.

The warning stemmed from the mangled body of a young fawn found near Foxboro recently, which had been killed by dogs.

The Fish and Game Regulations state "No person owning, harboring or claiming a dog shall allow it to run at large during the closed season for deer in a locality where deer, moose or caribou usually inhabit or in which they are usually found."

And Fish and Game regulation says: "A dog found running deer, moose or caribou during the closed season for deer in that locality shall be deemed to be at large with the leave of the owner and may be killed on sight by an officer without being liable for damages to any other person, or to a penalty."

Conservation officer Fred MacDonald said that these regulations will be enforced to the limit. There are a number of dogs running at large in Thurlow township, and these will be affected since that is a deer locality.

SOLID TIMBER

White oak, the heaviest wood in Canadian timber production, weighs about 49 pounds per cubic foot.

IN MEMORIAM

LaBARGE. — In loving memory of a dear father, John LaBarge, who passed away March 7th, 1956.

He is gone, but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies within the heart concealed.

—Ever remembered by son John.

LaBARGE. — In loving memory of a dear father, John A. LaBarge, who passed away March 7th, 1956.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near;
And only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
More each day we miss you, father,
Friends may think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies within our hearts concealed.

—Ever remembered by daughter Boots and son-in-law Jim.

LaBARGE. — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, John LaBarge, who passed away March 7th, 1956.

You're not forgotten, father dear,
Nor ever shall you be;
As long as life and memory last,
I shall remember thee.

—Lovingly remembered by daughter Dorothy and grandchildren Vicki and Jackie.

LaBARGE. — In loving memory of a dear father, Mr. A. J. LaBarge, who passed away March 7th, 1956.

His dear bright eyes and cheerful face,
Are so pleasant to recall;
He had a loving word for each,
And died beloved by all.

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by daughter Gladys and son-in-law Arthur.

LaBARGE. — In loving memory of a dear grandfather, Mr. A. J. LaBarge, who passed away March 7th, 1956.

What would I give to clasp his hand,
His happy face to see;
To hear his voice and see his smile,
That meant so much to me.

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by grandchildren Sheila and Frank.

LaBARGE. — In loving memory of a dear father, John LaBarge, who passed away March 7th, 1956.

What would I give to clasp his hand
His happy face to see;
To hear his voice and see his smile
That meant so much to me.

—Lovingly remembered by daughter Jill, son-in-law Sandy, grandchildren Jill and Paul.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank Dr. Russell Bateman, Dr. Henry Bateman, nurses and staff of Third South, blood donors of N. E. Employee Association, also the many friends and relatives who sent cards and flowers during my recent illness in the Belleville General Hospital.

—Mrs. Phyllis Wilson.

I would like to thank all my friends and neighbors who remembered me with cards, flowers and personal calls while I was a patient in the Belleville General Hospital; also nurses and staff of 2nd Floor West; Drs. Cronk, Empson and Hartt, and the Rev. Robert Darke and other ministers who called.

—Mrs. Egbert Hough.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market, after recording its best climb of the year Thursday, was irregularly higher today in light morning trading.

The industrial index jumped a half point to a 1958 high of 420.40. Base metals were more than half a point higher and western oils advanced almost a point. Golds eased one decimal point.

The 11 a.m. volume of 582,000 shares compared with Thursday's 449,000 shares at the same time.

Industrials were solidly higher but most gains were in fractions. Trans Mountain Pipe Line, ahead three points in opening trading, slipped 1⅛ points an hour later. Interprovincial Pipe Line and Trans Canada Pipe Line were fractionally higher. Dominion Glass added a point at 62.

International Nickel and Noranda were narrowly higher among senior base metals. Golds slipped and uraniums were mixed. Campbell Chib advanced 10 cents at $4.70 for coppers.

Calgary and Edmonton was ahead ½ at 20¼ among senior western oils. Among junior oils Central Del Rio climbed 15 cents at $6.85.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter cattle sold actively this week with steers, heifers and fed yearlings selling fully 50 cents a hundred-weight higher at the Ontario Public Stockyards.

Cow prices were fully steady and bull prices were strong to last week's close. Both the demand and the prices were very uneven on bulls. Fat heavy beef bulls were very slow and hard to sell.

Replacement prices were firm and this class continued in short supply and broad demand. About 100 head were sold back to the country this week. Veal calf prices were 2 a hundred-weight higher. Hog prices were unchanged and sheep and lamb prices were firm.

PRICES

Slaughter cattle: choice steers 22.50-23 with a few singles to 23.50; good 21.50-22.50; mediums 20-21; common 18-20; good heifers 20-20.50 with sales to 21; medium 19-20; common 16-18.50; choice fed yearlings 23-24 with sales to 24.50 and one steer calf at 25; medium 21-23; good cows 16-16.50; a few light heifer cows to 17; medium 15-15.50; common 14-15.50; canners and cutters 10-14; good heavy bologna bulls 18.50 with an odd top to 19; common and medium 14-18; heavy fat beef bulls were difficult to sell at 16 a hundred-weight.

Replacement cattle: Good stockers 21-22.50 with some 550 pound steers selling at 23; medium 18-20.

Calves: Good vealers closed at 31-33 with choice selling up to 34.50; medium 25-30; common 18-24; boners 14-18.

Hogs: Grade A 30; heavy sows 23 with light sows at 25; stags 15.

Sheep and lambs: Included in the wool receipts were 189 finished feedlot lambs from Alberta. These sold at 24.50; good Ontario feedlot lambs 24-24.50; common and medium sold down to 16; sheep were 4-9 according to quality.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged today.

The egg market was reported extremely firm and demand was good for a light offering.

Prices quoted by the federal department of agriculture for graded eggs, delivered to Toronto in fibre cases, were: A large 51; A medium 50; A small 40; B 34; C 27. Wholesale to retail: A large 56; A medium 55; A small 45; B 39; C 32.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade: Ontario 62½ in light trading, western 62½-62¾ (nominal).

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 2⅛ per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon EST today. Thursday's noon rate was 97 29-32 cents.

Distance Runner Zatopek Retires

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Emil Zatopek, triple Olympic gold medal winner and one of the greatest distance runners in history, officially retired today.

The 35-year-old Czech army colonel competed in track events for more than 17 years. He broke 18 world records and five of his marks still stand. His flailing style and seemingly inexhaustible store of energy caused him to be dubbed the "human locomotive."

The armed forces newspaper Obraana Lidu said Zatopek announced his decision to Defence Minister Bohumil Lonsky, who said Zatopek would be given a "responsible army post" in the sport and physical culture field.

His records still stand for the 15 miles, 10 miles, 25,000 metres, 20,000 metres and the greatest distance covered in one hour of running.

Cost-Benefit Survey Asked By Department

As a measure to determine the possible loss which could be expected by the recurrence of another flood such as that of the spring of 1936, Belleville merchants and businessmen will be asked to co-operate in a cost benefit study requested by Federal Department of Northern Affairs and Natural Resources.

The survey was requested by Hon. Alvin Hamilton when a delegation from the Moira River Conservation Authority and the city of Belleville went to Ottawa to renew their request for federal assistance to build the College Street ice control dam as a flood relief measure.

The delegation reported sympathetic consideration from Mr. Hamilton but he asked for further information on the local situation. They said Mr. Hamilton had noted the previous government had only considered projects over five million dollars being large enough to warrant dominion aid.

However, the act did not specify a figure and merely states that the project must be considered "of major character." Mr. Hamilton asked for the cost-benefit survey as a guide for his department.

Questionnaires will go out from survey cover losses sustained in the 1936 flood and an estimate of what losses would be should a similar flood occur today.

Questionaires will go out from the office of Mayor Gerald B. Hyde with results to be compiled for presentation to the federal department along with their brief on the proposed ice control dam.

TREATED WITH CONFIDENCE

It was noted that all answers by businessmen will be treated as confidential and any publicity given would be in terms of total losses sustained or to be expected.

The ice control dam above College Street was proposed as a flood relief measure in the 1950 Moira River Valley report.

At the time it was expected that both the federal and provincial governments would each pay 37½ per cent of the cost with the Authority paying the balance. Then later it was learned the federal government would participate only in major projects and the local dam was not considered large enough, to warrant Dominion aid.

Original estimate of the cost of the dam was $140,000. This figure has now been revised upward to about $450,000.

The provincial government will now pay 50 per cent of the cost of the dam.

Bank of Canada Interest Rate Drops Sharply

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bank of Canada interest rate has dropped sharply, pointing toward an easier money situation and a prospective decline in interest rates generally.

The rate—the central bank's charge on loans to chartered banks and other lending institutions—dipped this week to 2.91 per cent from 3.11 a week ago. The all-time high of 4.33 per cent was reached last Aug. 22 during a tight-money period. The record low was 1½ per cent in 1955.

The bank rate is fixed at one-quarter of one per cent above the week's average yield on the government's 90-day treasury bills. This was 2.66 per cent, down from 2.86 last week.

The low treasury bill yield reflects a heavy demand for the short-term securities. Informants said this may indicate some banks and investment houses have idle funds on their hands.

The bank rate has fallen from a record high of 4.33 per cent last Aug. 22. The chartered banks' prime rate on loans was lowered from 5¾ per cent last August to 5¼ per cent last month.

This week's bank rate was the lowest since April 4, 1956, when it was 2.75 per cent.

'Site-Problem' For Proposed Police Station Under Fire

TRENTON — The "site-problem" for a proposed new police station was again bantered around last night when the subject came up at the regular meeting of the Town Planning Board who met in conjunction with the Parks Board.

Chairman Jim McDonald explained that J. W. Little, Planning Board consultant had taken a brief tour yesterday afternoon of the area concerned to get an idea of the situation.

In addressing the meeting, Mr. Little said that he had given it some thought since the tour but where it involved a building which would cost $75,000 of the taxpayers' money, and as it concerns a building which will be used for a considerable length of time it would certainly not be wise to make any snap decisions. He said he was not prepared to make any definite statement at present as to a suggestion on the best site because it was something that should be given considerable thought and many questions would have to be answered first.

He felt that some of the questions which should be answered were: What would become of the old building? Would it be torn down or could it be used for some other purpose? Would it have any historical value as one of the oldest buildings in town? Do the police need access to many streets as they now have from their present building? What about the firehall next to it? Would the taxpayer want a police station and firehall under the same roof where one furnace, and one caretaker would cut down operational costs?

He said they were questions which should be given careful consideration and that perhaps a meeting between the town officials and the police and fire chiefs could go over all matters concerned and then perhaps they could reach an agreement on suitable sites not only for the police station but firehalls as well.

Speaking on the possibilities of using the present site of the police station and fire hall for parking space after the new buildings have been constructed he said it has been the policy of most towns and cities to preserve any downtown area for this purpose and to add to it whenever possible.

GOOD PARKING LOT

He said the business area is the mainstay of any town and readily available parking places are very important. He felt that this area, even now, is very popular as a parking lot and that in his opinion it could well be turned into a metered area for the convenience of the motoring shoppers and general public. He said it would also stimulate business for the stores in that vicinity, and that it was not police stations and firehalls which pulled the public to town.

He felt that perhaps the area of the Market Square without the present buildings could be encouraging to the economic position of town businesses, to draw new ones in and thus increase town revenue through taxes and parking meters, etc.

Perhaps another important question, he said, could be, where is the population going to be the greatest in another 10 years. Will it be on the east side of the river or will it be on the west side? What will it be, 10,000 or 30,000? Do traffic and road conditions make the east side of the river easily accessible for police cars and fire trucks? Where is the greatest number of crimes committed? Where are the most incidents of fire located?

In conclusion he said it would all have to be studied very carefully in order to protect the money being spent.

In answering Mr. Little's remarks, Councillor Lloyd Worrall, chairman of the Protection to Persons and Property Committee, said that some of these questions have already been answered. But he said it was the opinion of his committee that the police chief and the fire chief should have a viewpoint on these matters and that their recommendations should not be treated lightly, and the police chief feels his force should be concentrated in the centre of town. Mr. Worrall said the committee could see no reason for retaining the old building due to the fact that it would cost the town between $40,000 and $50,000 to fix it up. He said this was the estimate of two contractors and one engineer, and not his.

NO DRAWING CARDS

He said it was expected the population increases of Trenton would go westward and it was also in the west business area where the most crimes were committed.

He also stated that open space for parking facilities had been considered and the town now has a good parking lot on Front Street which is within easy walking distance of the business area and it is not being utilized fully by motoring shoppers. The town, he said, "cannot afford to have more parking space at the present time and he would like to see the Front Street lot used more before others were developed.

Mr. Worrall said he knew the police and fire buildings were no drawing card to potential customers of town stores but they were important in their job of protecting these places from criminals and fires.

On traffic problems he said it was generally easier to go from the west side of town to the east side rather than the opposite due largely to workers returning from their work at the air station but he said he was in full agreement there should be two fire stations, one on each side of the Trent River.

Mr. Little said he was sorry he had given the impression he was stating facts or that he was trying to argue the matter. His only intention, he said, was to raise questions he felt should be answered by those concerned before they made any decision on the site.

Considerably more discussion was held among the persons attending the meeting which ended about 11 p.m.

Trenton Will Get Nautical Motel

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Toronto promoter Marshall Foss says Peterborough will be a key point in a chain of "marina-boatels" he plans in Ontario.

Other centres on the circuit would be Trenton, Oshawa, Grimsby, Port Credit, St. Catharines and Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Construction has already started at the three last-named, he said Thursday.

A marina is to small boats what a service station and parking lot is to automobiles. A boatel is a nautical motel.

The Peterborough marina will accommodate at least 2,000 cars and boat-carrying trailers, he said. His firm is currently seeking a site. Peterborough is on the Trent Canal in the Kawartha Lakes district.

Rockets, F.I.S. Soundly Beaten By Underdogs

TRENTON — R.C.A.F. hockey at the Community Centre here last night took a strange turn with both the top rated teams going down in defeat.

The Rockets dropped the first game of the evening to the Comets with a score of 6-2. The F.I.S. team was soundly whipped 11-6 by the hard-driving team from No. 6 Repair Depot.

This gives all teams in the playoffs one win each with the last of the two-out-of-three games to be played on Monday night.

Team managers and coaches were disappointed at the turnout of fans last night which was in the vicinity of 64. They urge as many as possible of the RCAF personnel to attend Monday's game despite the charge of 25 cents admission the rink commission have placed on their games. They feel there is better all-round spirit when there is a good cheering section on hand.

Reports from Dick Carmichael of the R.C.A.F Recreation Centre yesterday revealed the local representative team lost their game in the Training Command playoffs 8-2 in St. Johns Quebec last Wednesday night.

In this game Kaulback and Crowder got the only Trenton goals but it was reported they had tough luck around the St. Johns nets all through the game. The score was tied 1-1 at the end of the first, was 6-1 at the end of the second frame and they were outscored 2-1 in the final period.

The R.C.A.F. hockey league will also form a team to play the Trenton Junior Bearcubs in an Exhibition game on Saturday night. Game time 8.15 p.m.

Ireland's Drug Store Entered, $700 Taken

TRENTON — A bold thief or thieves broke into Ireland's Drug Store here early this morning and made off with about $700 in cash and cheques but left the rest of the store's contents intact.

The unknown person made entry into the store by breaking the plate glass in the front door window, which faces Dundas Street West, and, according to store officials, apparently went directly to the safe, pried it open and took the loot. About $500 of the stolen property was cash.

The patrolman on night duty discovered the break-in and informed the owners at about 4 a.m. this morning. On arrival they checked their goods and could find nothing else missing. The narcotics cabinet had not been touched nor had the cash register.

It was the first break and entry case the store has ever experienced. Town police officials are investigating.

Location of Sewage Plant Under Lengthy Discussion

TRENTON — A joint meeting of the town's Planning Board and Parks Board heard J. W. Little, consultant, give his views of the proposed sewage disposal plant and the site for the new police station and fire hall. Mayor Ross Burtt and Councillors Vagn Lange, Joe Gould and Lloyd Worrall were also present at the meeting held in the board room of the Municipal Building, last night.

In speaking on the sewage plant Mr. Little described the present plans for setting it up on the town-owned land near the Community Centre. It would be placed on easterly side of Campbell Street and as near Bay Street as possible without offending persons living on the latter street.

He explained the closeness to Bay Street was necessary to cut the costs of bringing the main line of the sewer from the east side to the plant. As the big line came off Campbell Street it would have to be left above ground to come into the plant properly. This would be costly as the top of the pipeline would be about four feet above ground and to run a street across the top of it would take considerable amounts of fill to cover it and build the roads.

To put it as close as possible to Bay Street this cost would be cut a great deal.

In describing the plant itself Mr. Little said it would serve a total of 30,000 persons and would cover an area of about one acre. The town has set aside four acres for its use to facilitate expansion in days to come.

He said there would not be much odor from the plant but it would vary from day to day. In some towns the plant is situated in the centre of the places concerned and there seems to be no complaint about it. Trees and shrubs would be planted around the unit and would add to the appearance of the property.

The plant itself would consist of two underground septic tanks and two digestion tanks which would be about half below ground and half above ground. The building would not be very high.

NEED PUMPING STATION

A pumping station on the west side of the river would be needed to boost the sewage to the plant on the east side. He said it had not been confirmed if a second pumping station would be needed on the east side to help pump the waste material from the west side.

From the plant the sewage would be piped out into the Trent River right to the deep water channel where the current would carry it out into open water and away from the town area.

Speaking on the proposed site of this plant Councillor Jim McDonald, chairman of the meeting, said from the point of view of the Recreation Committee and the Parking Board putting it in the Bay Street area was of concern to them due to the plans they had made on building a park and playground near the Community Centre in the future. However, he said this was the only place the plant could go due to engineering reasons and for its proper functioning. He told the meeting the contractor will co-operate to the fullest so the area can still be used for recreation purposes.

He thanked Mr. Little and said his talk would give them all a better insight on the Sewage Disposal problem and he felt it would be a sound idea to leave the matter in the capable hands of the consultant. He also asked Mr. Little to take the remarks of the various members at the meeting back to the engineers for their consideration.

Speaking on the matter Mayor Ross Burtt said he felt the plant should be moved further away towards Flindall St. area and near the town limits. He said it seemed to him the plant was being built too close to Bay Street and to put it in the area he suggested would also bring it as close, if not closer to the deep water channel.

Morton Parker, who sits on the Planning Board, said that some day in the very near future the property in this area would become valuable and many beautiful homes and apartments would be built along the water where they would overlook the bay and an attractive park. He said he was in agreement with the mayor's proposal and that the plant should be moved as far east as possible so it would not hinder the development.

PRICES, WAGES AND JOBS

Canada's consumer price index rose to a record peak of 123.7 at the start of February. The rising cost of living is now an old story. It might not be worthy of further editorial comment were it not for the fact that in recent months a new factor has been added to the economic picture. We also have rising unemployment. We thus find ourselves in the uniquely uncomfortable position of suffering from what have been generally regarded as the ills of inflation (higher prices) and deflation (decreased employment) at the same time.

A glance at the index of average wages and salaries confirms the fact that the economic picture has some strange phenomena. The index was higher for Dec. 1, the latest figure available, than for Nov. 1. This fits in with the increase in the cost of living, but the fact that wages are rising does not dovetail very well with the increase in the number of people looking for jobs.

Let us turn from the latest statistics released in Ottawa Tuesday to a survey in "Industry," publication of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, of the long-term trend revealed by similar statistics. "Industry" says that in 1949 the average hourly-rated employee worked 42 hours a week for just over $41. By the end of 1957 he received $65 for 40 hours' work. The increase in the cost of living wiped out $10 of this increase in wages, but the average worker was still $14 a week richer than in 1949.

"Industry" says that "three things have made possible this magnificent wage hike." It cites increased productivity, the growth of the Canadian market which has made possible higher sales, and higher prices. It seems to us, though, that except insofar as higher prices have been paid by those from abroad who buy Canadian goods, the effect of the increase in prices has been largely wiped out by the increase in the cost of living, leaving improved productivity and a larger market, making for lower unit costs, to share most of the credit for that $14 a week increase in wages.

In the interests of accuracy, two things might here be noted. That $14 increase will not buy as much as an extra $14 would have bought in 1949. Even at today's prices, though, it is a substantial increase. Our standard of living has improved. Secondly, this improvement has been earned. It is true that "Industry" says that increased productivity has been "achieved very largely by the installation of costly new machinery paid for, of course, out of company earnings." But this is how all increases in our standard of liiving have come about. If it is to be suggested that workers have no right to share in the benefits of increased productivity because the company pays for the machinery which makes it possible, then the general standard of living will never rise. There is no reason to believe that modern man can do a better job than his ancestors unless he has the benefit of better tools. Tools and the man do the job together and the owners of the tools and the worker ought to share in the benefits resulting from a better job.

This record provides us with a possible hint as to why wages are still increasing, despite rising unemployment. The system has worked so well between 1949 and 1957 that it is understandable there would be reluctance to abandon it. "Industry," though, sees the record as suggesting "that, so far as the immediate future is concerned at any rate, greater wisdom may lie in not reaching out for still more." With this conclusion we agree, and for very good reasons. The growth of unemployment will adversely affect two of the factors which made possible higher wages, the growth of the Canadian market and the installation of new machinery. Further wage increases at this time would thus have to be met largely, if not entirely, by the third factor, higher prices. Inflationary prices have always been unfair to those on fixed incomes. Today the number of such people has been increased, for the jobless man will not find his unemployment insurance payments, or his savings, growing to offset any rise in prices.

That higher wages alone are responsible for inflationary pressure is a view which is not in accord with facts. Reduction in demand, by reducing sales, will have a tendency to increase unit costs, for example. But that is just an additional reason why wage levels ought not to climb during a period of slackening business activity. It ought to be added that there rests on government and on management a responsibility to see that other forces do not push prices up so as to further squeeze those on fixed incomes, including the unemployed, and so as to provoke renewed demands for wage increases.

DEBT

For sunshine and the skies of blue,
So little in return I do!
For gentle friends that round me live,
So little in return I give!

For roses nodding on my way,
So little am I asked to pay!
How poor the bargain that I make
For all the splendid joys I take!

For love that friends have given me
How great the debt has grown to be!
For all the gladsome things I know
How much to life itself I owe!

He Sprays and Prays

By Elisabeth Partridge In UNESCO Features

"But afterwards I pray for them morning and evening," said the young Indian with feeling. He looked up, and in his eyes you could read an inner conflict. As horticulture inspector in the Himalayas, Ram Garhwali has to break principles that have been sacred to his priestly Brahmin family for 2,000 years and more. His religion teaches him that he must not take life, yet he does so almost daily by spraying greenfly and aphis.

Ram Garhwali symbolizes the revolution taking place today in India as orthodox Hindus forge ahead to meet the challenge of the Atomic Age. Some of the applications of modern science clash with the fundamental belief of the devout who must not take life even if it means watching rats or locusts devour the year's crop. But 33-year-old Ram Garhwali knows India will move forward only if Twentieth Century techniques replace her 2,000-year-old methods of agriculture.

Yet every day his conscience faces the conflict: ancient principles or progress? Should he spray the pests which will destroy his fruit orchards or should he remain a strict Brahmin? Ram chooses scientific progress but — morning and evening with a heavy heart — he prays for the smallest of his victims and his own immortal soul.

• • •

Fortunately for Ram he is kept busy. He must somehow get the peasants of the green Kumaon Hills interested in horticulture. The area for which he is responsible coincides with the rugged tracts where Jim Corbett shot his man-eating tigers; it is a quarter of the whole Kumaon Division, which equals Switzerland in size, and rises from the stifling Gangetic plains to mountains 12,000 feet high. Products are extremely varied in this enormous area of 4,300 square miles, ranging from the exotic mango and pomegranate to the apple, cherry and pear. For a week's tour Ram must carry with him a variety of clothes for temperatures ranging from 100 degrees Fahrenheit to near freezing point.

Every morning, he gets up at 5.30, prays, and then sets off by bus or on foot deep into little-known country near the Tibetan border. In winter he faces landslides, floods and snow; and all the year round, wild animals. In the roughest terrain, he travels by elephant, often carrying a gun "to frighten off the bears who come to strip my apple orchards." Then in the evening, after prayer, comes office work for Ram has to dispose of a crop of red tape, accumulated in old government files. His family, two boys and two girls, see him barely six days a month.

• • •

With Ram works a mobile team of 30 men, equipped only with out-dated tools, who survey, plan, advise, plant, spray, graft and prune. These dedicated young men are the technical missionaries of the new India, spreading the gospel of scientific horticulture. In Sacred Kumaon, Land of the Gods, four of these teams are working a miracle by persuading the peasant to change from antiquated method of agriculture to intensive horticulture. All these men, in varying degrees, face the same spiritual conflict as Ram. Yet they are determined that within five years they will increase the present area under horticulture in the Kumaon Hills from 25,000 to 50,000 acres.

Ram talks quietly, but with feeling, about the wisdom of this plan. He forsees that the living standards of his two million fellow Kumaonis will rise along with the fruit trees he is planting on the mountain slopes. These conditions today are wretchedly low. Wherever you go in these magnificent ranges you see gaunt men in ragged clothes, drinking cup after cup of sweet black tea. This is the Kumaon Hills' opiate which — for a while — dulls hunger, cold and misery.

Ram knows that fresh fruit and vegetables will improve their starchy diet — two meagre meals a day, if they're lucky — and, consequently, their health. He also knows that horticulture demands more men than agriculture, harder work and more initative; where it is already established in the Kumaon Mills, he sees increased employment and better opportunities. Further, he knows erosion can be halted and the soil enriched by planting broad-leaved fruit trees. At present, the top-soil, lifeblood of the Himalayas, is washed down by the rains into the Ganges and out into the Bay of Bengal.

• • •

In this work Ram and his team do not stand alone. Staunchly behind them and the people of the Kumaon Hills is the goodwill of the United Nations. Five years ago a U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization expert, Dr. F. B. Carbasius-Weber, of the Netherlands, was invited to advise on fruit-growing and industry in Uttar Pradesh — a state bigger in size than Britain, with some 65 million inhabitants. Today, Dr. Weber and his Indian colleagues are witnessing the beginnings of a new prosperity for the Kumaon Hills. Furthermore, they are convinced that in time the entire Himalayan foothills area could follow suit. Intensive, scientific horticulture, Dr. Weber believes, provides the answer for such under-developed, agricultural countries.

This tall, energetic Dutchman, born 15 feet below sea level in northernmost Holland, and now stationed near the roof of the world, believes passionately in the U.S.'s technical assistance work to combat poverty, disease and ignorance. "We could do ten times more," he says, "if there were deeper understanding of this urgent work for peace. We badly need more funds — more men and women to spread the idea of world co-operation and understanding."

Dr. Weber uses the word "understanding" often. "The core of technical assistance is human assistance, whether it's in India or Mexico," he declares. "You must understand a man's fears, hopes and background before you can begin to advise him technically. India's problems are Himalayan in size and they are peculiarly her own. It's useless for us to rush in with Western blueprints — everything must be adapted. But first you must understand - - -"

As he spoke, Ram Garhwali's Himalayan prayer — which is India's prayer — sounded again across the hills. — (UNESCO)

Identity Cards For Allergies

Pembroke Observer

A Chapleau, Ont., doctor, testifying at the inquest into the death of a child shortly after the girl had received a penicillin injection, has suggested that special identification cards be prepared for all persons showing unfavorable reaction to penicillin. Since severe allergic reactions have been on the increase with the widespread use of antibiotics, perhaps the medical profession could work out a card system for all who show unfavorable reactions to treatment.

The doctors also told the inquest jury that all persons who show unfavorable reactions to anything, who give any indication of allergy, should be warned about penicillin.

The child in question was taken to the doctor with a throat infection. Although she had shown mild reactions to previous penicillin injections, and was known to be allergic to eggs, the doctor gave her an average minimal dose of 300,000 units of penicillin. Only minutes later the child died, despite an injection of a counteracting drug, adrenalin. The doctor listed death as due first to anaphylactic shock and second to injection of penicillin.

Dr. G. E. Young, Chapleau coroner, told the inquest that most doctors asked patients if they had shown reaction to previous penicillin injections, and when they came across a patient who reacted favorably made a practice of warning them about it. But he as a doctor felt this was not enough, and that for the protection of both patients and doctors, some from of allergy identification card should be prepared. He also said that patients showing some form of allergy should be warned by their doctors about penicillin "in no uncertain terms".

There is no estimating the tremendous step forward taken in medicine by the discovery of penicillin and the antibiotics. Reactions to injections are rare, but doctors see enough of them to consider it wise to warn patients about them, and perhaps the use of identification cards might prove an additional safeguard.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BOOSTERS AND PIONEERS

It would be a wonderful thing for America, and the world, if there could be emptied an entire trainload of Walt Whitmans, to put themselves into the soil and virile thoughts of those who create and put prayers into practice. It took America, and the world, a long time before appreciating the fact that a giant had been born and was modestly singing a song of freedom that echoed across the lands, over the mountains and out to sea.

Boosters and Pioneers are what make a free land. Whitman was that kind, and his fame grows with time. One of the earliest to recognize the genius of Whitman was Ralph Waldo Emerson. Behind his poetry was the breath of free America. What a world of beauty and feeling in those two famous poems of Whitman's — "When the Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloom'd" and "O Captain! My Captain"

Behind the spirit of every Pioneer lies the urge to boost and spread good news around. That is what starts all this worshiping business, and a good thing it is, for there are many who would never pay any attention to significant things if someone did not sound the fact in their unconcerned ears-

Any knowledge that is worth while should be spread around. The best kind of advertising for a book is to cry it from the rooftops of homes. Every appreciated reader is a possible buyer of such a book. Being introduced to a good book is like placing the hand of a new friend in your friend's hand! It's a joy to become a Booster and a Pioneer!

Left Klondike Party. From our file copy at this time in 1898: Mr. Victor Wensley, who left here with the Klondike party on Feb. 3rd, returned home last night owing to a severe attack of muscular rheumatism which he contracted on the steamer going from Vancouver to Wrangel. When he reached the latter place he could not walk and it was decided that he should return home. He says that he will undertake the trip to the Klondike later if he recovers sufficiently to do so. The rest of the party which includes Messrs. Joseph D. Clarke, Robert Bogle, S. S. Moore, Ed Sprague, Alf England and Dr. Robinson (Consecon), were in excellent health when he left them. The rumors that the party had disbanded, he says, are without foundation; the only one to leave was Mr. John C. Keith, who is now in Vancouver.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article twenty-one in a weekly series contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society).

PIONEER EDUCATION

Education has not always received the attention it does today.

Before 1800, when this was a pioneer farming community, "if one could read, sign his own name, and cast (reckon) interest, it was looked upon as quite sufficient". What additional education there was in the typical Loyalist home probably resembled that of the early resident who wrote that the knowledge he acquired was from his mother, "who would, of an evening, relate events of the American rebellion, and the happy lives people once led under British laws and protection previous to the outbreak."

The majority of the United Empire Loyalists who settled this area "possessed but limited education", and many believed that learning might have a "bad effect upon the young, disqualifying them for the plain duties of husbandry" (farming).

Moreover, the sparse settlement throughout most of the Quinte district made it difficult to form good schools. The one exception was the village of Kingston where a number of educated persons had settled and an academy had been opened in May, 1786, by the Rev. John Stuart.

As settlement along the Bay of Quinte grew and life became more complex, there was an increased demand for formal education.

Unfortunately little is known about the early attempts at formal education in Belleville, and it is difficult to say just who the first local pedagogue was.

Dr. George Hodgins, who prepared a Documentary History of Education in Upper Canada" sixty years ago, gave the honor to the Rev. William Wright, a Presbyterian minister who in addition to preaching "kept the first school at Myers' Creek in 1805."

More recently W. C. Mikel in his "City of Belleville History" noted that William Bell "conducted a school which was probably the first school in what is now the City of Belleville." The date of this school is not known.

Support for Mikel's statement comes from the fact that Bell, a local general merchant and later Col. of the first Regiment of Hastings Militia, was schoolmaster to the Mohawk children at the nearby Mohawk village from 1796 to 1802. Quite possibly he also taught at Belleville prior to the Rev. Wright

Other early teachers were James Potter and a Mr. Leslie, both in the 1800's.

Then in 1810 Mr. John Watkins taught in a little frame school house near the present market.

Education has come a long way from these meagre local beginnings.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

MOST KERATOSES YIELD READILY TO TREATMENT

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you tell me something about keratoses? I have some on my face and hands, and would like to know if there is an ointment I could use, or something I could take to get rid of them. I have already been to a skin specialist. None of them that he scraped off were cancerous. — M. A."

A keratosis (the plural is keratoses) is a common skin defect. It occurs for the most part in people who are least over 50.

Usually I fight shy of saying too much about specific skin defects because in so many cases you have to see it before you can decide what it is. A keratosis, however, is a definite thing, with a characteristic appearance — a small, raised, pale brownish, hard-looking spot, usually smaller than the eraser on a pencil.

Keratoses are commonest on the face (temple, cheek, neck) or on the backs of the hands — all areas which are exposed to the sun. That is probably why we find them more commonly in people who have spent a good deal of time outdoors.

As a general rule — you'll be glad to hear — these spots are innocent. Some fall off by themselves. Some are scraped off. Some ultimately are rubbed of by your hand towel.

Some (about 25 per cent) can become malignant, but these skin cancers are not the frightening thing that cancer becomes in so many other parts of the body. They are called cancer because of the type of change which occurs in the cells, but they are usually of a low order of danger in comparison. Not, of course, that a skin cancer can be neglected; however, a large majority of these cases are treated readily and easily. The rate of cure is very high indeed-well above 90 per cent.

CLUE TO MALIGNANCY

To get back to keratoses, the clue to whether one is malighants, lies in the speed of its growth or enlargement in diameter or thickness. The more rapid the growth, the greater the probability that it might be malignant, so when one of them obviously is enlarging, have it looked at right away.

Should keratoses be removed? When there is no malignancy, there is no harm in them. However, since some of them can at times be malignant, my own feeling is that it is well to have them removed as a safety measure or insurance, if you please. They can be removed simply, and when things can be done simply, my viewpoint is to do them.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been troubled with gas since I was 15. I am now 48. I have had many X-rays. All the pills I've taken don't seem to help. — Mr. R."

"Gas in the stomach rarely is gas that is generated there at all. Usually it is air that has been swallowed — some scientific doubting Thomases analyzed many samples of "gas" and found that it was air, that is oxygen, nitrogen and lesser amounts of other things that constitute air.

The curious thing is that a person who habitually swallows tiny gulps of air doesn't realize it. Remember, however, that it is quite possible to learn to swallow air deliberately. The Chinese have done it for centuries because it is a mark of courtesy to be able to belch after a meal. And people who have lost the power of speech because of larynx removal learn to swallow air and speak by expelling it.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have Heberden's nodes on my fingers. — J. A."

These are "bumps" that form on the top side of the small joints of the fingers, and are characteristic of hypertrophic arthritis, sometimes seen in people past 50 or so. They have no connection with rheumatoid arthritis of the hands. There is no way to reduce the nodes. Hydrocortisone injections may relieve aching of the joints but will not affect the nodes. Heat and salicylates (aspirin in various forms) will also ease the discomfort.

Afflicted with arthritis? You may find relief if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet, "Don't Quit ecause of Arthritis." To receive your copy, write to me for it in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

THE THREE TRAGIC D'S

Here they are — drink, drugs, and dullness. You wouldn't think of fondling a cobra snake, but you would be a lot safer doing that than fooling around with any one of these three D's.

Sir William Osler, often called the greatest physician that ever lived, summed up the drink situation when he said: "Alcohol does not enable anyone to do anything better: it simply dulls him to the realization that he does everything so poorly." And yet they go guzzling it down — the most pathetic being the poor folks who fail to realize that their "moderate" drinking is keeping a dreadful servitude fastened on millions of unfortunates who fall victim of liquor and go down the drain.

Drugs. How about a national law which will inflict the death sentence on anyone who illegally sells habit forming drugs? Oh, wait parson, I hear someone say; isn't that a bit harsh and unchristian? Why? Should men be allowed to live who make slaves out of their fellows and condemn their lives spiritually?

And as for dullness — well, live life to the very hilt, and it will never appear dull. The mood of dullness is the sure symptom of emotional illness.

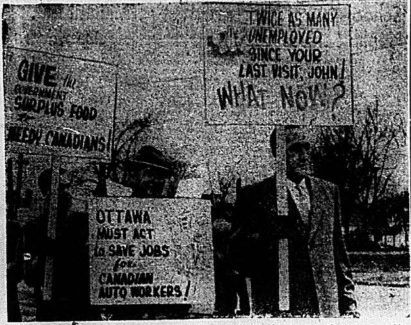
Prime Minster Picketed by Windsor Jobless



GIVE the GOVERNMENT SURPLUS FOOD to NEEDY CANADIANS!
TWICE AS MANY UNEMPLOYED SINCE YOUR LAST VISIT, JOHN! WHAT NOW?
OTTAWA MUST ACT to SAVE JOBS for CANADIAN AUTO WORKERS!

For the first time in his two campaigns for the prime ministry, Mr. Diefenbaker was the target of picket signs displayed by unemployed men of Windsor, Ont. The pickets paraded in front of his hotel in an orderly fashion. Later the prime minister told a group in Chatham that "his heart went out" to recession-hit workers.

On The Hustings

Diefenbaker Defends Party's Trade Policies

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAMILTON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has again countered Liberal party charges that his government's policies have hurt trade with the United States.

Echoing speeches made in Southern Ontario by Trades Minister Churchill last month, Mr. Diefenbaker said Thursday night Canada's trade deficit with the United States had been cut by nearly $300,000,000 during 1957. In addition, the Conservative program of increasing trade with the United Kingdom has been getting results.

He told an election meeting that Mr. Pearson now is promising to increase exports to the United States.

"They've learned more in seven months than they did in 22 years," the prime minister said.

Mr. Diefenbaker was scheduled to begin a 10-day swing through Western Canada in Winnipeg today.

SPEAKING UP

The Progressive Conservative government, he told a standing-room-only audience of 2,300, is speaking up to the Americans about unfair trade practices, while the Liberals merely sent notes.

As a result, a series of witnesses, including U.S. Secretary of state John Foster Dulles, had told a U.S. congressional committee that Canadian rights must be preserved.

The prime minister promised that his government, if necessary, will provide more funds for housing than the $300,000,000 it had already provided since last summer.

This would be done before March 31 election if necessary and then be submitted to the new Parliament for approval.

Before arriving in Hamilton, Mr. Diefenbaker stopped in Kitchener, Galt and London.

At Kitchener he went through his fifth reception line in three days before sitting down to a cookies-and-tea reception in the city's municipal arena.

He and Mrs. Diefenbaker shook hands with nearly half the 1,250 persons who turned out in mid-afternoon to meet them, following an assembly-line technique that the party plans to use widely during the rest of his campaign. Seven similar receptions are scheduled during the six days he will spend in Ontario later in the campaign, winding up March 29 in Ottawa.

SHAKE HANDS LIGHTLY

A young party member stood by the receiving line, asking guests to present themselves to the couple, and to shake hands lightly. As a result the line moved past Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker at better than 15 handshakes-to-the-minute.

If a guest forgot the formula the prime minister asked him his name and to all he said "How do you do?" or "How are you?" Several of the greeters had special messages to whisper but the majority simply said "Best of luck John."

Later in a short speech Mr. Diefenbaker mentioned the new technique as "an opportunity to meet people one would not meet in any other way."

The day at Kitchener was something of a homecoming to the prime minister, who was born 62 years ago in the village of Neustadt, some 35 miles northwest, the son of schoolteacher William Diefenbaker who moved to Saskatchewan when John was eight.

Nearer, in the town of Elmira, used to be the wagon factory of grandfather George Diefenbacker—the name was spelled differently those days—who was the son of a Dutch immigrant.

Afterwards he dropped in at the Kitchener-Waterloo Press Club where he received an honorary membership.

Cabinet Control Said Old Parties' Method of Rule

OTTAWA (CP)—CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell says if either the Progressive Conservatives or Liberals are elected March 31 "we will be back to the situation where the people knock in vain at the door of the government."

He said the only way to ensure that control of Parliament will rest with the people is to elect a CCF government at Ottawa. Election of a Conservative government would mean a return of cabinet government instead of parliamentary government.

The statements were included in the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery and recorded for broadcast from 9 to 9:15 p.m. EST over the CBC's Trans-Canada network.

Mr. Coldwell said Prime Minister Diefenbaker called a winter election because the Conservative party is "hungry for power, hungry for the same power the Liberal cabinet had before it." It wanted a meek and subservient majority like the former Liberal government had.

QUOTES DIEFENBAKER

The CCF leader said Mr. Diefenbaker had stated that the last Parliament was intolerable.

It was intolerable for Mr. Diefenbaker because he and his cabinet had to listen to the CCF. The more CCF members elected to parliament the more control the people would have over Parliament.

Works Program 'Pretty Phoney' Recession Cure

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Lester B. Pearson has described the Progressive Conservative $1,100,000,000 works program as a "pretty phoney" instrument for curing unemployment this year.

In a national television broadcast, the Liberal leader said Thursday night it was "folly" on the part of the Conservatives to propose switching $600,00,000 worth of imports from the United States to Britain when this would give "extra" ammunition to Washington protectionists seeking to impose higher tariffs on Canadian goods.

With him on the television broadcast one of a series in the current election campaign, was Tony Abbott, young Liberal and son of Mr. Justice Douglas Abbott of the Supreme Court of Canada, one-time Liberal finance minister.

Mr. Pearson leaves Montreal today to continue his campaigning in Quebec City.

CURE FOR JOBLESS

It appeared to him that people were thinking about his own unemployment cure — tax reductions and other measures—and were considering it as a better measure than any put forward by any other party.

Mr. Pearson denied opposition charges that he had exaggerated the number of jobless in Canada. He had "leaned backwards", using the lower bureau of statistics figures. The situation was bad enough without the need to exaggerate it or minimize it either.

As for Prime Minister Diefenbaker's argument that he would see that no one in Canada suffered, this was "empty rhetoric." It was true that previous Liberal administrations had built up legislation that made sure no unemployed suffered deeply, but any man who was out of work was indeed suffering.

Mr. Pearson said he was not impressed by Mr. Diefenbaker's works program. Many of the projects outlined in the program had in fact already been launched. Others would take years to start. To say that these would help unemployment in 1958 was "pretty phoney."

Jobs and trade were the basic issues of the election, Mr. Pearson said. On the foreign front the basic issue was which government and which leader could give Canada the best leadership in securing international peace.

Education Week

Mentally Retarded Children

Editor's note: This being Education Week, The Ontario Intelligencer is following its customary practice of presenting a series of articles by local educationists on various topics connected with their vitally important field of endeavor.

By JOYCE L. WARD

A mentally retarded child is born every fifteen minutes in North America. Mental retardation can be caused by brain damage before, during, or after birth; it can be caused by accident or disease, and is often believed to be due to glandular imbalance of the mother, particularly where mongolism is indicated. Mongoloids, sometimes the first children of younger parents or last children of older parents, are so called because of their thick bodies, very small hands and feet and oriental eyes.

Children whose brain has not been damaged at all, but who are just naturally very slow, also come under the classification of mentally retarded.

Retarded children are not mentally ill and will not grow up to be insane. They are mostly very happy children, lovable and anxious to please. Their awkwardness is caused by the discrepancy between their actual, physical and mental ages.

125,000 IN CANADA

There are 125,000 mentally retarded children in Canada. The modern parent, after learning the diagnosis and having accepted the situation, looks towards the possibilities of education for the child.

Whilst auxiliary classes are provided under the public school system for the education of children whose I.Q. is from 60 to 75, no provision had been available, until comparatively recently, for the education of children of I.Q. 50 and below.

Such children had been considered ineducable with regards to normal academic education until some experimental schools were set up and it was discovered that some degree of education was possible and that they responded better to group education.

Social training, the first phase in the education of the retarded, includes instruction in dressing themselves, toilet training, table manners and generally acceptable social habits.

STRESS PRACTICAL

In teaching, stress is placed on the practical and concrete with less emphasis on things theoretical, although some simple academic work is attempted.

Instructional periods are very short because of the very limited attention span and a great variation of subject matter is essential.

Psychotherapy plays an important part in the training and the experienced teacher pays particular attention to play activities of such children because behavior observance is often a clue to the child's emotional problems.

Experience seems to indicate that the retarded show exceptionally encouraging response to music therapy. Music has a calming effect on a child who might be highly strung or irritable. Children who are unable to assimilate ordinary musical instruction respond to rhythm and the rhythm band is included in the curriculum of most schools.

Since the co-ordination of these children is often subnormal and many are under-developed physically, attention is paid to training directed towards improving general physical wellbeing.

What is the future for such children? It is hoped that eventually sheltered workshops will be set up where, upon reaching working age, they may be usefully employed and their products disposed of in a protected market. The future for each retarded child may often depend upon early recognition of the handicap, coupled with its frank acceptance by the parents, and local availability of training facilities either free or at low cost to parents.

How has the Quinte District dealt with this problem? A group of parents of retarded children and other interested persons in this general area are banding together to form the Quinte District Association for Mentally Retarded Children. They plan to open a school in the fall.

The success of this project will depend to a very great extent upon public awareness of the problem of the retarded child because the public's sympathetic consideration and support is so essential to the encouragement of parents of such children, and the public's energy and enthusiasm is sorely needed in the eventual acceptance and, we hope, solution of this universal problem.

Citizens in 42 centres throughout Ontario have accepted this challenge and are now successfully operating schools.

Local persons interested should contact Mrs. Arthur Ward, 20 Holloway St., Belleville, Woodland 8-9618.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

Since the beginning of the year considerable activity has been evident on the part of Avondale Scouts and Cubs.

The Scout troop under the leadership of S. M. Fernie and A. S. M. Williamson took part in the recent Ranger - Rover Hobby Show and won the following prizes: scrap-book, Roger Harder; handicraft, Larry Morrison and David Williamson; home baking, Larry Morrison, Norman Morrison and David Williamson; models, David Williamson, boat; George Reid, boat; Jimmy Wilson, plane; art, Gary Baker.

In addition sketches by Larry and Norman Morrison and a scale model of an observation tower by David Williamson were displayed in the window of the local T. Eaton Company store.

Cub activities for January and February included three investitures, namely Ronnie Kingsman, Kenneth Locklin and Bobby Keith. There are now 30 Cubs in the pack.

A new six was formed recently with Albert Besterman as sixer and Rickie Miller as seconder. Rickie Halsey was also given a seconder stripe.

Proficiency badges have been awarded the following cubs: artist, Bill Wettlaufer, Denis Rushton and Douglas Denike; toymaker, Douglas Denike; collectors, Albert Besterman.

Service Stars were awarded to the following: Douglas Denike, Stephen Christopher and Bill Wettlaufer, each three years, Danny Legacy, David McDonald and Albert Besterman, each two years.

Cubs and Scouts of the 10th Belleville group will hold a parents' night in Holloway Street United Church on March 19th.

A number of leaders and group committee members will go to Peterborough tomorrow to attend a conference.

Says Canada's Personality Better Than U.S.

MONTREAL (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson says Canada is heading toward a distinctive national personalty "superior to that of the country to the south of us."

"If you want to prove our superiority to an American," he said "just answer his questions in French."

He spoke before an audience of about 700 party supporters including 14 Liberal candidates in Montreal ridings. He stressed a need for basing Canada's future on national unity—"on absolute equality of the two founding races, French and English."

His audience applauded when he said that his travels the last three weeks from British Columbia to Ontario have shown "a great spirit of life, hope, energy, enthusiasm and optimism in our party."

Committee Rejects Ottawa's Request to Fluoridate Water

TORONTO (CP) — The private bills committee of the Ontario Legislature has rejected by 15-2 legislation which would have permitted the city of Ottawa to add fluorine to its water supply.

The legislation was defeated Thursday after both of opponents and supporters brought forth experts to comment on the issue. The successful opponents argued that fluoridation is an infringement of human and civil rights.

After a 90-minute discussion only Peter Manley (L-Stormont) and G. T. Gordon (L-Brantford) voted in favor of the bill.

Alan Grossman (PC-Toronto St. Andrew) said: "The right of the majority to inflict mass medication is an invasion of the civil rights of the minority."

"If I want medication I go to a doctor, not a politician," said Arthur Child (PC-Wentworth). "No politician is going to ram medicine down my throat or the throats of my family."

SPONSOR ABSTAINS

The bill's sponsor, D. H. Morrow (PC-Ottawa West), abstained from voting because, he said, the question should be covered by general legislation.

"I'm in favor of fluoridation but I cannot vote to force this medication down the throats of the people of this province who don't want it," said Dr. J. A. McCue (PC-Lanark).

Jules Morin (PC - Ottawa East), an Ottawa alderman on the committee, also voted against the bill, saying the question should be settled by a plebiscite in Ottawa.

Both Liberal members who supported the bill based their position on Mr. Gordon's statement that since fluoridation was introduced in his city of Brantford in 1945, dental decay had been reduced by two-thirds.

NOTES ACT AMENDED

In seeking the legislation, Gordon Medcalfe, Ottawa's city solicitor, noted the legislature has amended the Public Health Act to allow eight Ontario municipalities to fluoridate their water supply.

"In that amendment you practically invited us here," he said. "If there's going to be a fight over fluoridation, let us have it in our own back yard."

Mr. Medcalfe was supported by Ottawa Alderman May Nickson and a group of medical and dental experts, including Dr. H. G. Hudson of the Ottawa dental society and Dr. Gordon Bates, head of the Health League of Canada.

Liberal Ejected Protesting Vote Thanking Ottawa

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Federal matters played a major role in debate in provincial legislatures Thursday.

In New Brunswick, a member was ejected during debate over a proposal by the Progressive Conservative government to thank Prime Minister Diefenbaker for measures designed to aid the province and Nova Scotia discussed a federal aid project and a move to adjourn today until after the March 31 federal election.

At Fredericton, W. J. Gallant removed from the House by the sergeant-at-arms after Speaker J. Arthur Moore ruled he was trying to make a speech rather than a point of order.

Premier Hugh John Flemming was introducing a motion to send a letter of appreciation to Mr. Diefenbaker for federal measures designed to aid New Brunswick.

TRIES TO TALK

Five times Mr. Gallant tried unsuccessfully to make his point of order and finally shouted "this is not democracy." As he was bodily removed Mr. Gallant turned to the premier and cried: "You'll remember this, you disqualified premier."

The Progressive Conservative government in Nova Scotia won its motion to adjourn until April 8 after heated opposition from the Liberal party.

Opposition Leader Henry Hicks has repeatedly accused Mr. Stanfield's government of calling the adjournment so that the provincial budget would not hurt the federal Conservative party's chances in the March 31 federal election.

Earlier the government tabled a motion providing for a federal-provincial agreement to assist the building of power plants in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

'Prayer-Silence Of God' Theme At Tabernacle

The March meeting of Tabernacle United Church Women's Association was held Thursday afternoon in the church parlor with the new president, Mrs. Percy Kerr, presiding.

Mrs. A. Rose was in charge of the devotional, the theme being "Prayer — the Silence of God". "God does not always answer our prayers. Even Jesus did not receive an answer to His prayer when He said, 'Let this cup pass from me'. But God does not forsake His children, the prayer is never left unanswered or unheard.

"Our ideas are not always what God would have them be, so, if we do not ask for the right thing, He gives us what He knows is the best thing for us. Instead of asking that our discomforts be removed, we should ask for strength to bear those discomforts; courage to meet the hardships and grace to face up to our disappointments, never forgetting that God is our Father and He loves all His children wherever they may be or whoever they are."

Mrs. G. Gorsline, convener of group No. 1, introduced the film strip that Mrs. James Eastcott showed while she read the accompanying manuscript on the activities of 'Five Oaks,' one of the training centres of the United Church located at Paris, Ontario. There is a similar centre at Naramata, B.C. and a new one at Tatamagouche, N. S.

'Five Oaks is a Workers' Centre and serves 1700 pastoral charges throughout the Bay of Quinte, Hamilton, London and Toronto Conferences of the United Church of Canada. It is open all year and men and women of all professions meet and find they can gather for debates and discussions and worship God in their work.

"The 'Oak tree' stands for strength; the Cross carved from the Oak stands for the Christian way and the pulpit formed on an oak stump makes an appropriate outdoor worship centre in an enviroment of God's handiwork. Views of the spring and summer days — the autumn splendor and winter's quiet white is a source of inspiration and help. On the beautiful walks the hand of God has been placed on many shoulders, and people have gone back to their homes, their churches and communities more conscious of the presence of God ever abiding with them giving them renewed strength to serve better and to witness for the Master, the one true High God."

There is fun and recreation—there is fellowship, worship and study — there is a rich blessing for all who attend FiveOaks Christian Training Centre.

"Let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us: and establish thou the work of our hands upon us; yea, the work of our hands establish thou it.'

O.E.S. Lodge 55 Marks 39th Anniversary

The Masonic Temple, Belleville, was the setting for a recent gala night for Belleville Chapter, No. 55, O.E.S., when it celebrated the 39th birthday and honored Mrs. Walter T. Elliott, Associate Grand Conductress of the Grand Chapter of Ontario.

The following Grand Chapter officers were guests: Mrs. Anna Boyd and Mrs. Emma Campaign, Past Grand Matrons; Mr. [illegible] Whitfield, Grand Patron and Mrs. Edith Petch, Grand Adah; Mrs. Nettie Dorland, Grand Ruth; Mrs. Nora Hall, Grand Electa; Mrs. Dolly Lodge, Grand Martha; Mrs. Nina Marr, Grand Organist, and Mrs. Whitfield.

Mrs. Olive Jones, Worthy Matron of Belleville Chapter, No. 55, and Mr. G. Maybee, Worthy Patron, cordially welcomed their guests and set the stage for a happy evening.

At the close of chapter, Mrs. Walter Elliott, Associate Grand Conductress of the Grand Chapter of Ontario, was escorted to the east, welcomed, complimented and presented with a silver entree dish.

Past Matrons and Past Patrons of Belleville Chapter, formed a guard of honor and Mrs. Anna Boyd, P.G.M., made the presentation.

Mrs. Walter Elliott cut the beautiful birthday cake made by Mrs. Roy Brickman and decorated by Mrs. Tom Law. The cake was definitely a work of art. A social hour followed.

Alliance Pioneer Girls Hold Encampment

Last night was 'encampment time' for the Pioneer Girls of the Alliance Tabernacle when eight new girls were inducted, and several others received their well-earned badges and ranks.

Miss Dorothea Atyeo, chief guide, presided, with Miss Lenore Dixon at the piano. It was a pretty sight when the girls, in their white blouses with the red and blue insignia "V"-pointed over their breasts, and black skirts, marched up from the lower auditorium, taking their places in the reserved seats at the front.

Following the theme chorus, "Jesus, Jesus, Jesus", the audience, made up of parents, friends and pals, joined in the hymn, "He Lives", and "Standing on the Promises of God," after which, the Chief Guide introduced the guest speaker, Miss Phyllis Cunningham, District Chief Pioneer, who stated how pleased she was to be in Belleville and present at this special occasion.

PIONEER GIRLS IN ACTION

Miss Cunningham showed the film, "Pioneer Girls in Action", with Mr. Henry Vasselin at the projector. This film portrayed the development of "Pioneer Girls", in a church which was having difficulty in holding the teen-age girls, and keeping them in attendance at church, which centred around one specially attractive girl, "Peggy", who wanted something out of life. This Pioneer Club, with its attractive handiwork, and other activities, included the study and memorization of God's word, and was instrumental in holding the young girls, and in the formation of sterling, Christian character.

After the film, Miss Cunningham gave a brief talk on the theme, "Where there is no vision, the people perish, "taking Joshua 3, as her background. She outlined the qualities of the Pioneer Girls club with its different divisions of leaders, committee, sponsors, and the pastor at its head.

The aims constitute the sanctifying of each member for battle and the stirring up of the people to sanctify themselves in order to win others to Christ.

Previous to the presentation of the badges, Little Georgina Whittaker favored with a lovely solo, "Not I, But Christ."

While the badges were presented to those winning awards, Miss Lenore Dixon sang, "Take My Life and Let it Be" — a verse for each girl, which, accompanied by a brief exhortation by Miss Cunningham, who also made the presentation, was a most impresisve occasion.

Those receiving badges were: Carol Dunn, kitchencraft; Linda Blakely, nature and water crafts; Heather Hawley, nature, sightseeing and loyalty; Manual arts, (Colonists Ranks) Lillian Vincent; Eleanor Millard, safety; sewcraft and oudoor work.

ADMITTED TO MEMBERSHIP

Those admitted into membership were: Sharon Ford; Karon Ford; Carla Hodge; Bernice Allen; Ruth Dixon; Mary Redner; Sharon Shatraw, and Sandra Herrington.

Pilgrims receiving ranks; Carol Dunn, Voyager; Linda Blakely, settler; Eleanor Millard and Heather Hawley, townsman. Colonist, Lillian Vardy received the rank of pathfinder.

Following the presentation appreciation was extended to Miss Cunningham by Chief Guide, Miss Dorothea Atyeo.

Refreshments were served to the large assembly in the lower auditorium of the church, which was adorned with entwined garlands of red and blue, colors of the Pioneer Girls, and colorful tulips.

'The Pirates of Penzance' Well Presented by School

By EUGENE LANG

Last evening a Belleville audience had its first opportunity to witness the musical talents and aptitudes of the pupils of Quinte Secondary School when the curtains parted for the school's debut production of Gilbert and Sullivan's grand old favorite of mirth and melody, "The Pirates of Penzance."

This ambitious presentation culminated in weeks of serious effort on the part of students and teachers alike and demonstrated to a marked degree that Quinte Secondary can now hold its own in the competitive field of operetta with its arch rival of unmentioned name. As explained during intermission by Mr. Leslie Reid, the principal the majority of the students who attend this school come from outlying rural districts from distances as far as twenty-five miles, thus those who took part found it necessary to journey back to the school many cold and bitter winter evenings for the various practice rehearsals that were required. In this respect the teachers were most helpful to those participating in supplying transportation that mounted into hundreds of extra miles of driving against adverse weather conditions on now and then nearly impassable roads. This co-operative attitude on the part of the teaching staff resulted in the very capable performances that were turned in by one and all last night.

UNDER CAREFUL GUIDANCE

The podium was occupied by the charming presence of Miss Constance McEwen, the director of the operetta and it was under the careful guidance of her conductorship that netted the admirable characterizations supplied by the principals and the spirited vocalizations backed by the triple set of choruses. The staging as realized by Mr. A. Connerty was very much in keeping with the Victorian flavor and atmosphere that pervades this operetta and the scenic backdrops envisaged by Mr. M. Smykaluk, Mary Lu Toms, Helen Vozobule and assisting art students were of such colorful design as to immeasurably heighten the visual effect to those out front, supplying added credence that was enhanced by tasteful lighting effects. Though the piano was not over-ripe in sound the accompanist, John Uttley, of Trenton, carried the usually fast and fairly difficult keyboard part with competent fingers that were not a bit hesitant in their obeyance to Miss McEwen's directional demands, be the tempo slow and languid or lively and with brittle bounce.

FIRST EFFORT FOR SOME

When one considers this the first concerted effort of the dozens of young singers and actors before a sizeable audience it was of noticeable aptitude that practically each participant indulged in when on stage. The principals consisted of Jim Churchill, Price Morris, Gary Walker, Douglas Townsend, Andy Vos, Marsha Dovey, Reta Vincent, Shirley Livingstone, Gladys Brenton and Ellen Vincent. Naturally there were a few drawbacks to some of the voices, but regardless of timbre and tone of any one individual voice, all of these pupils turned in very acceptable performances of their respective roles. Some shone out more dramatically than vocally, and others vice versa, but for a "first" in this type of production all should be proud of their achievements. With no thought of favoritism on the part of the writer (I know none of these students personally) special note was taken of certain parts that stood out.

Gary Walker filled his Pirate King's part with gusto and pompous bravo in a feeling of ease and surety. Price Morris, with one exception (forgivable) was very good in his portrayal of the Major General, carrying off his opening patter song with humorous appeal. Andy Vos as the Police Sergeant was played and sung with comical drollness. Marsha Dovey as Mabel demonstrated a voice of amazing clear texture and agility. Notwithstanding a noticeable wavering tremolo that crept into some of the held notes (that will be eradicated with more tutoring) Miss Dovey has a voice that commands attention and should earn her a reputation in the years to come. Reta Vincent also has a charming lyricism in her throat. Messrs. Churchill and Townsend were quite good in their interpretations. Misses Livingstone, Brenton and Vincent (Ruth) all capably handled their various singing parts with talented conceptions of their respective singing parts.

The choruses were handled with fairly good vocal outpourings, this being the first time in a long while that boys outshone the girls on stage in numbers of voices. Usually it is quite difficult to get boys to sing before an audience, but at Quinte Secondary this does not seem to be the case. However, don't let us underestimate the ladies, as the girls' chorus came through with beautiful singing in most of their selections. Policemen and Pirates both were reasonably well wrought in their numbers. For a first night the entire cast should be pleased with themselves. What will the second night bring? We hope a bigger audience and as good an overall rendition, the odd flaw being tossed aside tonight.

Note: Intermission greatly enjoyed with refreshments on sale and smoking allowed in the cafeteria. B.C.I. take note and amend your smoking regulations accordingly.

'Open House' Held by Pr. Wales H-S

On Tuesday evening, Mrs. C. Cooke presided at the March meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association.

Mrs. T. Clark read the minutes of the previous meeting and Mrs. Miller gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Hawley read the Scripture.

The new stacking chairs, bought with the proceeds from the fair, were on display and the newly decorated auditorium was admired by everyone.

As this was the annual "Open House," following the business parents proceeded to the classrooms to view their children's schoolwork and speak to the teachers.

A room mother was present in each room to greet the parents and record their attendance.

Mrs. Slack's afternoon kindergarten class won the roll call.

Room mothers for the following rooms were: Mrs. Durrant for Mrs. Burtt's (Grade 8); Mrs. Murray for Mrs. Phillip's (Grade 7); Mrs. Leslie for Mrs. Hodgin's (Grade 6); Mrs. Collins for Mrs. Armstrong's (Grades 5 & 6); Mrs. McCoy for Mrs. Orr's (Grades 4 & 5); Mrs. Duggan for Mrs. Garrison's (Grade 4); Mrs. Bankey for Mrs. Fenton's (Grades 3-4); Mrs. Roulet for Mrs. Mastin's (Grade 3); Mrs. Talbot for Mrs. Badgley's (Grade 2); Mrs. McDonald for Mrs. Nightingale's (Grades 1-2); Mrs. Smith for Miss Poste's (Grade 1); Mrs. Hawley for Mrs. Slack's morning kindergarten and Mrs. Jones for Mrs. Slack's afternoon kindergarten.

Refreshments were served by the mothers of Mrs. Armstrong's room.

Women's Activities

HOLLOWAY ST. W.M.S.

The March meeting of the Holloway Street W.M.S. was held in the church parlors with Mrs. T. F. Townsend presiding. Mrs. Hubbs opened the meeting with quiet music. Mrs. Townsend gave the call to worship and enlarged upon the New Testament's application to the missionary program of the church.

A fine crowd of ladies denoted that many of those who had been ill were better and spring must be just around the corner.

Mrs. S. Westover gave a fine message on "Sabbath Observance." The Lord's Day Alliance Law says: "business of all kinds should be brought under control, to relieve all employees from duties which would keep them from observing Sunday as a Holy Day; by attending church, worshipping, reading, resting and enjoying Christian fellowship and not attending political meetings, labor unions, concerts, sports, motoring and T.V. 'Remember the Sabbath Day and keep it Holy'."

Mrs. M. B. Weese reported 44 calls having been made on those ill, in both homes and hospital, during February.

Mrs. Johnston suggested a number of books suitable for reading.

The finances were brought up to date in Mrs. W. Phillip's treasury report.

The devotional was based on "Prayer" and how important it may be in the life.

BIBLE READING

The Bible reading was taken by Mrs. R. Kilbank, based on the 4th chapter of Philippians, where Paul is exhorting his brothers in the faith, to stand fast, and rejoicing for the grace of God in them.

The commentary on this passage of Scripture was given by Mrs. F. Cook. "In prayer we can lose our burdens of anxiety and learn to rejoice in the Lord as we give thanks for all the good things we enjoy." The devotional closed with prayer by Mrs. C. Ketcheson.

The offering was received by Mrs. Andrews and Mrs. McCoy and dedicated.

The Japan study was based on the book, "Cross and Crisis" by Dr. Charles Inglehart who spent many years in Japan and was well equipped to explain the Japan of today and the position of the church in that country. This was taken by Mrs. Coulter and Mrs. Bertrand.

JAPANESE LIFE

He discussed Christianity, education, social service, and all phases of Japanese life, both urban and rural. Important personages who have had a great influence on Japan are Kagawa, Stanley Jones, Dr. Bott, Dr. Outerbridge, the Kilbournes, Michi Kawai, Takahacho and Yamamura.

Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. Welborne, Mrs. Wilson, gave fine reports of the Presbyterial held in Napanee.

Tea was served by the group in charge and all enjoyed the social time.

Secondary Schools Need Health Service

A panel discussion was held recently at Quinte Secondary School dealing with the need for Health Services in the local secondary schools. Any subject that could bring as many people out on an evening like that must indeed be on a lot of parents' minds. With radio announcing police warnings for drivers to stay off the highways and streets; with rain and sleet coming down, the wonder is not that the audience was not overflowing, but rather that such a large crowd was there.

The lively constructive discussion must have pleased the guest panelists who had driven here from Kingston, Dr. Kelly the Health Doctor and his nurse, Miss Laturney.

The principal of B.C.I.V.S. Mr. E. A. Orr, and Mr. Leslie Reid, principal of Q.S.S. along with Dr. M. Metcalfe, Medical Health Officer for Belleville, were guests of the panel which was ably chaired by Mr. R. Freeman president of the Home and School Association of B.C.I.V.S.

HEALTH SERVICE NEEDED

Dr. Kelly and Miss Laturney discussed the need for health services in secondary schools from long experience in Kingston. The subject was approached and talked about from every conceivable angle. When the question period arrived, the questions from the audience came readily and pertinently. It was obvious that a need exists and that interest is stirring: the guests from Kingston did show from their vast knowledge and experience that this need has been largely met in their city.

Like everything in the world, problems and hurdles present themselves but they can be and, in the opinion of the gathering, should be overcome. The meeting decided not to pass any resolutions but rather to have a letter drafted and forwarded to the local Board of Education. The general concensus of opinion seemed to be rather conclusive about the need here for health services in the secondary schools.

After the formal meeting concluded, a social hour was enjoyed and, it was apparent that the subject discussed remained active if comments overheard mean anything. It was an informative and successful panel discussion and evening in spite of the weatherman.

STIRLING W. I.

On Thursday and Friday, quiltings were held at the home of Mrs. W. C. West by the Stirling W. I. when quilts were made ready to distribute to burnt-out families and to the Salvation Army to distribute where needed.

The W. I. members are grateful to those who have contributed to helping in the venture. Mention may be made of one donor giving three quilt tops to the W. I. when the call was made for such. Also the great contribution the people of Stirling and surroundings, responding so generously when this band of women working for 'Home and Country' are trying to help the less fortunate are assisted with warm clothing for each and every member of the family.

The W. I. is getting in readiness layettes for Korean babies, and warm garments for older children in that land.

At the close of these days of quilting, the hostess, Mrs. W. C. West, served the quilters tasty refreshments.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The last meeting of the month was held recently in Moose hall, with a large attendance. The Sr. Regt. Nora Kaiser opened meeting, with officers, escorts and committee chairman taking part.

The recorder called roll of officers escorts and chairman and read communications.

The Sr. Regt. read a letter from Lindsay concerning the musical festival that is to be held there on Sunday, March 9th. The Sr. Regt, Nora Kaiser, brought the meeting to a close and the Loyal Order of Moose was invited to a pie social after the meeting, put on by the ritual chairman, Mary VanDusen, and committee.

Euchre was played with the following getting prizes: Ladies — Anne Young; Bernice Bunnett, and Vivian Kellar. Men — Ron Bunnett; Bernard Barr and Gordon Michael.

Next meeting to be March 13.

Patriarchs Militant L.A. Elects Officers

At a recent meeting of the Belleville Auxiliary, No. 8, Ladies' Auxiliary Patriarchs Militant, I.O.O.F., Mrs. Marjorie Large installed the officers for the ensuing year. She was assisted by Mrs. Florence Pollitt, adjutant; Mrs. Alice Storms, aide, and Mrs. Annie Rose, chaplain.

The following officers were installed:

Junior past president, Mrs. Verna Summers; president, Mrs. May Jensen; vice-president, Mrs. Blanche Blake; secretary, Mrs. Irene Aman; treasurer, Miss Lillian Summers; officer of the day, Mrs. Alice Storms; officer of the guard, Mr. Larry Pollitt; color sergeant, Mrs. Florence Pollitt; chaplain, Mrs. Annie Rose; sentry, Mr. Niels Jensen; R. A. president, Mrs. Marjory Large.

Following the installation ceremony Mrs. Blake and Mrs. Summers presented a gift to Mrs. Large and Mrs. Large and Mrs. Blake presented a gift to the retiring president, Mrs. Summers. Both these ladies expressed their appreciation for their gifts.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served at which the ladies were joined by the members of Belleville Canton No. 8.

At a previous meeting reviewing officer Mrs. Myrtle Willson of Cobourg, past president Department Association of Ontario, was present and inspected Belleville Auxiliary No. 8.

New Coat Line

By ALICE ALDEN

The fitted coat is in the vanguard of fashion this spring, but it is a new type of fitted coat, semi-fitted, very suave, very crisp. Arthur Jablow does an especially handsome coat, interpreting the new line in a sheer wool garnished with antique brass buttons. The topper is cut on slim chemise lines, with a wide buckled belt marking a waistline. The wide collar opens to an airy neckline. Large pockets high on the body add to the gentle figure shaping.

◆ DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES ◆

UNITED CHURCH W.A.

WELLINGTON — The regular meeting of the W.A. was held recently in the United Church Sunday School room on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Maybee played quiet music. Mrs. Pierson presided and opened the meeting with a poem.

The roll call was answered with donations of an apron for the bazaar and the number of calls made.

Mrs. Thompson, corresponding secretary read thank you notes from Mrs. R. Preston, Miss Jane Smythe, and Mrs. F. L. Lane.

It was decided to cater to the Holstein Breeders' Association banquet in April.

The sewing meeting will be next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg. The secretary read a letter from Mrs. Don Baxter, Devotional Secretary of the Presbyterial, including a worship service for Easter.

It was learned with regret that Mrs. Baxter is now a patient in the Toronto General Hospital.

Group 2 was in charge of the program. Mrs. Jack McNeil favored with a solo, "I'll Go With You All the Way". Mrs. Barton Cronk gave the devotional on the topic "Owner's Stamp", touching on the Lenten season. The Scripture reading was Act 4:5-22.

Miss Edith Ward read "Happiness" and "Promise Yourself".

Mrs. Tripp thanked all who helped with the "Valentine Tea" and the program.

Group 2 served refreshments.

Stirling W.I. Holds 'Family Night'

Stirling Women's Institute held its "Family Night" in the community hall on Wednesday evening. A fair attendance was present. Owing to bad weather, several of the neighboring Institutes which received a special invitation were unable to attend.

President, Mrs. E. Foster, welcomed the gathering the usual opening excercises were in order to the procedure of W. I. meetings.

Several numbers were given by local talent which were appreciated.

SLIDES SHOWN

The main attraction of the evening was the showing of colored slides, presented by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Martin, of the village. These slides were educational, as well as interesting pictures of Europe, England and other countries. The W.I. is grateful for this attractive feature of the evening.

A social half hour was enjoyed, including refreshments served by the Stirling Women's Institute.

CALM OLDSTER

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP)—How to live long and enjoy it? Mrs. Margaret Ann Cook of nearby Stanley was asked this question on her 90th birthday. "Well," she said, "I've never burned the candle at both ends." She has 27 grandchildren, 50 great - grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

SHANNONVILLE W.A.

The monthly meeting of the W.A. of Shannonville United Church was held recently at the home of Mrs. K. R. Vivian, with an attendance of 21 members, two children and one baby.

The president, Mrs. Everett Stratton, welcomed all and the meeting opened in the usual manner.

Mrs. W. D. Robertson gave a reading "Our Life" and Mrs. J. P. Robinson sang a solo, "Be Still and Know That I Am God," and played her own piano accompaniment.

Mrs. Arthur Houston played for all the hymns used.

Mrs. George Orsborne, group leader, took charge; the theme for the month was "The Owner's Stamp." Mrs. Sam Elliott read the Scripture lesson from Acts 4.

Mrs. Orsborne read the "Lesson Thought" from the devotional leaflet.

Mrs. Charles Wood read a story about a Gypsy fortune teller, and Mrs. Sam Elliott, "Creating an Atmosphere." Mrs. Robertson read a Valentine verse followed by Mrs. Orsborne who read a poem, "It Shows in Your Face."

The president thanked the group for its devotional and took charge of the business.

Mrs. Stanley MacDonald sent 20 quilt blocks and Mrs. Raymond Clarke offered to donate more blocks. It was decided to have a quilting and potluck dinner in the church hall on March 6th. Each member is to bring a hot dish and a cold one.

Mrs. Sam Elliott offered her home for the sewers to set the blocks together ready for the quilting. One hundred dollars was voted to Mr. Claude Clarke for the local fund. The United Church "Observer" is to be placed in every family of the United Church, the W.A. to pay for those who have not subscribed for it themselves.

Mrs. Everett Stratton thanked the hostess for opening her home for the meeting. Mrs. K. Vivian, Mrs. George Orsborne and her group served refreshments.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

CELERY-AND-OLIVES SERVICE . . . YESTERDAY AND TODAY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We were recently married, are now settled in our new house, and we're planning to give some small dinners, to try in our modest way to entertain the many friends who have entertained us. I do all my work, love to cook (my mother did a very good job of teaching me), and want to find out about some of the niceties of serving.

There are two questions I'd like to ask about celery and olives.

(1) My mother used to say, and my aunt still says, that it is necessary to serve celery and olives at any dinner to which you invite guests. Is this still considered a 'must'?

(2) When a hostess who (like me) is also the cook and waitress serves celery and olives, do they have to be passed after the guests are seated? — Sallie S.

Salutations to you . . . you indeed have the right idea about being a good and "aware" hostess!

(1) Actually it wasn't very long ago that it was (as your mother said and your aunt says) considered essential to serve celery and olives at any kind of dinner party — formal, semi-formal, informal. That was the tradition . . . and it was abided by. But today celery and olives are no longer considered essential, even at a formal dinner, and the hostess who has no service very often omits them.

(2) No. When there is no service, the celery and olives are already on the table when the guests are seated.

MENU FOR BREAKFAST FOR OUT-OF-TOWN ATTENDANTS AND GUESTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter is to be married at a church wedding on a Saturday in June. Her fiance and his family live quite a distance from our home, and so it will be necessary for some of the members of the wedding party to come here Friday evening for the rehearsal and stay overnight. The groom's mother is to give the Rehearsal Dinner Friday evening at a restaurant within driving distance of the church. And I plan to have a wedding breakfast at our house on Saturday, about 10:30. The wedding is to be at 2 P.M. What would you suggest for the menu of this breakfast, since there will not be any lunch served until the wedding receptionb — S.

In these special circumstances, when the menu should be substantial for "the long wait," you might serve a real breakfast type menu: first, fruit of some kind, half grapefruit, melon, a fruit juice, or a 2-fruit cup; scrambled eggs, with crisp bacon slices or tiny sausages; toast or small hot biscuits or muffins or rolls or popovers, with a choice of marmalade or jam; lots of steaming-hot coffee. Or: fried chicken, rice croquettes, waffles and maple syrup; coffee. Or, if you wish to have some of the foods prepared the day before, and if your service is limited and you would like to use buffet or semi-buffet service, you might, after the first course of fruit, serve: roast turkey or roast or fried chicken and or Virginia ham; a hot vegetable or rice croquettes; perhaps a simple salad; perhaps small cakes or individual pastries; coffee.

Duke of Rutland Weds U.S. Girl

LONDON (Reuters) — The 38-year-old Duke of Rutland Wednesday announced his engagement to 20-year - old Frances Sweeny, the daughter of American financier Charles Sweeny and the Duchess of Argyll.

Furniture Makers Giving New Slant to Old Designs

By MARY FRAN BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Furniture manufacturers in the United States are giving traditional designs a new slant by adapting interesting features of the 18th century and even earlier.

Combinations of woods with marble, mosaic applied designs, enamel and brass are being used in traditional pieces, says Toronto interior decorator Mary Prud'homme who recently returned from the 1958 furniture show held in Chicago, Ill.

Woods were also combined with leather and cane. Modern lines displayed both the Louis XV and the Renaissance period influences. A new design of pedestal tables had a graceful wine-glass appearance.

DIFFERENT IN CANADA

By comparison, the Canadian Furniture Show Mart in January emphasized the light contemporary look. Designs showed the Scandinavian influence.

Tables and chairs had smooth lines. Several lines used a combination of woods. Tables had teak tops with oak legs while chairs had oak legs with teak arms. Oil - walnut finishing was used in the majority of pieces.

Fabrics highlighted the Chicago show with emphasis on richness of texture, Miss Prud'homme said. Silks, satins, damasks and brocades were favorite choices. Quilted Chintz was also seen.

Off-white and light beiges for large areas are the new color trends. Rich tones are used for accent.

"All colors are good, however," said Miss Prud'homme, "if you know what to do with them. The secret lies in your combination—it's studied knowledge and experience that helps you avoid uncertainty in choosing color schemes."

COLOR AND WOOD..

Miss Prud'homme advises linking of color with wood tones.

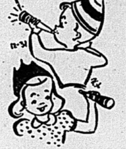
"Learn to appreciate the softness of fruitwoods and walnut, the depths of mahogany, the warmth of maple and the pastel shading in many French provincial pieces."

"It's all part of our new consciousness of color — adding warm subtle accents to the overall theme of your rooms" Miss Prud'homme said.

In working out color schemes to help homemakers achieve charm in home decoration, Miss Prud'homme suggests beiges which she said reflects old world splendor for contemporary living.

For living - room decoration she recommends: Walls, palazzo beige; floor, grotto green; principal fabric, Arabian brown; and for accent, titian red. Another combination walls, Dresden blue; floor, pewter grey; principal fabric, madonna blue; and accent, mosaic blue.

Mother's Helper



NEW YEAR'S EVE is a gala night for adults, and usually there are fancy hats, horns, etc., connected with the celebration. Of course, bring yours home to the children. But how about keeping noisemakers hidden until you're sure the neighbors are up? Your thoughtfulness will be greatly appreciated.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

NOTE:

SWEET AND SOUR SPARERIBS:

Four readers have asked for Chinese dishes two of which are:

For Mrs. John K. Ottawa, and a non-signing reader in North Bay). Cut 2 pounds spareribs into 2-inch squares, having meat on both sides of rib. Roughly this means each rib is cut in half crosswise with meat on both sides and every other rib stripped bare and discarded. Dip each piece in batter: One cup sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 2-3 cup water. Mix all ingredients until smooth. Brown batter covered ribs on all sides in hot peanut oil — about 4 or 7 minutes. Transfer to baking dish and pour over Sweet Sour Sauce: One cup sweet pickle vinegar (or ¾ cup vinegar and ¼ cup brown sugar), ¼ cup brown sugar, 1 cup tomato catsup, ½ cup cold water, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ to ¾ cup chopped sweet pickles 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ to ½ teaspoon pepper. Pour this over fried ribs and bake at 300 degs. Fahr., covered for 1 hour. Recipes for Chinese Won Tons, sweet and sour pork balls and chicken balls will appear here within two weeks.

Dinner Menus

FRIDAY

Chilled Apple Juice; Codfish Balls; Chili Sauce; Spaghetti Michel (see Thursday — omit ham); or Boiled Potatoes; Green Beans with Garlic Butter; Chocolate Layer Cake; Coffee.

Mrs. John K. also asked for.

MEAT PIE:

Pastry:

(English) Double this quantity for large pie with sides and bottom lined with pastry. Two cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup shortening, ½ cup boiling water, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 small egg yolk. Sift together dry ingredients, cut in ⅓ cup of the shortening. Dissolve rest in the broiling water, add lemon juice and egg yolk. Add slowly to flour, mixing well, knead 3 minutes. This is a rich crust for meat, fish, poultry and for individual pies. Let stand 1 hour then roll out.

FILLING:

One pound beef, round or flank steak, or stewing, 4 cut onions, 4 cut carrots, 4 potatoes, 2 cups boiling water, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Wipe meat; cut into 1" pieces; add onions and boiling water. Pare and quarter potatoes and carrots and add to meat. Heat to boiling point, then reduce heat and simmer until meat is nearly tender. Mix flour and seasonings to a paste, with cold water; add to stock to thicken. Turn into a greased baking dish; place an inverted cup or pie funnel in centre, (if desired). Cover with gashed pastry. Bake at 450 degs. Fahr. 15 minutes then reduce heat to 375 deg.. for 25 to 30 minutes. Cooked meat such as leftover beef may be used; use stock or gravy in place of boiling water. (Starting with raw meat makes a superior pie, though).

VARIATIONS:

Partially cooked vegetables such as peas or beans or celery, and chopped raw parsley may be added to this filling; also 1 or 2 bouillon cubes or ½ tsp. MSG.

WELL-EARNED

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—A new gold wedding ring was a present for Mrs. George Baby when, with her husband, she celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Married in Austria, she left her original ring with her mother there, and while raising a family of 10 in Canada never found time to return for it.

FREE INSPECTION OF YOUR TV ANTENNA

TV aerials DO wear out! Your aerial takes a beating, day in and day out, from wind, sun and rain and corrosive chemicals in the air. If your TV picture is not as good as it used to be, your set may be as good as ever, but the trouble may be in your aerial.

Let us inspect your antenna for defective lead-in, corroded terminals, loose guy wires, etc. We'll be glad to give you an estimate on putting your aerial in tip-top shape for the coming winter weather.

STIRLING W. I.

Mrs. E. Luery was hostess to the officers and members with visitors for the March meeting of Stirling W. I.

The president, Mrs. E. Foster presided and extended a warm welcome to the visitors, expressing her pleasure at the full attendance of members. Mrs. R. Stapley presided at the piano.

Secretary, Mrs. S. McMurray read the correspondence and presented the bills; also a notice from Belleville Fair Board, re exhibit of Tweedsmuir history workshop book; a course in Cultural Activities by Pine Grove W. I. and an invitation were the most important of the correspondence which were dealt with.

Arab babies will be cared for as each W. I. is doing its best to supply their needs, several nighties shirts, soap and pins were handed in. Several had been already finished.

The sewing committee reported four quilts in readiness for distribution; also more quilts in the making. The W. I. sincerely appreciates the help people have given to this work for others. These donors will be remembered by "Thank-You" cards.

Mrs. P. Bronson will be responsible for this, also forwarding reports to the various conveners of the standing committees of the district when at the proper time they will compile their branch reports and present them at the annual meeting.

Mrs. W. C. West, Mrs. Mabel Williams, and Mrs. R. Stapley gave their contribution to the birthday box. All joined in singing "Happy Birthday".

BUSINESS DISCUSSED

New business was briefly discussed and will be continued at the April meeting, which will be the annual meeting. The president requested a good attendance to this meeting which will be at the home of Mrs. E. Foster on the first Wednesday afternoon in April.

A postponed euchre party will be held in community hall, Monday evening under the direction of Mrs. E. Foster and her committee.

The meeting was turned over to the co-hostess Mrs. P. Bronson The conveners of the standing committees gave their reports such as Mrs. E. Cook,. "Citizenship and Education"; "Historical Research". Mrs. W. C. West; "Resolutions", Mrs. S. McMurray.

APPRECIATION EXPRESSED

"Appreciation," a reading by Mrs. A. Brooks urged one to give that word of cheer today! Give your big wishes and flowers to your friends today. The gospel joy is to give. May God bless all who send out flowers and good wishes, this forms the character of the youth of tomorrow.

Humorous short readings were given by Mrs. S. McMurray; Mrs. D. Montgomery; Mrs. M. Ward, and Miss E. Cooke. Mrs. B. Reid gave a reading entitled, "Notes." A little note of praise today spreads happiness along my way. A distant friend dropped me a line to cheer this weary heart of mine. I wonder through the dreary days. Why don't we write more notes of praise?"

Mrs. E. Foster gave a splendid reading on "Smiles,..

"Place the Letters", a contest put on by Mrs. L. Bronson, also gave a quiz program. Miss Ruth Cole won the prize for the first contest, and several were lucky for second.

Mrs. West conducted a contest with the group receiving candy for their efforts.

Refreshments were served and a social time spent.

Appreciation for program, and the hostess was voiced by Mrs. B. Reid.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Shirley E. — Mother should come and stay with us.

Mrs. D. G. — It's silly, but I can't part with the house.

• • •

Shirley E. — My sister and brother and I are deeply concerned about our mother, who became a widow more than six months ago.

We are all married and have nice homes and are very eager to have Mother come and stay with us. She could live with any one of us, or change around, as she pleases.

Instead, she has been living in the old house and brooding over the past. The house was much too big for her, even when Dad was alive. A good part of it is closed off.

What is the sense of her being so lonely in that big, empty house?

• • •

Mrs. D. G. — I know it's silly, but I have lived in that house nearly 40 years and I can't quite bring myself to part with it.

It's true that it is lonely here and there are a lot of discomforts. Sometimes I can't get anyone to do all the necessary things around the house. I know the children think I'm crazy when I complain about it, but I'd rather have the house and complain than get rid of it.

Then there are my things. I've accumulated so many things over the years. The children don't think much of them, but I would want to keep them, and then I'd be a nuisance.

• • •

The Council: All the experts are behind you, Mrs. D. G.!

The experience of many other widowed women has been that giving up a home has brought considerable grief.

Despite her children's welcoming arms, Mrs. D. G. will feel dispossessed when she walks in rooms that are not her own among things that are not her own. The "things" Mrs. D. G. has accumulated represent her tastes, her interests, her personality. They are her attachment to life.

Even if her children compromise and are willing to "tolerate" a part of her collections, Mrs. D. G. would have to cut down her ownership to suit their convenience. Immediately she is placed in a subservient position.

However, it is not necessary, in this day of housing shortages, for Mrs. D. G. to be lonely in a big house. She should consider renting a portion of her home, preferably to a family. She may find it very profitable to charge a moderate rental in return for some help around the house from the man of the family.

This arrangement will lick a variety of problems — income, loneliness and upkeep of the property.

Sunday School Lesson

Must Make Goodness Active

By ROY L. SMITH

There is a vast amount of passive goodness in the world which ought to be transformed into the active mood.

It was said of a certain high school, whose good name had been sullied by the outrageous actions of a few rowdies, that "98 per cent of the kids were good law - abiding youngsters." And that was quite true. The vicious were in a minority.

The trouble was that the 98 per cent were inactive, without any spirit of aggression, and they undertook no activity on their own behalf to curb the viciousness of the few.

Then came a particularly disgraceful affair which had the effect of arousing the spirits of the splendid youngsters of the school. In a great mass meeting they took a positive position, notified the rowdies that they did not intend to be further humiliated, found their own ways of expressing their contempt for misbehavior, and within the space of a few weeks had restored order and established discipline.

WHEN FATHERS MARCHED

Years ago the state of Kansas had a prohibition law which was widely ignored, largely because the good people who were in the vast majority were not aroused to the evils which reigned within the state.

Then came a revelation of shocking conditions which existed in a splendid community of the state in which young men and women were being debauched and terrible injuries were being worked on young lives.

Almost spontaneously a small group of churchmen gathered in a private home to consider the situation, and out of that conference developed a "movement." Within the space of a few days a small army or nearly 400 of the fathers of the town marched down the main street, carrying banners which announced their position. Their leaders, who happened to represent at least a half dozen denominations, presented themselves in the places of business that were under suspicion, and notified the proprietors that from that hour onward they were going to be watched. If they aroused any more suspicions, they would be hailed into court.

For years after that the liquor problem in that community was kept under strict control. It was because goodness had suddenly abandoned its passive, and had taken on an active mood.

FORMS OF FAITH

Concerning the nature of Christian faith there is a great deal of confusion. There are those who think they have faith because they believe certain doctrines. They are intellectually convinced that their doctrines are logical and true. And there is great need of such faith. Certainly Christian thinking ought to be subject to good logic and capable of an honest intellectual defense.

Then there are those who assume that faith is a willingness to walk out in defiance of the facts, and of such are the snake handlers.

One of the very necessary forms of faith in our modern world is the willingness to "believe" the truths of Christianity, and then set out to live as if they were true and that they will support us in the time of our need. Of this type of faith there is a great dearth in our modern world.

YOU HAVE TO DO IT

The wife of a young professional man who had started on the downgrade with his drinking was attempting to defend her husband. "He works for the bank," she said, "and he has to keep on good terms with the bank's clients. When they drink, he has to drink, or they would take their accounts somewhere else. You can't be different in a world like ours, just because you are a Christian"

And in that single sentence at the close of her argument, she put into plain words the basic reason for the ineffectiveness of the Church in this modern generation.

It is the business of every Christian to be different if he is in a godless and a debauched world.

Mr. Clarence Reeves, who has been a patient in the Kingston General Hospital for over three months, is progressing favorably.

Mrs. Clemos O'Coin, Moira Street, returned home from the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday. She is greatly improved in health.

Mrs. D. A. Rupert has returned from Toronto where she took a special course in beauty culture under the direction of feminine instructors at the Elizabeth Arden salon. The course included the correct application of cosmetics and salesmanship.

Conservation officer S. A. Shields, of Renfrew, has been transferred to Haliburton in the Lindsay district and promoted to deputy chief ranger. He has been a member of Tweed district staff for a number of years. Although he will have added responsibilities, fish and wildlife management and enforcement will form a major part of his work, his fellow workers claim.

A bake sale will be held in Tweed March 15, sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion.

The Kiwanis Club attended the morning services at St John's United Church on Sunday in a group. They were under the direction of Dr. W. A. Paul, who is chairman of "Support the Churches" committee of the club. Douglas Connor and David Farmer sang a duet during the service, which was conducted by the Rev. Douglas Louie.

Rev. W. K. Pace and Mrs. Pace visited many Tweed people in the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday, on their way to Napanee where Mr. Pace was conducting the anniversary services in the United Church there. On their return trip to Beaverton they called on friends in Tweed. Mr. Pace was pastor of St. John's United Church here for four years before going to Beaverton in 1957. Their son, Clarence Pace, is attending Western University this term.

Liberal Wants Many Changes in Liquor Laws

TORONTO (CP) — Arthur Reaume (L-Essex North) has called on Progressive Conservative members of the legislature to join a rebellion against the province's "old fashioned, antiquated, ridiculous and hypocritical liquor laws."

The former Windsor mayor Thursday told the legislature's committee on travel and publicity that "one man and one man only runs the liquor show in this province."

He did not name the man but later told reporters he was referring to Judge W. T. Robb, chairman of the liquor licence board.

"He shouldn't be the only man who decides our liquor laws—other people should have a voice," Mr. Reaume told the committee.

"We've got to stand together as a group regardless of party," he said to government supporters on the committee. "Stand up and be counted — you're not behind the Iron Curtain."

Albert Wren (Lib-Lab-Kenora) joined Mr. Reaume in his criticism, particularly in respect to the government's refusal to grant liquor licences to resort owners.

The committee unanimously recomemnded that a revolving fund be established by the government to lend money to tourist operators to enlarge and improve their facilities.

George C. Wardrope (PC-Port Arthur) who seconded the motion by Robert J. Boyer (PC-Muskoka), suggested $1,000,000 be put in the fund as a start.

Mr. Wardrope suggested the committee ask Judge Robb and William H. Collings, chief commissioner of the liquor control board, to appear at the next meeting.

Travel and Publicity Minister Cathcart said this would only confuse the main issue, which concerned money to enable resort owners to improve facilities.

Mr. Reaume said the loans are needed to help Ontario compete with Bermuda, Florida and Mexico.

Mr. Wren said:

"We might be getting more tourists but they are families. We're losing the men who have money and spend it. The money business—the big busine is going to be down this year.

"Tourists who spend $30 a day or more have to be content with second-class accommodation our stupid liquor laws don't allow operators to cater to them.

"The policy of this government is to sell all the booze it can. It does this by making it hard to get. Why should a person have to stock up on liquor in Kenora before leaving for a two-week vacation in the Lake of the Woods district?"

Mr. Wren pointed to the pay-later trips sponsored by Trans-Canada Air Lines and said:

"If a Crown corporation like this can set up a revolving fund so people can spend thousands outside the country, surely the province can set up a revolving fund for resort owners so they may encourage people to spend money in Ontario."

Board Approves New Reductions In Discount Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board approved new credit-easing reductions in discount rates Thursday while moves multipled in Congress to combat the current business recession.

The board gave its approval to a reduction in the discount rates of the New York, Philadelphia and Chicago federal reserve banks from 2¾ to 2¼ per cent, effective today.

In a new congressional attack on the recession, Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson called on the Senate to prod the Eisenhower administration into speeded-up military and civilian construction for the relief of "some 5,000,000 unemployed."

The Texas senator offered resolutions to put the Senate formally on record for acceleration of projects for which Congress already has provided funds he estimated at $5,700,000,000 as of last Dec. 31.

A number of Republicans as well as Democrats hastened to join his call.

Representative John McCormack of Massachusetts, the Democratic leader in the House, introduced similar resolutions in the House.

Committee Votes For Toronto To Pay Bill

TORONTO (CP) — The private bills committee of the Ontario legislature Thursday voted 14 to 11 in favor of empowering Toronto city council to pay $40,000 in damages and costs assessed against former mayor Allan Lamport in a libel action.

The committee defeated a motion which would have referred the issue to a vote of Toronto property owners.

Damages of $25,000 and costs of about $15,000 were assessed against Mr. Lamport in a libel action brought against him in 1954 by Toronto taxicab operator Thomas Ross. Mr. Lamport at the time was mayor and the action arose from remarks he made concerning issuing of taxi licences.

Mr. Lamport's appeal against the damages was dismissed last June by the Ontario Court of Appeal.

Palmer Kent, deputy city solicitor, said city council had voted 14 to 8 to ask for the legislation.

Thanks to Canadians everywhere, Chevrolet was again the best seller in 1957, by an even wider margin . . . and in 1958, the trend to Chevrolet has increased to a tidal wave of public approval. Never before has a new car, even a new Chevrolet, won so much praise . . . never before has it been so obviously true that there is no value like Chevrolet value.

Yes, this continuing leadership of Chevrolet is your proof of Chevy's overwhelming superiority. And the '58 Chevrolet goes far beyond even the great Chevrolet performers of the past.

This year, Chevrolet offers a host of new and incomparable features. For instance, there's a choice of two superb suspension systems, increased interior room for your all-round comfort and convenience, a choice of 6 or 8 cylinder engines, including the mighty Turbo-Thrust V8, and many, many extras that the other cars can't offer you.

Yes, you are always sure of the utmost value in Chevrolet — so, when you buy a new car, do what so many Canadians do . . . buy Chevrolet, the car with the most for you.

Canadians Face Stiff Test Today In Tough Czechoslovakian Team

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THIS IS THE NIGHT!

This is the night of the "one-two" game.

In other words, which ever team wins needs but one victory to cop the Eastern Senior "A" semi-finals series—and you can figure out the rest.

The odds favor the McFarlands. That 6-1 shellacking they gave the Kingtson CKLC's down in Roddenville the other night, has restored a somewhat shaky confidence. They proved and somewhat easily at that, that they can beat their down-east foemen right in their own backyard. Yet, by the same token, they should not forget that Kingston has proven the same thing.

However, after Wednesday night's smashing victory, the McFarlands are confident they can maintain their winning stride and take a three-two edge in the best-of-seven series tonight. They had all departments clicking the other night, their defensive work in killing off six penalties with no damage done being one of the highlights.

Michael J. Rodden will not like this, as hockey time is always open season on referees for the Hon. Senor Miguel, but Gerry Olinski, who gets his mail in Kitchener, and of late a lot of refereeing pay cheques down east, is one of the best arbiters to show his wares in this district this season.

Mr. Olinsky immediately gives notice to all and sundry that he is the referee and as such is the boss-man of the hockey game. Anyone who tries to argue with him otherwise sits out the dance for the next ten minutes. He is on top of the play and generally gets every misdemeanor, large or small.

We noted the other night in Kingtson that Olinski took time out during the game to give his Cornwall linesmen instructions. He officiated at the game here Tuesday night, was in Kingston Wednesday, hopped to Peterborough Thursday, and in all likelihood will be here again tonight. While here, Olinski designates Moe's Coffee Bar as his favorite eating place.

YOU CAN HELP

Young "Ab" Wright is the kind of a youngster you would like to call you "Dad." It seems a shame that a youngster of this type had to be the victim of one of those hazards of sport that happen rarely, but at that, too often.

As is well known now, Ab suffered a skull fracture during a hockey game in Trenton when his club, the Belleville Lambert-Rollins junior "B's" were playing the hometown Bear Cubs. The injury was purely accidental. No blame is attached to any player.

The young star was rushed to Toronto after an examination by Trenton physician Dr. Bailey, where he underwent surgery for the fracture after a period of observation. The operation was successful but Ab is still there under medical supervision, but on the slow road to recovery.

It is no strange fact to any one that hospital, medical and surgical expenses these days "come high." Young Wright was "covered" by team insurance to the amount of $500, but that will be absorbed practically in surgical expenses alone. Then there are medical, hospital and many other items that bring the costs to well over double figures.

Misfortune hit the Wright family in double doses. Mr. Wright, Ab's father, was stricken with a heart seizure during Ab's period of uncertainty, and later succumbed in hospital.

As was announced over the air and in this newspaper an "Ab Wright Fund" has been started. It is felt by the committee which consists of this writer, Jack Devine, "Red" Doran, Harry Rollins and Mel Richards, that sportsmen of the city will answer the appeal for funds to assist the young athlete and his family meet the heavy costs of injury and treatment.

Every cent donated will go toward the payment of the Wright bills. An official receipt, good for income tax purposes will be sent to each donor at the end of the campaign.

The names of donors, not the amounts, will be published in this column from time to time, possibly three times a week. The fund will be closed immediately the amount of the expenses necessary is obtained.

Potential contributors are requested to forward their donations to this writer or Messrs. Rollins, Doran and Devine. Mr. Doran has been named chairman of the committee while one of the Houston Lumber Company's secretaries will act as treasurer.

It is hoped that donors will act immediately. There are bills to be paid, and others accumulating.

It is noted in the Trenton Courier-Advocate that there is a possibility of a benefit hockey game being played in Trenton for Ab. This is a fine gesture, and if it materializes, should result in a nice amount for the injured youth.

Officiating Said 'Terrible' In Explosive Sweden Game; Dunnies Handed 13 Penalties

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OSLO, Norway (CP)—Canada, undisputed leader in the world hockey tournament after its explosive 10-2 victory over Sweden, faces tough Czechoslovakia at 11.30 a.m. EST today with the hope that the officiating — labelled by Canadian team manager Wren Blair as "terrible"—won't get worse.

The Canadians lead the eight-country round-robin tournament with four victories in four starts, the only nation left with a perfect mark. After the Czechs, they play the Americans and the Russians Saturday and Sunday.

The donnybrook with the Swedes Thursday cost Canada team honors as the club with the least penalties in the tournament. Now the Canadians from Whitby lead with 44 minutes.

REFEREES RAPPED

Officials and players on both sides felt the referees —a West German and a Russian—let the game get out of hand after the Canadians piled up an unbeatable lead with six goals in the first period.

Quiet prevailed through the second period when the Canadians got another goal but pandemonium broke loose in the third period after a huge Swedish defenceman fouled usually mild-mannered Jack McKenzie and the officials missed the infraction. One brawl after another followed and before the period ended 13 penalties had been handed out, with nine to the Canadians. Canada got 13 of the 19 penalties in the game.

"The officiating was terrible" said manager Blair, adding that he plans an official protest to J F. (Bunny) Ahearne, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation. "The referees are not giving the Canadians the protection they are entitled to. I'm not saying anything against the Swedes. They were out to win."

Sweden's team manager, Folke Jansson, also blamed the referees, Toni Neumaier of West Germany and Andrei Starovoitsov of Russia, for the trouble but he was not happy with the Canadian brand of hockey.

Jansson accused the Canadians of playing dirty and claimed: "They used a lot of dirty tricks, stick hooking, elbowing and so on."

CANADIAN VIEW

The Canadian players didn't see it that way.

McKenzie, the tournament's leading scorer with 11 goals, complained:

"I got a stick in the face and then a big Swedish elbow."

Player coach Sid Smith, who scored two goals against the Swedes, said some of his players were "elbowed, hooked and hit over the heads with sticks." Smith added: "The referees completely lost control of this match."

The Canadian win dropped Sweden out of the unbeaten and untied class into fourth place while the Canadians took over the top spot with eight points, one more than the Russians who had been tied once. The Czechs are third with two victories and two ties.

In other games of a full schedule the Russians swamped winless Poland 10-1, Czechoslovakia and the United States battled to a 2-2 tie and Finland won its first game of the tournament, 2-1 over Norway.

THREE GAMES TODAY

Today, three games are scheduled. In addition to the Canadian-Czech match which is expected to be interesting since the Czechs play nearest thing to Canadian-style hockey in Europe, the Russians and the Americans meet at 3 p.m. EST while Sweden took on the Poles in a morning match at 8 a.m. EST.

A lot could depend on the weather. A heavy snow could hamper the smooth stickhandlers on the Canadian and Russian sides.

The Russian - Polish game proved that Thursday. Russia had an 8-1 lead before a blizzard started. Then their first-class stickhandlers ran into trouble trying to push the puck through a heavy layer of snow on the ice in the outdoor Jordal Amfi Arena.

They managed two more goals both scored immediately after the rink was cleared midway through the final period.

The Canadians could have trouble against the Czechs if snow falls, for the Czechs have experience playing in snow at Jordal.

So far the Canadians have had good playing conditions. "But we have played on outdoor rinks since we came to Europe" said coach Smith, "and if we're not ready for changes in conditions now we never shall be."

Language Barrier Big Factor In World Tourney Discord

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OSLO, Norway (CP) — The referee whistled an offside and moved to face off at centre.

Two players skated up to him and asked a question.

The referee motioned them to take up their positions.

The players approached the other referee and repeated their questions.

Getting no reply, they shrugged their shoulders and allowed play to continue.

The incident occurred in Thursday's world hockey tournament game between Czechoslovakia and the United States, which ended in a 2-2 tie.

The players were Czech and the referees a Swede and an Anglo-Canadian.

Apart from the Czechs, not a soul in Jordal Amfi Stadium had the slightest idea what it was all about.

SEVEN LANGUAGES USED

Eight teams speaking seven different languages are involved in the current championships. And the tournament rules specify that referees handling all matches must come from "neutral" countries.

The Czech-U.S. game happened to be an uncontroversial draw, and nobody bothered to make an issue of the refereeing.

But things had been different a couple of hours earlier when the Canadians and the Swedes, fresh from 15 minutes of brawling in the closing stages of Whitby's 10-2 victory joined in abuse of the Russian and German officials.

Despite the notorious discrepancies between North American and European hockey rules, the language barrier undoubtedly creates more discord than differing interpretations of the rule book.

Few teams cross the Atlantic without a thorough briefing on the rules themselves, but the inability of players and referees to communicate invariably results in recriminations every time an official has to make a crucial decision.

The players' vain efforts to explain their position strike the watching crowds as bad sportsmanship, and are greeted accordingly.

In this tournament two sets of referees have been roasted—those handling Thursday's Canada-Sweden battle and the Czech and Polish pair in charge of Norway's turbulent set-to with the U.S. That's about par for the course.

All Provinces Except BC in Cup Playdowns

WINNIPEG (CP) — All four provinces and the Lakehead will contest Western Canada playoffs for the Allan Cup and all except British Columbia are in the chase for the Memorial Cup hockey crown.

The various leagues in all sections from the Lakehead west are winding up playoffs in preparation for provincial and interprovincial play leading to the senior and junior Canadian amateur hockey thrones.

In Allan Cup— Senior A— competition, six teams are still alive in British Columbia, two in Alberta and one each in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and the Lakehead.

Still in contention are Kamloops Chiefs and Kelowna Packers of the Okanagan Senior League; Nelson Maple Leafs, Rossland Warriors, Trail Smoke Eaters and Spokane Flyers of the Western International; Olds Elks and Red Deer Rustlers of the Central Alberta Intermediate League; Regina Caps who meet the Alberta winner; Winnipeg Maroons of the Manitoba Senior circuit, and Fort William Beavers, Thunder Bay winners.

MEMORIAL CUP

Memorial Cup competition has two Alberta teams, three from Saskatchewan, two from Manitoba and two from the Lakehead remaining.

They are Edmonton Oil Kings, Calgary Reps, Regina Pats, the defending champion Flin Flon Bombers, Prince Albert Mintos, St. Boniface Canadians, Winnipeg Monarchs, Fort William Canadiens and Fort William Hurricanes.

The Memorial Cup East-West final will be played in Eastern Canada this year, while the Allan Cup, won a year ago by Whitby Dunlops who now are representing Canada in the world championships, will be played in the west.

Chevies Dump Pembroke 6-2 To Square Series at Two All

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Left-winger Joe Malo of Sudbury Wolves has broken the spell Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen cast over his club early in the OHA-NOHA regular schedule.

In eight Kitchener-Sudbury league duels, the Flying Dutchmen won each time. And it appeared they might continue their domination in the playoffs. They won the first game Tuesday 8-2.

But spellbreaker Malo got to work Thursday night. He scored three times as the Wolves—minus regular goaltender Johnny Albani upset the Dutchmen 7-5 to tie the best-of-seven semi-final series 1-1.

EASTERNERS TIED

In the Ontario Hockey Association Eastern Senior "A" playoffs Cornwall Chevies dumped Pembroke Lumber Kings 6-2 to tie the best-of-seven semi-final series 2-2.

Malo, 23, first Sudbury player in five years to score 30 goals in season play, cracked in two second-period goals against Kitchener to put his squad ahead 4-3.

Jean Therrien, Jim Logan, Nick Tomiuk and Armand Lemiex scored the other Wolves' goals. Ken Luffman, with two, Butch Martin, Bill Flick and Jerry Theberge tallied for the Dutchmen.

Bob Mitchell, 26-year-old veteran who has played on and off in the NOHA during the last six years, was in goal for the Wolves. He replaced Albani, injured in the first game.

Third game in the series is at Sudbury tonight, with the fourth game at Kitchener Saturday.

NEVER IN DOUBT

Ron Muir and Reggie Grigg, with two goals each, paced the Chevies against Pembroke. The Lumber Kings, who finished third in the standings, trailed 4-0 in the first period and 4-1 in the second.

Ted Szydlowski and Neil Burke tallied the other Cornwall goals, Lionel Barber and Danny O'Connor replied for Pembroke.

The squads resume the series in Pembroke Saturday.

Major League First Basemen In Decline

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For some reason or other the calibre of major league first basemen seems to have deteriorated in the last couple of decades.

That's not a knock at such players as Stan Musial of St. Louis, Gil Hodges of Los Angeles, Joe Adcock of Milwaukee, Bill Skowron of New York or the others who have been doing a good job at that position.

It's just that baseball fans in the mid-1930s could point to [illegible] crackerjacks as Jimmy [illegible] Lou Gehrig, Hank Greenberg, Billy Terry, Johnny Mize, Phil Cavarretta, Hal Trosky and Joe Kuhel.

When Ted Kluszewski stepped down from a regular position to rest an ailing back last season it further diminished the ranks of the topflight first sackers.

But now Kluszewski says he'll "be ready" soon. And with hard-hitting youngsters Orlando Cepeda of the San Francisco Giants, Ron Jackson of the Chicago White Sox and Marv Throneberry of the Yankees all battling for big league jobs in spring training, it may be that the pendulum will swing the other way.

The Pirates can use Kluszewski's power. The game's celebrated muscle man has hit 251 homers in 11 big league seasons and has a lifetime batting average of .302.

SAILER TAKES CHANCE

ST. ANTON, Austria (AP) — Austria's Toni Sailer, three-time Olympic ski champion, said Thursday he will begin making a movie next week although his participation in the film may mean the loss of his amateur status. "I am convinced that the International Skiing Association will rule it is not a violation of the amateur rules", he said.

Ontario-Alberta Battle Marks Curling Tournament

Manitoba Kids Set Stage For Possible Three-Way Tie And Playoff for Top Honors

By ERWIN FRICKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP) — Winnipeg's curling teen-agers who gave Matt Baldwin such a bad scare in the second round could be back again to haunt the Alberta skip before the 1958 Canadian curling championship is decided.

The Manitoba kids helped set the stage for that possibility Thursday night by defeating Ontario 13-7 in the ninth round. It gave them a 6-2 record, the same as Ontario's, in the 11-round, round-robin tournament.

An important cog in this wheel of chance is that same Ontario rink for skip Murray Roberts's crew from Unionville, a Toronto suburb, today meets the kingpin of the whole business—Baldwin, who carries a 7-1 record into the final two rounds.

[illegible] Ontario beats Alberta, all three rinks could end up with eight wins and two losses and a playoff would result.

OTHER PAIRINGS

Besides the Ontario - Alberta tilt the other pairings today sent Manitoba against Nova Scotia; Northern Ontario met Newfoundland; British Columbia faced Quebec and Saskatchewan took on New Brunswick.

Saskatchewan posed the playoff possibility by dumping Alberta 11-8 in Thursday's seventh round for Baldwin's first loss in the last 17 games he has played in Canadian curling championships. A win would have tied him with Billy Walsh of Winnipeg for the most consecutive games won in championship play.

Manitoba gave Baldwin a scare early in the tournament by piling up a 6-0 lead in two ends but he came back for a 13-11 victory. The eighth round provided no upsets. Manitoba beat Newfoundland 15-6; B.C. trounced New Brunswick 15-6; Saskatchewan defeated Northern Ontario 13-9; Alberta beat Quebec 12-4 and Ontario defeated Prince Edward Island 9-6.

B.C. WINS

Saskatchewan had a relapse Thursday night after performing so spectacularly against Baldwin. B.C. skip Tony Gutoski had things his own way for a 14-6 victory over the wheat province foursome.

In other ninth-round games, Alberta downed Newfoundland 10-5 P.E.I. trounced Nova Scotia 17-5 and Quebec edged Northern Ontario 9-8.

The P.E.I. victory, the islanders' fifth, is their best showing since they began to compete in the championship in 1939.

Although Ontario's chances were not considered too good against Baldwin, many observers who have followed the Alberta skip's play during the last few years said his game here was not up to the standard he showed in winning the championship at Kingston last year.

Ontario looked weak in losing to the young Manitoba crew Thursday night and its 11-6 loss to Quebec in the fourth round cost it considerable prestige.

Prince Edward Island, with four straight wins, gave Ontario a battle down to the wire, playing a deadly hitting game, the two rinks were tied going home but Roberts had the advantage of last shot.

Skip Doug Cameron with his last shot had nailed a lovely draw against an Ontario rock at the edge of the four-foot ring. But Roberts, 29 year - old lefthander, slammed it on the nose for a perfect takeout to count three.

Ontario, Quebec Big Sources Of National Hockey League

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Pick the name of any National Hockey League player at random. Chances are three to one he's from Ontario or Quebec.

Of the current 105 regular players Ontario has produced 53 and Quebec 24, outdistancing the other provinces and of course, other countries.

Western Canada was the birthplace of 26 players and the Maritimes 22. A breakdown shows Saskatchewan with 11, Manitoba eight, Alberta seven and one each from Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

From the Maritimes, New York Rangers have centre Parker MacDonald of Sydney, N.S., and Detroit Red Wings' centre Forbes Kennedy is from Charlottetown.

ECONOMICS FACTOR

The only two players in the league born outside Canada are also members of New York Rangers. Defenceman Jack Evans is a native of Garnant, Wales, and right winger Gerry Foley was born in Ware, Mass. Both moved to Canada at an early age.

President Clarence Campbell of the NHL srays the dominance by Ontario and Quebec is not merely [illegible] result of their larger population.

"The two provinces have far more youngsters than other areas to draw on for hockey talent, but it appears there are also economic factors involved" he said in an interview.

"I'm convinced severe economic conditions produce an abundance of hockey players. In hard times, when jobs are scarce, hockey is a medium for youths with the necessary skills to earn good money.

"A decade or two ago, before the oil boom and the relatively high measure of agricultural stability in Western Canada, we had a lot of good hockey players coming out of the Prairies."

WEST FLOURISHING

Does that mean that hockey is dying out in the West now?

"Definitely not," said Campbell. "Curling has cut sharply into the game, but hockey is still flourishing. Admittedly, there are fewer players of professional calibre from there at present. But in previous years the high number was away out of proportion."

Campbell said the United States will likely send more players to the NHL when cheaper refrigeration methods are developed, lowering construction costs for artificial rinks in areas that have little or no cold weather.

In cities—Montreal leads as a production centre with 12 players. Winnipeg and Fort William, Ont., follow with six each while Toronto has four and Hamilton three.

The Ontario total is distributed among 36 communities most of them in the northern section of the province.

Montreal Canadiens have taken best advantage of homebrew talent, assembling a team that general manager Frank Selke calls the "strongest in reserve power" since he became connected with the organization in 1946.

The Canadiens' roster includes 14 players born in the Montreal area and only four outsiders — defencemen Tom Johnson of Baldur, Man., and Bob Turner of Regina, and left winger Bert Olmstead of Sceptre, Sask., and right winger Floyd Curry of Chapleau, Ont.

DeJOHN DRAWS VALDES

SYRACUSE N. Y. (AP) — Cuban heavyweight Nino Valdes will meet unranked Mike DeJohn in a 10-round nationally televised boxing bout here April 23. DeJohn shot into the limelight last fall by scoring a first-round knockout of previously unbeaten Alex Miteff of Argentina.

Juniors Shake Off Veterans In Badminton Championships

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP) — With junior players running rampant through the official predictions, it remained for the older players to introduce an element of stability in Thursday's action in the Canadian badminton championships.

The juniors disposed of ranking players at almost every turn as they plunged towards the finals.

The seniors took it easy during the daytime after Wednesday's hectic opening day, then went their semi-finals in the evening with only one upset. Toronto's Bev Westcott, 32, fell before Bill Boney of Montreal, just two years out of junior ranks, in a marathon match that ended 18-17, 10-15, 15-7.

All hands take a rest today from their championship competition as consolation events take over. In the evening, the juniors and seniors go through their finals while the semi-finals will be held in the men's and women's singles and doubles and the mixed doubles.

The chamionship ends Saturday with finals in all five open competitions.

Bespectacled Jim Carnwath of Woodstock, seeded second behind Dave McTaggart of Vancouver, eliminated an upstart from the junior ranks, 18-year-old Ed Hreljac of Creighton Mines, Ont., 6-15, 15-4, 15-5. After taking the first set to master the style that put Hreljac in the junior finals, Carnwath used canny precision to overcome the youngster's mature game.

The women's semi-finals will feature the three top-seeded players and a former champion. Mrs. Kae Grant of Montreal, Marj Shedd of Toronto and Jean Miller of Montreal, ranked in that order, took convincing victories in quarter-final matches.

Mrs. Jean Folinsbee of Calgary, who as Jean Waring was singles champion in 1955, ousted veteran Mrs. Clare Lovett of Vancouve 6366, 11-5, 11-3.

The junior men's event saw defending chahpion Harvey Hurd, a wide-shouldered 18-year - old from Victoria, eliminated in the quarter-finals by Lane Bickle, 15, of Calgary. Bickle went on to beat his semi - final opponent, Wayne Macdonnell of Montreal, to reach the finals with Hreljac.

A Maritime hopeful, 17-year-old John Macdougall of Saint John, N.B., combined his hefty size with control and power to reach the semi-finals where he was eliminated by Hreljac in a gripping battle, 13-15, 15-9, 15-12.

The girls' competition turned up even more surprises. Three of the four top - seeded players—Barbara Coutts of Montreal, Judy Borland of Winnipeg and Marg Naylor of Toronto—were bumped out in the semi-finals. When the upsets were over, defending champion Anne Murray, 17, of Winnipeg was paired off with unseeded Jane Lee of Victoria in tonight's final.

Results included:

Consolation women's singles, first round

Marie Barbe, Creighton Mines, defeated Judy Jarvis, Toronto, 11-5, 12-11.

Consolation mixed doubles, first round:

Joy Campbell and Dave Thompson, both Winnipeg, defeated Marie Barbe and Ed Hreljac, both Creighton Mines, by default.

Women's junior singles, second round:

Anne Murray, Winnipeg, defeated Marie Barbe, Creighton Mines, 11-2, 11-3.

Men's junior singles, quarter finals:

Ed Hreljac, Creighton Mines, defeated Dennis McDermott, Calgary, 15-6, 15-7.

Consolation women's singles, quarter-finals:

Marie Barbe, Creighton Mines, defeated Marg Benson, Toronto, by default.

Men's doubles, quarter-finals:

Ed Hedley and Bob Hunt, both Victoria, defeated Dave Thompson, Winnipeg, and Ed Hreljac, Creighton Mines, Ont., 9-15, 15-4, 15-9.

On the Tracks

HALLANDALE, Fla. (AP) — Grey Monarch, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, made his second start as a three-year-old a victorious one as he edged Rockmoore Thursday in a 6½-furlong allowance race at Gulfstream Park.

Although he ran sixth in his 1958 debut a week ago, Grey Monarch was made the favorite. He returned $3.80 for $2.

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Ten colts were formally entered Thursday for the 21st running of the $100,000 added Santa Anita Derby Saturday, topped by the stretch - running sensation, Silky Sullivan, and Old Pueblo.

There were no major surprises when the entry box closed for the mile and one-eighth feature.

Named to race against the two outstanding California Derby hopefuls were The Shoe, McTavish, Sabredale, Allwar, Carrier X, Furyvan, Harcall and Martins Rullah.

Imposts for all are 118. Gross value of the race will be $130,500, with $83,400 net to the winner, if all 10 start.

Quebec Hockey

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (CP) — Montreal Royals scored four times in the third period to earn a 5-5 tie with Shawinigan Cataracts Thursday night in a Quebec Hockey League game that included a scoreless overtime frame.

Goals by John Kowalchuk, his second of the game, and Cec Hoekstra, Gene Achtymichuk and Ernie Roche squared the count for the Royals.

Jean Paul Denis counted twice for the Cataracts. Al Johnson, Dick Wray and Gerry Desaulniers scored the other goals.

The tie advanced the Royals into a third-place deadlock with Quebec Aces, 12 points back of the second-place Cataracts.

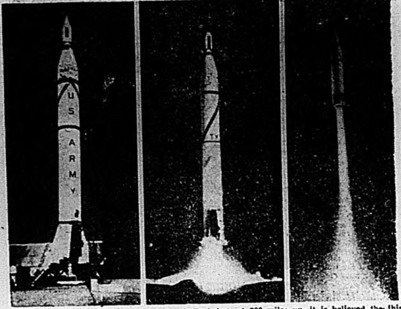
FEAR EXPLORER II FAILED TO REACH ORBIT SPEED



Hours after the second Jupiter-C missile carried the second U. S. satellite up into space, no signals were heard and missilemen fear that the Explorer II did not go into orbit. The firing of the satellite, above, at Cape Canaveral, Fla., appeared perfect to observers, but, at 200 miles up, it is believed the third stage rocket did not fire and, instead of reaching the 18,000 mph speed necessary to fly around the earth, the Explorer may have fallen into the ocean. Some missilemen believe the satellite is in orbit but its radio is not sending out signals.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was smoking in back of his paper, and ma said, William, can you spare a minute from the news to give me a suggestion for a berthday present for a woman who has everything?

Certainly, pop said. Give her cash. Nobody has enough money, he said, and ma said, Now William, if I sent her a check big enough to make an impression on her overflowing bank account, we would be in debt far into the foreseeable future.

I withdraw the suggestion, pop said. You'll have to use your imagination. FFor instance if I had to send a present to a man, I'd know, whoever he is, that he has not got a magnetized ash tray that follows him around the house like a faithful dog, he said, and ma said, Just tell me where I can find one and you'll have it yourself in the next mail. Lorra Dinkers doesn't need any kind of an ash tray. She's a smokeless widow, ma said.

Has she got a silver handled umberella with a collapsible lipstick? pop said, and ma said, I'm sure she would if there was any sutch a thing.

Has she got a musical scale that plays a funerel martch every time she is an ounce over wait? pop said, and ma said, William you've solved my problem.

How, for Peet sake? pop said, and ma said, I'll call her up and congradulate her for looking positively slim the last time I saw her, and then I'll simply add happy berthday, and she'll feel more grateful to me than to all her rich frends put together.

And she began to sing to herself and started her bridge problem.

ARGUE FINANCING

The session's first night sitting produced a running argument over the Government's debt policies, its practice of dividing the budget into capital and ordinary expenditures and its custom of bringing down supplementary estimates at the end of the fiscal year.

John J. Wintermeyer (L — Waterloo North and Ross Whicher (L — Bruce) criticized Premier Frost for permitting the province's debt to rise another $100,000,000 bringing it to $350,000,000.

The premier was estimating that 50 to 60 per cent of capital expenditure would come out of ordinary account in the future, but this was in the expectation of rising revenues. It was unlikely revenues would continue to rise.

Mr. Wintermeyer said a year ago the Premier said 65 per cent of capital expenditures would be paid from ordinary account. But in the current fiscal year it was only 45 per cent and in the year ahead it would be 39.5 per cent.

MAY CEASE TO BE

Jean-Charles Falardeau, director of Laval's sociology faculty, told a public meeting called in Quebec by Laval students after the first day's boycott that if statutory grants are not provided, true universities may cease to exist in Quebec.

He told the crowd of 500 attending the orderly meeting that the cause of the students is equally the cause of the professors.

They are working, he said, "to obtain, for now and the future universities assured of the regular resources they need, resources which should be available to them as statutory grants and not discretionary gifts."

A rally scheduled for Thursday night for the public and some of the 15,000 students attending the three Montreal universities was called off at the last minute.

Buildings where it was first planned to be held were twice ruled unsuitable by city inspectors. The unfavorable inspections brought protests from six city councillors.

Student President Louis Donolo of McGill said:

"The extensive coverage by the press of the student boycott of lectures has certainly made the public well aware of the problems that exist concerning education in this province . . .

"If necessary a meeting will be held at some future date, if a suitable place is available."

While Liberals "have been talking," Mr. Diefenbaker said, "we've been working." Canada's trade deficit with the U.S. last year had been cut by almost $300,000,000 and the Conservative program of increase trade with Britain had been getting results.

From Montreal, Mr. Pearson said the Liberal government that fell last June didn't grant tax cuts last spring because at that time the country was suffering from inflation. Tax cuts would have made things worse.

But things changed later in the year after the Conservatives took office. It was then that the tax cuts should have been granted, said Mr. Pearson, who has promised $400,000,000 in tax reductions if his party is elected to the government.

He said it is "folly" for the Conservatives to propose switching $600,000,000 worth of import buying from the United States to Britain when this would give "extra ammunition" to Washington protectionists seeking higher tariffs on Canadian goods. The Liberals stood for expansion, not diversion or restriction, of trade.

Mr. Coldwell, travelling from Vancouver to open in Edmonton today, was heard Thursday night in a recorded radio speech. He said the only way to ensure control of Parliament will rest with the people is to elect a CCF government.

NORTHERN ROADS

In a TV broadcast from Winnipeg Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton described Conservative plans for a grid of access roads to be built across the Far North to tap vast mineral resources there.

One would start near Flat Creek in the central Yukon and run north-east to Aklavik, near the mouth of the Mackenzie River in the Northwest Territories. A second would connect the north shore of Great Slave Lake with Port Radium and northeastward to Coppermine on Coronation Gulf. Eventually the Mackenzie Valley would be connected by road to Eskimo Point on Hudson Bay.

At Fort William, former Liberal fisheries minister James Sinclair said Canadian exporters of fish, lumber, base metals and paper face serious threats of retaliation tariffs as a result of the Diefenbaker policy of diverting trade to Britain.

Mr. Knowles said at Summerside, P.E.I., that Prime Minister Diefenbaker "thinks the government of Canada is his government." He had spoken the day Parliament was dissolved but no one else had been given a chance to speak.

Postmaster - General William Hamilton said in Montreal that the Conservative government has "brought more of benefit to the average Canadian citizen (in its seven months in office) than the previous administration (did) in any four - year period of his history."

Chestnut Meets Gomes Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — It was only a couple of years ago that Ike Chestnut was a hungry, eager fighter hollering for the big break.

Tonight in Madison Square Garden it will be the other way around for the 26-year-old Chestnut, now the fourth - ranking featherweight contender. He meets Harold Gomes, a 24-year-old puncher from Providence, R.I., in the televised 10-rounder.

Although Gomes is not a ranking fighter, Chestnut is only an 11-10 favorite.

Winner of 13 of his last 14 bouts, Gomes has an impressive outs.

Russ Tamblyn Called Up When Career at Its Peak

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Young Russ Tamblyn bears the distinction of being tapped by Oscar and the army at the same time.

Recently the actor won an academy nomination for his supporting performance in Peyton Place. Almost simultaneously he received notice to report for military duty March 24.

This seemed like cruel timing, since the academy awards are handed out March 26. In view of this, Tamblyn's induction was postponed four days.

"I'm not complaining," Tamblyn said, "but it did come at a tough time. I'm 23 and I've been in this business 11 years. I feel as though I'm finally getting somewhere with my career. I'm at my peak, so to speak, for the first time, producers are coming to me with pictures to do.

GONE TWO YEARS

"Now I'll be gone for two years, and I'll lose all the impetus that I have gained."

He came to MGM as a green, amazingly talented kid who could do most anything — act, sing, dance tumble. As a result, the studio didn't seem to know what to do with him. He was put into a variety of roles and proved himself an expert performer.

But his age was against him. Until recently studios didn't know what to do with players in their teens and early 20s. Now surveys indicate that a great percentage of movie goers today are under 23, and young talent is coming into its own.

The real break - through for Russ came with Peyton Place, which proved he is a sensitive actor as well as an entertainer.

He lives alone, dates occasionally, but spends much of his time by himself. I asked him what he does for kicks.

"All kinds of things," he replied. "Until recently, I had a house at the beach and I had everything there I wanted. I play the piano and drums, I do sculpture and I write. My life was so busy that I almost regretted leaving to go to the studio."

The army, of course, will change his way of life, and he isn't looking forward to it.

Helen Hayes Will Present Broadway Hit on Television

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Why did Helen Hayes elect to present her Broadway hit, Mrs. McThing, to the television audience via Omnibus (NBC-TV) this coming Sunday rather than make it a week-night spectacular?

"A spectacular is just what I didn't want Mrs. McThing to be," Miss Hayes said. "I didn't want it to get pompous.

Omnibus is as close to good theatre as television has ever gotten. It's the one group of people working in television who don't patronize the viewer. I feel at home and happy there, and that's why I'm glad to be making my seventh appearance on the program."

AT THE BELLE — Warner Bros. filmization of James Michener's story, "Sayonara", nominated for 10 Academy Awards, including Marlon Brando for the Best Actor of the Year, and Red Buttons for the Best supporting actor. Photographed in gorgeous color and Technirama, boasts a large cast of favorite stars. "Sayonara", is playing tonight and Saturday at the Belle.

EARLY ENTHUSIAST

When television was in its infancy Miss Hayes was a constant viewer. "I think nearly everyone was," she said. "I remember that Ben Hecht, who lived down the street from us, said he wouldn't buy a set, but he'd come to our house and we'd sit for hours glued to that magic box. We'd look at anything and everything.

"That no longer is the case with me and I think it's true of many other people. I've become more and more selective in what I watch. And I'm beginning to feel that many television programs think they have to condescend to the public taste as something different from a 'special' taste.

"I don't believe there is such a thing as a 'special' taste. My whole policy throughout my career has been that there is not. I believe that my entertainment tastes are normal and I feel confident that if I like something it will appeal to the public."

CYCLES OF NOVELTY

Miss Hayes recalled that both the movies and radio went through a cycle of novelty, satiation and selectivity such as is happening with television. And, like the movies and radio, television constantly tries to imitate its popular successes.

"One thing succeeds and then 20 follow it in imitation," she said. "Last year there were a couple of successful westerns on television, and this year how many dozen are there?" She grimaced. "And as for those singing shows"

Then, smiling, she added, "It's just too bad that more programs don't try to imitate Omnibus."

She has found that television is interesting a large audience in the legitimate theatre and she is enthusiastic about the medium as "a wonderful training ground for young actors and actresses. It gives them a variety of roles and a continuity of working. In the theatre you can sit around for a year doing one little thing or maybe nothing, but television enables sustained performances."

Above all, Miss Hayes emphasized "the magic of those little people you see on a television set the utter fantasy of television itself."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

MARCH 7th

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Much conservation with associates, friends, business persons, or even competition, will result in cementing better relations throughout. P. M. avoid getting into argument with closest partner or things go very badly for you.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — By being amenable today you are in a position to make your existence far more pleasant and happy. Wear a smile when things look dark, give when you are not too affluent, and many blessings will be yours. P. M. avoid that temptation.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —Repair to barber or beauty shop early. Then have luncheon with some good friend, or conduct business affairs in charming surroundings, where good food is plentiful. Tonight, economize, be content with simple pleasures.

Moon-Children (June 22 to July 21) — Your abode requires more life, so start adding the touches that brighten it up, buy new recordings, art pieces, invite charming guests in. P.M. take care to avoid altercation with someone who would ruin things altogether.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Let the day be productive by collecting what is owed you, showing detailed reports to right parties, proving your efficiency, gaining new friends by giving deserved praise, etc. P. M. don't let scrappy fellow worker spoil your evening.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — If you have neglected to put your home in such order that others will be favorably impressed, as well as your own enjoyment and pride being involved likewise, this is the right time to get at it. Pronto!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Here is an ideal day to think of yourself mainly, your interests, and close friends. Be expansive with all, talk over corporate interests and goals, and get deserved admiration. P. M. avoid quarreling at abode.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— Spending much time today going over your exact financial and social position without giving others an inkling of state of affairs is productive to right solutions to all your problems. P. M. bring flowers or candy to sweetheart.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A dear comrade today unstintingly gives you aid you need plus needed affection. Go about your affairs secretly and all will be well. Tonight, take care not to boast about the price of things bought. It is in bad taste.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — There is a possibility of completing all the work of precision in connection with your special profession and thereby make a fine impression on one at the top. P. M. avoid giving in to your driving emotional force.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A new attitude and more efficient methods imminently possible to you today in whatever fascinates you. Dig into research work with thoroughness for best results, but maintain high ethical level. Tonight, leave worries behind.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Get into the so-called silence today and listen to your intuitive faculties for they have much of importance to relay to your conscious mind. Then attend to business, money affairs. P.M. misunderstandings possible. Be loyal to friends.

If your child is born today . . The lovely child born today is the type who will be so attractive to others that he or she will draw everyone that your progeny's character may be built up properly. Teach also the love of work for its own sake and guaranteed security. Splendid horoscope for precision work, the arts, medicine, etc.

Three Tots Slain Near Montreal, Mother Is Held

Police Say Children Attacked With Hammer

ILE STE. THERESE, Que. (CP)—The mother of three infant girls slain Friday in this peaceful hamlet has been taken to Montreal for questioning by provincial police.

Mariel Lapalme, 27, was first treated for cuts to her arms at a hospital in nearby St. Johns. Police said she suffered the cuts accidentally.

Police were notified of the slayings at about 4 p.m. by the woman's brother-in-law, Roger Lapalme, who discovered one of his tiny nieces dead and the other two near death.

Emile Lapalme, 39, the father, was at work as a carpenter in St. Johns.

Three - year - old Ginette and eight - month - old Lorraine died shortly after they were taken to hospital. Claudette, 2, was already dead.

KNIFE, HAMMER USED

Police said they had been attacked with a knife and hammer.

Provincial police from Montreal drove here to investigate and Mrs. Lapalme accompanied them on their return.

Ile Ste. Therese is a community on an island separating the Richelieu River and the Chambly Canal. It is three miles from St. Johns and about 20 miles southeast of Montreal.

Most of the homes are the summer residences of Montrealers. There are few winter residents.

Asks Refund For Trousers Which He Stole

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—A man walked into a store here and demanded a $27 refund for three pairs of trousers.

William Lundy, 55, landed in jail. He had stolen the trousers from the store, police said.

Convinced Man Needs Treatment For Illness

CLINTON (CP) — A verdict was expected today in the court martial of AC2 George Morrice of Medicine Hat, Alta., charged with setting a $46,000 fire in the barracks at the RCAF station here Feb. 3.

Two witnesses testified Friday in the final day of hearings that Morrice, 18, is suffering from a type of mental illness.

Dr. B. E. Pivnick of London, a psychiatrist, told the court he believes Morrice is a schizophrenic and a pyromaniac. He said he is convinced Morrice needs treatment "under some sort of close control."

Wing Cmdr. Albert Veitch, an air force psychiatrist, testified Morrice is suffering from psycho neurosis. He said persons with blackouts often are found to have dual personalities but added he believes Morrice is not insane.

Morrice told the court he had a blackout while on fire picket the morning of the fire but could not remember making a written confession submitted as evidence.

In the confession attributed to him by the prosecution, Morrice said he found a match in a washroom while making his rounds and set fire to a pile of papers.

He denied making the statement and testifiet he could recall making his rounds but the lapse of memory covered the period during which the fire was started.

Morrice testified earlier in the court martial that he had started a prairie fire at a scout camp in 1953 and a garage fire in 1957. Under cross examination Friday he testified that he could now only remember setting fire to his neighbor's garage.

Assails View Exercise Past Forty Is Bad

TORONTO (CP) — A United States physical fitness expert Friday night criticized "insidious teaching" which says a man must stop physical exercise when he reaches 40.

Dr. T. K. Cureton of the University of Illinois, member of the White House committee on physical fitness, told a YMCA meeting a man can be trained through exercise to improve his blood circulatory system and can be trained "away from coronary attacks."

He criticized the "sugar-coated" exercise provided by such activities as bowling.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Skies were mainly clear overnight except in Eastern Ontario along the Ottawa Valley. Temperatures generally are ranging in the 20s throughout the lower lakes and between 5 above and 10 below in Northern Ontario.

A series of weak storms which brought heavy rainfalls to the gulf states as yet has not affected the Great Lakes. There will be cloud and perhaps a light snowfall tonight in southwestern Ontario as one of these storms begins to pass over Tennessee, but elsewhere little change is expected.

Premier Frost Promises Review Of Procedures

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost has promised a review of expropriation procedures in Ontario.

"Probably there are some things that should be done in expropriation to make sure the rights of our citizens are protected," he told the legislature Friday.

Attorney General Roberts would investigate the whole question, including compensation and individual rights.

The premier's assurance was given as the House passed two private bills granting limited expropriation powers to Queen's University in Kingston and full powers to Waterloo College.

QUEEN'S BILL OPPOSED

The second bill was without opposition but when the Queen's bill, involving expropriation of 11 Kingston homes sought for an expansion program, was before the private bills committee Feb. 25 it was passed by a 14-to-11 vote which saw Progressive Conservative members split down the middle.

Opposition to expropriation was expressed by government supporters in the House discussion Friday.

"It is my opinion that such powers should be restricted to elected bodies," said party whip William Murdoch (PC-Essex South).

Herd of Buffalo Lost, Hippo Found, Champ Steer's Beef Stays Unground

NEW YORK (AP)—Animals in the news: A herd of buffalo disappears . . . a champion steer heads home . . . a lioness claws her trainer . . . a hippopotamus is found.

Around Pueblo Colo., they're still searching for a herd of buffalo which walked off a ranch when someone left a gate open. Despite a land and air search, still missing are a ton-size bull, two other bulls, and four heifers.

A happier tale took place in San Antonio, Tex., with Rowdy, the grand champion steer, heading home to Indiana instead of winding up as beef steaks and stew. Rowdy, champion of the San Antonio livestock show, was bought by a firm which gave him to Boys Town, Neb. The town officials decided to raffle off Rowdy and realized some $3,000.

H. E. Miertschin of San Antonio, who won Rowdy on a dollar donation, heard how heartbroken Patricia Ann Meade was. Patricia Ann, 18, of Camden, Ind., had raised Rowdy. So Miertschin agreed to sell Rowdy to the girl's father for about $280. Charles Meade, the father, said Rowdy is going to spend the rest of his life just telling bull stories.

In Deland, Fla., the story of a hippo who got away from the Clyde Beatty Circus headquarters took on some aspects of a press agent's dream. Floyd King circus general agent, said Otto, a four-ton male hippo, was lured back from the banks of the St. Johns River by a bag of bread.

But Paul Ferguson, staff reporter for the Daytona Beach News-Journal, said he found only a female hippo, Waubaby, at the circus grounds. He said circus hands told him Waubaby strayed during the night and was found Friday morning only about 200 yards from her pen.

King—who told of a search by plane, horseback, and on foot—stuck to his story.

On the grim side Friday, animal trainer Pat Anthony was clawed by a lioness as he put his big cats through their act at the Kansas City, Mo. police circus. Surgeons worked nearly three hours to close wounds with 100 stitches. Released from the hospital, Anthony was introduced to circus spectators at Friday night's performance, then returned to his hotel to recuperate.

TWO AIR CRASHES KILL THIRTY IN OKINAWA, EGYPT

Two Others Missing In Another Collision

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two mid-air collisions and a crash in a sandstorm possibly killed more than 30 persons in widely - separated air disasters Friday.

The worst crash was caused by a mid - air collision over the United States Pacific island base of Okinawa between a U.S. Marine transport plane and a fighter-bomber. Twenty-six persons were presumed dead.

An Egyptian airliner en route from Athens to Cairo crashed near Port Said, killing eight persons and injuring 18, while attempting to land in a desert sandstorm.

Two French naval aircraft collided over the Mediterranean while on a flight from the naval base at Bizerte, in Tunis. One airman was picked up in the sea this morning and two others are missing.

The marine transport carrying 25 persons and a single-seat marine fighter-bomber collided as they were preparing to land on Okinawa and plunged into the ocean as "a ball of fire."

BODIES SIGHTED

Navy search parties recovered three bodies today and sighted other bodies amid debris and wreckage in the water.

The planes were an R-4Q, the marine version of the C-119 Flying Boxcar, with 19 passengers and a crew of six, and an AD-5 attack fighter-bomber. They were returning from a U.S.-Philippine amphibious manoeuvre in The Philippines.

The Egyptian plane was reported to have had tried to land at both Cairo and Port Said airports, but both were closed by the worst sandstorm in recent years.

Running low on fuel, the pilot apparently tried a forced landing in the marshy Lake Manzala area southwest of Port Said. The plane was reported destroyed and of the crew, presumably all Egyptians, only the stewardess survived.

The French Navy said one survivor of the mid-air Mediterranean crash had been picked up, and search vessels were hopeful of finding the two other airmen involved. The rescued French Air Force lieutenant indicated that the two pilots survived the crash and might be found.

Girl, 7, Finds Body of Woman In Gravel Pit

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP)—A seven-year-old girl Friday found the snow-covered body of a woman lying in a gravel pit near here.

Diane Holman, on an errand for a neighbor, saw a hand sticking through the snow.

Police declined to release the name of the woman, aged about 35. Foul play was indicated.

This pooch walked up to the dais when Queen Mother Elizabeth of Britain visited Sydney university in Australia. The dog made a reasonable facsimile of a curtsey but, when the Queen Mother put out her hand to pat the animal, it kept on going.

Pearson Gets Long-Range Support From St. Laurent

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson got some long - range support Friday night from his predecessor, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent.

Mr. St. Laurent, former prime minister, is on holiday at Miami, Fla., but he sent a telegram to Mr. Pearson at Quebec City. It was read at the conclusion of the Liberal chieftain's campaign meeting there.

Mr. St. Laurent said in the telegram: "I am convinced that the province of Quebec and all of Canada really and truly need a Liberal government under your leadership in order to assure our country of a return to prosperity, national unity and world peace."

At Edmonton, CCF Leader Coldwell injected defence policy as an issue in the March 31 election campaign.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker opened a final 10 - day western tour with a speech at Steinbach, Man., in which he defended the government's farm price supports legislation, passed by the last Parliament.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, was in his Peace River riding.

Mr. Pearson, speaking in French and English before an audience of more than 1,000, said the Liberal party has never had to "bribe" Quebec for its votes because in the last 70 years two of the party's four leaders were Quebeckers.

The time has come, he said, for a distinctive national flag around which all Canadians could rally and which would remind the world "we constitute a sovereign and independent nation."

Mr. Pearson pledged to continue the policies of Mr. St. Laurent.

Mr. Pearson's successor as external affairs minister, Sidney Smith, also spoke in Quebec City.

He said Canada has an important role to play as an international referee and the Progressive Conservtive government offered French-speaking Canadians a chance to do their part.

French Assembly Approves Intensifying War in Algeria

PARIS (AP) — Despite deep-seated parliamentary discontent with France's Algerian policy, the National Assembly voted Friday night to intensify the war against the Algerian rebels.

On a vote of confidence in Premier Felix Gaillard's government, the assembly approved, 286 to 147, his revised military budget of $,300,000,000,000 francs (more than $3,000,000,000).

Only a few deputies besides the Communists were willing to go on record against the war budget, but 160 deputies were absent or abstained, so the vote of approval was by a minority of the assembly.

The new budget cuts some 95,-000,000,000 francs ($226,000,000) from other military needs to increase spending in Algeria. Within the limits of a strained national budget, Gaillard told the deputies, "we are giving an absolute priority to the needs of pacification (in Algeria)." But, he said, there was no money available for transfer from non-military budgets.

The additional military funds will be used to add 28,000 troops to forces conducting the war, now in its fourth year. The additions will bring to 375,000 soldiers the French ground force in Algeria, where another 125,000 airmen and sailors are stationed.

With an increasingly vocal minority of the Socialist party protesting support for any government which does not seek a negotiated settlement in Algeria, former premier Guy Mollet barely managed to keep the 90 Socialist deputies in line. His argument was that this is no time to desert Gaillard, thus bringing him down and leaving France without leadership.

Killed Crossing Road

OSHAWA (CP) — Edward Nixon 71, of Dunbarton was killed Friday night when struck by a car as he crossed Highway 401. Police said he had been visiting his daughter and was attempting to cross against traffic.

Firemen's Play Ends as Chief's House Burns

HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, N.J. (AP)—Fire Chief August C Herkert raised the curtain on the fire department's annual variety show Friday night. His wife lowered it minutes later with news that their house was burning down.

Grease-painted firefighters quit acting in Great Balls of Fire to douse the blaze.

Toronto Woman Found Stabbed And Strangled

TORONTO (CP)—Police have charged Clifford Collins, 31, of Toronto with the murder of a woman who was stabbed and strangled in a downtown hotel room early today.

Deputy Chief Alex McCathie said the charge was laid shortly after Collins was arrested in the hotel lobby.

The victim, whose name was withheld, was described as a 25-year-old brunette.

The woman was throttled with a silk stocking. The body was found when police went to the Victoria Hotel in answer to a telephone call from a man.

Sleeping Driver Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Archie McInnes, 31, was killed early today when his car crashed into a tree. Police said they believe he fell asleep.

Police said the speedometer was jammed at the 68-mile-an-hour mark.

It was Toronto's 34th traffic fatality this year.

MISSILE ADVENT SHIFTS EMPHASIS IN CIVIL DEFENCE

Changes Described By Planning Minister

TORONTO (CP) — The addition of long-range missiles to the world's arsenal has prompted the Ontario government to shift the emphasis in its civil defence planning.

The changes, described Friday by Planning Minister Nickle in an interview, also promise a doubling - up on jobs for Fire Marshal William J. Scott, who becomes a key figure in the disaster agency.

The change in thinking puts the focus on firefighting and makes the fire marshal an associate co-ordinator of provincial civil defence. The appointment is expected within the next two weeks.

Mr. Nickle said Mr. Scott will be given the task of setting up a province-wide radio link among municipal firefighting agencies, making provision for emergency water supplies, surveying accommodations in areas designated for dispersal of populations and deciding on routes that would serve these areas in the event of attack.

"The greatest danger in any nuclear attack is the large-scale outbreak of fire which will come with it," Mr. Nickle said.

He indicated the legislature would be asked to approve a bigger civil defence budget his year, but declined to reveal the amount of the increase.

CO-ORDINATOR STAYS

Mr. Nickle denied that consideration was being given to replacing E. F. Beavis, provincial civil defence co - ordinator who becomes Fire Marshal Scott's part-time boss. Mr. Beavis has recently been criticized, the latest attack originating with Inspector William Koopman co-ordinator for Metropolitan Toronto, who said a lack of provincial CD planning is harassing his own operation.

It was learned, meanwhile, that the civil defence budget for the Toronto Metropolitan area will reach about $500,000 this year, the largest in Canada. The federal government pays half the approved outlays and the province a quarter.

The highways department recently drew up a list of evacuation routes from the province's principol cities. Signs marking them are awaiting approval.

The Toronto civil defence organization has chosen 16 escape routes. There are an equal number of alternatives.

Pickering Couple Given $23,705 In Damages

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Supreme Court has awarded damages of $23,705 to a Pickering Township couple. The wife was struck by a car on an east-end Toronto street in 1956.

Mr. Justice D. C. Wells awarded $20,935 to Mrs. Myrtle Margaret Scrase, severely injured. Her husband got $2,770 for hospital and other expenses.

The jury found driver F. J. Hughes of Toronto 80-per-cent negligent but said Mrs. Scrase was partly to blame for crossing the street without taking adequate precaution.

Washington Observers Question Motives of Mikhail Menshikov

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The new Soviet ambassador in Washington, Mikhail Menshikov, hasn't stopped shaking hands since he arrived in the U.S. capital. In one month, he has probably made more personal calls on American officials than his gruff, stiff - necked predecessor, Georgi Zarubin, did in all of his five years in Washington.

In all this glad-handing, Menshikov has expounded the viewpoint that personal contacts and exchange of opinions are an effective means of creating trust and friendship among nations. He has pressed the Moscow line of peaceful coexistence.

Now some Washington observers have begun to question his motives. They ask whether his mission is not to soften up American officialdom and the U.S. public, as part of the Soviet drive for a summit conference.

Some time ago President Eisenhower came out in support of more personal contacts between Americans and foreigners. His so - called person - to - person program was launched with an appeal to Americans going abroad to make friends while there. His idea was that closer personal contacts would help break the grip of fear and mistrust that bedevils East-West relations.

The scheme was meant to apply to Americans, but the suave personable Soviet envoy appears to have taken its lesson to heart. He has launched his own person-to-person program.

Menshikov, who speaks English with fluency, already has seen Eisenhower twice, conferred a couple of times with State Secretary Dulles and called on Vice-President Nixon, Attorney - General Rogers and presidential assistant Sherman Adams—among others. Between - times, he has sandwiched in several interviews—almost unheard-of for Soviet envoys—and spoken before the National Press Club.

Whitby Dunnies Swamp U.S. 12-1 In World Tourney

Allan Cup Champs Have Scored 6 Straight Wins

OSLO (CP)—Canada knocked out the injury - riddled United States team today with a 12-1 victory to go into Sunday's climax game of the world hockey tournament with a clean record of six straight wins against the once-tied Russians, who needed victory over Sweden later today to stay in contention.

The Americans, who could muster only 12 men for today's game, were already out of the running before the Canadians handed them their third defeat against two victories and a tie.

The Russian - Swedish game late today will decide whether Sunday's windup will be another Soviet - Canadian classic or an anti-climax to the tournament. If the Russians lose or are tied the Whitby club will win the championship automatically.

A tie with Sweden would give Russia 10 points, and if the Russians defeated Canada Sunday they would still be robbed of the title by the goal-average system by which the tournament is decided in the event of a first-place tie on points. Canada's win over the U.S. gave them 78 goals to only four against, while Russia had a 38-8 record going into their game today.

But a Russian victory, giving the Soviet team 11 points—on five wins and a tie—to Canada's 12 going into the final game, would set the stage for a showdown battle. Even a tie then would still give the Canadians the crown.

GAGNON OUT TODAY

Bus Gagnon of Whitby sat out today's game, resting up a slightly injured hip in preparation for Sunday. But his services weren't needed as his teammates built up a 4-0 lead in the first period, added two more in the second and doubled their tally in the third period when the Americans got their only goal.

About 5,000 fans turned out for today's opening game at the outdoor Jordal Amfi stadium on a clear day with temperatures hovering around the freezing point.

The Canadians jumped into the lead in the second minute when George Samolenko grabbed a rebound and blasted a hard shot into the left side of the net.

Connie Broden got the next four minutes later, firing a 15-foot screened drive that goalie Don Rigazio never saw.

KEPT PRESSURE ON

Canada kept the pressure on the overworked Americans. The third goal came after a goalmouth scramble. After a desperate jamming around the U.S. net, the puck seemed to go in off Rigazio's skate. Ted O'Connor was given credit for the goal.

Alf Treen got Canada's final goal of that period with less than two minutes to go. Another concerted Canadian drive led to a wild scramble around the U.S. net again. An American player, trying to clear the puck, slammed it out toward the blue line. Treen, standing there on point duty, intercepted it, skated up and fired through the crowd of players from 20 feet out.

Canada applied steady pressure in the second period and the pace started to tell on the U.S. players.

The fifth Canadian goal brought a howl of protest from the U.S. team. A wild scramble in the goalmouth had players of both teams sprawled on the ice when the puck suddenly popped into the net. The referees awarded it to Jack McKenzie.

AMERICAN PROTEST

The American players immediately protested that the goal should not count because there were some Canadian players in the crease.

Canada's sixth goal came as Sid Smith broke out after a U.S. attack. Rigazio made the save, but couldn't control the rebound and Broden flipped it home.

The U.S. got its only goal in the final period from Dick Meredith at 1:28.

From then on it was a runaway for Whitby. Gordie Myles scored two in a row, Broden got two more to wind up as top Canadian scorer for the game with a total of four, Samolenko got his second of the game and Smith tallied the other.

Only some fine goaltending by Rigazio kept the score down, as the American goalie made a total of 43 saves in the game compared with 24 for Edwards.

Cabbie Donates 10 Per Cent For Silence

CHICAGO (AP) — Milton Bronstein, a cab driver, has heard too much talk about the recession, so he has taped a placard on his hack telling his fares:

"I will donate 10 per cent of your fare to handicapped children if you will sit back, relax, and do not discuss the recession."

Baronstein, 50, said:

"It's very depressing to hear recession talk all day. It seems everybody's got the same gripes. We shouldn't moan. It doesn't help a bit. Business is still good, and we should make it better.'

Report of Police Chief Reveals Court Cases Decline 30 Per Cent

A decrease of over 30 per cent from 1956 in the number of cases brought before the court, is reported by Police Chief Walter Probert in his police report for the last year.

The number of cases brought before the court totalled 2,433 as compared with 3,696 in 1956.

Big decrease, however, was in the number of speeding charges laid under the Highway Traffic Act. Last year 1,225 motorists were charged with driving at excessive speed, this figure comparing with 2,413 in 1956 and 2,225 in 1955.

The number of criminal cases before the court was up slightly at 210 as compared with 172 in 1956 and 165 in 1955. Theft cases increased to 50 from 41 the year before; breaking, entering and theft cases totalled 21 as compared with 19 the year before and false pretences cases totalled 14 as compared with five the year before and eight in 1955.

FEWER DRUNK DRIVERS

Charges of drunk driving were down to 15 from 18 the year before, seven motorists were charged with driving while their licence was suspended and four were charged with leaving the scene of an accident. There were seven cases of motorists driving while impaired.

The report also showed three cases of false pretences, three instances of joy riding, seven cases of damage to property and three cases of fraud.

It was noted in the police chief's report that wife assault is on the decline with three such cases being listed as compared with six the year before. Five persons were charged with common assault and the same number with assaulting a police officer. There were three cases of assault occasioning bodily harm and one case of indecent assault.

There were seven cases of disturbing the peace.

The report showed two cases of robbery. Six persons were charged for violation of gaming house laws. There were two charges of abduction and two charges of attempted jail break.

TRAFFIC CASES

Breaches of the Highway Traffic Act included 105 charges of careless driving, 33 charges of driving without a licence, 47 cases of failure to observe a traffic light and 62 cases of failing to observe stop streets.

Thirty-one motorists were charged for making unnecessary noise with a motor vehicle, five were charged for having defective equipment, nine were charged for failure to produce a driver's licence and four were charged for leaving the scene of an accident.

Breaches of city traffic bylaws totalled 164; eight were charged for disorderly conduct; six bicycle riders were charged for riding on the sidewalk and 33 dog owners were charged with breach of the dog by-law.

There were three charges of breach of the early closing bylaw.

MORE 'DRUNKS'

The number of ordinary "drunks" was up at 314 as compared with 283 the year before; 24 persons were charged with consuming liquor in a public place and 78 were charged with "having". Fifteen were charged for having liquor not acquired on their individual permits, four were charged for consuming while their licences were suspended and 14 minors were charged for consuming.

The department investigated 409 motor vehicle accidents during the year, a decrease of 107 from the year previous. Of this number 131 had damage sufficient to necessitate a report to the Motor Vehicles Branch.

Forty four motor vehicles were reported stolen in the city, all being recovered and returned to their owners. In addition 11 motor cars were recovered for other departments.

Bicycles reported stolen numbered 127 of which 101 were recovered.

Motor vehicle accidents in the city resulted in 48 persons being injured, one of these resulting in a fatality.

Prices of Eggs Increase Here

The advent of the Lenten season and a slackening off in production boosted the price of eggs on the local farmers' market this morning, with extra large quoted at 62 cents, large at 57c; mediums 55c and pullets' eggs 50 cents per dozen.

Chicken remained at 50 cents per lb. with mature fowl also quoted at the usual price of 45 cents per lb.

Apples were the main offering on the outside market. Top grade McIntosh sold at $3 per hamper; Delicious were 80c per basket and Talman Sweets 75c per basket.

On the vegetable market potatoes sold at $2.75 per bag, carrots and beets sold at the usual 25c per half peck, parsnips were 35c per half peck and turnips from a nickel to 15c each. Cabbages were a dime and 15 cents.

Salesman Puts Jewellery Case In Wrong Auto

Honesty on the part of a Front Street apartment dweller who found a sample case full of jewellery and watches in his car yesterday afternoon prevented an eventual case of nerves on the part of the owner when he found his wares were missing.

Clarence Hollar, 280½ Front Street had left his car parked at the rear of his apartment and checking it later found the sample case of jewellery. He reported the matter to the police who took custody of the jewellery.

Later investigation revealed the jewellery belonged to a local jeweller, Paul Mercier, and that it had been left by salesman Barney Lamorre in the wrong car. Value of the jewellery was placed at over $1,100.

The cable read; — "The McFarlands Booster Club, members of the McFarlands senior "A" hockey club and all residents of Belleville and district wish you luck in the big effort to bring home to Canada the world hockey championship".

Obituary

JAMES ALBERT COLEMAN

The funeral of James Albert Coleman was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Friday afternoon with service in the chapel being conducted by Captain C. J. Ivany of the Salvation Army. Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were Ted Griffith, George Roelfsema, William Sheppherd, Clayton Bowers, Frank Post and Andrew Knott.

Thursday evening the Canadian Legion held a special service at the funeral chapel with Captain C. J. Ivany officiating. Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Bugler Armand Duffy.

Woman Given Nine Months For Extortion

GUELPH (CP) — Wellington county judge R. S. Clark called "revolting and disgusting" the details of an extortion case for which Friday he sentenced Mrs. Blanche Hudson, 44, of Elora and Guelph to reformatory for not more than nine months.

Mrs. Hudson pleaded guilty to extorting money by threats, accusations and menaces from Kitchener auctioneer Abraham Brubacker. She denied the amount reached $20,000 as alleged in the charge.

Defence counsel Charles Dubin of Toronto said Brubacker's gullibility "was almost unbelievable."

Mr. Dubin said: "He had come to her Guelph home and they were intimate. She borrowed money from him and later claimed to be pregnant and a large amount of money was given to her. He was told she intended to procure an abortion. He was then told she had died and he gave more money on the premise to settle a lawsuit brought by her husband. His gullibility was almost unbelievable."

"I suppose we could associate gullibility with panic," suggested Judge Clark.

Some restitution has been made, it was stated.

Police Blotter

Property damage amounting to approximately $325 resulted early Friday evening when a car and truck collided on Dundas Street, East.

Ralph H. Smith, Metcalfe Street, was eastbound when his vehicle was struck by a westbound truck driven by Philip E. Hitchcock, 386 Sidney Street. Mr. Hitchcock was charged with careless driving.

Otherwise police reported a comparatively quiet night, the only other activity being the apprehension of several drunks.

Howard Weese, Ameliasburg, CCF Candidate in S. Hastings

Thirty-two members of the South Hastings CCF Association turned out last night at the Engineers' hall on Pine St. to elect 55 - year - old Howard Weese, Ameliasburg farmer and cannery operator, their candidate in the March 31 federal election.

Mr. Weese, whose great-grandfather was the first white man born in Ameliasburg township, is a former reeve of the township and was first elected to its council on a Liberal ticket.

Five other men — Arthur Cole, Donald Burshaw, George Elliott, A. D. Archibald and Leslie Digby were nominated for the candidacy, but they declined in favor of Mr. Weese.

Chairman Leslie Digby said the reason the nominating convention was called is to provide the electors of South Hastings with an "alternate from the 'old-line' parties." There was no CCF candidate in the June 10 election.

"I don't think the CCF party has ever had a better opportunity in this riding than they have now," voiced the candidate, "because the people know there is very little difference at Ottawa between the Liberals and Conservatives. Both those parties are being fattened by the monopolies. The only difference between the Liberals and Conservatives is that two different men are pulling the chains."

Mr. Weese wanted it clearly understood that he is running on a CCF farm-labor ticket.

"If Mr. Diefenbaker were to bring down a financial report, he definitely would not be returned in the election. We are just about experiencing days similar to the "black" thirties, and the 'Diefenbaker party' has only been in power less than 10 months. Last year we in Canada had more business failures than in the depression. And Mr. Diefenbaker says he is helping the businessman. The only way he is helping the businessman is by putting him out of business," said the candidate.

$15 BILLION IN DEBT

Mr. Weese continued: "In 60 years, the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives have put this country $15 billion in debt. That means every man, woman and child has a mortgage of $1,000 around their neck. Mr. Diefenbaker's works projects will only make more money for the steel companies, not for the workers. Our incomes today are lower than they were in the 1930s."

It is the candidate's belief that every man should be able to own a home, "without paying off a mortgage for the rest of his life. I think the government should release one billion dollars for home-building. And the interest rate should be no greater than two per cent."

In conclusion, Mr. Weese said: "I'm not Mr. Diefenbaker. I'm not going to promise you the stars, moon or sun. But I do promise you hard work."

Guest speaker from Toronto was Dave Archer, executive secretary of the Ontario Federation of Labor, who appeared as the substitute of Ontario CCF leader Donald McDonald, who has contracted the 'flu.

Mr. Archer, after being introduced by Arthur Cole, said the outlook for victory of the CCF party in South Hastings "is not too sanguine." He urged party supporters to back Howard Weese.

According to the guest speaker, the Conservatives are the first "government of Canada" to spend hundreds of millions of the people's money without an accounting to the Canadian people through their elected representatives in parliament.

"To do this," he said, "makes a farce of democratic parliamentary procedures. Mr. Flemming is the chief architect of this policy."

The speaker continued: "To spend $125 million on social security legislation and to announce $178 million in tax cuts without presenting a budget was undemocratic enough, but now, to call an election and endeavor to bribe the people with their own money, without giving parliament a chance to see a Conservative budget, is political effrontery of the worst kind."

Mr. Archer predicted the "same disregard for the rights of parliament that caused a Liberal downfall last June will cause the loss of a great deal of support for the Tories in this election."

SEES PIPELINE SWITCH

He said another change in Conservative tactics is very evident in the pipeline "scandal." At one time the PC's were all in favor of Canadian control of the pipeline "and even went so far as to support nationalization." In power they approve of a Royal Commission to investigate the uses of energy resources including the gas pipeline.

"'The Gordon Commission a few months earlier had already given an excellent report on this matter," said Mr. Archer.

Turning to unemployment ("the pause that depresses"), the speaker said "the" problem facing Canadians today is unemployment.

"Instead of juggling figures to prove that unemployment doesn't exist," he said, "let us face the fact that whatever figures you use, unemployment is double this year what it was last year. Farm income drops and then unemployment follows. That is the depression pattern in Canada.

Mr. Archer accused city workers of speaking "all kinds of tripe" to farmers regarding financial assistance to farmers over and above their incomes from harvest.

"As the latest Gallup poll shows, the farmers were more against wage increases for Canadian workers than any other section of the community. Out of this dissention between the two producing groups of Canada, certain influential interests, who had much to gain, successfully sowed the seeds of discord," said Mr. Archer.

He remarked that if prosperity and security can be brought to farmers and workers, the economic future of Canada will be secure.

"I can assure you," he said in conclusion, "you are on a winning team. The swing is to the CCF. Everywhere we go we are receiving enthusiastic crowds who welcome the return to Canada of two-party government. Even the Conservatives, I believe, welcome this new turn of events."

IN MEMORIAM

POPE. — In loving memory of a wife and mother, Katherine Pope, who passed away March 9th, 1934.

God has called our mother,
Away from a world of strife;
To shine among the angels,
In a fairer, brighter life.
Safe in the arms of Jesus,
Safe from all grief and sin;
Forever and forever,
Where all is pure within.
Our hearts are full of sorrow,
And tears have dimmed our eyes;
But we shall meet her once again,
In the home beyond the skies.

—Lovingly remembered by husband, daughter and sons.

HILTON. — In loving memory of Charles H. Hilton, who passed away March 8th, 1931.

A wonderful husband, so kind and dear,
I often wish you were sitting here:
Alone, unseen, you stand by my side,
And whisper don't grieve, dear, death cannot divide.
For deep in my heart your memory is kept,
Of one I still love and shall never forget.

—Sadly missed and always remembered by wife Alma.

WASN'T THAT AN AWFUL PRICE TO PAY FOR MEDICINE?
YES ... BUT IT'S WORTH TWICE THAT MUCH TO GET WELL SO QUICKLY!

When your pharmacist hands you a small bottle of one of the "new" medicines and tells you the cost, it may seem like a high price to pay for a prescription.

But when you consider what these new medicines your doctor prescribes can do—in getting you well quicker, back on the job, earning money again—you realize what good value you're getting.

Due to the constant advances in medical science and the development of more potent drugs, a siege of sickness costs a person less today than ever before in history.

Twenty years ago, for example, hospital patients stayed an average of 14 days, as compared with 9 days average now. An appendicitis operation used to mean a hospital stay of 3 weeks—now it's usually 5 days. Hernia cases were usually hospitalized 21 days—now they're often home in a week. And pneumonia patients, if they survived, had to stay 3 to 6 weeks. Now they're usually home in a week—if they leave it at all!

Any way you look at it—in terms of saving days of hospital time, the fewer visits needed from your doctor, or your return to income-producing work much sooner—the money you spend for prompt and proper medical care can well turn out to be one of the really big bargains of your life.—Reprinted from an advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company, Ltd., Toronto 14, Ontario.

A Lift for Living

Must Know When to Go Back

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Every Sunday in most of our churches the congregation confesses in prayer: "We have left undone those things we ought to have done and we have done those things which we ought not to have done."

When we feel truly sorry for what we failed to do we can redouble our efforts and try to make up for lost time and opportunity. But how about undoing the wrongs we have done?

We may be inclined to say at once that we cannot undo what has been done, so why bother about it? And here we come to one of the very important questions of successful living: when to go forward and forget and when to go back and remember.

It is folly to torture our minds with futile regrets over what cannot be changed. We must muster the art of leaving if we are to master the art of living.

Jesus made much of this point. He said once: "No man having put his hand to the plough and looking back is fit for the Kingdom of God."

And on another occasion a man came to Him, saying, "I too would follow thee but first let me go and bury my father." To this would-be disciple He replied, "Let the dead bury the dead." As I understand it, that was Jesus' short, sharp, surgical, enigmatic way of saying, "Let the dead past bury itself."

LEFT FOR DEAD

There are some parts of our past that should be left for dead. They cannot be changed. So do not dig them up. We must learn to know how to let bygones be bygones, how to close the gate on what should be forgotten so that yesterday's pack of yelping worries do not keep hounding us to destroy today's peace of mind.

Most of us have a tendency to keep some things which should be left behind. When we move from one residence to another we discover how many articles we have kept stored up which we shall probably never use, but which we hate to throw away.

We preserve many customs which no longer serve any useful purpose. Dorothy Canfield Fisher, in a chapter contributed to Ruth Elmquist's book, "Fifty Years of Christmas," calls attention to the buttons sewed on the outside seam of men's coat sleeves, right back of the wrist. What are those buttons used for?

Their usefulness disappeared with the last lace ruffles worn by men and that was a long time ago. A century and more ago gentlemen wore white ruffles at the wrists and, to keep them from being soiled, they were buttoned snugly back. Now the buttons are still put on our coats long after their useful purpose has disappeared.

This is a rather trivial illustration of our tendency to keep things which we no longer need. This trait can become very trouble-some. Our minds are clogged with regrets and remorse, with grudges and grouches which should have been discarded.

"Don't cry over spilt milk" is the old adage learned in childhood. Dr. Leslie Weatherhead of London has given a more colorful translation of the same advice: "Don't follow your own hearse."

WE NEED COURAGE

We need the courage to change what should be changed, the patience to endure what cannot be changed, and the wisdom to know the difference.

And wisdom should tell us there is a difference between forgetting the evils done to us and forgetting the sins we ourselves commit. Suppose a reckless driver ran into my car last summer. The damage was done. The incident is over. I should forget it. It does no good to keep thinking about it.

But if I were the reckless driver who caused the damage then that recklessness is in my own nature. It remains with me unless I get rid of it. If I don't care enough about my carelessness to correct it, I add to the sinfulness of it. Hence I must not try to bury my own wrongdoing in forgetfulness. If I do, I am likely to go on repeating the evil deeds.

It is foolish to sit brooding over our sins and mistakes in bitter remorse. We must turn from remorse to repentance. The scriptural promise is: "If we confess our sins, God is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

Who of us cannot remember what a difference it made when in our childhood we stopped trying to hide our wrongdoing and went to our father and made a clean breast of it? When we took our father in on our trouble, he helped to take us out of it.

He may have scolded us, but he showed that he still loved us. He could not undo all the damage we had done. But the knowledge of his love gave us strength to outgrow the scars. So is it with our Heavenly Father.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

GLASSY EYES

That bird you doubtfully identified as a grackle two months ago probably really was. True enough, it used to be fairly unusual for grackles to be in our parts before March, but of late years some spend the cold season not only in southern Ontario but at least as far north as Montreal.

Maybe this is just another sign that our climate is warming up; but there is a reason besides change of climate that may be responsible for these winter records. Being ground feeders grackles took advantage of the advance of civilization, with the conversion of forests into farmland, and increased greatly. Now they are doubtless finding it more difficult to get sufficient food in the U. S. for the entire grackle population throughout the winter.

Originally grackles were probably abundant only in wet areas, and fed mostly on such things as fish, shellfish, snakes, and lizards. Now they also come in large flocks to city parks, nest in colonies in tall evergreens, and feed on insects found on lawns. Their diet has expanded to include acorns, beechnuts, and wild fruits, grain (especially corn), mice, and unfortunately nestlings and eggs. With this broadened range of taste it is possible to live in cooler climates and on more varied types of ground.

Ornithologists are still not unanimous when classifying these birds; but the simple word "Grackles" here refers to those that breed from the Gulf of St. Lawrence westward to northern Manitoba.

LARGER THAN ROBINS

Even apart from their fine, long, wedge-shaped tails, our grackles are much larger than robins, though they vary considerably in size, the bigger being males and the smaller females, which is just the reverse for hawks. Although ordinarily described as black, the males especially are quite colorful, with an iridescence of green, blue, and purple. The pale yellow eye, very noticeable against the sleek, dark plumage, looks absolutely glassy.

Watch out now for the glassy eyed grackles, returning in flocks. The first indication you may have of their presence could be their ascending, metallic squeaks, or their harsh "cacks" as they approach in a flight less undulating than that of most blackbirds, their splendid tails, which act as keels, as conspicuous as their glassy eyes. The birds walk about on the lawns, picking up beetles or grasshoppers in their long, pale, down-curved bills; then wander around looking for possible nesting sites in trees, bushes, or even cavities in buildings.

PARADOX

"Craftsmen scratch their heads in wonder when they hear people repeating the sturdy fallacy that work is punishment," says the Royal Bank of Canada in its monthly letter. "Some people who do not like to work look for the invention of tricks and gadgets to help them toward their life goal of happiness through do-nothingism. Dr. D. Ewen Cameron calls this 'our asinine belief that not to work is to enter into bliss'."

Debates on this subject always fascinate us, because they remind us of a duel between two blind men. On the one hand there are those who embrace "the asinine belief that not to work is to enter into bliss." On the other there are those who are equally blind in that they do not recognize the paradoxical truth that all progress is the result of people who "look to invention of tricks and gadgets to help them toward their life goal of happiness through do-nothingism." It is not the man who likes to work who devises ways of getting out of it, but it has been man's ingenuity in getting out of a host of tasks which has given him the time to discover a myriad other things which need doing.

Craftsmanship, a pride in good work, is invaluable. The man who seeks a better way to do a job is to be praised. But equally important is the man who says "There must be an easier way" and sets out to discover it.

It is man's dislike for work which has enabled him to get so much work done in the world. If every man enjoyed working, we would still be plowing with oxen, setting type by hand and heating our homes with woodstoves.

NOT IN BALANCE

Hon. J. N. Allan, Ontario's minister of highways, has introduced in the Legislature a bill providing for more than 30 amendments to the Highway Traffic Act.

Main objective of these amendments appears to be to endeavor to curtail the accident rate and make the province's roads safer for those who use them. It is an excellent target.

Stiffer penalties would be provided for some offences. We have no quarrel with that. We do, though, vigorously question the justice of one proposal. Conviction on a charge of careless driving could result in a licence being suspended for two years, instead of the present one year. Notice that the word used is "could"; the two-year suspensions would not be mandatory but the length of the suspension would depend upon the nature of the offence. Even so, though, is there not something out of balance when a careless driving conviction can result in suspension of a licence for two years, while a second offence conviction for driving a car while impaired by alcohol brings a licence suspension of only six months? The careless driver may not repeat his carelessness. The driver who is convicted for a second time for driving while his ability is impaired has demonstrated that he intends to continue to drink and drive. He is at least as great a menace as the man guilty of carelessness while sober.

AN INTERESTING BOOKLET

The exciting story of nickel is told in a new and colorful booklet recently published by The International Nickel Company of Canada, Limited. The first printing late last year saw some 40,000 of the booklets come off the press.

From beginning to end of the 29-page production, Author Alan King has presented the history of the nickel industry in light and interesting style. The booklet is well stocked with drawings done in two or more colors with an occasional photograph included in black and white. The lively-colored covers were painted by B. Johnson, a commercial artist of repute.

This booklet is recommended for the digestion of secondary school students and the general public who are desirous of learning about an element that has contributed so much to Canada's prosperity.

COWS DO FLY

Almost we envy those 35 Holstein-Friesian calves which took off from frosty Malton Airport for sunny Italy. By the way, what's happened to that old saying, "It's a good thing cows can't fly?" They can, and they do now.—(Brantford Expositor.)

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE BACHELOR TALKS

Time was I thought I loved a girl,
I think her name was Carrie
Oh, she was fair to look upon
And one I hoped to marry.
But she invited me to tea
And I went home dejected,
For every time her father spoke
This maiden him corrected.

I found another lassie fair,
Her cheeks were cherry red.
Until she asked me up to tea
This maid I hoped to wed;
But at the table vanished love.
My heart was sore afflicted,
For everything her mother said
That maiden contradicted.

I might have been a married man
And known a husband's cares;
For often Cupid came to me
And caught me unawares.
And who can tell but what I might,
By now have children three,
Had not the girls I thought I loved
Invited me to tea.

Locomotives Costly Toys

Moose Jaw Times Herald

Several urban communities across Canada have either made a request to one or the other of the railroad systems, or are considering such action, for a full-sized locomotive. They would set it up on a concrete foundation in a park or at some other available spot. The idea which lies behind the plan to get a locomotive for nothing is stated to be the fear that in a few years youngsters will have no idea what a steam locomotive was like in form and shape.

It looks like a noble purpose, but setting up a steam locomotive in a public park includes the cost of getting it to the park, anchoring it on the concrete foundation, and protecting the municipality from damage actions in the event of children playing on it falling and injuring themselves must not be overlooked.

A steam locomotive is a hefty piece of machinery. It just can't be pushed from nearby railway yards to a park, with one hand, so to speak. A spur track must be built from the railway to the site — and that includes the laying of ties and steel rails, and installing a switch at a railway spur.

If the track over which the locomotive is to be moved to the site is not well and truly laid, the iron horse is likely to topple over, and re-establishing it on the rails in an upright position can't be done for two-and-sixpence.

Getting a locomotive from one of the railway systems is probably the most simple part of the operation. At least one, if not two communities elsewhere in Canada got their locomotives without reckoning on the additional and continuous expense. The railway system may be ready to part with an old locomotive, although there is considerable scrap value, possibly $25,000 up.

A locomotive set up on a site in a public park, under the supervision of the municipality or its parks board, must be stripped of all moving parts before children are permitted to climb and crawl over it. Unless it is going to be allowed to rust and rot it must be painted at least once every two years. The railway system that gives it will probably stipulate that it must always bear a sign, stating that it is the property of the municipality — a gift from the railway system—and that the company giving it is not responsible for any injuries that may be sustained by anyone. All glass must be removed from the windows of the engine cab and from the headlight, for the reason that the engine would not be in position very long before rocks would be tossed — and jagged glass can inflict very serious injuries.

Slaughtering Reform Urged

Boston Herald

The cruelty of shackling, hoisting, sticking and bleeding of fully conscious animals is contrary to the moral code of our country. While slaughterhouses have been improved architecturally, handling methods have been modnernized and meat inspection services have been streamlined, the method of the "kill" has remained virtually primitive in America.

The new humane slaughter bill passed by the House and sent to the United States Senate should, however, mark the beginning of the end of barbaric slaughterhouse practices. This bill, which is long overdue, provides that after 1959 the Government will purchase meat only from packers who use humane methods in all of their plants. The bill states as national policy that livestock must first be rendered insensible to pain before being killed.

Introduced by Congressman W. R. Poage of Texas, who has studied the problems of humane slaughter at first hand, the legislation is probably not as strong as most humane societies would desire. But its moderation acts as a sensible reason for approval, and indeed may prove to be more effective in the long run.

It provides an incentive for humane slaughter rather than a compulsory law, which some slaughterhouses might try to evade. Over 75 per cent of the animals slaughtered in the United State are killed by packers with government contracts. It is not likely that any firm would want to lose this business. Moreover, the possibility of economic hardship on smaller firms, which caused many Congressmen to initially hesitate, is now eliminated.

Humane slaughter methods, in use in Europe for over a quarter of a century now, have proved eminently economical and efficient.

Let's hope the Senate approves the bill and allows the Secretary of Agriculture to invoke these methods which are clean, swift and the mark of a truly civilized society.

Miss Mary Fritzgerald of Toronto spent the weekend here with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brethour and son, of Bancroft, have come to this city to make their home.

Misses Laura Dougherty, Dorothea Newson and Margaret Cretney of Toronto spent the weekend here with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Kennett, Bellevue Apartments, Patterson Street, left yesterday for New York City and will sail from there for England where they will visit Mr. Kenneth's parents in Surrey.

Miss Louise Schryver, who is attending the Library School in Toronto was home to spend the weekend.

Miss Isobel Walbridge was home from Toronto to spend the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Diment and their grand-daughter, Miss Mary Kerr, Bleecker Avenue, left on Saturday to spend some time in Los Angeles and Oakland, California.

Mr. Charles Dolan, Mr. Homer Thomas and Mr. P. Cote spent the weekend in Toronto.

The folowing from this city spent the weekend in Toronto: Miss Mary Dwyer, Miss Mildred MacPherson, Miss Mildred Leacock, Miss Jessie Tuite, Miss Bessie Salisbury, Miss Isabel Clendennan, Miss Agnes Doyle, Miss Marie Huffman, Miss P. Harris, and Mrs. J. Quinn.

30 YEARS AGO

March 8th, 1928

Miss Merle Luffman is visiting friends in Tweed.

Constable Harry Thompson of the Ontario Provincial Police, Napanee, was in town today.

Mr. Charles Payne, barrister, is spending today in Toronto.

A movement is underway to provide Tweed with a water works system.

The Rev. E. Farnsworth, pastor of the Cannifton United Church circuit, will retire in June and will be succeeded by the Rev. W. R. Merrick of Marven. During Mr. Farnsworth's pastoriate the four churches on the circuit have made much advancement and all the church properties have been greatly improved.

Up to noon today the sum of $8,000.00 has been subscribed towards the building of an artificial ice rink here. The objective is $30,000.00.

40 YEARS AGO

March 8th, 1918

Before leaving this city to reside in Montreal the Rev. C. G. Smith, former pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, was entertained at James Wallace's restaurant by the members of the Belleville Ministerial Association. Much regret was expressed at the departure of Mr. Smith from the city.

The Rev. B. Greatrix, who was pastor of Holloway Street Methodist Church for four years and of late the pastor of St. James' Methodist Church in Peterborough, has been invited to remain as pastor for the fourth year.

Mr. S. Grant, M. P. for East Hastings, was in town today.

The coal situation here has been improved considerably during the past few days by the arrival of several cars of coal.

50 YEARS AGO

March 8th., 1908

The city will be required to provide $1,545.00 for the maintenance of the Corby Public Library this year. This is a less amount than some citizens thought would be asked for. The library is greatly in need of new books.

Last evening a team of horses owned by A. Aselstine and attached to the Hotel Quinte bus ran away in front of the hotel and in turning the corner at Front and Bridge Streets the bus upset and was damaged to some extent. No one was in the bus at the time.

Elbert Hubbard, famous lecturer and publisher of books, has been secured to lecture here in connection with the Y.M.C.A. Star Course on the evening of April 27th.

Mr. A. A. Roberts, barrister, is in Cobourg today on legal business.

Enumerator Rides Horse

Hamilton Spectator

"It is hard for us to realize, in this age of high-powered automobiles and jet-propelled aeroplanes, what an importan' role the horse played in man's history for thousands of years - - - Up to the introduction of the railroad, all postal systems had to rely on the horse."

We have quoted from "The Animal Kingdon," a three-volume work edited by Frederick Drimmer, M.A., which tells how horses drew the war chariots of the Babylonians about 1700 B.C., made possible the far-flung conquests of Alexander the Great and Genghis Khan, and enabled the hordes of Alaric and Attila to humble the Roman Empire.

Yes, even without considering the millions lost on them on the world's race tracks both ways from Fort Erie, horses have a lot to answer for. In 1775, Mr. Paul Revere, the U.S. revolutionary hero, silversmith and dentist, rode on one's back to warn treasonous folk that British regulars were about to march on Concord. "The British are coming!" he cried out at every second farmhouse.

But in 1958, just when horses had become obsolete except for "improvement of the breed" purposes, we read that Mrs. E. H. Crombie, an enumerator for the March 31 federal election, took to horseback—to secure names for the voters' list. Snow-clogged roads no farther away than Burford, near Brantford, were the reason for her recourse to a horse.

Were it not for our understanding that enumerators are supposed to be non-political vocally on their appointed rounds, we would be wondering if. Revere-like, she might call out at each farm: "The Tories (or Grits) are coming!"

But of course if this resourceful enumerator had intended to display any particular political stripe, she probably would have been riding a zebra.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a slow heart beat. It ranges from 50 to never any higher than 56. Is this condition serious? — L.T.R."

No, sir. Or rather, probably not.

If I seem to be hedging — that's right, I am. But suppose someone wrote to me: "I have a sore finger. Is it serious?" My answer would be, "Of course not." However, once in a blue moon, that "sore finger" might be seriously infected, and it would need attention.

We must remember that there will be exceptions, or cases that don't fall into the usual categories. Then, of course, your own physician is the man to give the answers.

Slow heart beat, like low (or high) blood pressure, isn't a fixed figure. In order to calculate average rates, you have to have some people who are above and some who are below the average. All will be normal; only a few will be right on the exact average.

With heart rate, 72 is considered average normal, yet rates in the high 89's and low 60's or 50's may be entirely normal.

With a heart rate that remains persistently low, it is essential to have an electrocardiogram to determine whether there is a heart block. A heart block is a disorder involving the conduction of the impulses which govern the heart beat, and it can account for an abnormally low rate.

On the other hand, there are cases in which the rate is slow but there is no sign of heart block. In that instance, it is wise to consider the thyroid gland, and see whether it is functioning correctly, because a faulty thyroid can cause slow heart beat. This sort of situation will often be associated with such manners as fatigue, dry skin, and intolerance of cold weather.

NATURAL FOR YOU

If you rule out important possible caunses like those and the heart still continues its slow rate, then you can regard it is natural for you, and have no furber concern.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My nephew is 10 years old. He has gray hair. He feels bad about it. — Mrs. R. L."

Graying is due to a change or disturbance of the chemistry within the hair shaft, which has to do with coloring. Premature graying is likely to be a hereditary trait. Likewise the amount of graying may sometimes vary from one time to another. I doubt that much can be done in this youngster's case except to accept the fact and encourage him to adjust to it.

There's nothing wrong with gray hair. Try to convince the young fellow that he should be proud of it.

I know whereof I speak because I was a victim (if you care to call it that) of the same kind of situation. I'm totally gray now — but at least I've got hair. I know a lot of people who would give a lot just to have hair — any color.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any drug to eliminate water from the system, prior to or during the process of reducing, so one can take off weight a little more rapidly? — Mrs. G. M."

There are drugs to eliminate water, but they aren't intended for the purpose you suggest. In fact, my best advice is for you to rid yourself of the idea that drying out your system is real reducing. All the water will return as soon as your system demands it — as it will. The "dry-out" method of reducing thus is a delusion, and doesn't mean any more than it means if you "reduce" by taking your shoes off before you weigh.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OUR MOODS

It is not strange that we are so subject to moods. We are creatures of moods. People often misjudge us because of them, too, but if our moods are healthy ones, we need have no fear of their expression Our moods often light up a dark corner of our personality. Our moods often furnish a key to our character or to that of a friend.

We should not judge a person too quickly because of his or her moods They pass so quickly. But they do, also, give direction to our thoughts, stimulating them. A moody person is not always an uninteresting one. Usually just the opposite. In moving about we come in contact with people of many moods. We can learn from them all. Our moods are like Guide-Posts. They keep giving direction to our plans, our dreams and our decisions.

Our great care should be to make our moods serve us, creating happiness and health within us A happy mood habit can bless us throughout a long life of interests. Healthy babies always seem to me to be in a continuous happy mood!

We should use care, in our handling of moods, not to allow them to handle us! It has easily been done. Our moods should become our constructive aids. They have their set stars. How we are inspired by the talk of a friend whose mind is saturated with ideas and good purposes and whose interests are worldwide! We can divide our moods. We can have our book moods, our friend moods, our solitary moods, and our self-examinining moods.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT COMES FIRST?

A woman suing for divorce was reminded by the judge that her husband must have some virtues — he had a reputation as a very active man in community affairs.

"That's just it," she said bitterly, "he has time for the bowling league, time for Rotary, time for his lodge, time for the Men's Club time for everything — but no time for our family and me."

Many civic-minded people feel great pleasure from the demands made upon them. The parent who directs a neighborhood activity well is sure to be sought for another one. The business man who leads one charity's drive has another after him immediately.

Our democratic society depends on its responsible citizens to assume voluntary leadership. But how far should one go? Must he say yes to all demands?

There are two good rules to follow in meeting community responsibilities. The first is that nobody can do everything. To do one or two jobs well is better than to do ten poorly. The well-done job always takes a good deal of time; no one has that much time for many activities.

The second rule is to put first things first. What are the really important areas? The home, church, youth groups, for example — these are vital to a community.

Spend your time and energy carefully — and in a good cause!

Belleville in the '90s

By Harry M. Moore

SOME FACTS AND FIGURES

Article 10

While it has been intimated in previous articles that Belleville was a town and part of the county in the 90s, that was in part not so. Only by population was it a town, but by the same token, with only a town's population it was in truth a city, had been proclaimed by statute as such on December 31, 1877. And it had separated from the county for "municipal purposes" back in 1870.

Thus while J. K. McCargar was a reeve (second county warden) in the 90s, he was not reeve of Belleville, but of Thurlow township. Belleville lost any right to have a reeve with city incorporation.

Here are a few facts, as taken from the late W. C. Mikel's "City of Belleville," printed in 1943: Belleville's first mayor, as a town, was Alex. Robertson, who served in 1878-79. Between that time and the 90s there were many mayors of course but that does not serve the purpose of telling you about Belleville in the 90s. The mayors in those years were: George S. Tickell, 1890; E. Guss Porter, 1891; C. Bogart, 1892; F. S. Wallbridge, 1893; J. E. Walmsley, 1894-96; J. W. Johnson, 1897-1900.

Dealing with other municipal matters, Belleville Waterworks was constructed in the years 1886 and 1887 by Moffatt, Hodgkins and Clarke of Watertown, N.Y. But it was in 1899 the city purchased the waterworks from the same company for $184,000.

And here is a bit about electricity. The first pole lines were erected in Belleville in 1885 for the purpose of supplying electricity for arc lamps. This electricity was generated at Lott's Mill on Station Street. The generator was moved later to the gas plant on South Church Street. However in 1894 a franchise was granted to S. A. Lazier & Sons for supplying electricity . . . the rate set, one cent per night for a 16 candle power lamp. This franchise was not acted upon and so in 1895 a similar franchise was granted to the Trenton Electric and Water Company.

The Trenton Electric and Water Company developed power in Trenton and in 1898 electricity was first brought to Belleville from Trenton and delivered to a sub-station at the rear of Front Street, opposite Catherine. In 1898 the generator at the Gas Plant was discontinued and the arc lamps were operated from the lines of the Trenton E. & W. Co.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Most Canadians know who Jack Miner was and what he did with his wild goose sanctuary at Kingsville, Ontario. He trapped and banded the geese, which trusted him, despite such familiarities. And to this day, wild geese bearing the metal leg bands, each with a chapter and verse of the Bible indicated on it to identify the date and place of banding, are being taken by hunters.

In southern Michigan last season, a wild Canada Goose was found dead from gunshot and it carried two leg bands. The first read "32 F, Mark 5: 36," and the other, "AS.44, Mark 5: 36."

Manly Miner, the son of great old Jack, was communicated with by the finders of the goose, and Manly reported that the bird was first banded at Kingsville in 1932, and again, at Kingsville in April, 1944. This means that the grand old gander had lived at least 23 years, and had travelled up and down the continent, spring and fall, possibly from the Arctic circle down to the Gulf of Mexico, twenty-three times before being shot. And stopped off at Kingsville, from time to time, in passing, to pick up a little scripture.

Pintail ducks are not nearly as long-lived as geese, but are tremendous travellers. One banded in Labrador in 1951 was shot in England, 1952; another banded in California was shot in Cook Island New Zealand, three months later; a pintail drake banded in Maui Island, Hawaii, fell to the gun of a hunter a year later, in Edmonton, Alberta.

By the way, the verse that old gander carried up and down the world, from St. Mark, reads:

"As soon as Jesus heard the word that was spoken, he saith unto the ruler of the synagogue, Be not afraid, only believe."

Bids for Farm Votes Made in Western Canada

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STEINBACH, Man. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker says his Progressive Conservative government has acted to help farmers while the Liberal party merely talked.

"They talked, we acted," he told an audience of 1,200 here Friday night as he opened a 10-day campaign swing through Western Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker scoffed at the agricultural proposals in the Liberal election platform. "Why didn't they bring those things in when they were in power?'

He asked for farmers' support March 31 on the basis of the Conservative farm price supports legislation.

QUONSET BUILDING

His audience was more than a third the size of the 3,000 population of this prosperous farm community, settled largely by German Mennonites, 30 miles southeast of Winnipeg.

They jammed a quonset type storage building with wood shavings covering the earth floor, and overflowed outside to listen to loud speakers.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberal party now is calling for expanded wheat exports, a crop insurance plan and long term export credits to help sell farm goods.

In those fields the Conservative government had achieved higher wheat exports—$44,400,000 worth in December compared with $30,000,000 a year earlier—it had begun a study of a provincially cooperative crop insurance plan and it had provided wheat through gifts and loans to India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

CASH ADVANCES

The Conservative government had implemented cash advances on farm-stored prairie grain despite the statement of former Liberal trade minister C. D. Howe that it couldn't be done and that the wheat board would resign if it were done.

Mr. Diefenbaker's speech was in Provencher constituency, which was captured from the Liberals last year by Conservative Warner Jorgenson by a 250-vote margin. This year Mr. Jorgenson faces three opponents, including Liberal Rene Prefontaine, son of Manitoba's municipal affairs minister.

On his 3½-hour visit here he also worked in a non-political speech to the annual banquet of this town's Chamber of Commerce.

He spoke of the opportunities of citizenship in a "great country that enables an ordinary person like myself to hold high office."

Public Safety Must Be Guarded Theme of Talk

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON. (CP) — Parliament must see that public safety is assured before it takes any steps in removal of firemen from certain diesel locomotives in Canadian railway service, CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell said Friday night.

"It is a matter the House of Commons must go into carefully and fully and with the best technical advice it can get. Parliament must make public safety its first regard."

The firemen's issue was brought into Mr. Coldwell's federal election campaign by union representatives here, who first approached the Socialist leader at a press conference and then questioned him at a public meeting on the CCF view of the Kellock royal commission report.

The commission recently found in favor of a CPR proposal for removal of firemen from diesel locomotives in freight and yard service.

UNIONIST ASKS VIEWS

P. L. Bahniuk, an executive of Edmonton lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, during a question period at the public campaign meeting asked Mr. Coldwell for the CCF views on the Kellock report.

Mr. Coldwell said he had not had time to study the report, but Parliament's first obligation in the matter would be to see that public safety was assured.

During an earlier press conference and at the evening meeting, Mr. Coldwell touched on a wide range of subjects. He hit out again at the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline, the high profits made on stock offerings by members of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited and Westcoast Transmission Limited, and said the CCF would nationalize all inter-provincial pipelines if in power.

He also said the Progressive Conservative government's public works program came too late to solve unemployment problems. He told the 500 persons who came to the 800-seat Alberta College auditorium that:

"You can never end unemployment until you have changed the basic economy from one of production for profit to one of planned production for use.'

CHARGED IN SHOOTING

MONTREAL (CP) — Denis Lafrance, 16, already serving a term in the Collins Bay, Ont., penitentiary for robbery, was charged with attempted murder Friday in a shooting here Dec. 18. Lafrance is accused of twice shooting Claude Boucher, 22, found lying on a sidewalk outside a downtown rooming house.

Quebec's Support Earnestly Sought By Both Parties

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Lester B. Pearson has expressed confidence that Quebec voters cannot be enticed away from the Liberals by bribes or threats.

The Liberal leader told a cheering audience of about 1000 Friday night that Quebec has remained faithful to the Liberals because in the last 70 years two of the party's four leaders came from this province.

The Liberals never had to impose conditions, or have recourse to threats in order to get Quebec's support.

He spoke both in French and English in this ancient capital, the home of former prime minister Louis St. Laurent. Mr. St. Laurent, retired from active politics, sent an appeal to Quebec to support Mr. Pearson in the form of a telegram from Miami, Fla., where he is vacationing.

HALL OVERFLOWS

On the platform were Mrs. St. Laurent and Mrs. Pearson, along with local and district Liberal candidates and party officials. Durocher Hall was filled to overflowing and a few remained outdoors listening via loudspeakers.

In the last election, the Liberals held 64 of Quebec province's 75 seats. The Progressive Conservatives took nine. They are seeking to increase that number, promising Quebec a rise in cabinet representation from the present three members

Mr. Pearson, touching on unity, nationalism, the need for a distinctive flag and peace, said there is a historic association between the Liberals and Quebec, resting on the fact there can be no unity, or development "unless we accept the principle that the two founding races are equal."

Quebec, he said, wanted to play its full role in Canadian affairs without dominating or being dominated by others. It wanted to be treated with justice. The province realized that it was as part of the Liberal party that they could play an "important role."

OVATION FOR FLAG STAND

Mr. Pearson got a rousing ovation when he expressed himself in favor of a "distinctive national flag."

He praised Mr. St. Laurent and his policies, made clear he would give French and English elements of Canada equal treatment and that he would recognize and respect provincial rights.

He emphasized the need of a "Canada-first" policy; of a clear and independent Canadian view. Canada had to determine its own destiny through its own decisions.

"We do not merely 'go along' with anybody or anything. We go along with policies that make for peace and security."

At home, there had to be "complete equality" between the French and English.

"We should rejoice in the fact —and not to accept it grudgingly—that we have two races, two languages, two cultures, two traditions. It helps to give us a distinct national position on the North American continent; it helps to preserve our separate identity."

Now changed almost beyond recognition, this once lovely house was the home in the 1840's of Dr. and Mrs. G. N. Ridley and their family of six sons and two daughters, one of whom married the Baron de Rottenburg. The house, when first built well over a hundred years ago, commanded a regal view of lawn and bay's blue water. The pioneers would not allow Dr. Ridley to give up medicine to be a gentleman farmer, upon his arrival from England. (Photo by Howard Graham.)

Old Houses of the Quinte Area

By Viva Richmond Graham

THE RIDLEY HOUSE

Some old houses stare unseeingly, at the passing present with gaping, bleak windows - - like a mutilated thing - - mute, inarticulate. As if a wicked fairy, resentful of having been excluded from the inner circle of gay, warm, loving life, it once sheltered, had cast a traditional spell over it, in its desolation - - of silence.

There stands such a house, in Belleville, down along South Front Street, across the street from the harbor. When first built some hundred years ago, it commanded a regal view of lawn, the bay's blue water, with a forest beyond. Though an industry is lodged therein now, bits of its original self show through. The upstairs portion hasn't been used much. Some of the windows are the original 24 paned ones. One window still has the original shutters—with no bar in the centre. Original doors; a newel post; windows and walls, which a doctor's family once knew so well. A family of eight children, two of whom were daughters, one, whose little daughter's tombstone in the churchyard of St. Thomas' Church, reads:

> "Here rest the remains of Caroline Louisa Frances, daughter of the Baron de Rottenburg and Louisa Mary Ridley, his wife, who departed this life, August 3, 1840, aged three months and sixteen days."

This tombstone lies not far from another tombstone, of the grandfather, which reads:

> "George Neville Ridley, M. R. C. S., London, England, died 1857, aged 62."

Who was this doctor? How did he happen to come to Belleville. What was the romance between his daughter and a Baron—a century ago?

A bit of research has disclosed, back in the days when the average life time of Englishmen was thirty-five years, and doctors gave as a dose of medicine to the King, to relieve a fever (they hoped!): gold dust, powdered pearl-dust, dust of human skulls, several ounces of baby's tears, as the ingredients, there was born on February 22, 1794, at Kimbolton in Devonshire, England, One, George Neville Ridley.

The Ridleys were a family of physicians. It seemed only natural that young George should follow his father's footsteps and studied at St. Thomas and Guy Hospital. He was a pupil under the eminent doctor of those days, Sir Ashley Cooper. George had a knack, they said of being able to diagnose most accurately, which was quite amazing.

While in the middle of his course, George decided to visit Canada on a lark. He felt the need to "get away from it all," and so landed in Quebec where he had family friends. Indeed, he seemed to have friends and letters of introduction all along the way. He proceeded to Montreal where he met and visited Les Mesuriers, The Moffats. On to Kingston he stayed with Dr. Sampson; at Cobourg, visited the Boultons and in Toronto saw the Robinsons. This was in the year of 1818.

Upon his return to London, he finished his medical course, received his degree of M.R.C.S. and married. He and his brother-in-law decided to form a partnership and practise at St. Albans. But unfortunately, due to jealousy on the part of the brother-in-law, this partnership dissolved. To relieve his disappointment, George remembering the Canadian trip of six years before determined to settle in Canada, give up medicine and become a gentleman farmer! From a grandson of Dr. Ridley comes the information that he not only did so, but bought a farm of 140 acres near Belleville for a dozen silver knives and forks.

But, as can be imagined, he didn't farm long! News soon spread that he was a doctor, and the demands on his time were many and great. Sometimes in order to reach his patients he had to travel through forests. When this was the case he would drive in a cart as far as he dared, then unhitch his horse, put on "the grasshopper" as he called his saddle, and ride horseback the rest of the way. Or if the patient lived more in open land, he would sometimes take his son with him for company and make good use of the time quizzing the youngster on medical questions. Needless to say, the boy followed in his father's calling.

In the meantime George bought land an a house in Belleville, as mentioned above. He led an active, useful life. In 1838 he became a member of the Upper Canada Medical Board and later was one of a board of four to form a board of education for the District of Victoria. And he was a Tory.

The house was lively with a family of six boys and two daughters. Bessie never married, but Louisa met and fell in love with a young military officer, a son of General de Rottenburg, who was president of the Council of Upper Canada from June 19th to Dec. 18, 1813. Young Rottenburg was born at Kingston in 1807, and his military career led him to take part in the rebellion of 1837-38 when he became a Major. ~~Later he~~ became Adjutant General of the Militia. When the 100th Prince of Wales Regiment was raised in 1858, Rottenburg was offered the command. He took the regiment to England and then off to foreign service to Gibraltar. In 1861 he gave up his commission and retired from the army, and became a Military Knight of Windsor.

As for George Ridley, like so many doctors who serve others with no thought of self, he became very ill in prime of his career, at the age of forty-eight. He had diabetes. In the course of three months his weight of 225 pounds melted away to a shadow of his former self. He never fully recovered from these attacks, when he died at the age of 62 years.

So the old house, forgotten though it may be, stirs with many memories of the family named Ridley, a name which is still well known in the city. A descendant, also lives in Banff, owner of a large gift shop there, and the name given by another relative is proudly possessed by a college in an Ontario city.

Next Saturday Mrs. Graham will write about octagonal houses.

On Dog Teams and Deadlines

The legend that a newspaperman will do almost anything to get a story, has more than some basis in fact.

Take James Y. Nicol of the Toronto Star. To get an interesting story on the DEW line, he flew north, hired a dog team, and proceeded by dog sled 400 miles along the Arctic shore. Such romantic doings in search of stories are almost commonplace to the Toronto Star because it is Star tradition to get there first and get the facts. That's why 15 Star newsmen flew to Ottawa last spring in a chartered airliner to cover a jet crash. Why once, an entire train was chartered to take one Star man to interview survivors of a shipwreck.

To get the news, no expense or trouble is too great for the Star. That's why so many people find the Toronto Star the greatest . . . the most interesting newspaper they've ever read!

THE GOLDEN YEARS

This Retired Man Will Show You How to Live Happily on Pension

By THOMAS COLLINS

Here is the case history of a retired man that will show you some of the areas where you'll save money when you get your pension and step out into the Golden Years.

The man retired in January, 1956. He was a white-collar man, worked a five-day week, and made a little more than $6,000 a year. He prefers to be known as Mr. H. R. W.

"I was seriously worried for some time prior to 65 over whether my wife and I could make ends meet," Mr. H. R. W. says. "So some of what I tell you is the result of planning. The rest is what I discovered.

"Eating turned out to be the biggest discovery," he says. "I was used to three fairly substantial meals a day. A month after retirement I was down to two moderate meals a day, breakfast about 9 dinner at 6, ond usually some coffee during the afternoon."

He says he bought a freezer after retirement — for $15 down and $15 a month — because with time to forage for cheap food in season he learned he could save that amount. He found that driving out in the country and hunting bargains in meat and vegetables was an interesting game.

MAJOR BUDGET ITEM

"So in two ways, eating less and buying for less money, I made substantial and unexpected cuts in what turns out to be the major item in a retirement budget.

"I wouldn't say everybody can do this. Food is a very personal matter to people. But we are spending probably $15 a week less for eating than I expected when I retired."

On an automobile, Mr. H.R.W. planned. "I saw during World War II how durable good, standard cars are — seven or eight years' worth. I spaced my trade-ins so I could acquire a new model sedan six months before retiring and get it paid for before the salary stopped. It'll last until I'm 72, and I doubt that I will want to drive after that."

Mr. H.R.W. also planned his smoking. He was a cigaret man and averaged a pack and a half a day, partly due to the pressure of the job. At retirement he converted to a pipe and found a 20-cent bag of tobacco lasted him two days.

"On drinking I made a discovery," he says. "A big one I discovered you can't. First, because alcohol is too expensive for a pension. Second, because a man with nothing to do and nobody to report to can become an alcoholic in a month."

He also made a discovery on clothes. He says that in the five years before retirement he bought an average of one and a half suits a year, five shirts three ties, one hat, and a third of an overcoat. This was running about $13 a month. He retired with two fairly good suits and a good overcoat, and in the two years since he has bought one pair of shoes, three pairs of socks, and some underwear for a total of $14.

"You think you are probably going to need the same kind of clothes in retirement. But you don't. Shirt-and-tie occasions taper off rapidly. Church and a few weddings are all you dress for, and you'd be surprised how long your old suits and shirts last. You are no fashion plate. But it's not too important to you."

Mr. H.R.W. dropped a hint to a daughter that he'd like an electric razor the first Christmas after retirement, and thereby eliminated the buying of shaving cream and razor blades. "You don't have to get all the fuzz off anyway after you retire."

He started buying only standard gasoline for his car, and insists the car has never known the difference. He buys oil five gallons at a time. TV has become his entertainment.

"You'd better not go into retirement needing furniture," he says. "Plan far enough in advance so you retire with chairs and rugs that will see you through. And don't retire with a house that's over about 30 years old. You'll be inclined to let things go after a while and it'll come to look like a spook house."

Mr. H.R.W. thinks every man should figure up what it costs him to hold a job — before he retires. It'll be a consolation later on He figures his job including deductions, income taxes, insurance, etc., ran him about $20 a week.

U.S. Army Major Transferred to Another Post

SEOUL (AP) — The United States 8th Army disclosed that Maj. Thomas G. James who carried a Korean boy in a nail-studded box 25 miles by helicopter, has been transferred to another post.

At the same time he was formally charged, along with another officer and a sergeant, with mistreating the Korean boy who was beaten, tarred and put into the small box after he was caught stealing.

James had been under investigation since the disclosure that Kim Choon Il 14, had been enclosed in the box after being caught with items stolen from the maintenance centre.

James flew the boy in the box by helicopter to Ascom City, 25 miles from the centre, last week.

The incident raised a storm of protest in South Korea.

VISITS PRINCESS

Mr. and Mrs. Sage Snider, of Charles Street, are enjoying an around-the-world cruise. At present they are in Bangkok where they have been guests of the Princess Clumbold Fon Boriphat of the ruling house of Thailand. While in Canada three years ago, the princess visited Mrs. Snider's daughter, Mrs. Joan Copeland, of Salmon River Motel, at Shannonville. The Sniders report that the princess is even more gracious in her own native land and, has personally selected gifts to be brought home for Mr. and Mrs. Copeland.

'Putting In, Taking Out' Topic at W.A.

The regular meeting of Centre St. W.A. was held at the church on Wednesday with 13 members, three visitors and Rev. W. E. Dovey present.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Lula Longhurst.

Mrs. Lucille Collins presided at the piano.

The scripture I Kings 19:1-18 was read by Mrs. Verna Morris.

The topic of worship from the W.A. booklet was "Prayer, God Talking", read by Mrs. Gladys McLeod.

Some discussion took place regarding the tea to be held at the church one evening this month, and plans were made to hold a crokinole party at the home of Mrs. Newman.

GUEST SPEAKER

The president introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Charles Wilson, who gave an inspiring talk on the subject "Putting in and Getting Out", which pointed out that whatever one puts into life one gets out of it; if one gives little of herself to church work very little is received in return. Her talk was greatly enjoyed and gave her listeners food for thought.

Mrs. Longhurst, on behalf of the members, thanked Mrs. Wilson for her talk and hoped she would come again in the near future.

Mr. Dovey closed the meeting. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Gladys McLeod and Mrs. Keitha Ferguson. A social half hour was spent.

Women's Institute

MOIRA W.I.

The March meeting of Moira Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. G. Thompson, taking the form of a pot-luck supper with an attendance of 45, including visitors and children.

The president, Mrs. W. Collins, opened the meeting.

Some discussions regarding business and letters received took place. A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Milton Vanderwater, Mrs. Earl Thompson, and Bessie Holbert, was appointed to suggest the officers for the ensuing year.

The meeting was turned over to the convener, Mrs. Florence Mumby, for the program which included readings by Mrs. M. Vanderwater, Mrs. Earl Thompson, Mrs. F. Emerson, and Bessie Holbert. Music was provided by Mrs. Dave Mumby.

A demonstration on Seed Pictures, and other handicrafts was shown by Mrs. Angus Mumby.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Thompson, on April 2nd.

Collection amounted to $13.

Homework Problems Topic At H-S Assoc.

Following the inspection of classrooms, the regular monthly meeting of St. Michael's Academy Parent-Teacher Association was held in the school auditorium on Monday evening. Mr. M. J. Lynch, president, acted as chairman.

Dr. George Stobie addressed the group on behalf of the Canadian Red Cross which is seeking 1,500 donors to establish a blood bank at the Belleville General Hospital.

During the business agenda, a motion was passed to send two delegates to the Parent-Teachers Convention in Toronto at Easter.

The meeting was turned over to Mr. Paul Cleary, who acted as moderator for group discussion on "Problems of Homework." Everyone attending participated, and problems of T.V., lack of privacy, proper supervision and extra curricular activities were discussed.

Attendance plaques were won by Mrs. Brennan's class at the junior school, and Sister Mary Evita's class at the Academy.

The Reverend Father W. J. McGee closed the meeting.

ST. ANDREW'S W.A.

WELLINGTON — The members of St. Andrew's Woman's Auxiliary met recently in the home of Mrs. Sam Tripp.

Mr. C. E. Farr, student missioner of St. Andrew's, offered the opening prayers. Mrs. W. A. Davern chose the Gospel for the first Sunday in Lent for the Scripture reading.

Before proceeding with the reports, the president, Mrs. G. Upton, warmly welcomed Mr. Farr and the W.A. members. Sympathy was extended to Mrs. Tripp who that day had received the sad news of her sister's death.

Favorable reports were given by the secretary, the treasurer, prayer partner secretary, and J.A. and G.A. leaders.

Mrs. Blower, for the J.A., announced that J.A. rally will be held in Kingston, April 10, and asked for help to transport her 14 girls. Mrs. Tripp, for the G.A., reported that the G.A. festival will be held in Napanee on April 19.

Included in the correspondence was the monthly board letter which stated that the Diocesan annual meeting will be held April 22-24; a letter from the Diocesan treasurer presenting the proposed pledge for this branch and "Thank-you" notes from Mrs. A. Ogilvy and Mrs. G. Sprigings, who had been remembered when they were ill.

Besides the regular collection of dues, Dorcas money was received by the treasurer.

During the business period it was decided to accept the proposed pledge and send the first instalment immediately. Members were reminded to bring their thankoffering to the next meeting. The president reported for the Dorcas secretary and said that the bale requirements had been purchased and that it would be ready for shipment before the annual meeting. All members joined in sending a birthday message to Mrs. Geo. Bell.

Mr. Farr, in his remarks, said he was pleased to find a W.A. in his parish and commended the members on the splendid work shown by the various reports. Mr. Farr, who is deeply interested in Missionary work told many facts which will serve to stimulate missionary efforts.

Mrs. Gay, assisted by Mrs. Blower, presented a chapter from the study book on "Japan." Members participated in a skit. Mr. Farr concluded this part of the meeting.

Mrs. Upton thanked Mr. Farr for his informative and helpful remarks and Mrs. Tripp for opening her home at this time.

A pleasant social hour followed while refreshments were served.

The place of meeting on March 25 will be the home of Miss Ruby Nash.

Seasonal Outfit

By ALICE ALDEN

Fine wool in a delectable shade of beige is the basis for a handsome dress-and-jacket costume in which Larry Aldrich incorporates many of the important current trends. The frock is simple, with a straight high neckline and short sleeves. Soft fullness over the hips is partly concealed. The jacket has an easy fitting, wide, tailored neckline and tabbed pockets atop the seamed detail.

This --- and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

T and T would like to refer to a significant example of how much our free press means to us in Canada. Recently there have been two letters in the Ontario Intelligencer about the last community concert at the auditorium in B.C.I.V.S. It is interesting to see or be confronted with an established fact when it applies to oneself. Any good reader or faithful reader of Perry Mason knows that one of that amazing lawyer's gifts is to illustrate dramatically how two people will see the same identical object yet not see the same thing at all. When T and T read Miss Riggs' letter, we got the impression that she was in complete agreement with Mr. Eugene Lang's justifiable criticism concerning lighting. It seemed to us that a rational and equally justifiable explanation was offered why the criticism was also justified. When Miss Riggs ended her explanation by throwing out the question that maybe something might be done to rectify the mechanical, and not the performers' deficiencies we gathered that she rather diplomatically agreed that the matter could be corrected. Anyway, we feel certain, although we have not contacted either writer, that they each would defend the right to criticize as well as the right to explain with equal courtesy and appreciation each other's qualifications. Both are a fine contribution to the growth of music in Belleville. We believe sincerely that this is a case where devotion and dedication to music is a mutual love and that neither desires nor intends to be pitted against the other. T and T believes that we are all on one side, the side of good music, presented in the best possible manner under given and attainable circumstances.

The Queen Mother whose visit to Australia and New Zealand has been noteworthy for a minimum of formality is proving once more what we have known of her ever since the last war — she loves people and is one of us. Probably her quiet wholesomeness has been her greatest and most endearing charm. Her appeal to the spiritual reaches its finest degree when she talks about, and with universal simplicity, the family and the home. In Australia she urged Australians to remember the importance of the home: "In this vast continent, in all the excitement of building so successfully a great nation, I hope you will remember the importance of your family life. In an age of shifting values and uncertainty a happy home provides the one sure foundation on which young people can build their future." In Sydney she spent one day meeting people in their own homes. She met housewife, the husband and the children. She had no part of formality. She took afternoon tea in one home, in another was the first to comfort a crying child and at another she arrived just after the husband had killed a five foot black snake in a vacant lot next door. As she went from suburb to suburb she stopped often to chat with children. What an exemplary housewife this wonderful woman has been in spite of pomp and circumstances!

Have you attended a pot-luck supper among our neighbors in the country recently? If you have never shared the fare and the hospitality of a pot-luck supper in the country you do not know what you have missed. If you are like us and have over the years been to many of them but have missed one for too long a time, we suggest you renew the delight of a pot-luck supper again soon. Watch for notices in the paper. T and T is not indulging in, nor is it dangerously risking, comperisons. We mean a pot-luck supper in the country and just that. The tables heaped with delicious home-cooked food, the pies, the cakes, the — oh, just everything you can imagine. Then for that most wonderful of appetizers, the good cheer, the friendly "howdie," the good natured hum of talk and laughter, and what more can one desire? Here even the cynic and sceptic can discover anew the best things in life still exist if we search for them. They can be found even for a fleeting hour or so at a country pot-luck supper. We were invited to one this week and we thank our hosts and hostesses. We enjoyed every moment and want to pass along to others the suggestion — go to a pot-luck supper soon in the country. You will be happy you did. Ours is a fortunate land and we might stop occasionally to count our blessings and our bounty.

A weekend thought: "The less a thing can be proved, the angrier we get when we argue about it."

Havana Is City of Excitement With Nightclubs and Casinos

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Havana, Cuba — The swimming pool of the new Capri Hotel here is on the roof. They can save a lot of money on their water bill up there because in three days here we haven't seen it yet and, so far as we know, neither has anyone else who arrived with us on our Pan Am Clipper from Miami. Maybe nobody in the world has seen it but the lifeguard.

The social centre of a resort hotel usually is the pool. But where you expect to encounter it in a Havana hotel you find instead something called a casino.

Apparently this is where most of the guests check in, rather than the hotel. We saw no one but an occasional maid in the halls and were quite sure we spotted baggage brought into the lobby and left there for three days by guests who never did get to their rooms.

Gambling may be an unfamiliar resort attraction to most Americans, but here it rarely stays so for long. One reason is the casinos don't bear the den-of-iniquity air they do in Las Vegas. Unlike the ones in Las Vegas, they do not represent Havana's major attraction. And they are run with typical Latin discretion. The process whereby one disposes of or gains money effortlessly is avoided in such embarrassingly public places as the lobbies of the hotels, which is the Las Vegas approach.

The Casino de Capri, for instance, is run calmly and decorously by Nat Harris, a non-drinking and non-gambling New York nightclub veteran who casually informed us that the casino had once had occasion to extend $1,000,000 of credit to a single guest. (Yes, he was good for it.)

It was not so hard to believe after we observed a wealthy Cuban sportsman win $32,000 in one streak and then tip the croupiers $1,000. At one eye-popping dice table where all transactions are in cash instead of chips, we estimated $20,000 in hundred-dollar bills on the table riding on a single roll.

While the unseasonable cold undoubtedly is keeping some guests from the pool, it isn't damaging business any.

In Miami, hotel operators are hurting so badly that even partners are talking to each other, but there isn't a first class hotel room available here. Thereby hangs a tale, the end of which may someday reveal Havana as resort rivaling Miami in popularity 'nd glamor.

MANY NEW HOTELS

Striking new hotels, complete with the mouth-watering casinos, are springing up fast enough so that accommodations will be no problem soon.

With more and more people flying to Florida each year, airlines are plugging the fact that a flight to Havana from up north or out west costs only a few dollars more than a first-class ticket to Miami. Even starting from Miami, it's only $18 and 60 minutes each way. You would spend almost that much time and money consuming in a bar the frozen Daiquiris and canapes that Pan Ann serves free en route.

You get awfully abroad for that. Miami is New York, way downtown, but Havana is Latin America for fair. As the calypso song goes, it's where de rum come from, and so do the cigars and imported perfumes all for a fraction of their cost on the continent.

It's the home of the world's most exciting nightclub, the description-defying Tropicana which, if it is not the only spot with two orchestras, is the only one so large that both can play at once at opposite ends and not be heard by each other.

There must have been four million people in the place on Valentine's Day and taxis were lined up for three blocks trying to deposit more.

The spine-chilling Afro-voodoo shows are laid on with a lavish hand that makes the outdoor stage almost incidental; much of the show takes place on ramps laced through the surrounding palms. Never mind, you wouldn't understand. You've got to see to believe.

There are fine new continental restaurants like Herman Zimmer's La Rue 19, one of the few places where cherries jubilee is prepared right, with the cherries staying hot on the cold ice cream.

EXCITING CITY

Like many Latin American cities, Havana is not beautiful, but it is exciting. It is at once ultramodern and seedy, studded with slums as well as presidential monuments, with pushcarts and sidewalk bistros as well as metropolitan department stores and posh nightclubs.

Above all, it is a city of sounds. There is the gentle, noncommercial Latin music, as different from what we hear on the radio as bop is from Bizet. Loved by all Cubans, it is heard on street corners, in cafes, from strolling begger musicians and even oldfashioned street singers. The bands in the nightclubs play without a break until four in the morning, and later if the customers won't go home.

There is the sound of cordial swearing by all drivers at all other drivers and at policemen, who swear back instead of arresting; the hawking of lottery tickets in the streets; the freely blasted taxi horns; and even the universal sound used to attract waiters, friends, or anyone: a loud sucking noise with the lips, loud sucking noise with the lips, sort of the way you would call here kitty-kitty-kitty.

And of course, the very American sounds of rattling slot machines and "Seven the winner, pay the line, take the bar, coming out again, who wants eleven this time. . ."

Centre Street United Lists Activities

The "Tyro" boys' groups of Centre Street United Church, College Hill United Church, and Front Road United Church have almost finished the winter hockey schedule, with College Hill so far having the edge in games played. Good sportsmanship and co-operation characterized all the games, under the direction of the Reverend W.E.G. Dovey, Mr. Clifford Belch and Mr. Robert Schammerhorn.

A father and son banquet for the three groups, and the presentation of a silver cup to the winning team will climax the hockey season.

College Hill and Centre Street senior young men also played a series of hockey games in the Belleville and Stirling arenas. The teams were evenly matched, but Centre Street took the final and deciding game for the first place.

A bake sale was heln recently by the W. A. of Centre Street United Church with a tea in the church hall, from which a substantial sum was realized.

The C.G.I.T. of Centre Street United Church also held successful pie social, at which time three educational and entertaining films were shown by Mr. Clifford Belch.

The Y.P. of Centre Street United Church sponsored a crokinole party in the church hall, and on Wednesday evening of this week an "Adult Group" was organized for Christian fellowship and service. An interesting and helpful program was discussed.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Sue M. — It's high time Kid Brother pitched in!

George M. — He would if he could.

• • •

Sue M. — I don't think I'm a complaining wife, but some things sure get my goat.

For years my husband has contributed to his parents' support by giving them generous gifts and "loans" that don't get repaid. It couldn't be helped, I know, but it came out of our family's pocket just the same. Besides this, George helped his brother through college by sending him gifts of money.

Now George's father won't be able to work any more. He asks for nothing — but we know that Social Security won't cover expenses. George's brother hasn't even asked how the folks are going to get along. It's high time Kid Brother pitched in.

• • •

George M. — I resent Sue's taking that attitude. She knows, as well as I do, that my kid brother is one of the swellest guys on earth. He isn't one to shirk his responsibilities. If he doesn't contribute now, it's just because he can't manage it.

My brother recently bought a home and is in up to his ears in debt. I know for a fact that he hasn't bought a new suit in years.

Of course, the money isn't exactly gushing in my home either. I have been able to do all I have for my parents and brother because Sue and I budget so carefully and have pared down expenses to the bone. My brother doesn't know how to do that.

• • •

The Council: It's not too hard to become "the swellest guy on earth" on the basis of intentions.

No, we don't doubt Kid Brother's intentions. But it does take real will and effort to do anything at all. Without will and effort, good intentions lie sleeping, merely serving the purpose of making the intender feel good.

"I would contribute if I could," says Good Intender. That takes care of both conscience and pocketbook.

For Kid Brother's sake, as well as his own, George should awaken his brother to his moral responsibility. It is really not George's affair to consider his brother's budget problems. If the boy wants to live beyond his income that's his business. It does not change his obligations.

If he waits for Kid Brother's convenience, we have a notion that George will be paying through the nose for the rest of his life.

Readers' Saturday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Letter: . . . I love it when you write about wheat germ, buying whole wheat bread and the essentials of good eating. I love to lap it all up and try to fill my little ones with good nutrition. Now you had a series of soups and I want to tell you of my experience of homemade soups. At a local store they have a barbecue for chicken, and they sell the inards, liver, gizzards, and hearts for fifty cents. My husband secures a bag . . . I imagine if I measured them they would be about three cups. I boil these all up together for 3 hours. At the end of 3 hours the gizzards are tender and the livers are whole, but have chipped into the broth. I strain it, pick out the edibles, add the chips and little bits of meat. Then I thicken it with instant potato, then bring to a boil, add quick - cook rice and cool. This soup pot lasts for a few meals, but the joy of it is that any left over vegetable from suppers are popped into it, any broth from canned vegetables, etc. So you see nothing goes out to the garbage. I have a soup pot and 3 little ones to fill, (they love the inards to nibble on). Another thing about the instant potato . . . I have discovered for the baby when the meat dinners, and soups, omelettes, in the baby food are too thin, when he is in the inbetween stage before he has learned to chew and spits out when it is too thin, if you add the instant potato till it is thickened, he will enjoy his dinners better, just a hint. Another thing is one day I was having a dinner party around Christmas time, and I was preparing devilled eggs, and I had put the yolks in the small bowl of the mix master and added a mixture of vinegar, milk, salt, pepper and onion salt, but they were too sloppy for filling the whites nicely. Well what could I do with about a dozen and a half eggs at stake? So do you know, I grabbed my crutch instant potato, and my, they whipped up beautifully. I filled the eggs and they were mounded up high. Sprinkled with paprika, they were the hit of the party and went like hot cakes. I'm wondering what you thought of this for our Easter eggs . . . John also reads your column. So you remember "Pigs Tails" — the ones you had at the plowing match? We just love them and I get a whole pan full from the local packers for 75c at 15c a pound. I have given this recipe out to dozens, and have even served them to company. No one would believe how delicious they are until they tasted them, thanks to you! . . . During the last three years you have taken me out of the dumps. I'm sure you are a joy to millions. My husband is also a lover of Chinese food. Do you happen to have the recipe for Won Tons, they are made wet or dry, but I mean the dry ones you dip into a plum sauce. . . . Mrs. J. McI.

Answer: Your letter is delightful. Thanks for a good home-made and economical soup and for the tip on instant potato. I will try it next time I make devilled eggs. Alas, my precious infants are now in Germany, so I'll pass your idea on to Marianne. Would you watch for the recipe for Won Tons within the next two weeks, please?

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

RISE UP, O MEN OF GOD

Rise up, O men of God,
Have done with lesser things,
Give heart and soul and mind and strength
To serve the King of Kings.

Rise up, O men of God,
His kingdom tarries long;
Bring in the day of brotherhood
And end the night of wrong.

Rise up, O men of God,
The church for you doth wait;
Her strength unequal to her task;
Rise up, and make her great.

Lift high the cross of Christ,
Tread where His feet have trod;
As brothers of the Son of man,
Rise up, O men of God

It was the Men and Religion Movement which lifted men spiritually across America some years ago that inspired the Rev. Dr. William P. Merrill, a minister and pulpit orator of national prominence, to write this stirring hymn.

The Rev. Dr. Merrill was serving at the time as pastor of the famous Brick Presbyterian Church in New York. Earlier in his career, he held pastorates in Philadelphia and in Chicago. He was born in Orange, New Jersey in 1867 and was graduated from Rutgers College and from Union Theological Seminary.

Another great hymn by the famous clergyman, entitled "Not Alone For Mighty Empire", has become precious to Christians around the globe. It is usually sung to the tune of the popular "Austrian Hymn".

Dr. Merrill turned out this hymn-poem during a pastorate at the Sixth Presbyterian Church in Chicago. He had come home from a union Thanksgiving service at another church and a prayer which had impressed him at the devotions kept running through his mind. Before long, he began to put his thoughts into words and soon the hymn was finished. It is widely used today by worshippers in all churches.

ADDRESS BIRTHDAY GIFT TO LITTLE GIRL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to send my 3-year-old niece a present for her birthday, which is quite soon. I would like to know if I should address the package to her mother or to her. She seems pretty young to receive mail. — S. T.

Even though this little niece of yours is such a very young lady, I am sure that it will make her birthday even more exciting and festive and "special" to receive a package or an envelope addressed to her: Miss Cynthia Smith. (Use the title with her name.) And I can picture her mother delightedly explaining to her, "This is for you, my dear Birthday Girl, with your name on it and someone's loving birthday greetings in it."

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Gregory Revived Christianity

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Wednesday, March 12 — There is only one big figure, and therefore only one big day, in the religious calendar this week — which gives us a fine opportunity to deal with some questions that have come in from readers.

First, the week's important saint: Gregory the Great, sixth-century pope and builder. All English-speaking people owe him a debt of gratitude, for it was he who sent missionaries to the British Isles and revived and strengthened Christianity there after the Anglo-Sacon invaders had all but demolished the early British church.

A charming story tells that Gregory, before he was pope, saw in the slave market in Rome a number of typically handsome, fair-haired, blue-eyed Anglo-Saxon boys, who were military captives, offered for sale. Struck by their appearance, he asked who they were and, when told they were Angles, he said, "Not Angles but angels."

"Where are they from?" asked Gregory. "Deira," was the reply. "De ira (wrath of God, in Latin), indeed," said Gregory, "and it is from the wrath of God they shall be delivered."

He wanted to go himself to Britain, but in 590 he was made pope and his travels were over. But seven years later he sent St. Augustine and 40 monks, and the Christian colonization of England in its modern sense was begun.

There had, of course, been Christians — bishops, priests, and congregations — there for centuries before, but the invasions from the Continent a century and a half earlier had driven them into seclusion in the mountains of Wales and Scotland.

Gregory, for all his greatness and high position, was a man of real humility. As Bishop of Rome he had, inevitably, tremendous prestige. But when the Patriarch of Alexandria addressed him as "Universal Bishop," Gregory said sternly, "Away with those words which inflate vanity and wound charity."

SEVEN-BRANCH CANDLESTICK

One of the questions from readers is "What is the meaning of the seven-branch candlestick and where does it come from?"

To take one part of the question at a time, we can be a little more sure of the meaning than of the origin. In the Bible, the first mention of the seven-branch lamp is in Exodus, chapter 25, verses 31 to 40, in which Yahweh Himself orders it made.

There is good reason to suppose other nations and other religions had such a candlestick even before then, but the only statement we are sure we could support is that the seven-branch candlestick now used in both Jewish and Christian worship goes back to the Temple at Jerusalem and the one in the Temple goes back to this very early time recorded in Exodus.

As to the meaning, there are at least two legitimate guesses. One is that the reference is to the first week of Creation — six days of actual creation and one of rest. However, in Zechariah, chapter 4, the prophet says the seven lights are the seven eyes of the Lord. This leads to a suspicion that they are somehow related to the Babylonian idea of the seven planets (sun, moon, Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn) as deities looking down from the sky.

THE CHRISTADELPHIANS

Another reader asks "Who and what are the Christadelphians?"

They are a small sect (less than 5,000 members) founded here in the United States a century ago by John Thomas, an English physician who had come to live in Brooklyn. Dr. Thomas had first joined the Disciples of Christ, but later repudiated them because of certain objections he had to their organizational structure and to their stand about baptism. He left them, to establish his own church, which he called a restoration of primitive Christianity.

Two distinguishing features of Christadelphian doctrine are:

1. The Holy Ghost is not a person but is rather the power of God working through man.
2. There will eventually be a world-wide theocracy (government by God) centering at Jerusalem

Christadelphians are "pre-millennialists," which means they believe the second coming of Christ will be at the beginning (post-millennialists say at the end) of 1,000 years of the Kingdom of Heaven on earth.

Christadelphians have about 150 congregations, called societies, in 24 American states. They do not have ministers. Their name means Brothers of Christ.

Protection is a Father's job . . .

Every thoughtful young married man takes pride in caring for his family . . . anticipating their needs . . . guarding them from personal danger. BUT THIS IS NOT ENOUGH . . . it is also his duty to provide adequate protection for them should death wipe out his earning power.

nterpreting the Services Of the Attendance Officer

(Taken from Vol. I of Handbook for Attendance Counselling Services)

A good school attendance pro- am is everybody's business— rents', schools', social agen- e' and indutries'.

To individual children and rents, the interpretation of hool attendance services hould be the expression of the hool's interest in and concern r, the happiness and success of e child, who does not seem at e time, to be fitting into the chool's regime. A quick review f the technique employed re- eals that, unlike other groups nd school personnel, attend- nce workers visit homes as a egular approach towards un- erstanding the problems of on-attendance.

In a modern school system, he official obligation goes beyond the mere legal requirements that educable children be kept in school. It is now gener- lly recognized that, if a child is physically and mentally well and feels the education he is receiving is worthwhile, he will wish to attend school. Such a viewpoint requires that the attendance worker approach his task as one of educational adjustment rather than one of force, compulsion being the least effective means of securing regular attendance.

It is of primary concern to lend assistance or to give help where help is required. Such help is imperative, but equally imperative is the determination that the type of help given be the very best that is available. The best is the type given by the attendance worker who creates the kind of atmosphere in which parents can talk about their problems — the worst where the impression of authority is the dominant note. The best is the type given by the person who believes that "what he says" is no more important than "how he says it" — the worst where "how it is said" is not even considered. The best is the type given by the worker who can make parents feel that he is humane and is a human being who can understand their case and who will interpret this case kindly and fairly to the school — the worst is the frigid attitude that enforces a regulation to show authority.

SPECIAL KNOWLEDGE NEEDED

Like everyone engaged in the profession of education, the attendance worker must have, not only the essential qualities of personality but also the technical equipment needed to understand and to help. He must likewise have at least a basic knowledge of human motives and behavior and must know by training and experience the aims and procedures of the schools.

Attendance work not only involves visits to the home during regular school hours to see the mother alone but at nights to talk with the family group. Fathers of the children have been left out of the picture, except for breadwinning, far too long. Schools have relied largely upon the mothers for matters relating to attendance. Now they are finding more and more that fathers can give a great deal of help. The little boy who wrote an essay about his father for Readers Digest gave them their rightful place. This is what he wrote: "Fathers are very important. If it were not for them there would be practically no children running around these streets.

Attendance workers subscribe to the theory that even though many children are non-academic and many children hate school, there are things they can learn not found in books. They may learn self respect, respect for others, dependability, punctuality, better attitudes and how to live within a group — all very important in the world of work.

PARENTAL ATTITUDES

It is true that parental feelings of responsibility towards their children's schools have been widely awakened but it is also true that their interest in the child at school is often limited to two concerns, his behavior and his academic achievement. "Were you a good boy" and "Did you get a good mark?" are still the usual questions, too frequently the only questions, a parent asks the child.

If the parents' sharing of the child's school life is to be productive, they must understand the school's role, and their own; where the two coincide and where they differ. Where they differ is often the area of greatest concern to parents, since it is the point where most difficulties arise. Parents do not always see eye to eye on every issue with a school or with an individual teacher. However, parents are not always equipped with knowledge and training which would make them useful critics. Thus a type of cold war between home and school can exist.

A child's own account of what happens at school tends to be inaccurate, incomplete, dramatized and colored by the child's own personality and attitudes, often by the parents' attitudes reflected in the child. A child tells what interests him and forgets the rest. From his account it may seem that they do nothing in school all day; or they just watch the workmen in the school yard or dream up some devilment to annoy the teacher. Perhaps to win approval, the child tells what he thinks will please the parent, or to win attention, what will alarm the parent. When these differences and difficulties arise, attendance workers are in a strategic position of offering suggestions.

HOSTILITY A FACTOR

Because of the nature of their work, attendance people are constantly called upon to handle hostility nor can it be taken personally. The conscientious worker rather hunts out the reason for the hostility and recognizes that behind most hostility is fear, anxiety, and the feeling of being threatened. Some people are only hostile at the moment and some are chronically hostile. Hostile people can be helped if given the opportunity to explain why they feel the way they do; how the situation has come to pass and what they think should be done about it. Tension is often relieved by making people feel that you can see and understand their position though you cannot necessarily accept it. An effective approach to hostility is by the use of the 3 Cc — calmness, consistency and control.

Recognition for the need to make referrals to the guidance department of the schools or mental health clinics, and the correct utilization of these services, is an important aspect of interpreting our work to the homes. There is special concern for the child when there is difficulty in environment and the circumstances such that it is only normal for the child to act the way he does. When there are difficulties with the child and his is over-restless; too docile; cannot seem to take any responsibility; has no friends; is unhappy; shows - off; or is difficult with his brothers and sisters.

This interpretation of attendance workers' services to the home is in no way intended to convey the impression that we are merely couriers of goodwill. Nor is it intended to suggest that we ever lose track of our prime responsibility, the protection of the educational future of every child. We are committed to this responsibility. In the finality, this interpretation is meant to suggest that attendance workers' services to the home are calculated through their endeavors to make school attendance effective as well as excellent.

'Low Income Farmer' Topic at Farm Forum

6th SIDNEY — Brookdale Farm Forum met on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lott to discuss the topic, "The Low Income Farmer." There were nine present and an interesting discussion was held.

This centred around why there are low income farmers. The apparent reasons are: incompetence, no wish to work, a series of accidents or trouble, However, for the sake of discussion, the low income farmer was taken to be one who has to take the little price for his produce; e.g., whole milk versus cheese factory or creamery. He would be the man who operates in a small way as compared with large operators. Today farming is "big business."

There should be a special program to help him increase his income—different ones for different cases, such as (1) farm credit; (2) information on more intensive farming: newer methods, conservation, irrigation, fertilizers.

Farming is a way of life. The farmer's main interest is not in building a big bank account. One lady said: "We'd rather be poor farmers, and live in the country, than in the city with more money."

Know Your Heart

Hardening Arteries Linked to Diet

By LOUIS HORLICK M.D., F.R.C.P. (C).

(Associate Professor of Medicine —University of Saskatchewan)

Article 9

Hardening of the arteries or atherosclerosis is the major cause of death today. The walls of the arteries become the site of mushy deposits of fat and calcium which bulge into the stream of blood and gradually narrow it to a trickle. Final blockage of the vessel may be due to clotting of the trickle of blood flowing through the narrowed artery. Blockage of arteries to the heart muscle causes coronary thrombosis or heart attacks, while blockage of major vessels to the brain causes strokes.

Recent studies have shown that whereas atherosclerosis is especially common in Western Europe and North America, it is relatively uncommon in Central America, Southern Europe and in the Orient. The common denominator in these studies appears to be the diet and it would seem that where people consume fewer calories and less of their calories as fat, their blood fats, especially cholesterol, are lower, and atherosclerosis is rare.

That this is not a racial factor has been shown in a number of studies. When people whose dietary fat intake is habitually low (be they impoverished Spaniards, South Africans of Indian descent, or Yemenite Jew) are placed on a high fat intake, their blood fats go up and their arterial troubles presumably begin.

It is difficult to separate the influence of excess calories and excess fat, as fats are a very rich course of calories (each gram of fat yields 9 calories as compared to 4 calories from a gram of carbohydrate or protein). However, there seems little doubt that either excess calories or excess fat will cause a rise in the blood fats. If excess calories are burned up by heavy work or exercise, they do not appear to contribute to the formation of increased amounts of blood fat.

Recently there has been a good deal of interest in the fact that certain vegetable oils may be taken in large amounts without elevating the blood fat levels. When they are given in place of butter fat and meat fats, the blood fat levels go down. We do not as yet know what happens to the blood fats which disappear from the blood. Some data suggests that the cholesterol is transferred to the liver and is excreted in the bowel. Vegetable oils also contain a substance called sitosterol which competes with or combines with cholesterol and removes it from the body.

It should be realized, however, that the haphazard addition of large amounts of vegetable fat calories to the diet without any other change in the pattern of the diet will only result in obesity and may even aggravate arterial diseases.

Recent work also suggests that diets high in fat pre-dispose to rapid clotting of the blood and this may play a role in the blockage of narrowed vessels of the heart or brain in atherosclerosis.

Much of our present knowledge of diet in atherosclerosis is confused and confusing. This much, however, seems clear—too many calories which are not used up by exercise are had for our arteries. If they are derived from an excessive amount of fat in the diet (and we habitually consume an excess of fat) they appear to be especially bad for our arteries. The sensible thing to do then appears to be regulation of the diet in calories, conservation of an ideal body weight and a reasonable amount of exercise. This prescription should keep our minds alert and our arteries supple.

Radar to Report Movement Of Lightning Storms to Dept.

By BRUCE LEVEET
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The restless radar guarding North America has taken on a new job—protecting Ontario forests from attack by lightning.

Last year 258 forest fires were started by lightning in Ontario. During the last five years, the total was 2,097.

This summer for the first time, radar stations watching for unidentified aircraft will also report the movement of lightning storms to the Ontario department of lands and forests.

WIDE PLAN

"Storm watching will be secondary to their original purpose," says Lionel Affleck fire control officer for Northern Ontario. "Under an agreement arranged with the RCAF and the United States Air Force by the department of national defence, the radar operators will report to the forest headquarters in each area. All it costs us is the price of a long-distance telephone call."

The department keeps watch over 174,898 square miles of land.

When a storm front is spotted, planes from the department's fleet may go up to patrol the area. The 300 forestry towers and stations will be notified to watch and report.

The radar reports will fill in a blind spot in the department's spotting—the area north of a line through Cochrane, Geraldton and Sioux Lookout, where jack pine, spruce and balsam are the principal timber. South of there, the control officer said, forestry towers are more numerous and can handle the job.

The department began experimenting last fire season, the period between April 1 and October 1 with water-filled spray tanks mounted on its 45 planes—largest fleet of its kind in Canada. The fleet will be completely equipped with the device this year.

During the last five years, more lightning fires were started in the forest districts of Sudbury, Pembroke, Chapleau, Gogama, Sault Ste. Marie, North Bay and Lindsay, than any other belt. There, more than .02 fires per square mile were reported through the coniferous and hardwood stands.

The belt through Kenora, Fort Frances, Port Arthur and White River districts came next with between .01 and .02 lightning fires per square mile through country where jack pine is the principal tree. Two orphan districts farther south — Tweed and Parry Sound—fell into this category.

SEEK EXPLANATION

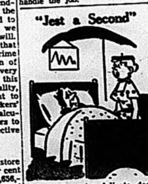
The northern areas through Sioux Lookout Geraldton, Kapuskasing, Cochrane and Swastika reported comparatively few fires of this type—less than .01 per square mile.

"We don't know why lightning fires occur in belts this way," Mr. Affleck said. "Possibly the storms sweeping in from Lake Superior account for the high number in the top-hazard districts. Maybe after a few years of radar reports we will have some of the answers."

In addition to fighting the 258 lightning fires last year, the department was called to 700 caused by "human agencies."

"If we could prevent carelessness, our main problem would be solved," Mr. Affleck said.

"Jest a Second"



"I think you're delicate, dear. That tinned cat food doesn't make pussy sick."

FOXBORO — Sympathy is extended to Mr. Jack Hill, whose father passed away last Tuesday; also to Mr. Percy Reid, whose sister, Mrs. Roblin, passed away on Sunday. Mrs. Roblin lived for a number of years in Foxboro.

Mrs. J. W. Daniels was a Sunday dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wilson.

Friends of Mr. Richard York will be sorry to learn he had a poor spell last week, but at time of writing he is much improved in health.

Mrs. Murney Reynolds spent a few days in Kingston this week.

Mrs. Arthur Fleming, Madoc, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Percy Kilpatrick.

Mrs. Clarence LaRue returned home from hospital on Friday.

Your Car

Tire Mileage Is Up to You

By EUGENE MILMOE

That new set of good tires you are buying can give you more than 50 000 miles of service, but if you driving and maintenance habits follow the average driver's pattern, you'll be lucky to get one-half this mileage from the tires.

Without correct wheel balance, alignment and inflation you can never get long life from your tires. Wear also depends on how you drive. Nothing ruins rubber as surely as an overloaded car, lightning starts, panic stops, bouncing off or squeezing the curb, and high speeds (especially on curves and turns).

Tire Tips: Always keep caps on the tire valves. Check air pressure when tires are cold. Don't use tires smaller than the standard size for your car. Help tires wear evenly by rotating them every 3,000 to 4,000 miles.

• • •

From H. R.: "more often than not, my 1951 engine misses badly when I try to make a fast start, climb a hill or drive above 45 m.p.h. A local station feels sure it's valve trouble. Do you agree?"

(A) I agree that these ailments could be caused by a sticking valve or a troublesome valve spring.

• • •

I. S. writes: "My 1956 engine was good on oil until recently; now it's terrible. Because of the sudden change, I was sure it must be due to a leak, but none can be found."

(A) Oil leaks are sometimes hard to find because a good inspection is not made at the right time, e.g., with the engine at normal operating temperature.

• • •

L. K. asks: "What would cause an engine to stall almost every time the car must make a sharp turn?"

(A) Looseness at the carburetor flange could allow air leakage when the car is banked sharply, or the carburetor float might be binding against the bowl on turns.

• • •

From G. V.: "How is it possible for engine compression to show an increase? Even normal wear of engine parts should bring about some compression loss, however slight."

(A) If heavy carbon deposits form in an engine, they decrease combustion chamber volume, and thus raise compression pressure.

• • •

SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT

Be careful about your driving—Be sure about your car.

The Week's News

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The box-like structure of a coffer dam became an ice-crushed coffin for 11 workmen on a bridge project in Montreal.

The construction tragedy occurred when a churning crush of ice and water bore down on the coffer dam, which was built to hold back water as men worked on foundations for the new bridge.

Three men somehow rode to the surface and safety but the other 11 had no chance to scramble up ladders and apparently died in an excavation about 10 feet lower than the river bottom.

The disaster occurred on Riviere des Prairies, also known as "the back river," on the north side of Montreal Island, away from the St. Lawrence.

"It all happened in about 30 seconds," said Laurent Theoret, 23 one of the survivors.

Helmeted construction men worked night and day to clear away debris so underwater rescue workers could free the bodies from the wreckage. Continuing warm weather created new dangers from upstream ice.

The victims were just finishing their day's work when death came.

STORM CRISIS

Newfoundlanders battled a emergency caused by a sleet storm that blacked out much of the Avalon Peninsula and Bell Island.

The crisis struck the most populous part of the province and left many thousands without heat and light during a period of freezing temperatures.

Some 2,300 Wabana Ore Company workers were thrown out of work on Bell Island when underwater mines flooded after electrical pumps failed. Schools and movie houses were closed.

The CBC s 300-foot transmitting antenna toppled and radio station VOCM lost its 350-foot tower. Hundreds of power and telephone poles fell beneath tons of ice.

Linesmen and laborers worked around the clock to make repairs, removing fallen wires from porches, front lawns, streets and highways. They aimed to restore service to all but a few customers by the weekend.

STUDENTS STRIKE

Quebec province college students took drastic action to back up their demands for more scholarships and increased university grants on a statutory basis.

Nearly 20,000 students from five of Quebec province's six universities staged a one-day boycott of classes. And a University of Montreal student trio went to Quebec and threatened to maintain a vigil outside Premier Duplessis' office until he agrees to see student presidents.

French- and English-speaking students joined hands in the action, only the students of Uiversity of Sherbrooke remaining outside the boycott. Premier Duplessis had promised to give careful study to a student brief, but said he was too busy to meet representatives.

SUMMIT SPARRING

Russia was the subject of the summit again, this time calling for a meeting of foreign ministers in April—and a summit meeting in June.

The Russians thus reversed themselves on the issue of a foreign ministers' meeting — which they had previously rejected—but angered the West with a demand that only "housekeeping" matters, and nothing of substance, be discussed by the ministers.

The Russians also claimed veto power on agenda items, such as divided Germany. Western countries, rejecting the proposals, indicated willingness for continued diplomatic moves toward the summit.

Incidentally, the Russians said they'd be willing to visit Washington for the summit meeting.

MAVERICK SPUTNIK

The United States fired a new earth satellite, Explorer II, and it rose from its Florida launching pad straight and true, vanishing into the heavens with a mighty roar. Then—silence.

Scientists dtveloped big ears from listening for the new Explorer's radio signals, finally announced that it had failed to go into orbit.

The final rocket of the four-stage launching missile didn't fire, the scientists said, and the whole thing fell at 10,000 miles an hour, glowing like a meteorite and burning to ashes.

Plans were already in motion for further launchings.

LABOR STAND

The British Labor party leadership—harassed by a split in the party over nuclear arms policy—received a pledge of support from representatives of the 8,000,000-strong Trades Union Congress.

The party and union chiefs said in a statement that production of hydrogen weapons should continue during a "limited" ban on tests, during which Britain should press for a world disarmament pact outlawing all nuclear weapons.

They made no concessions to the left-wing group demanding that Britain go ahead on its own with a ban on manufacture and test of such weapons.

CHAOTIC CUBA

The rebel forces of Fidel Castro kept Cuba on the rim of chaos and President Fulgencio Batista sought to hold power by a cabinet shakeup.

Rebels battled army troops in Oriente province, and also were reported to have opened a second front after landing on the south-central coast near a naval base.

Many thousands of students went on strike. Batista rejected a Roman Catholic church request to include members of opposition parties in his cabinet but instead formed a new cabinet that includes civic and business leaders.

A "national conciliation committee" was set up, backed by the church, to work for peace through mediation with both sides.

Garden Notes

Selecting Choice Cushion Mums

By FLRA M. SAVILLE

Chrysanthemums are my sister's favorite flowers, St. Valentine's day being her birthday I ordered some plants for her. They will be delivered at the proper planting time.

There are so many types and colors in mums that it is hard to make a choice. Two things influenced my selection, the Taylors moved into a new home last fall, this means plenty of room for new plants, and Oshawa being further north killing frosts are apt to come in September, or early October.

Cushion mums, which I chose will give mounds of color from mid-August through to freezing weather, weeks longer than most of the other hardy types. They are such compact plants that they are ideal for foundation planting, borders, planters and as accent plants near entrances. They can be grown in the back garden and moved to the front garden about the time the buds begin to show color. With very little care they will suffer no shock or wilting.

SINGLE STEM GROWTH

Most of the cushion mums grow from a single stem like a small shrub with a spread as wide as a bushel basket. The top being a mass of bloom of from one inch to three inch flowers. The heights vary from one to one and a half feet. The flowers may be like small double daisies or pompoms to solid azalea like blooms with incurve, or out curve petals. Often the underside of the petal is of quite a different shade. This two tone effect is quite lovely.

Bristol of Connecticut introduce many outstanding mums. This year they have distributed to their Canadian growers a new one named Bantam Yellow. It is one foot high with a mass of two and a half inch primrose yellow blooms. A low pygmy suitable for edging.

Also from Bristol another pygmy Golden Carpet, yellow pompom two foot spread.

Frosty is named the best white pompom cushion, two inch flowers, two foot spread.

Major Cushion is a bright salmon pink, a real beauty.

Commander is the best bronze, very compact 15 to 18 inches high.

Golden Mound is a deep gold blooms early.

Joyous is 16 inches tall, rose-pink with gold overlay. Lipstick is the best red cushion with a mass of glistening scarlet, good foliage and very early.

Coquette is a non-fading rose, very early, 15 inch high and one of the best cushions. Cecilia a rich purple, med. early and has incurve petals.

ALL-AMERICAN SELECTIONS

The 1958 All-American selections included four chrysanthemums. To qualify for this the plant must pass tests for superiority, color, vigor, form, hardiness and disease resistance. Showpiece, Ruby King Emperor and Burning Bronze were picked.

Showpiece has four inch blooms of deep royal rose with overlays of purple and silver. Very floriferous, good for cutting. Ruby King is a cushion of deep glowing red, fine for edging, or planters. Burning Bronze has all the colors of autumn, bronze, mahogany, old gold. Blooms are three inches across and the plant 30 inches tall. Emperor is a large flowered exhibition type with buds of deep orange opening to lemon yellow, good for garden or cutting.

Two other new introductions for 1958 are Lady Fair and Quicksilver. Lady Fair has four and a half inch cactus type blooms with incurve petals. Purple buds open to lighter lavender shade, Medium early, fine for cutting and border. Quicksilver has creamy-white sprays of four inch blooms. Wide compact plants good for bedding, and cutting, medium early.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE—Guests at a birthday party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lawson on Saturday night honoring Mr. Lawson's 86th birthday were Mr. and Mrs. Tofflemire of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ash, Mr. and Mrs. R. Oxley, Mr. and Mrs. D. Adams and daughters of Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. William Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Prest, Mr. and Mrs. George Wood, all of Ivanhoe.

Dainty refreshments were served; Mr. Lawson blew out the candles on a beautifully decorated birthday cake.

Gifts and congratulatory messages were received and an enjoyable evening was spent.

Mrs. Arnold Creaser and son have returned to their home in Wyevale, after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. S. Twiddy.

Mr. and Mrs. E. McMaster and family were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Reid.

Mrs. Burton Reid is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. Rittwage of Brighton.

Mr. Michael Kerby spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. A. Ketcheson in Havelock.

CMHC Releases $50-Million for Homes, Old Folks

OTTAWA (CP)—Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation funds for the immediate future are to be concentrated on advances for private dwellings and on projects to accommodate elderly people, it was disclosed Friday.

A CMHC official said the Crown Agency's $400,000,000 purse has been emptied of all but $50,000,600 and that the remaining money is to be concentrated on advances in those two fields.

Applications for advances to finance rental housing developments although accepted until Feb. 7, were being discontinued and even some applications received before Feb. 7 would not be processed.

The decision was reached Wednesday, the official said.

SEVEN HURT

MONTREAL (CP)—Seven firemen were injured Wednesday night when a floor collapsed while they were battling flames in a two-storey building in the east-end containing a groceteria and two upstairs flats. Their injuries were described as slight. Extent of loss in the fire was not available.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The funereal dirges heralding the swan-song of senior hockey in Western and Northern Ontario still issue plaintively from these sections of the province.

The latest to give out with the crepe-hanging lullables is Bob Crosby, genial manager of the Kitchener Memorial Auditorium. This department met Marse Robert during the eventful Dunlops-Dutchies series last spring, and he proved a delightful host.

According to a piece in a Northern Ontario sports column, Crosby sees little hope for senior hockey in the west-north next season, and suggests an "all-out selling job, by the league, the arenas and the clubs."

He said he would like to see some action this summer whereby a meeting between the three parties could be held to plan stratgy to keep senior hockey alive.

Apparently nettled at the slipshod manner in which the OHA-NOHA arranged their playoff series, Crosby is quoted as saying "Everybody calls the Eastern Senior League, a senior "B" loop, but they had a meeting a week before the season ended, and their playoffs were set then."

(Senior "B" league, eh? Well, that senior "B" team the Eastern League sent over to Oslo, with some assistance from other centres, is not doing such a bad job.)

Crosby painted a pessimistic picture of the senior playoffs in his city. "The way tickets are going," he said, "we're not going to have much of a crowd. It doesn't look as though we'll get more than 2,800 or 3,000, yet we should have 5,000 for a playoff game."

"We had an ice show here a while back and had record crowds. It was an outstanding set-up, because we learned from our past mistakes. But hockey makes the same mistakes year after year. The league should act as a judge for these things but often they cannot see that far ahead. It is ridiculous for a league to play a full 60-game schedule when that is finished not to know how the playoffs are going to run."

The manager said the attendance for league games was down from last year, and this with a team that was riding on top or second place all season. "If it had not been for the game with the Russians and U.S. Olympic teams this season, it would have been worse. If it had not been for these ditts we'd be flatter than a pancake."

"Hockey is at its crossroads now," Crosby is reported as saying. "Chatham is just hanging on after a disastrous season. The team has a deal in which the club gets 85 per cent of all the gate receipts, yet even with that, the team is going to lose heavily. Windsor and North Bay are in just as bad shape. What this league needs and needs badly is one good selling job — and that has to come soon."

The Eastern Senior league, the west-north can claim what they will, while not perhaps enjoying the best season possible, is far from the crepe-hanging, crying-towel stage. This department at least, has not heard any statements from any clubs to the effect it would not operate next year. In fact it has been strongly rumored up around Ottawa way that the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens might go "all-out" senior next year in the Eastern league. Another story has it that senior hockey will be revived in Hull, Quebec, with the Eastern League mentioned. Remember the famous Volants?

THE AB WRIGHT FUND

Some donations have trickled in, but we hope they will hit full stride in the next few days. Thanks to Bill Lafferty of the Bridge Street Billiards Emporium, who has a large glass container which is slowly but surely filling. We understand there are other organized efforts under way to give Ab and his family a helping hand. Remember to send your donations to this department, Jack Devine, "Red" Doran or Harry Rollins. Thank you!

The Belleville McFarlands generously dug into their wallets last night and came up with $38, while a Booster Club collection netted a handsome sum, the amount unknown at this writing.

PLAYERS HURT

"Wiener" Brown and Eddie Marineau, injured in last night's game, nursed their hurts today. Eddie suffered a slightly sprained ankle while "Wiener is said to have pulled groin muscles. Club physician Dr. Woodley said today Marineau would likely see action Monday night, but Brown's appearance is doubtful.

British Soccer Ready for Big Upheaval

LONDON (CP) — With just eight weeks to the end of the soccer season, clubs in the English Football League's Third Division are preparing for the biggest upheaval since the division was formed in 1921.

This is the last season for the present two - section division in which the clubs are split geographically into two 24 - team groups. Next season the division will be formed by the top 12 clubs in the North and South sections, with the remainder combining to form a new fourth division.

The impending split has added interest to the tight race in both divisions.

In the Third Division South, only eight points separate 11 clubs. In the Northern section 13 clubs are separated by the same margin.

While most clubs are striving to remain in the Third Division, four are battling to get out. In the Northern section only one point separates Bury and Scunthorpe in a race for promotion to the Second Division. Reading and Brighton are locked in another close struggle in the South.

SIGN THREE HURLERS

TORONTO (CP) — Three veteran pitchers with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League Friday accepted the same salaries they received last year after rejecting the first contracts offered them. Don Johnson, Jim Pearce and Bob Tiefenauer, members of the 1957 pennant - winning Leafs, agreed to terms and left for the Leaf training camp which opens next week in Fort Pierce, Fla.

Took Special Playoff Win From Young Manitoba Four; Ties Two Dominion Records

By ERWIN FRICKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP) — Matt Baldwin tied a couple of records Friday night by skipping his Alberta rink to the 1958 Canadian curling championship but he wants to do better. He wants the records without qualification.

The 31-year-old Edmonton oilman won his record-tying third championship by defeating Manitoba 10-6 in a playoff. Alberta and Manitoba had wound up in a tie with eight victories and two losses in the 11 - round round-robin competition, forcing the tie-breaker.

It was the second victory for Baldwin over Manitoba's teenage representatives from Winnipeg, the youngest rink to compete in the 29 years the championship has been staged.

In the second round he beat the youngsters — their average age is 17½—13-11 but they gave him a scare, leading 6-0 at the end of the second.

BOYS BEAT THEMSELVES

"I knew then that they had to beat themselves," Baldwin said later. And the youngsters beat themselves again last night.

Third Ron Braunstein raised in an Alberta stone to knock out his own shot rock in the first end. The miscue eventually produced a three-ender for Alberta, the number Manitoba was behind coming home.

"With that three-ender in the first, we could play wide-open," Baldwin said. "It made a difference."

The stage for the Manitoba-Alberta playoff actually was set in the 10th round Friday morning when Ontario upset Alberta 10-6. Baldwin, suffering from the flu, didn't play his usual brilliant game and skip Murray Roberts from the Toronto suburb of Unionville was left - handing some beauties.

ONTARIO FLUNKS OUT

But in the next round Ontario with a chance to join Alberta and Manitoba in a three-way playoff, flunked out. The foursome from Unionville was sidelined by Northern Ontario 9-6.

Baldwin let his third man, Jack Geddes, skip the rink in the 11th round while he tried to lick his flu bug. Geddes came through with a 10-6 victory over Nova Scotia.

Manitoba qualified for the playoff by defeating Prince Edward Island 10-4. Other 11th-round results: Quebec 7, New Brunswick 13; British Columbia 6, Newfoundland 8.

The won - lost standings after the regulation 11 rounds, each team drawing one bye: Alberta and Manitoba 8-2, Ontario 7 - 3 British Columbia and Saskatchewan 6-4, Prince Edward Island 5-5, Newfoundland and Northern Ontario 4-5, Quebec 3-7, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick 2-8.

WANTS TWO MORE

Baldwin said after his match he has no intention of giving up the game now that he is tied with Ken Watson of Winnipeg as the skip with the most championships.

"If I can I'd like to win the next two at least," he said.

Baldwin won his first championship in Edmonton in 1954 and his second last year at Kingston, Ont.

Asked which competition was the most difficult, he said championships cannot be compared.

"The one at Kingston appeared to be the toughest on paper," he said, "but the curling was superior there because of the good ice. The ice here was too tricky and treacherous to figure out."

About 35,000 fans saw the championships here. The Winnipeg kids were the sentimental favorites and skip Terry Braunstein, 18, gave them plenty to cheer about.

It is unlikely the championship will see schoolboys in action again. The Dominion Curling Association at its annual meeting here resolved to advise its provincial associations to exclude pupils below university level from provincial title play.

WINS DIVISION TITLE

TORONTO (CP) — Roy Marshall's Toronto Royal Canadians won the Ontario Colts' Division Four curling championship Friday defeating Bev Kitchen's Granites 10-8. Marshall will represent the division in the finals at the Granite Club Thursday.

Wolves Whip Dutchies Again; Dogs Three Up

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, who dominated the OHA-NOHA Senior A regular schedule, are having a tough time in the playoffs.

The league-leading Dutchmen after winning the first of their best-of-seven semi-final series against Sudbury Wolves 8 - 2, have lost their last two games. Wolves nipped into a 2-1 lead Friday night edging Dutchmen 4-3 in overtime.

Greyhounds have fared even worse losing three straight to Windsor Bulldogs. Friday night's score was 8-1.

SCORES IN OVERTIME

Joe Zorica scored Sudbury's winner at 8.01 of overtime. Nick Tomluk, Johnny Gillis and Jim Logan notched the others. Bill (Wiggie) Wylie, with two, and Don Rope tallied for Dutchmen.

Bob Mitchell made his second appearance in the Sudbury net, replacing Johnny Albani, injured in the first game.

Bulldogs cruised to victory over Greyhounds, leading 3-0 in the first period, 5-1 in the second.

Bob Brown paced the Windsor attack with three goals, Frank Bathgate, Wally Maxwell, Elmer Skov, Irwin Grosse and Wally Pawlyshyn adding singles. Lone Soo goal was scored by Matt Mesich.

Kitchener and Sudbury resumed their duel in Kitchener tonight. Greyhounds visit Windsor Sunday.

Swede Retains Ski Crown

LAHTI, Finland (AP)—Sweden's Sixten Jernberg retained his claim to the world marathon ski championship with a thrilling triumph in the 50-kilometre cross-country race today.

The rangy Swede's victory in the 1958 world Nordic games was almost a duplicate of his gold medal performance at the Olympic games in 1956 in this same gruelling event.

Jernberg, 29, defeated Finland's crafty veteran, Veikko Hakulinen.

Jernberg's time was two hours, 56 minutes, 21.9 seconds in zero weather.

Two skiers from Ontario, Elmer Ypya, North Bay, and Arvo Ayranto, Sudbury, competed, but failed to score point.s

Hamilton Cub Wins Tilson Memorial Cup

TORONTO (CP) — Murray Oliver, 20 - year - old Hamilton Cubs centre, has been named winner of the Albert (Red) Tilson Memorial Trophy as the most valuable and gentlemanly player in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series in the 1957-1958 season.

Sportswriters in Junior A centres gave Oliver five of a possible eight votes.

Billy Forhan, right wing-centre with Barrie Flyers, was runner up in the voting, nosing out the league's scoring champion, right-winger John McKenzie of St. Catharines Teepees.

Oliver finished third in the scoring race, with 34 goals and 56 assists — both Hamilton records. He is the first Hamilton player ever to win the trophy.

The trophy is named after Red Tilson, player with Oshawa and Regina teams, killed on active service with the Canadian Army in the Second World War. Last year's winner was Frank Mahovlich, Toronto St. Michael's.

Leafs Look to Other Sports For Inspiration Next Year

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto Maple Leafs are looking to other sports for inspiration next season as the National Hockey League schedule draws to a close.

With only nine games left and seven points separating them from Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings who are tied for the fourth and last playoff spot, Leafs are just about out of the running and their coaching and managerial men feel they might profitably borrow some ideas from baseball ond football.

Coach Billy Reay thinks hockey men could learn from baseball's system of alternating pitchers to take some of the pressure off netminders over a 70 - game schedule.

PLANS WERE FOILED

Reay attempted to relieve Leaf goalie Ed Chadwick last month but a flying puck foiled his plans by sidelining substitute Jacques Marcotte before he had a chance to get into a game.

But Reay was not deterred. He points out that Boston, whom the Leafs meet tonight in Maple Leaf Gardens and Sunday in Boston, have got standout service from Harry Lumley since he was pressed into service during the latter part of the schedule.

Of course Lumley himself now is out of action with an infected foot and regular Don Simmons will be back in action tonight, but Reay also has the example of New York Rangers, who credit Lorne Worsley's success during the second half of the season to the fact that he relaxed down in the American Hockey League while Marcel Paille filled in at New York.

SUGGESTS ASSISTANTS

The other Leaf idea, proposed by acting-manager Staff Smythe is to hire assistant coaches, as football has backfield and line coaches and baseball has pitching, catching, outfield, infield and hitting coaches.

Why, he muses, should Reay, a centre during his playing days, be expected to be an expert on netminding and defensive play?

And why shouldn't Leaafs get former netminding great Turk Broda and erstwhile rearguards Bob Goldham and King Clancy, who already work for the Toronto organization, to teach these facets of play?

"Maybe it wouldn't work in hockey" Smythe says, "but it's worth thinking over." In Leafs' position, anything is.

Today Will Decide Winners In Badminton Championship

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VICTORIA (CP) — Montreal and Toronto can count on sharing at least three of the five trophies from today's finals at the Canadian badminton championship, with an outside chance of even more silverware than that going east.

Having been counted out of the two junior competitions and the veterans' event, all decided Friday night, it remained for west coast competitors to challenge eastern domination in men's singles and the mixed doubles.

Two Montreal housewives, Mrs. Kae Grant and Mrs. Jean Miller, were paired off in the women's singles final while two Toronto teams—highly favored Don Smythe and Budd Porter, and Bev Westcott and Bill Purcell—were to fight it out in the men's doubles. The women's doubles was a contest between the Grant-Miller team and Toronto's Joan Hennessy and Marj Shedd.

CARNWATH IN FINAL

Dave McTaggart of Vancouver probably recovered enough of his championship form Friday night to retain his favored position over Jim Carnwath, a strong threat from Woodstock, Ont. Miss Shedd and Purcell were favored to beat Mrs. Joyce MacDonald of Victoria and Bert Fergus of Vancouver in the mixed doubles.

Starting time for the matches is 5 p.m. EST.

Anne Murray of Winnipeg, a curly-haired 17-year-old, won the junior women's for the second straight year.

Ed Hreljac an athletic 18-year-old from Creighton Mines, Ont., had too much power and control for Lane Bickle, 15, of Calgary, whose slight build belied his mature play. They are respective junior champions in Ontario and Alberta.

The veterons' doubles went to Carl Anderson of Seattle, Wash., and Russ Hill of Portland, Ore.

McTaggart, 26, is trying for his third consecutive singles championship. Carnwath, a 23-year-old law student at the University of Toronto was junior champ five years ago.

TO FIGHT BOARDMAN

BOSTON (CP) — Gale Kerwin, Canadian-born lightweight boxer, was signed Friday to meet Larry Boardman in a televised 10-round fight April 11 at the Mechanics Building here. In Kerwin's last fight at Dallas, Tex., this week he lost a split and unpopular decision to Davey Dupas of New Orleans. In New York last month Kerwin decisioned Stefan Redl.

Tommy Byrne Hangs Up Glove, Spikes

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) Tommy Byrne, 38-year-old left-handed pitcher for New York Yankees, officially retired Friday He will work for an oil company.

Byrne started with the Yankees in 1953. He was traded in 1951 to St. Louis Browns. He later pitched for Chicago White Sox and Washington Senators before droping into the minors in 1953.

Purchased by the Yankees in 1954, he won honors as the comeback man of the year in 1955 when he helped the Yanks to the American League pennant wit[illegible] victories.

Gomes Verdicts Ike Chestnut

NEW YORK (AP)—Unranked Harold Gomes of Providence, R.I., Friday night took a big step forward in the featherweight division, if not in popularity, by gaining a split 10-round decision over fourth-ranked Ike Chestnut of New York at Madison Square Garden. Chestnut weighed 130, Gomes 128½.

The bout was dull all the way and marred by frequent clinches despite the constant urging of referee Art Mercante that they fight.

Mercante and judge [illegible] Aidala each had Gomes ahead by the same 5-4-1 scores. Judge Bill Hecht had it even, four rounds for each and two even. He gave each four points. The Associated Press had it even, five rounds for each.

On the Tracks

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — The $100,000-added Santa Anita Derby very likely will be raced over an off - track, which enhances the chances of the already favored stretch - running sensation, Silky Sullivan.

Ten three - year - olds are slated to go postward for the 1⅛-mile race, each carrying 118 pounds.

The big attraction is the California chestnut, Silky S[illegible]. Main threat is Old Pueblo[illegible] bred in California.

Showers Friday reduced the track to a sloppy condition. Best guess now is that even without more rain the going will be either slow or heavy.

Macs Sweep To Third Victory Over Kingston; Game Away From Finals

Record Crowd of 2937 Sees Three Second-Period Goals Clinch Decisive 4-1 Victory

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Flashing the same brilliant two-way performance that marked their 6-1 victory Wednesday the Belleville McFarlands defeated a desperate, hard-driving Kingston CKLC team 4-1 here last night to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Ontario Senior "A" semi-finals.

An all-season record crowd of 2937 fans saw the teams duel in a strenuous battle, with the McFarlands defence again standing out with a brilliant display. Gordie Bell turned in a superb performance in the Belleville nets and was headed for a shutout when a penalty gave the CKLC's the edge late in the third period and Colvin scored to rob the goalie of a perfect performance.

The teams battled to a scoreless tie in the first period with the Macs striking suddenly in the second for two goals in two minutes after six minutes of play. They added another before period end and split a pair in the third frame that saw the desperate CKLC's go all out in an effort to whittle the margin. The teams divided 56 shots on goal with Kingston outshooting the Macs 12-9 in the last chapter.

DAVY JONES
Two in Locker

LOSE WIENER, MARINEAU

The McFarlands lost the services of hard-driving Eddie Marineau and Wiener Brown in the third frame, both limping off with what appeared to be leg injuries. Ike Hildebrand shook up his lines using Floyd Crawford up front. Moe Benoit was back in harness and used sparingly. Russ Kowalchuk was not dressed.

Davy Jones, playing his second game of the series came up with an outstanding performance, as did Paul Payette, the forwards sharing the McFarlands goals. Johnny Muretich and Ike Hildebrand each had two assists with Guldolin, Menard and Montgomery having singles. Colvin's goal spearheaded a power drive with Levandoski and Bukacheski.

While the checking was close and hard with both teams using the body unsparingly, Referee Jack Shropshire had a comparatively easy time handing out nine minor penalties, six to the McFarlands. The only costly penalty was that which robbed Bell of a shutout.

PAUL PAYETTE
Twinkled Twice

Both teams ripped into action at the opening whistle and it had all the earmarks of a thriller with both teams checking hard and close. The Macs had a slight edge in the play although the shots on goal were even at seven each.

Eddie Marineau drew the first sentence of the game at 2.47 but again Gordie Bell and the Macs defence put on a fine display of penalty-killing.

Minnie Menard seemed the hard-luck kid of the period, breaking into the clear three times, being hurried twice and brought down the third time.

Bob Paul was chased for holding and Hildebrand poured on the power. The Macs hemmed the CKLCs in behind their blueline nearly most of the time but the visitors clustered their defence with Davis kicking out but two shots.

GORDIE BELL
All But One

Toppazzini and Bellringer missed on a passing play then Payette broke into the clear but missed the net with his drive. Guldolin went off at 16.50 and Kingston raced to the power attack but the Macs broke up their plays continuously, clearing the puck down ice with Hildebrand almost scoring when he stole the puck from Gauthier.

The same fast tempo opened the second period and Bukacheski missed from four feet out. Eddie Marineau raced back and his shot hit the post, rolled along the goal-line and out.

Paul Payette scored his first goal of the series, Bep Guldolin feeding his centre a perfect pass and Payette made no mistake with a low hard shot.

The CKLCs roared back to the attack and Gordie Bell, in superb form, kicked out their hard drives. At 8.28 Johnny Muretich raced down the right boards, skirted the Kingston defence and shot Davy Jones a perfect goal-mouth pass. Jones flipped the puck past Davis to give the Macs a 2-0 lead.

Muretich was chased seconds later and the CKLCs poured on the power. Bell juggled a hard drive that nearly got past him into the net, then Muretich was joined by Botley in the sin bin with eight seconds to go. Bell and a hard-checking Macs foursome of penalty killers warded off the Kingston threats for a minute when Gauthier was chased for dumping Jones.

No damage was done and at 15.01 Paul Payette scored his second goal of the game and the third of the game when he took Minnie Menard's perfect pass down the middle to split the Kingston defence, race in on Davis and score.

Levandoski got the heave-ho and the Macs' power-play went on but no damage was done. Later "Joe" broke into the clear with no one to beat except Bell but was caught at the goal-crease and his shot went wide.

Barton Bradley lost his second winger in the third period when Eddie Marineau limped off after dumping a Kingston player. Brown had retired late in the second frame with an injury, neither player returned, Crawford going up front from the defence

The CKLC's drove hard at the opening whistle and gave the Macs defence a strenuous time, Senior missing an open net on a drive with Gauthier. At eight minutes Muretich, Hildebrand and Jones surged in on the Kingston net, the latter racing in after Davis had kicked out a hard drive and batting in the rebound for his second goal of the game. A minute later the same player broke into the clear but failed to beat Davis.

Bep Guldolin swept in twice but Davis stopped him, then Benoit was chased for boarding. The Kingston team threw all their power at the Macs citadel and it paid off with Colvin flipping the puck over a prostrate Bell for the CKLC's only score of the game.

The CKLC's maintained the pressure and three minutes later Benoit was chased for the second time. The Macs defence and Bell threw back the desperate visitors although they came close on not a few occasions until time ran out.

The sixth game of the series will be played in Kingston Monday night.

Manager Sorry For Yelling 'We Wuz Robbed'

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Gleason, manager of heavyweight fighter Nino Valdes, has apologized to the New York State Athletic Commission for yelling "robbery" when his fighter was beaten at Madison Square Garden last month.

Valdes, from Cuba, dropped a split decision to Argentina's Alex Miteff in a savage brawl Feb. 21.

Afterwards both Gleason and Valdes gave out with cries of "robbery," "bandits" and "burglars."

Gleason appeared before the commission Friday and said his remarks were made in a "heated moment."

"I knew afterwards that I had done wrong and I am deeply sorry."

Julius Helfand, chairman of the commission, accepted the apology.

Canada Can Wrap Up Title Today

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OSLO (CP) — With an assist from Sweden, last year's world hockey champions, Canada could wrap up the 1958 title today, reducing Sunday's set-to with the Russians to a side-show attraction.

The Canadians unbeaten in five games of round-robin play, opened today's program at 8 a.m. EST against the United States, a team so weakened by injuries that its own coach has conceded the world crown to Whitby, the Allan Cup champions.

Then the Swedes, who upset Russia in last year's Moscow tournament in the absence of North American entries, get their big chance to do it again as they take on the fast-skating Soviet squad at 11:30 a.m.

If Canado can dispose of the Americans, any result other than a Russian victory in the second match eliminates the rest of the field from serious contention. The Russians already have a draw with Czechoslovakia against them while the Swedes have been beaten by Whitby.

TOUGHEST ONE SO FAR

Friday night, Canada defeated the Czechs by the deceptively one-sided score of 6-0 in by far the hardest of their five straight victories in the tournament.

The Canadians' big advantage is in the goal-spread yardstick that will separate the leaders if the seven-game round - robin schedule results in a tie on points.

Whitby's 66-3 scoring record compares with Russia's 38-8 and Sweden's 36-17.

In Friday's other games Russia disposed of the U.S. 4-1 and Sweden outclassed Poland 12-2.

Czechslovakia, the U.S. Finland, Poland and Norway are mathematically out of the race.

On paper, the speed and finesse of the Russians should be more than enough to crush the heavy and slow-moving Swedes whom Canada whipped 10 - 2 Thursday night.

But Sweden has been a troublesome opponent for the Russians ever since the first Soviet side entered competition in 1954. In four meetings two have been drawn and the others resulted in uncomfortably close Russian victories.

WON BY A POINT

The Swedes and the Russians drew 4-4 in the world tournament last year, but the Swedes won the title by a point over the Soviets.

The Americans, with mainstay Johnny Mayasich slowed to half speed by a shoulder injury and defencemen Dan McKinnon and Eddie Kirrane doubtful starters, haven't much left to throw at Whitby.

If both Canada ond Russia follow form by winning today, the tournament climax will come in the last scheduled game at 1 p.m. EST Sunday in which the two countries meet for the fourth time in tournament play.

At present Russia holds the edge with a 7-2 victory over Toronto East York in 1954 and a 2-0 decision over Kitchener - Waterlo Dutchmen two years later Penticton Vs whipped them 5 - 0 in 1955 and most 1958 ringsiders favor Whitby to even the score. pionships get rougher every

Barons Blow Chance for Top; Lose to Amerks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland Barons and Hershey Bears will be out to break their deadlock for first place in the American Hockey League tonight. Barons will be at Springfield while Bears entertain Providence.

Cleveland blew an excellent opportunity to move into sole possession of the lead Friday night as they lost to Rochester Americans 3-2.

The fifth-place Americans took a 1-0 lead in the first period on a goal by Claude Laforge. Don Hogan evened the score in the second before Stan Smrke and Rudy Migay scored for Rochester. Dan Polizianai scored Cleveland's other goal in the final period.

In the only other game, Providence trounced Buffalo Bisons 6-1. Paul Larivee Jim Bartlett, Camille Bedard, Bruce Carmichael, Bill Sweeney and Bruce Cline were the Providence marksmen. Larry Wilson collected Buffalo's lone goal.

SAPS RUNNING

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — The sugar maple's sap is running, district farmers reported Thursday. A number are reported to have tapped trees and drawn good results due to balmy temperatures the last few days.

Will Probe Three-Division World Hockey

OSLO (AP) — The International Ice Hockey Federation Friday appointed a three-man committee to discuss the possibility of turning the world championships into a three-division contest.

J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne of England, federation president, suggested a system under which the top team in division two would advance to division one, replacing the bottom team in the higher division. Similar promotions and relocations would occur between the second and third divisions.

Ahearne, who believes this would encourage more teams to play in the world championships, cast the deciding vote in favor of more committee work after a tie vote in a league meeting.

Knut Toensberg of Denmark is chairman of the committee, which will report back at the 1959 federation meeting. Other members represent East Germany and Poland.

Minor Hockey

The high-flying Canadiens kept their undefeated record intact at Memorial Arena this morning in the opening game of the peewee city semi-finals but they were forced to settle for a tie.

Bruins held the Habs to a 1-1 deadlock in the first of a two-game total goals-to-count series. Meanwhile in the other half of the semi-finals the Rangers nudged the Red Wings 2-1.

Bob Skinner fired the lone Canadien marker this morning, unassisted. Jimmie McGuire was the Bruin scorer with Ricky Denard getting an assist.

Bob Fletcher was the Ranger hero, firing the deciding goal on a solo effort. Allan Mott notched the other Ranger goal with Jack Thompson and Bob Ethier assisting. Dwight Rathwell fired the Red Wing foal with Bob Moon getting an assist.

The all-star team will participate in a Peterborough tournamen next Saturday, March 15, held a stiff workout following the two playoff games.

NO FISH STORY

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Crothers, a Toronto construction executive, this week landed a 416½-pound blue marlin at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the biggest caught in the area in five years, it was reported here Friday. Mr. Crothers battled the big fish for three hours. It measured 11 feet, three inches.

Spring Training Interest Centres on Giants, Dodgers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the fourth inning of the seventh game of the 1956 world series, Roy Campanella doubled off New York Yankee pitcher Tommy Byrne and scored moments later on a single. It turned out to be the winning run as Brooklyn Dodgers sewed up their first world championship.

Times have changed. The Dodgers have moved to Los Angeles. Campanella lies half-paralyzed in a Glen Cove, N.Y., hospital and Byrne has retired.

But although the names may not be the same in many cases, the "game's the same." It's still big league baseball and that's all that will matter when the scores of the exhibition openers come trickling in today from Florida and Arizona.

Much of the interest will centre on the Los Angeles and San Francisco teams. The Dodgers play the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game in Miami while the Giants meet the Cleveland Indians in Phoenix, Ariz.

SUFFERS SPRAIN

Herb Score's scheduled first game appearance for Cleveland since his eye injury last May was postponed. The young lefthander suffered a sprained right ankle running around a Tucson, Ariz., YMCA gym Friday and will be sidelined for a few days.

For most managers, the early games will be a time for experimenting.

Rube Walker, Campanella's projected catching replacement, will be given more than the once over by Walt Alston of Los Angeles.

The latest hospital bulletin on Campanella indicated the burly catcher is showing general improvement and his paralysis is slowly disappearing. Roy suffered a broken neck in an automobile accident Jan. 28.

Ski Conditions

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario skiing centres have reported varying snow conditions. Twenty-three centres said their tows will operate during the weekend.

The following snow conditions were reported, depth of snow in inches:

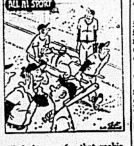
PAKISTAN TRAILS

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters) — The Pakistani touring cricket team, with six first - innings wickets standing, were 337 runs behind British Guiana at the close of play on the second day of their match here Friday. British Guiana scored 441 and Pakistan replied with 104 for four.



"I feel sorry for that rookie pitcher the skipper was showin' how to avoid the 'bean ball'!"

Little Benny's Notebook

I was taking a walk with pop before dinner for the good of his appetite, and I said, Hey pop, an ice creem cone wouldn't have any bad effect on my appetite for dinner if you felt like buying me one.

Do you realize if I bought you an ice creem cone it would cost a dime of my money just the same as it would cost a dime of your money if you had a dime? pop said, and I said, Yes sir, sure, but I haven't got a dime. I haven't even got a cent, that's the only thing, I said.

It's not the only thing, and it suggests an intristing experiment, pop said, and he handed me a dime, saying, Now you've got a dime. It belongs to you, body and sole. Put it in your pockit, he said.

Which I did, saying, G, thanks, pop, and he said, Dont mention it. Are you going to be a spend thrift and blow it all in on an ice creem cone and be penniless again?

Well G, pop, I wouldn't have anything left, I said, and pop said, That's a fair definition of being penniless. Think it over, he said.

Which I did, saying, I'd buy a cone with it if I even had a nickel left, so if I buy a cone will you give me another nickel?

That would be paying intrist on liquidated capital, and that sort of thing would bring the country down in financial ruin in no time, pop said, and I said, Well h o w about paying me a nickel intrist if I keep the dime?

That sounds like a sound bizzness arrangement and I could still hold my head up in financial cercles, pop said. If you can show me your original capital when we get home, I'll pay you the intrist, he said.

Which he did, proving no matter how mutch you admire other peeple's money, your own seems more valuble.

Minister Confirms

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Michael Starr Friday night confirmed that Gordon Cushing, executive vice - president of the 1,000 000 - member Canadian Labor Congress, will become assistant deputy minister of labor May 1.

The minister's statement followed by several hours a Canadian Press report that Mr. Cushing, 45, would move to the federal labor department on the superannuation of M. M. Maclean, 71, senior assistant deputy.

Mr. Starr's announcement was originally due to have been made next week.

Adjourned Month

TORONTO (CP) — An election inquiry in Toronto St. Paul's riding was adjourned Friday for a month so the principals could get on with their jobs in the forthcoming federal election.

The investigation, under Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court, is to determine whether the returning officer appointed last March 28, Miss V. E. Tilford, "knowingly or negligently" appointed ineligible enumerators.

Chief Justice McRuer adjourned the hearing with a request that "any persons with knowledge of the matter under inquiry" get in touch with the commission.

Marmora Edges Campbellford 5-4, Meets Madoc for 'C' Group Title

MARMORA (Special)—Marmora Millionaires earned their way into the OHA Intermediate "C" northern group finals here last night by scoring four goals in the third period to edge Campbellford 5-4 in the fifth and deciding game of their semi-final set.

Marmora and Madoc will now meet for the group championship in a four-of-seven series.

The homesters took a 1-0 lead in the first period here last night before a season's record crowd of 1229 roaring fans. But the home crowd had little to cheer about in the middle session as Campbellford pumped in four goals without a reply for a 4-1 lead.

Then came the big third period and the Millionaires took command from the drop of the puck. Mantle got one goal in the second minute of the period and at 5.25 Jones cut the score to 4-3 with Gus Leonard earning his second assist of the heat. Bert Gray came through with the tying goal at 13.27 and Ken Trumble blazed home the winner at 15.43 to climax a terrific comeback.

Ken Trumble was the scoring star for Marmora with two goals including the payoff marker in the third. Gus Leonard had two big assists in the torrid third period while Mantle, Jones and Gray also scored and single assists went to Bob Maynes and Brooks.

Garvey, Scott, D. Ruttan and Eady fired the Campbellford goals while Wilson, Morrow and Herrington had assists.

Referees Art Casterton and "Whitey" Walton of Kingston handed out a total of 12 penalties with the losers collecting seven.

TV NOTEBOOK

by John Weitlaufer

This is the age of the "how to" craze. We can buy books which give detailed instructions on how to build furniture, repair the family sedan, fix drippy faucets and, of course, make quick, ask repairs on the home TV set.

We might point out that a TV set is complicated almost beyond belief. The average TV set has over 20 electron tubes, more than a thousand components and several thousand connections all of which must function properly.

Along with the utter complication of a TV set, one must consider the personal hazard. Depending on the type and vintage of the set, danger of shock from high voltage is to be reckoned with even after the set is turned off and disconnected.

If you have a book dealing with quick, easy repairs on your TV set — read it carefully from cover to cover. Then call on CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Coleman St., for safe, sure economical repairs. Phone WO 8-6791; in Trenton phone Zenith 6-3800.

Many Think Dody Goodman Got Raw Deal on 'Tonight'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Several commentators think Dody Goodman, the wry - faced comedienne, has been getting a raw deal on the Jack Paar (NBC-TV) "Tonight" show. Dody agrees.

Vermillion - tressed Dody was here this week on her first visit to Hollywood to be guest on the Eddie Fisher show. I nabbed her for an explanation of what has been happening between her and Paar.

"I don't know," she said blankly. "I really don't know."

She explained that she started with the show shortly after Paar took it over. She was on five nights a week.

"We were doing very well together; everybody said so," she remarked. "Then I was put on four nights a week, then three and two and now its only one. I never was told why.

WORKS WITH OTHERS

"Jack has been trying to work with other people, but it isn't quite the same. When you have worked with someone for seven months as we have together, you can get much better results."

She needn't worry about the whole thing. She is signing a contract with NBC for her exclusive services on TV. She'll do guest spots on top variety shows and will make "occasional" appearances on "Tonight."

Until seven months ago she was part of the horde of undiscovered talent in Manhattan.

Born in Columbus, Ohio, Dody went to New York to find work as a ballet dancer. She danced at the Radio City Music Hall and in several Broadway shows before friends convinced her she had the makings of a comedienne. She drew good notices in a couple of night clubs and two off-Broadway revues. This led to her job as a foil for Paar.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, March 8

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Let the morning bring the right decisions on all business matters. Then the afternoon can be spent devising new ways and means to increase your income, possessions. Balance your books. P. M. be kind to mate.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Get a very early start on gardening, polishing, dieting, etc. Get wardrobe in finest order. Then contact most influential associates and cement better relations with them. Tonight, steer clear of any quarrels.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Anything that interests you in A. M. is the right thing to do. Get your appearance to perfection. After lunch, clear up many small items, be happy with fellow workers. P. M. be careful not to spill things, especially inflammables.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — The morning spent putting your surroundings in immaculate condition will pay dividends later. After lunch is ideal for a round of golf, other sport. Tonight wonderful for romance at some delightful spot.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Morning ideal for running errands, visiting important persons, wires, telephone calls, etc. After lunch, give your attention to your home and ties. Enjoy yourself, too. P. M. keep silent when a peculiar subject is discussed.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Morning hours giving attention to plants, repairs about the house, other real estate, just fine. After lunch, shop or visit, watch TV. Impress others with your lofty aims. P.M. beware of a little trap.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Morning should be devoted to improving your appearance and health. Then in afternoon you will receive fine advice and assistance from financiers, business persons. Tonight, be frugal, wise and economize.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—The data that has eluded you ere this can be easily acquired in the morning hours today. Later run after your cherished hopes and desires, since they are easily obtainable. P. M. release yourself from all worries.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — A handsome friend comes into the picture this morning, full of fine ideas and suggestions, and also splendid advice. Tonight fine for clearing up things that have puzzled you. Have fun with closest tie.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Give immediate morning attention to those bills or other obligations that have been neglected of late. Evening is then fine for riding your hobbies, and also gaining the knowledge and ideas best for you right now.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Get the information you need from your paper today, or other periodicals and printed matter. After lunch, follow the best opportunities, get the support from powerful persons you require. Plunge; but wisely.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Clear up any outstanding bills, make reports, collect whatever is owed, etc., in early A. M. Then you have time to turn to more lucrative paths for immediate exploration. P. M. fine possibility of putting new idea to work.

If your child is born today . . . The fortunate child born today will definitely go through three separate states of existence in one lifetime. Early youth will be filled with much love and care extended to your progeny. Later the mature years are completely self-sufficient ones; and the sunset years will suddenly turn to the purely spiritual interests. A marvelous chart!

Natura a condizione che il sole, la luna, e' l'attimosfero dato a moi tutta la forsa di apprezazione. Di questo noi ringraziamo il Dio. Ovunque, pochi porsone non sono arrabiati al cuore, la maggioranzi di noi desiolerano una casa per riposarsi dentro, e' chiamarla mostra, e' noi dobbiamo pagare por questo. Il nostro bisogno e' volonta sono varie, quello e il perche sforzarsi di continuare ascoltari tutti i prezzi. Se voi siete al mercato per una casa noi vogliamo apprezzare una telefonata oppure se ce l'apportunita di parlare in persone. Il nostro tempo e' vostro, forse noi abbiamo le chiave di un felice futturo.

SIX SCHOOLS TO CLOSE

ST. AMBLE, Que. (CP) — The St. Amable Catholic school commission plans to close the six schools under its jurisdiction Monday because it hasn't the money to pay the teachers, a teachers' spokesman said Friday. In any events, said Fernand Labine, one of 10 lay teachers involved, the teachers plan to go on strike if they are not paid back wages. He said the teachers haven't been paid since Jan. 3.

Astrological Forecast

Sunday, March 9, 1958.

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Early A.M. annoyance is due to rather befuddled thinking on your part. Clear your mind by dwelling in a loftier level, then impress others with your new "do-right" attitude. P.M. read the classics, your Bible.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Don't hold any grudges and the harmony at home will quickly be restored. Later, with free mind, get together with associates and work out week's schedule with intelligence and wisdom. Cooperate fully; work becomes lighter.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Take particular care on the road today, also bridle your tongue, or you get into unfortunate situations. The latter part of the day you have fine ideas that will be helpful to co-workers. Get on The Path.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) While your emotional existence does not coincide at all with your worldly goods, it is best to relegate this problem to the background now. Work diligently, be kind to all, and soon the situation becomes more harmonious.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Think before you utter those harsh words this morning. Remember that harmony with ties is most important to you. If you use self-control today, you inspire love, strengthen character and assure success.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A private worry today can make you treat others in a wholly alien fashion. Avoid this. Also take care you do not get hurt on road or elsewhere. Find solace at church of own choice. Adopt lofty precepts now.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) While you are tempted to follow the will-o'-the-wisp today, use willpower and stick to right path of life, justify your naturally high nature. Return to youthful principles, too, with determination and conviction.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Disgust with present situations in your life could make you want to act like a rebel, make tart remarks haphazardly. Don't. Resolve to solve problems philosophically and intelligently, then all is fine for you.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You somehow enjoy holding on to some frustrating condition. Rid yourself of it today. Contact the spiritual adviser you most admire, travel to where he or she is, then listen carefully and follow advice given.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are inclined today to go into some activity which is absolutely worthless, erroneous. Remain steadfast instead and enjoy the friends and principles long proven right and good. P. M. get aid from powerful persons.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) In the morning it is quite impossible for you to know which to favor of the two persons you are convinced are equally important in your life. Don't commit yourself, just be good to each. Stall for time and all is well.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) While you feel that you should attend to all those picayunish little jobs around the house, the truth is that by attending Services you gain so much more that is priceless. Digest and learn as much as possible.

If your child is born today . . . The wonderful child born today is the most affectionate type who will also be so full of ideas and questions that the mind is fully awake and working at a very early age. The analytical ability is also very great. So, give education in the fields of research, whether in medicine or detective lines, or even the spiritual. Fine chart for the famous chemist, FBI agent, the Minister.

CAN'T FIND SITE

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto has been offered a 14-acre children's playground — if the site pleases the anonymous donor of $100,000. So far, reports parks commissioner Thomas Thompson, he has been unable in six months to find a suitable site. One requirement is a guarantee of year-round use.

One-Man Show Of Churchill's Paintings Opens

NEW YORK (CP)—A collection of paintings by Sir Winston Churchill, who is having his first one-man show, opened for public exhibition Friday at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The exhibits also will be shown at the Art Gallery of Toronto next month.

From his villa on the Riviera, it was announced Thursday night that Sir Winston has accepted the freedom of Toronto and hopes to be able to travel to the Canadian city to accept. It is not known whether he will try to be there at the same time as his exhibition.

Already the 83-year-old statesmen has agreed to an invitation from President Eisenhower to go to Washington with Lady Churchill for a few days when the show is at the Smithsonian Institution there.

NONE EVER SOLD

Churchill has always disclaimed professional status as a painter, has refused to allow his work to be sold and until the present exhibition was conceived by a greeting-card manufacturer in the United States had shown only a few pictures at galleries.

Thirty-five paintings are in the tour cllection. For the New York showing, six additional canvases were lent from private collections.

Churchill has written that he "reached the age of 40 without ever handling a brush or fiddling with a pencil," and after experiments one Sunday afternoon in May, 1915, with a child's painting box, went out the following day to buy himself a complete outfit.

The paintings on show are chiefly landscapes of England, France, Italy and North Africa.

French Firm Works on Plans For Atomic Car

PARIS (Reuters) — A French engineering firm is working on plans for an automobile with an atomic engine.

The car would use nuclear fuel in cartridge form obtained by radiation from an atomic pile or derived from atomic waste and giving off only weak radiation.

Protection from radiation could be provided without excessive weight, and power output would be equal or superior to that of a conventional steam engine, the firm says.

The plans were announced Friday night by the Paris firm of F. Arbel and Company at a press presentation of a gasoline-electric forerunner of the atomic model which will be displayed at next week's Geneva International Motor Show.

Permission to produce the car will be dependent on French government authorization, which has not yet been requested.

The gasoline-electric model has a four-wheel drive through an electric motor on each wheel, powered by a generator driven by a conventional gasoline engine.

There is no clutch, gearbox, transmission shaft or differential, and the car has an electric braking system which the makers claim automatically prevents a skid even when braking on ice. The car has a plastic body.

In the atomic car the gasoline power plant would be replaced by the nuclear cartridge steam generator. It would last 53 days—whether the auto was used or not—before losing half its power if, for example, strontium 89 is used as nuclear fuel.

WASHINGTON

While Menshikov undoubtedly is pursuing a one - man propoganda campaign under Moscow direction, he appears to be making a better-than-average impression for a newly-arrived Soviet official.

Eisenhower told his press conference after their first meeting that he found the envoy to be "individually a very friendly person."

In his press club speech the other day, while he didn't bring down the house, Menshikov won a degree of admiration for the humor he displayed in fielding some of the tough queries tossed at him during the free-wheeling question-and-answer session that follows such addresses. He was the first Soviet ambassador to visit the club in 17 years.

The dapper ambassador already is planning to carry his friendship campaign beyond the capital He has agreed to be interviewed on an American television program and proposes to visit New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other U.S. cities during the next three months. The chances are he won't pass up any speech - making opportunities along the way.

Legislatures Adjourn so PC's Able to Campaign

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two Progressive Conservative provincial governments Friday adjourned legislature sessions until after the federal election to allow provincial members to stump for federal candidates.

In both the New Brunswick and Nova Scotia houses the motions to recess until April 8 were fought by the Liberal Opposition, but in each the government carried the day with little difficulty.

William J. Gallant, (Ind-L-Northumberland,) who was ejected from the New Brunswick house Thursday after a quarrel with the Speaker, Friday requested leave of absence to "seek legal and proper means of redress" for the expulsion.

ALTA. CUTS SPENDING

Saskatchewan and British Columbia members attacked federal government policies and a reduced 1958-59 budget was handed down in Alberta.

Alberta's reduced budget is pegged to an expected drop in oil revenues. It calls for an expenditure of $263,664,093 — down $31,805,000 from last year —and is the first decrease in spending since 1946.

The Social Credit government's dividend fund-first set up last year—is cut by $1,000,000 from $11,000,000, probably meaning lower payments than the $20 given each of 511,000 residents last year.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett said in the B.C. legislature that he is afraid the federal Progressive Conservative government is "holding hands too much with Ontario and Quebec." He said B.C. could start its own hospital insurance program if it levied a provincial income tax. He predicted Ontario will get into serious trouble with its plan for administering hospital insurance but "let Ontario stew in its own juice."

SEES SHOW, KILLS SELF

STOCKTON- ON -TEES, England (Reuters) — An ailing woman killed herself after watching a television program about cancer and announcing she thought she had the disease herself, an inquest was told Friday. A verdict of suicide while mentally unbalanced was returned in the gas death of Mrs. Edna Burbage, 48, who had seen the cancer sequence in a BBC medical series.

PEARSON GETS

Mr. Coldwell said the scope and direction of Canada's defence spending have largely passed out of civilian control and that it is time "to bring them back to Parliament as the watchdog over defence expenditures."

Mr. Diefenbaker said before an ovrflow audience of 1,200 that he is asking for the support of farmers because the government's farm bill "holds out the greatest hope to farmers of any legislation ever placed on the statute books of this country."

SEES LIBERAL LOSSES

At Halifax, Stanley Knowles, deputy CCF leader, forecast that the Liberals will lose seats in the Western and Atlantic provinces.

"The Liberals may well end up with no seats at all in two, three or four Western provinces, and with no seats at all in one or two of the Maritime provinces," he said here at a public meeting.

If this occurred, he added, the Liberals would become a splinter or sectional party "with little or no influence at Ottawa."

At Barrie, former Liberal fisheries minister James Sinclair accused the government of withholding the latest unemployment figures. He called joblessness the major issue of the campaign.

TELLS OF SPENDING

At Port Arthur, Justice Minister Fulton said about $500,000,000 in spending has been authorized by governor - general's warrant, the largest expenditure ever authorized without the approval of Parliament. He told a press conference that Parliament will be given an opportunity to either approve or disapprove this expenditure at the next session.

At Charlottetown, Veterans Affairs Minister Brooks said the Conservatives will increase benefits under the Veterans Land Act if returned to power.

In Mundare, Alta., Labor Minister Starr described unemployment as an "inherited evil" and said it is being attacked through construction projects and regulation of the flow of immigrants.

Mr. Starr spoke in both English and Ukrainian to an audience of 500. He said he believed the unemployment situation "will right itself in time."

At Cornwall, Mines Minister Paul Comtois said Canadians are "beginning to see the light" politically.

The Liberals, he told a political rally attended by 350 Progressive Conservative supporters, brought on the present economic slump by their tight money policy and refusal to heed opposition warnings of increasing unemployment.

BISHOP SUPPORTED BY VATICAN

The Most Rev. Pietro Fiordelli, right, Roman Catholic Bishop of Prato, Italy, receives a visit of support from Giacomo Cardinal Lercaro. The bishop, 42, was found guilty by an Italian court of criminal defamation and fined $65 for calling a couple, joined by civil marriage, "public sinners." All persons responsible for the conviction of Bishop Fiordelli were automatically excommunicated from the Roman Catholic Church.

Missile Bases Aimed at Britain Russian Threat

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev warned Friday that the Soviet government will set up nuclear missile bases aimed at the British Isles if similar U.S. bases are permitted in Britain.

The Communist party secretary's statement was in a letter to the monthly Soviet magazine, International Life, replying to a letter from the Twickenham, England, council proposing abolition of nuclear weapons.

Britain and the United States have signed an agreement whereby U.S. intermediate ballistic missiles will be provided for bases to be set up along Britain's east coast facing the Soviet Union.

FROM IMPORTS

LONDON (AP) — Agriculture Minister John Hare told the House of Commons Wednesday night that South America was responsible for more than half the outbreaks of foot and mouth disease in Britain coming from imported meat.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Mr. and Mrs. Ed Spencer accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Ross to Shannonville recently, and spent the day with Mr. Spencer's brother and wife.

March came in gently, and so probably it will go out like a lion, although there is plenty of snow as yet and the roads are in poor condition for travelling at the time of writing.

Glad to report Mr. Will Sine is able to be out again having been confined to his home for the past few weeks.

Mrs. Frank Harris spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. Harry Pound, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Acker were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Spencer.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Doolittle of Toronto, were weekend guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Nicolson.

The Wallbridge L.O.L. are preparing to hold a euchre and dance in the Orange hall on March 21st.

Master Dale Pound is spending a week with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris. Mr. George Wallace of Belleville, called at the same home on Sunday afternoon.

At the time of writing the caw of the crow is again heard and it makes one think that spring is not too far away.

A large number attended the school meeting on Wednesday night to plan for a larger school in Wallbridge. It was decided to build a new two-room school, the site was not decided on, but hope it will be in the Wallbridge area.

Only 'Dry' City Asks Liquor Vote

OWEN SOUND (CP) — This Georgian Bay port, only "dry" city in Ontario, has requested another liquor vote. A petition of 2,665 names was forwarded Thursday to the Ontario Liquor Licence Board.

The petition asks the board to set a date for a plebiscite on establishment of a liquor store and brewers' warehouse here.

Beer and liquor stores were previously rejected by voters in 1949 and 1952. The 1949 vote also turned down beverage rooms and dining lounges.

City Clerk James McCubbin says the petition bears the names of just over 25 per cent of voters on the 1955 provincial voters list.

Report of Death Threat Enters Kidnap Case

CINCINNATI (AP)—Now the report of a death threat has entered into the confusing Marie McDonald kidnap case.

Los Angeles officers said here Thursday night the 34-year-old actress told them her claim Wednesday that her estranged husband, millionaire Harry Karl, engineered the kidnapping came after she had received an anonymous telephone call. She said it was from a man who referred to the kidnapping and threatened her life.

After questioning, Los Angeles detective Herman Zander said charges against her husband "appear to be consistent" with her first story of the kidnapping.

About a year ago Miss McDonald reported she had been kidnapped by two men, held captive for 24 hours and then released on the desert 150 miles from her Encino, Calif., home.

A grand jury investigation failed to bring any charges.

Russian Women Win Ski Race

LAHTI, Finland (AP)—The Soviet Union won the women's cross-country relay race Friday, its second gold medal of the 1958 world nordic ski championships. Finland placed second and Sweden third.

The teams of three women each raced almost 10 miles (15 kilometres) in near-zero cold that created a fast track and produced excellent times.

Paced by the 1958 women's champion, Alevtina Kolchina, the Russians sped across the finish line in 58 minutes, 32.4 seconds. The Finns clocked 1:00:14 and the Swedes 1:01:58.5.

Other countries entered were Poland, Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Norway, finish[illegible] in that order.

DUNNIES REGAIN WORLD HOCKEY CROWN

Indonesia Govt. Troops Attack Sumatra Rebels

Landing on East Coast Seen Aimed at Oilfield

SINGAPORE (AP) — Indonesian central government troops stormed ashore today at Bengkalis in Central Sumatra, revolutionary sources said tonight.

The sources said troops of rebel commander Lt.-Col. Achmad Hussein clashed with the invaders but retreated into surrounding jungle to begin guerrilla activities.

Bengkalis is on the east coast of Central Sumatra, at the mouth of the Siak River.

The Siak River leads to the American-owned Caltex oilfield headquarters at Pakanbaru.

Informants said 4,000 more Javanese troops were crammed aboard transports awaiting to land at Dumai, one of the two Caltex oilfields evacuated today on the advice of the Jakarta government.

LANDING PREPARED

The Indonesian air force said at Jakarta earlier it had intensified its operations against the rebel forces in anticipation of a landing.

Air force Capt. Agus Soeroto said the rebel leaders were the target of the invading forces and "we will scrupulously try to avoid inflicting casualties on civilian populations."

A Caltex executive said the company is evacuating the women and children among the nearly 400 Americans at two fields, Dumai and Pakning.

The troop landings were about 90 miles downstream from Pakanbaru, and about 200 miles across the jungle-covered island from Padang, rebel centre.

RIGHT IN MIDDLE

Caltex's $125,000,000 installations have been sandwiched between the contending sides. The Caltex executive said the company was determined to remain neutral.

The two other major oil firms in Indonesia are Royal Dutch Sheel and American Standard Vacuum.

Rebel Premier Sjafruddin Prawiranegara's regime on Sumatra recently ordered all foreign firms to halt oil shipments and royalty payments to the Jakarta government.

The freezing of oil shipments would start an economic squeeze that rebel leaders hoped would cripple the financially pressed central government by stopping vitally needed royalty money and cutting off fuel supplies.

AIRWAYS PROHIBITED

The central government in Jakarta has ordered all foreign planes to keep out of air lines around the Indonesian islands, forcing airline operators to suspend or reroute a number of flights to and from Singapore.

Jakarta apparently was nervous over reports the rebel regime on central Sumatra is trying to buy aircraft in East Asia.

Dunnies Turn Down Invitation To Tour Russia

OSLO (CP) — Canada's world hockey champions have turned down an invitation to tour Russia.

The Whitby representatives left Norway by air for Switzerland early today to resume their exhibition tour of Europe after devoting only a few hours to celebrating the 4-2 victory over Russia that brought them the title Sunday.

One of the Canadians' last and unhappiest duties was the regretful refusal of an urgent Russian invitation to extend their current travels by playing a few games in the Soviet Union this spring.

Manager Wren Blair said present commitments made any last-minute schedule changes impossible.

MAYBE NEXT WINTER

But a Canadian team is scheduled to visit Russia next November and both the Soviet runners-up and Whitby hope the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will select the world champions.

The Whitby team is scheduled to take part in two exhibitions in Switzerland, at Zurich Tuesday and Basle Wednesday, leaving for Paris Thursday.

After two days in Paris, the team will fly to Scotland for a game at Paisley next week followed by two appearances in London.

The Canadians sail from Liverpool March 21 and are due to reach Saint John, N.B., on March 27.

Toronto Girl Abducted, Raped By Four Youths

TORONTO (CP) — Police said today a 16-year-old girl was raped Sunday night after she was kidnapped a block from her home by four youths and driven to a lonely area of Toronto's east end.

She and another girl were returning home from a parish hall dance when they were approached by the youths in a car.

Police said the youths caught one girl and dragged her in the auto but the other girl, 15, fought off her attackers and escaped.

Hours later the missing girl entered a police station and reported the incident. She said the youths gave her money to take a taxi home.

Police questioned two suspects arrested in Whitby, 30 miles east of here, after a car was traced there and seized.

Steal $1,000 Cash

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Northeasterly winds are causing considerable cloudiness and a few light snowflurries over Eastern Canada, though there are a few localities in Ontario reporting nearly clear skies. Temperatures range from 25 in Southern Ontario to 15 near North Bay and to slightly above zero in the north. High temperatures today should range from near freezing in the south to the mid-20s in the north. Today and Tuesday should be mainly cloudy with little change in temperature.

EAST ASIA LANDS BRUSH ASIDE SOVIET PROPOSAL

Nuclear-Free Zone Plan Disregarded

MANILA (AP)—Foreign ministers of the SEATO countries, brushing aside a Russian proposal to set up a nuclear-free zone in Asia, prepared for their annual meeting today. A possible link-up with anti-Communist alliances in the West and Middle East was expected to win most of their attention.

Most ministers rejected the Russian proposal, broadcast Saturday by Moscow radio, as a propaganda bid designed to embarrass the Southeast Treaty Organization.

State Secretary Dulles of the United States declined to comment on the proposal. He said he has not yet seen official reports on the Russian proposal, which included a call for an Asian collective security system.

High on the agenda of the three-day parley opening Tuesday is a scheme for linking SEATO with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Baghdad pact.

The Philippines made the proposal. Britain already has opposed it.

STUDY ASIAN AID

The ministers also will discuss the question of more economic and military aid for SEATO's Asian members. Member nations are the Philippines, the United States, Britain, France, Pakistan, Australia, New Zealand and Thailand.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told reporters he wants some side discussions with Dulles on a summit conference, the Indonesian revolt and "a great many other problems."

French Foreign Minister Christain Pineau said he also planned private talks on prospects of a Big Four meeting. The French minister compared the new Russian proposal with a similar Soviet proposal for Europe made at the time of the NATO conference in Paris last December.

"Each time we have an occasion like this," he said, "they choose the date and pull such a manoeuvre.'

RETALIATION WARNING

Moscow's 3,000-word denunciation of SEATO warned nations of Asia and the Far East they would lay themselves open to nuclear retaliation — presumably from the Soviet Union—if they agreed to the establishment of nuclear or rocket bases on their territory.

It accused the United States and other "Western aggressive powers" of trying to use SEATO to further their "colonial policies" in Asia.

The usual opening atmosphere of SEATO amity was somewhat clouded Sunday by Pakistani Prime Minister Firoz Khan Noon, who in a speech in Karachi said his country "will break all pacts and will shake hands with people whom we made enemies because of others" if Britain and the United States do not back Pakistan in its dispute with India over Kashmir.

Moslem Girl Sentenced to Death Is Troubling Conscience of French

PARIS (AP)—The fate of a condemned 21-year-old Moslem girl, Djamila Bouhired, is giving the conscience of France a workout.

She was convicted and sentenced to death last July by a military court which found her guilty of complicity in two terrorist bombings in Algiers that killed one person and wounded 40.
